Sat. Dates Added For Safe Boating Equivalency Test

In an effort to accomodate part-time residents of Garrett County, the Maryland Department of Natural Resources has added Saturday test dates for the boating safety equivalency test.

The test will be administered free of charge at the office of Deep Creek Lake State Park on four upcoming Saturdays, Aug. 10, 17, 24, and 31. Registration will begin at 8:30 a.m. and testing will commence at 9 a.m.

For more information, persons may call the park office at 387-5563.

As reported in last week's Republican, the DNR will also offer the test each Friday in August, at the above times, at the McHenry public safety building on Route 42.

By offering the equivalency test at two locations on Friday and Saturday until September, the DNR hopes to attract more persons to take the test.

Persons who pass the test will receive a Maryland Certificate of Boating Safety Education Card.

For more information about this program, persons may call 777-7771.

ENLARGING THEIR DREAMS - Members of the Ecumenical Youth Ministry have been working this summer on a giant mural depicting things they are hopeful for here in the year 2005. The original artwork was the winning piece in a 13-state Appalachian Regional Commission contest, having been completed by seventh and eighth grade art students of Marcette Danner at Southern Middle School last year. When the 40 4x4-foot steel panels are finished and put together, the painting will measure 675 square feet. Pictured above at St. Matthew's Episcopal Church as they finish up two panels are EYM members Rita Powell, Suzanne Gilbert, and Katie Moomau. Pictured below is the original work, sectioned off to guide the young artists. Among the youngsters' dreams for the county are clean water and air, forest and wildlife preservation, a teen center, stamped-out drugs and alcohol, a shopping mall, a university, public transportation, and "a home for everyone." The first home for the mural will be at the Garrett County Board of Education Office in Oakland. The Youth Ministry is under the direction of Lynn Broderick and involves teenagers mainly of St. Matthew's/-St. John's Episcopal, St. Peter's Catholic, St. Paul's United Methodist, and St. Mark's Lutheran churches. The one-year-old ministry has been involved in a variety of community projects, including a well-received production of Godspell. The teenagers are currently exploring various types of music, both vocal and instrumental, and are preparing for one last presentation of Godspell at FSU on Aug. 23 and 24. For more information about the show or about the EYM, persons may call 334-6300.

Saturday Morning Collision Sends One To Hospital

A woman sustained minor injuries in a two-car collision Saturday, according to a release from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office. The accident occurred at 11 a.m.

At the intersection of Rt. 219 and Weber Road, a 1995 Ford Taurus being operated by Cleo L. Vandevender, 78, Aurora, W.Va., entered the path of a 1995 Land Rover being driven by Arthur A. Ciarkowski, 47, Frederick. The two vehicles collided.

Vandevender was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by Southern Rescue Squad. She was treated and released, according to the report, and was cited for failure to stop and yield at a through-way. Ciarkowski was apparently uninjured.

Also responding to the wreck was the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department.

of scrap tires, and has proven to be an excellent closure product. One and one-half million scrap tires will be used on this project at a savings of more than $500,000 to the county."

The closure project is slated to take approximately six months to complete and will cost approximately $3 million. The county obtained a $2 million, 3.3 percent low interest loan from the Maryland Department of the Environment (MDE) water quality revolving loan fund to supplement the $1 million demonstration grant from the MDE scrap tire fund.

Maryland Environmental Service (MES), an independent utility based in Annapolis, was selected by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners to design the landfill closure cap, assist in obtaining funding, and oversee construction.

MES, which developed the idea of using scrap tires in cap installations in Maryland, first implemented their use in a Kent County closure last year. MDE approved the use of tire chips in the Round Glade closure, and H.E. Sargent is experienced in using tire chips as an infiltration layer, Glotfelty said.

The landfill features a 28 to 30 acre waste cell, much larger than cells generally used today, and reclaiming the site will require what Glotfelty describes as a "massive" closure effort.

The landfill closure project has been on the drawing boards since July, 1989, when the county signed a consent order to seal the old Round Glade landfill because of its negative impact on county groundwater and its potential for polluting the Youghiogheny River.

The consent order brought the county into compliance with state and federal laws.

H.E. Sargent, Inc., the general contractor which was awarded the construction contract through a low-bid procurement process, has "substantial experience" working with landfill construction projects throughout the northeastern U.S., Glotfelty stated. The company, which is headquartered in Stillwater, Maine, recently installed a landfill cap at the Solley Road Landfill, a hazardous waste facility in Anne Arundel County, he added.

In capping the landfill, workers will start by covering the garbage with 24 inches of soil. A liner will be placed over this soil, followed by a six inch drainage layer of shredded tires, 20 more inches of soil, and, finally, four inches of top soil which will be seeded with grass.

"This barrier will prevent water infiltration into the solid waste disposed in the landfill, drastically reducing the amount of leachate produced," Glotfelty said.

Leachate will drain downward until it encounters a low permeability layer, and then will move horizontally. An interceptor drain, constructed under the edge of the landfill's plastic cover, will carry leachate to a lined storage lagoon and pump station located at the southeast edge of the landfill.

"Since the bottom of the landfill is unlined, this drain will capture only the portion of the leachate which reaches the drain under positive pressure," Glotfelty explained.

Leachate from the lagoon will be pumped to the Deep Creek Lake sewage plant for treatment.

Gas vent wells will also be installed in the cap to allow the fumes from the old landfill to escape into the atmosphere. the wells will be two feet in diameter with four inch PVC pipe extended through the cap's synthetic liner.

Tire chips have been used in a similar landfill closure project in Somerset County, but the Round Glade closure will give state officials the chance to see how temperature extremes, such as those experienced in Garrett County, will affect a landfill closed with tire chips.

Local All-Star Team Winner Of Salisbury Event

A group of 11- and 12-year-old Oakland Little League players won first place in the recent Salisbury Little League Tournament. The local squad finished with a perfect 5-0 mark by defeating PVAA II, 10-0; Central Garrett, 11-1; Keyser, 11-1; and PVAA I, 8-3 and 8-7.

Bryan Hauser tossed a four-inning no-hitter with seven strike-outs in the win over PVAA II. Joel Helbig led the 10-hit offensive effort with a home run and two doubles. Chad Panther and Bryson Meyers each had two singles.

Meyers and Ricky Reams combined on a no-hitter in the game against Central Garrett, and Meyers and Ryan Ewing led Oakland at the plate with three singles apiece. Helbig provided a pair of doubles and Stephen Eiswert had a double and a single.

The win over Keyser was a four-hitter fired by Hauser and Dennis Tressler. Helbig led the hitting with three singles, Reams had a three-run homer, and Ewing contributed a double.

In the first win over PVAA I, Hauser recorded a three-hitter with eight strike-outs in going the distance for Oakland. The contest was a pitchers' dual and Oakland held only a 1-0 lead before erupting for seven runs in the sixth inning. Helbig again led Oakland with two singles, while Hauser and Eiswert each had a double. Jason Miller recorded two of PVAA I's hits, both doubles.

Ryan Ewing's three-run homer and a single were among Oakland's 10 hits in the championship game, while Meyers recorded the win on the mound with relief help from Tressler. Meyers aided his own cause with a double and a single, and Eiswert added a pair of singles. Blake Hillegas led PVAA with a double and two singles.

Helbig was named the MVP of the tournament and was also recognized for hitting the most doubles. Joining him on the All-Tournament team were Stephen Eiswert, Ryan Ewing, and Bryan Hauser. Eiswert had the highest on-base percentage, Ewing was named the MVP of the championship game and received the Glove Award, and Hauser was honored for recording the most wins in the tournament.

Coaches of the team were Ron O'Brien and Barry Louden, while Tracy Rinard served as manager. Tom Panther is the president of the Oakland Little League.

Oakland Ousted From Pen-Mar Tournament By Fairmont, 9-7

The Oakland Oaks, who won the regular season title in the semi-professional Pen-Mar Baseball League, had their hopes for a league championship as well dashed on Saturday by losing to Fairmont, 9-7, in a semi-final game at Garrett Community College.

The Oaks held a 2-0 lead going into the top of the fourth inning, but that's when Fairmont erupted for six runs and took the lead for good. The attack was led in that frame by Aaron Bushko, who hit a three-run homer, and Heath King and Chance Hearn, who provided back-to-back solo shots. All three long balls were recorded with two outs.

Each team finished with a total of 11 hits, with Elias Pollack getting a double and a single for Fairmont, and winning pitcher Mike Nestor and Mike Dotson each recording two singles. Brad Harker, who took over the mound in the fifth to earn the save, aided his own cause with a two-run double in the sixth.

Pacing Oakland's offense were Ernie Galusky and Alan Sebold, who each had three singles, while Josh Woods added two singles and had a stolen base.

Casey Stanton, who started on the mound for Oakland, tossed three scoreless innings before getting into trouble in the fourth. Kent Taylor pitched the final three and one-third innings, and struck out six batters, but did not get the usual defensive support behind him. The Oaks committed five errors, there were a pair of costly wild pitches, and there were three passed balls.

Fairmont scored every one of its runs after two outs and with no one one base.

The victory gave Fairmont a 20-9 record and sent the team into the best-of-three finals against second-seeded Romney on Sunday at the GCC diamond. Romney won two in a row to capture the league title.

Fairmont was seeded fourth in the tournament and earned a spot against Oakland by defeating Morgantown on Friday, 12-9.

The Oaks finished with a 22-6 mark, and their season is not yet over, as they will play in a state semi-professional tournament for the second year in a row. They earned a spot in the tournament by finishing first in the regular season Pen-Mar standings. They will meet either Brunswick or Hagerstown next Wednesday at Taneytown and, if successful, will advance to the semi-finals of the tournament.

TO PLAY FOR LAKERS - Jeremy Fitzwater, a 1995 graduate of Southern High School, has joined the Garrett Community College baseball program, according to Coach Ed Wildesen. Fitzwater was a standout athlete at Southern in both baseball and football, and has had an outstanding season this summer as a member of the Oakland team in the Pen-Mar League, where he excelled in hitting, pitching, and defensively at shortstop. He attended his freshman year of college in Missouri, but did not play baseball there, so he has two years of eligibility at Garrett. Describing Fitzwater as an "excellent athlete," Wildesen said he projects that Fitzwater will walk right into the Lakers' starting line-up and into the meat of the batting order. "Right now I expect Jeremy will be our third, fourth, or fifth batter," Wildesen said, "and that spot will be his unless and until someone takes it away from him." It is a reunion of sorts for the pair, as Fitzwater played on the Garrett County American Legion team for four years under Wildesen and for three of his four high school years when Wildesen was an assistant to Coach Jim Bosley. Fitzwater is the son of William and Shirley Fitzwater, Deep Creek Lake.

Jason Sweitzer To Play Baseball At D&E College

Jason Sweitzer, who hit .367 in pacing Southern High School to a runner-up finish in the Maryland state baseball championships, has signed with Davis & Elkins College, Coach Lawrence Nesselrodt announced recently.

A third baseman, Sweitzer was named best defensive player on his high school team three consecutive seasons and was a first-team All-Western Maryland Interscholastic League selection as a senior. He compiled a .350 career batting average and was named Athlete of the Year at Southern High.

"Jason is an outstanding athlete and should help solidify out infield defense," said Nesselrodt. "He is a good contact hitter and has shown some power, which should make an excellent number two hitter."

Nesselrodt expects Sweitzer to challenge for a starting position in the infield, but may also take a look at him in the outfield.

Sweitzer is the son of James and Barbara Sweitzer, formerly of Swanton and now residents of Indiana.

LOCAL PLAYERS WIN TOURNAMENT - This group of Oakland Little League players, ages 9 and 10, recently captured first place in the Blackhawk Tribe 131 Baseball Tournament held in Westernport. Ten teams from Maryland and West Virginia participated in the double-elimination tourney. Oakland opened with a 4-0 win over PVAA as Billy Reams hurled a no-hitter. The second win was a forfeit by LaVale, followed by a 5-3 come-from-behind win over a strong Keyser team. Torey Poholsky's bases-loaded triple made the difference in that game, won on the mound by Chris Hoff. Oakland defeated Frostburg in game four, 13-8, with Hoff on the mound again. Oakland met PVAA again in the championship game and trailed 3-0 early, but rallied for six runs in the bottom of the first inning and went on to record a 6-4 victory. It was the third win on the mound for Hoff, who got some relief help from Reams. Reams was named the tourney's MVP and was also honored for recording the most strike-outs in a game and in the tournament. Corey Bosley was named the Outstanding Defensive Player. Reams, Hoff, Poholsky, and Corey Tressler were all named to the All-Tournament team. Pictured from left above, kneeling, are: Jason Weeks, Torey Poholsky, Billy Reams, Corey Bosley, Scott Wildesen, and Brad Reese. Standing, same order, are: manager Steve Reese, Chris Hoff, Corey Burrell, Travis Friend, Coach Ed Wildesen, Corey Tressler, Coach Mike Baylor, and Justin Baylor.

DiSimone Named Top Area Player; Uphold, Tressler, Umbel Honored

Joey DiSimone, who has been a key figure in the Southern High School baseball program's outstanding success for the past several years, was selected by area coaches to receive the 1996 John "Skip" Cook Memorial Award as the Area Player of the Year.

DiSimone, who started at second base as a sophomore and at shortstop the past two seasons, contributed significantly in just about every aspect of the game for Coach Jim Bosley, whose teams have amassed an incredible 54-6 three-season record that includes a home regular season winning streak of 38 games. The Rams broke a school record for wins this past season on their way to a spot in the Maryland 1A state finals, which they lost to Brunswick, 5-1. They also captured the Western Maryland Interscholastic League title in their first year in that organization, the Class 1A West Region title, and the area championship for the third straight year.

In his senior season this past spring, DiSimone was named the co-MVP, as he hit .370 (30 for 81) with two home runs, 17 RBI, and 25 runs scored. As the Rams' leadoff hitter, he struck out only three times in 81 at-bats and a total of only 11 times in 152 at-bats over the past two seasons.

When DiSimone was not at his shortstop spot, he was on the pitching mound, where he recorded a personal mark of 4-0 this spring with a 1.63 ERA in 30 innings. He struck out 33 batters and walked only six.

On defense, DiSimone made numerous outstanding plays and committed only five errors in 23 games this year.

In his junior season, DiSimone led the Rams' offense with a .437 average, and his hit total included seven doubles and three triples. His three-year batting average of .377 (69 for 183) is seventh on Southern's all-time batting list.

"Joey is the most complete shortstop I've ever coached, and we've had some very good ones," Coach Bosley said. "Besides having an outstanding glove, a strong arm, and good hitting capabilities, he is a smart player. He gives us a lot of strength up the middle, which was one of the real keys to our success."

Two other Southern High players were named to the All-Area squad, with one of them nearly edging out DiSimone for the Cook Award. Seth Tressler, who will return to the Southern team for his senior year, was selected as an infielder, while Joel Uphold, who will also be back next spring, was named one of two pitchers on the team.

Also selected to the first team from Garrett County was Northern High School senior Matt Umbel, an outfielder, while pitcher Aaron Blocher and infielder Tim Sines, both seniors on Coach Phil Carr's team this past spring, were named to the second All-Area team.

Tressler, who was the leading vote-getter among 20 area infielders who received votes from the coaches, batted .450 this past season with 36 hits in 80 at-bats. He was sixth in the area in runs scored with 29, tied for fourth in home runs with four, tied for third in doubles with six, and was seventh in the area in RBI with 26. He also contributed heavily to the Rams success as a pitcher, where he went 5-0 with a 2.41 ERA.

The leading vote-getter in the pitching balloting was Southern's Uphold, who recorded a 7-2 mark this past season with 63 strike-outs in 54 innings. He walked 22 batters and finished with a 1.83 ERA. He was also one of the area's top hitters with a .368 average with five home runs, third best in the area, and 35 RBI, second highest in the area.

Umbel paced the Northern Huskies in a number of categories, including at-bats, RBI, doubles, home runs, and innings played. He batted .327 with three doubles, three triples, five homers, and 22 RBI. He struck out only five times and had a fielding percentage of .975 with four assists.

Blocher, a senior for the Huskies this past spring, was 5-4 on the mound with an ERA of 2.80 and 73 strike-outs in 55 innings pitched (third best in area). He was also one of the top hitters on the team with a .333 average. Sines, another senior, had the area's ninth best batting average with a .465 mark with three triples (tied for second in area). He scored 20 times.

Honorable mention picks included senior catcher Jamie Bernard and senior infielder Jason Sweitzer. Bernard batted .303 and had six doubles for the Rams, while Sweitzer recorded a .367 average in his senior year and was third in the area in runs scored with 32.

Other area players on the All-Area first team selections were: Courtney Cooper, Nick Lahman, and Brian Mohr of Petersburg; Dave Smith and Chris Flanagan of Frankfort; Eric Andres and Mark Harbaugh of Allegany; Jody Malloy of Mount Savage; and John Ausel of Hampshire.

Garrett County Legion Team Out Of State Event

The Garrett County American Legion baseball team, which captured the Mountain District title this year, failed in its bid to also win a state title, as the local squad dropped a 9-0 decision to host Salisbury in the wee hours of Sunday morning and was then edged later on Sunday by Williamsport, 4-3.

Saturday evening's game was delayed by rain from a 7:30 to an 11:10 p.m. start, and the delay certainly did nothing to help the Garrett County team, which managed just four singles off pitcher Dave Capobianco.

Meanwhile, the Garrett defense played poorly, committing six errors that yielded five unearned runs against a strong pitching effort by Ryan Sawyers. In eight innings, Sawyers likewise allowed only four hits, walked just two, and struck out eight. The Salisbury team put the lid on the game in the top of the ninth by scoring five runs.

Garrett County played much better in Sunday afternoon's contest with Williamsport, but saw the game slip from their fingers when Chris Black rapped a two-out single in the bottom of the ninth to drive home Pat Sweeney and break a 3-3 tie.

The game was a pitchers' dual between Williamsport's Ron Renner, who allowed only four hits, walked two, and struck out 15, and Seth Tressler, who gave up just five hits, walked three, and fanned nine.

A one-out single by Jason Sweitzer ultimately led to a 1-0 lead for Garrett County in the top of the first, as Tressler reached on an error and Sweitzer came home on a wild pitch.

Garrett County held that slim lead until the bottom of the fourth when singles by Renner and J.R. Barrett knotted the score at 1-1.

Garrett took a 3-1 advantage in the top of the sixth, as Sweitzer led off with a double, Matt Umbel drew a walk, Aaron Blocher smacked a fielder's choice that scored Sweitzer, and Tim Sines followed with an RBI single.

But the home team responded with two runs in the bottom of the inning. Joe Duffy reached on an error and Sweeney followed with a two-run homer.

It was a lead-off fly to left field by Sweeney in the ninth that set up the winning run. After being sacrificed to second, a strike-out, and a walk, Black singled up the middle to bring Sweeney home and end Garrett County's season.

Sweitzer recorded two of Garrett's hits, a double and a single, while Sweeney had a double to go with his homer for Williamsport.

The Garrett County team finished with an overall record of 16-13, and won the Mountain District title with a 10-4 mark.

Sisler Lumber Wins Hot Stove Championship

"We would have been happy with a .500 season."

So stated Jack Settle, coach of the Hot Stove League team sponsored by Sisler Lumber Company, which captured the league championship this past weekend in the squad's first year in the highly competitive organization. Sisler won the best-of-three series with First United by taking the rubber game Friday evening, 13-4, at Allegany Community College.

Sisler won the first game of the series and First United came back last Wednesday night to take the second game, 9-8, to force the third contest.

"We came into the season with only three 15-year-olds," Settle said, "so we really didn't expect to have a great year; let alone win the championship.

"It was a total team effort, and I am really proud of our kids," he added.

It appeared early in last Wednesday's game that Sisler Lumber would not need a third game, as the local team held a 7-0 lead by the top of the third inning. But the host team rallied with four runs in the bottom of the third and two each in the fourth and fifth to take an 8-7 advantage.

Sisler knotted the score at 8-8 with a run in the top of the seventh, but a run-producing hit by Jason Brown in the bottom of the final inning gave First United the one-run victory.

Tommy Leasure had a pair of doubles for the winners, while David Schrock and Kevin Filer each had a double and a single. Reliever Jason Skidmore pitched six innings to earn the win, while Schrock spearheaded strong defensive play from his third base spot.

Recording four of Sisler's seven hits was Levi Schmuck, who went four-for-four with a double and three singles.

Friday's game remained close until the top of the sixth inning when Sisler exploded for five runs, and then capped the win with four more runs in the seventh.

The score was tied at 4-4 going into the sixth, and it was a three-run double by Matt Settle that highlighted Sisler's five-run spurt. Winning pitcher Corey Sisler, who took over the mound from Settle in the fourth inning, also had a three-run double.

Sisler allowed only three hits, struck out three, and walked no one in three-plus innings.

Settle also had a single, while Schmuck hit a donble and a single to plate two runs. Sisler's finished with 11 hits.

Sisler Lumber finished its first year in the league with an overall mark of 19-5 and went 6-2 in the playoffs.

FOR 75 YEARS the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club has been sponsoring the Western Maryland Championships, and several of the people pictured above have been involved with the event for many of those years. The 75th annual event was held this past weekend at the clay courts in Mountain Lake Park. From left are: Earle Palmer Brown, who participated in the tourney on many occasions; Joan Brisbin, a runner-up this year in women's doubles; Kathie Smith, tournament secretary; Jack Dorsey, a former singles champion of the event; Dave DeGrafft, tournament referee; Dorothy Frame; Ray Block; and Doyle Royal, also a former singles champ in the tourney. At right, mid-serve, is Cal Simmons, Alexandria, Va., the number three seeded player in the Mid-Atlantic region, who teamed up with Fred McNair IV to win the men's 45 doubles title. Over 100 persons participated in the tournament, which is one of the nation's oldest sanctioned amateur tourneys. See story for results. Photos by Jerry Stonham.

75th Annual Western Maryland Tennis Tournament Results Noted

Thanks to four consecutive days of dry weather, a "phenomenon" that rarely happens the first week of August in Garrett County, the 75th Annual Western Maryland Tennis Championships were held in their entirety at the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club's clay courts, and the results of the event were announced by Dave DeGralft, referee.

A field of over 100 players from Maryland, West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Virginia, Ohio, Florida, Wisconsin, Hawaii, and Washington, D.C., participated in the event, which is the oldest clay court tournament in the Mid-Atlantic section and one of the oldest United States Tennis Association sanctioned tourneys in the country.

Chris Stambaugh, a resident of Martinsburg, W.Va., was the men's singles champion as he topped Pete Mudre Jr. of Galena, Ohio, in the finals, 6-2, 6-4.

Winning the women's singles title was Sara Tritt, New Tripoli, Pa., and a former resident of Mtn. Lake Park, who outlasted Allison Baker, Pittsburgh, 7-5, 1-6, 6-2 in a three-hour finals match.

Capturing the men's 35 singles championship was Bill Moldoch, Annapolis, who topped Sean O'Neal of Jefferson in the final match, 6-0, 6-3.

Mike Barnes, Westminster, was the men's 45 division winner, as he disposed of Ned Scherer, McLean, Va., 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

The winner of the men's 55 singles title was John Adams, St. Petersburg, Fla., who stopped Bob Gray, Sewickley, Pa., in the finals, 6-2, 6-4.

Joe Dorsey, Wheeling, W.Va., finished first in the men's 65 division with a 6-I, 6-2 win over Ed Anania, Silver Spring.

Dot Hill, a resident of Chambersburg, Pa., and Virginia Stayman, Hagerstown, teamed up to easily defeat Kara Bounds, Westminster, and Joan Brisbin, Huntington, W.Va., in the women's doubles final, 6-0, 6-I.

The brother team of Pete Jr. and Steve Mudre, Galena, Ohio, captured the men's doubles title with a 6-4, 6-0 victory over the father-son team of Jeff Winicour, Pittsburgh, and Dan Winicour, Alexandria, Va., in the final match.

Another brother team - Bruce and David McNair - of Bethesda were the champions in the men's 35 doubles, as they topped Jeff Bell, McHenry, and Ned Scherer in the title match, 6-2, 6-4.

Winning the men's 45 doubles title was the team of Fred McNair IV, McLean, Va., and Cal Simmons, Alexandria, Va., who stopped Mike Barnes and Chuck Barnes, Dunkirk, 7-6(7), 6-3.

The men's 60 doubles division was won by Charles Atherton, Chevy Chase, and Pete Mudre Sr., Galena, Ohio, who won a tough match over Jim Cummings, Baltimore, and Dave DeGrafft, Mtn. Lake Park, 6-2, 4-6, 6-4.

The mixed doubles champions were Allison Baker and Brad Green, both of Pittsburgh, who stopped the team of Alva and Don Harsh, Hagerstown, 6-1, 6-1.

Other tournament officials, besides DeGrafft, were: Ned Holloway, tournament director; Kathie Smith, tournament secretary; and Kathy Johnson, assistant tournament secretary The tournament committee noted its appreciation to Grand Central Station for its donation of prizes, Stewart Funeral Home for providing tents, Darryl Gregory for preparation of the courts before and during the tournament, and the numerous volunteers who assisted with preparations and the various social events.

NET CHAMPS - Pictured above are the men's and women's singles winners in the recent Garrett County Tennis Open, held at the Mountain Lake Park Tennis Club courts. Brandon Ferguson and Kim Rosenthal, who have been standout players for Southern High School, each recorded convincing wins in their final matches to win the titles. Brandon then teamed with his father, Mark, to win the men's doubles title. Brandon is pictured below with his father and his mother, Judith. Kim is a daughter of Ben and Carmen Rosenthal, Oakland. NHS Football Players To Get Equip. Tuesday

All Northern High School students who plan to play football this fall are required to report to the school next Tuesday, Aug. 13, at 8:30 a.m. to pick up their equipment, according to Tom Vent, head coach.

Vent said players must also have with them completed physical forms, unless there has been some other pre-arrangement with him and his staff.

FAIR BOOTH

Players and staff of the Northern football program will operate the Northern Athletic Boosters' booth at the Garrett County Fair on Monday, from 10 a.m. until closing. Coach Vent said all parents and players interested in helping are invited to report to the booth that day.

SHS Physicals To Be Given Next Tuesday

All Southern High School students who plan to participate in fall sports must have a physical exam in order to do so, and such exams are being made available free of charge at the school next Tuesday, Aug. 13, according to Tom Woods, athletic director.

Physicals will be given by Dr. Dan Miller and staff in the school gym. Football players will receive physicals from 5 to 7 p.m., beginning with seniors. All other athletes, male and female, should report at 7:30 p.m. Each student athlete must bring with him/her a physical form that has been completed by parents.

Any athlete missing this opportunity for a free physical exam must obtain one at his/her expense. Woods said that no student athlete may begin fall practice until a physical exam is obtained and the form presented to the head coach of the respective sport.

Soccer Referees Needed; Clinics Set Aug. 24-25

The Mountaintop Soccer Association announced this week that more certified referees are needed for the 1996 MSA youth division season, and that both re-certification and certification clinics have been scheduled for August 24 and 25.

The re-certification clinic, which will renew certification for current referees through 1997, will be held Saturday, Aug. 24, from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at a site yet to be determined. For persons wishing to obtain referee certification for the first time, the full certification clinic will be held both Saturday, Aug. 24, and Sunday, Aug. 25. The latter clinic will be held only if there are a minimum of 12 new candidates registered.

MSA officials are paid for referring youth league matches throughout the fall months, as well as for adult soccer league games in Garrett and Allegany counties. Students who certify may elect to not be paid, but receive credit toward their community service hours requirement.

Persons wishing to register for either clinic and/or desiring more information are asked to contact Ned Holloway at 387-9411 or Jim Hart at 334-4835 as soon as possible.

ELKS HONOR RUNNIN' RAMS - The Southern High School boys' cross country team, which has captured the past three 1A state championships, was honored recently by Oakland Elks Lodge #2481, which purchased four signs recognizing the team's unprecedented achievements. One large sign was placed just inside each of the two entrances to Broadford Park, site of the Rams' home cross country course, and two small signs were purchased for use on the Welcome to Oakland signs on the edge of town. Pictured above with one of the park signs are Carl Booth, head coach of the Rams, left, and Jim Stewart, chairman of the Trustees Committee of Lodge #2481. The Rams have amassed an incredible record of 239-13 over the last three seasons, and went undefeated last year with a perfect 85-0 mark, which upped Southern's unbeaten streak to 125. The defending champions will begin their quest for a fourth-straight state title when they host Preston County and University high schools on September 12.

Ram Football Picnic Slated

As a way of introducing players, cheerleaders, coaches, advisors, and parents to one another, there will be a Southern High School football picnic held Saturday, Aug. 17, at the Southern athletic field. The team will be practicing from 9:30 a.m. to 12:30 p.m. that day and the picnic will follow, according to Tom Woods, head coach.

All families attending are asked to bring a covered dish, beverages, and eating utensils. Hot dogs and buns will be provided.

Coach Woods said that it is intended to make this an annual event.

SEASON TICKETS

Woods also reminds Ram fans that 1996 reserved-seat season tickets for Southern's five home games are now on sale for $20 each. These tickets also guarantee holders choice parking behind Dennett Road Elementary School for the games. Season ticket chairperson is Terri Weaver, who may be contacted at 334-1339.

Turkey Harvest Breaks Record

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin announced this week that sportsmen harvested a total of 2,541 wild turkeys during the four-week 1996 spring gobbler season, marking a new Maryland record. Garrett County topped the list with 630 harvested birds.

"The record harvest is directly related to the success of Maryland's turkey trap and transplant program," Griffin said.

The 1996 harvest represents a four percent increase from 1995's record of 2,435 turkeys. In fact, the spring turkey kill has set a new record in each of the last seven years as turkey populations have increased and new counties have been opened to spring hunting.

The counties that reported harvests in excess of 100 turkeys were Garrett (630), Allegany (464); Washington (379), Frederick (165), Dorchester (163), Calvert (155), and Worcester (136).

Maryland's fall turkey season is scheduled for Nov. 4-9. Fall turkey hunting is permitted only in Allegany County, Garrett County, and in that portion of Washington County west of Interstate 81.

Griffin said DNR will extend the fall season provided two criteria are met.

Firstly, that the 1996 spring harvest in Garrett, Allegany, and Washington counties be at least 1.25 birds per square mile of forest land, or 1,182 turkeys, was met. This year's spring kill in those counties was 1,473.

The second -- that the 1996 brood production be at least five poults per hen in those same counties -- has not yet been determined.

Capturing the second place of the gross division was the Frostburg team of Bobby Nelson, Randy Whitaker, Billy Bond, and Bob Yates. Third place of the gross division went to Interstate Lumber whose members were Barry Frazee, Janice Welch, Homer Rodeheaver and Kevin Methany.

The tournament also had a contest at each hole. The contest varied from straightest drive to the longest putt. Hole number one was straightest drive which was captured by Todd Fike. The second and 17th hole was won by Matt Hill who had the closest second and third shot. While on the numbers three, eight, and 11 Max Hill won all three holes by having the closest third shot on each hole. Dick Dahl, had the closest to the pin on number four and Randy Whitaker had the closest second shot on hole number five.

On hole number six and number 10, Mike Herman had the longest drive and closest second shot. Joe Blazin, had the closest to the pin on number seven and Harv Speicher had the longest putt on number nine. Rob Speicher, on number 12, had the longest drive, and Randy Glotfelty had the closest to the pin on number 13.

On number 14, Mike Fike had the closest drive to the target and Hank Mallory had the closest second shot on 15. The closest to the pin on number 16 was Mike Feaster and the longest putt on eighteen went to Mike Hogue. Each individual was awarded a prize.

The worship service with communion this Sunday, August 11, at St. John's Lutheran Church, ELCA, will begin at 8:30 a.m., followed by the Sunday school session. Since the regular meeting time for the Ladies Aid Society would be during the county fair week, the group planned to meet on Wednesday, August 7, instead. They decided to have supper at the Point View Inn Restaurant, Deep Creek Lake, and visit several shut-ins that evening.

Pamela Schmidt attended a bridal shower honoring Wendy Frickey on Sunday evening at the Jennings Head Start Center. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Schmidt, entertained with a cookout at their home that evening where guests were Kara Alt, Romney, W.Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Schmidt and daughters.

Several times during the week, Mrs. Keith Harman and son, Blake, accompanied the former's mother, Mrs. Pete Forno, Addison, Pa., to Presbyterian Hospital, Pittsburgh, to visit with her father, Pete Forno, where he is a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Reichenbecher were Sunday evening visitors of Mrs. Mary Thornburg, Selbysport, and were Monday visitors of Mrs. Freda Moser and others at the Goodwill Mennonite Nursing Home, Grantsville.

Mrs. Gerald Harman drove the bus to Washington, D.C., to Dulles International Airport recently. Her passengers included Mrs. Dorsey Guard and son, Jeremiah, Friendsville, and David Ryan Wampler from St. John's Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. Those from Zion Lutheran Church, Accident, riding the bus were Rev. Wilfred Karsten, Mrs. David Higdon and son, David, Ralph Miller and sons, Aaron and Sean, Amber and Aaron Close, Taylor Glotfelty, Carrie Hahn, and Erica Kahl. Twelve youth and adults from Trinity Lutheran Church, Cumberland, joined the group to board an airplane to go to Nassau in the Bahamas to teach Vacation Bible School there for a week. After eight days, Gerald Harman drove the bus to Washington to meet the group on their arrival from the Bahamas to return to their respective homes in this area.

A Saturday visitor of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Simmers was Ken Koester, Accident. He also visited with the Simmers on Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Simmers were in Baltimore on Thursday to visit the former's father, Ernest Simmers Sr., and their daughters, Mrs. Sonya Starchak and family, and Mrs. Nikki Depski and family. Mrs. Simmers finished an appraisal class to appraise small residential income properties. She received word from the National Association of Independent Fee Appraisers (NAIFA) that she successfully passed the course and is a candidate member of NAIFA and is working towards a designation.

The Cove Kids 4-H Club entered a float in the parade on Saturday at the Friendsville Days parade and were awarded a trophy for the best youth entry. Vernon Paugh drove his truck to pull the float, Lindsay Swearman and Beth Long carried the banner, and those riding the float were Melissa Paugh, Mrs. Robin Lowdermilk and Jennifer, Mrs. Darlene Schmidt and Rachel, Mrs. Alice Long, Amanda Frantz, April Friend, and Shane DeWitt.

Spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Bender were Karl and Arlene Westmeier, Puerto Rico, their daughter, Ruth Westmeier, Kansas City, Mo., and son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Westmeier, New York City. They all attended the Maust reunion that was held near the Ron and Sharri Beitzel residence, near Bittinger, where approximately 100 persons gathered for the weekend reunion.

Antiques

Redios from the 1930s to 1950s ere attracting collectors. The design and the fame of the designer are what determine the price.

The rere 1930s radios were made of plastic or mirrored glass. A Sparton blue mirror glass, chromium-plated metal end wood radio designed by Walter Dorwin Teague, circe 1936, sold for $2,640 at auction in 1992.

Teague (1883-1960) was one of a group of industrial designers who changed the look of the everyday appliances manufactured et thal time. He was a graphic artist who designed Eastman Kodak cameras and film packages, office machines, the Marmon car, the Scripto pen, Steuben glass, railroad coaches and Texaco gas stations. The best-known designs are probably the plastic Baby Brownie camera and the Sparton radio.

Q. My five-legged dining table is made of golden oak. It measures 4 feet square without extensions. There are four 12-inch extensions. The legs are carved. On the inside flap of a small drawer that holds the leaves is the inscription "Robbins Extension Table, Pat. March 17, 1896, Lentz Table Co., Nashville, Michigan." I've had the table for years, and now I want to sell it. What's it worth?

A. The Lentz Table Co. made high-grade tables in many styles. It also made smoking stands and mirrors. A 1927 advertisement boasts that the "Lentz finish is a lacquer finish, dull rubbed and guaranteed water, heat and mar proof."

Five-legged oak tables sell at e wide range of prices, depending on the quality of the carving end condition of the piece. In good condition, with plain carving, your table could sell for more than $600.

Q. How should I clean my old pewter tankards?

A. Many people prefer a dull gray finish, or patina, on their pewter. It shows that the pewter is old.

Each time you clean pewter, a small amount of the metal surface is removed.

You can try a very fine abrasive such as rottenstone or jeweler's rouge mixed in mineral oil. Or you could buy pewter polish at your hardware store.

The cleaners are very gentle, so it will take a lot of rubbing to make the pewter bright.

Don't use any metal polish not meant for pewter, because it might scratch the surface. Never buff old pewter.

Remember, pewter should not be stored in a closed oak cabinet or drawer. The acids in the oak, or in untreated, unseasoned woods, will cause the metal to deteriorate.

Home Tips

BOXING DAY — When I have a nice box or carton with print on the outside, I carefully take it apart et the seams, reverse it (turning the printed side to the inside), then I glue the seams and tape the bottom.

This gives me a nice clean box with no print on the outside. They ere great for shipping packages to my children and grandchildren. This way I recycle the boxes and it saves me a trip to the packaging shop. Glenda K., Toronto, Canada

LAST ON LINE — I like to be the last person to look at any magazine or newspaper so that I can cut out eny good cartoons, articles and recipes.

I enjoy sending them to friends and family, and I keep them organized with filing folders that have been taped along the sides. Each person has a folder and I simply drop the clipping in that person's folder and it is reedy for my next letter. Gina W., Omaha, Neb.

Davidson, 1125 N. Oak treet, McHenry." Herpel eportedly became suspicious because he knew here was no Oak Street in McHenry, and he notified he state police.

Kern was arrested, at hat point, on two counts of rescription fraud. It was earned that he had been rrested on prior occasions for the same offense, according to the police report. It was apparently after he had been released from custody that a "wanted check" through the computer revealed he was being sought by officials in Florida. He was arrested a second time on July 29, and has remained incarcerated in the Garrett County Jail since that date.

ARRESTED ON DRUG CHARGES

Three people were arrested on drug charges last Thursday evening after a complaint filed by a concerned citizen led the Oakland/Garret County Narcotics Task Force to a McHenry area business.

One DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrest was logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

Steven Alan Mills, 24, McHenry, was arrested and charged with DWI, along with possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS), and possession of drug paraphernalia, following a traffic stop at 3:50 a.m., Aug. 2, in Accident.

FOG CONTRIBUTES TO ACCIDENT

Heavy fog reportedly contributed to a single-vehicle accident Monday morning at the intersection with the Rt. 41 (the Noah Frazee Road) and the Blooming Rose Road.

State police said Richard D. King, 56, Friendsville, was traveling east on the Noah Frazee Road when he failed to see a stop sign at the intersection with the Blooming Rose Road. His 1989 Nissan pickup truck traveled through the intersection and struck an embankment.

King apparently transported himself to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 6:15 a.m. mishap.

An Answered Prayer

"Here I sit at another red light. I'll never arrive for jury duty on time! They'll probably throw me in jail. God, can't you make this traffic move any faster? Oh well, I'll listen to the radio...maybe some soothing music will calm my nerves. Oh no, sirens...now I'll have to pull over. What next?"

"We interrupt the 'Morning Show' for an announcement. Just moments ago as the jury was filing in, a gunman burst into Municipal Court, firing several shots. Three jurors are dead, with two rushed by ambulance in serious condition. Stay tuned."

"My God, I could have been killed!"

Excerpts from 2 Philippians 4:4-9 instruct us, "Rejoice in the Lord always. Have no anxiety about anything, but let your requests be made known to God...and the God of peace will be with you."

As you leave God's house this Sabbath, He will go with you. God answers every prayer...in His own way. Trust Him.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

IF YOU WANT TO BE HAPPY
August 11, 1996

Background Scripture:
Psalms 119:1-16, 45, 105, 129, 130
Devotional Reading:
Matthew 7:21-28

The late Methodist Bishop Gerald Kennedy told of a young married man who read all the psychoanalytic and self-helps he could find. One day, his young wife, who tried to live up to all that he found in these books, rebelled, saying: "Now that we've found real happiness, couldn't we have some fun, too?"

There's a deep underlying suspicion that real happiness and fun are incompatible. Perhaps it depends upon our definitions of "fun" and "happiness." Harry Emerson Fosdick found that "Happiness is not mostly pleasure; it is mostly victory." Victory comes first, followed by pleasure, bringing happiness. In that order. Fun that is not founded upon victory is very fleeting and does not amount to happiness.

But what kind of victory? The Psalmist who wrote Psalm 119 would say that victory is living by the law of God–in a sense, being victorious over ourselves and the world. This is contrary to contemporary wisdom that regards the law as a burden that stifles our pleasure. But, when we live for pleasure alone, we soon find it a pretty unpleasurable experience. True pleasure consists in living in harmony with God. So, the Psalmist begins Psalm 119 with these words: "Blessed/Happy are those whose way is blameless, who walk in the law of the Lord. Blessed are those who keep his testimonies, who seek him with their whole heart, who also do no wrong, but walk in his ways" (119:1-3).

AN ACROSTIC

This is the longest psalm in the Bible and it is constructed as an acrostic, a design whereby there are 22 strophes (sections) of eight lines each, and each of them beginning with one of the 22 letters of the Hebrew alphabet. God is addressed or referred to in every one of its 178 verses. It is a repeated tribute to the law, using a variety of terms to stress the richness of it: law, testimonies, ways, precepts, statutes, commandments, promise and word. Alexander Maclaren said this psalm reminded him of a violinist who had but one string to play upon–the law of God–but who out of that one string brought perfect music.

One of these in the psalm is the repeated testimony of the Psalmist that the law is a delight, not a weight around his neck. "In the way of thy testimonies I delight as much as in all riches" (v.14). "How sweet are thy words to my taste, sweeter than honey to my mouth" (103).

Why does the Psalmist delight in the law of God? Because it leads him to live in a way that brings him the joy of obeying and pleasing God. "Thy testimonies are my delight, they are my counselors" (v.24). "I hold back my feet from every evil way, in order to keep thy word" (v.101). "Thy word is a lamp to my feet and a light to my path" (v.105).

ADVERSITY & LAMENT

But this is not a psalm of unceasing delight, because, like us, the Psalmist's faith is constantly tested with adversity and the psalm is a list of woes: persecution, false accusations, temptation, and intellectual doubt. "Even though princes sit plotting against me..." (v.23) "Godless men utterly deride me" (v.51). "They draw near who persecute me with evil purpose..." (v.150). His love of the law has not insulated him from the troubles of the world. He is not having unrelenting fun!

So, throughout the psalm, his laments contend with his words of praise: "O forsake me not utterly!" (v.8). "How long must thy servant endure? When will thou judge those who persecute me?" (v.84). "I am sorely afflicted; give me life, O Lord, according to thy word" (v.107).

He believes in the law and has found it his only salvation. But tribulation threatens to shake him off the path he means to follow. So he prays for victory–and in victory he will find his happiness. That's why God's law is his delight.

℞ PHARMACY

ANYONE WHO HANDLES FOOD MUST BE CAREFUL

Food and drink that are not carefully handled and prepared can be a source of food borne illness. The bacteria spread easily from hands to food and then multiply quickly. Effective hand washing is considered to be the most important single control in fighting this type of infection.

Never handle food with any sort of open cut or infected finger. Always wash hands after touching nose, face, or hair. It would also be a good idea to keep a good anti bacterial skin cleanser in the kitchen. We, or course, use one in our pharmacy and can recommend on for your home use.

Young Writers Conclude Week-Long Workshop By Reading Their Words

by Kristina Carr Smith

Guest poet Maggie Smith, La Vale, compares the creative process of writing poetry to spiders and their weaving processes and "what will happen when they awaken ready to weave . . . " The students participating in the Mountain Lakes Second Annual Young Writers Workshop experienced that process last week, as they set about weaving, cleaning up cobwebs, and weaving again. The students' evaluation of their time was simply that it not end here - one wrote of wishes that this be a year-long event. As writing is, for the most part, a solitary activity, no doubt these students enjoyed comparing notes, and many friendships developed which will continue and be renewed again next year.

The closing ceremonies included a family picnic last Friday followed by formal reading, with the students to present selections of their work. Although they'd been given opportunity to practice reading aloud in front of their peers during class time, a few sneaked away from dinner and the crowd to get in a little more rehearsal before making their works' debuts.

Seated on the Fantasy Valley Bear statue, several students listened carefully and calmed nerves that needn't have shown. Teaching Assistant Alex Hicks found the writers shortly before 6:30 p.m. and called them away from their perch so closing ceremonies could begin. Sponsored by Garrett Lakes Art Festival and the Lang Foundation, the workshop was under the direction of Barbara Hurd of Frostburg State University's English faculty. Richard Peabody also taught, with Jennifer Wilmer and Hicks assisting.

What did they all learn? It was more than minding P's and Q's.

"Not all people are going to like your work," said Karla Buckel. "You need to listen to what they have to say because it can help you to make your work better." That was one of many things students shared in the moments immediately prior to the start of their readings. The students beamed with nervous excitement, and pride. It was obvious that a lot of bonding had taken place during the week's activities; support and encouragement continued quietly behind the podium area as the students prepared to read as their names were called one by one.

Constructive criticism was the name of the game. All of the interaction the students shared helped prepare them for this moment.

"The readings really helped a lot because you are able to get the audience's view, find out what other people see in whatever you saw in your writing. Sometimes it's really different. Sometimes you don't get your point across, and that interaction helps you to see where your weaknesses are," said Emily Haydel.

"The opening exercises were really fun. We first had an opportunity to hear about who our teachers were and where they were from. We got know them very well. We were then given something to write about, and could use our imagination. You didn't have to guess about what you would write about - there was direction for the work. Sometimes I get writer's block, and this made it easier because they gave us something to start with, and that we could use our imagination with," said Falon Stutzman. "As far as writer's block, we were told to write words "the - a - and - then . . . then we were to go back and erase it once we were able to get started. It was really helpful."

The toughest thing for the whole week? "Probably these assignments," said Rachel Bruch. "We had to work several days on them, getting them revised and everything. A lot of assignments we were really able to scribble down whatever we wanted, and then on these, spelling, everything, had to be perfect."

And it was. In spite of a down-pouring of rain at the time the picnic started, the sky had cleared and the students read under a warm sunny sky and canopy of maple leaves at the Fantasy Valley site. The older, more advanced students explained the format of the poetic meter that was used in their works and how the structure creates a unique challenge for the writer. Several students presented haikus that were not only interesting, but some with a touch of humor with subjects ranging from romance to farm equipment.

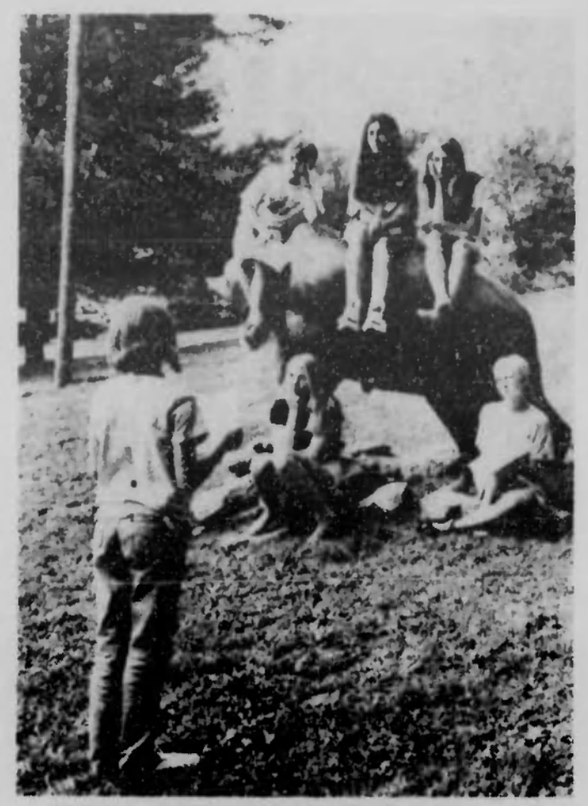
The enthusiasm these students had for their work was reflected in the audience's applause and laughter.

"It's that energy, that willingness to work," said Hurd. "I find these students incredible; their willingness to write and re-write - revision is a hard thing for students at this age, and these students seem to understand that it's important to be willing to do it. I'm always pleased with that. There was a lot of very hard work accomplished last week.

"When the students get a feel of 'getting behind their work,' then they don't need us to direct every movement. They know what it feels like, and become hungry for it. Their work deserves to be read in a way that honors the work and effort that they've put into their pieces. If you can help writers approach their work that way, this is something to be honored, it helps them get behind that work in a way and own it," said Hurd. "What they discover is a voice, I think; their voice comes through in their writing. It's kind of a combination of who they are and what they've been able to accomplish this week. I think that combination offers them a lot of self confidence."

Tentatively scheduled is a benefit reading on November 16 for "Share Our Strength," a hunger relief benefit organization which would take place in Garrett County as a part of a national benefit. The adults and students who participated in the GLAF writers' workshops this summer would be featured. The national day is November 14. Hurd plans to participate in Frostburg on that day and be a part of one of the biggest money makers for the Western Maryland Food Bank.

A workshop is planned for April of 1997 as well. The Maryland Poet Laureate Roland Flint will meet and address the students.



GETTING IN ONE LAST PRACTICE before having to read to an audience of special guests are several participants of the Mountain Lakes Young Writers Workshop, which concluded last Friday with a special gathering of writers and listeners. Those who take part in the intensive camp emerge with a better understanding of their own voices as well as those of other young hopeful authors. See story. Pictured are writers Karla Buckel, Rachel Bruch, Emily Haydel, Becca Kenna-Schenk, Haley Gillespie, and Falon Stutzman.

PUTTING HER WORK ON THE LINE at Friday night's culmination of the second annual Mountain Lakes Young Writers Festival was Amanda VanStratum, LaVale, among several other aspiring authors. The week-long intensive writing camp ended with a picnic followed by a formal reading by the participants. Each read a piece he or she had written during the camp, which is sponsored by the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival and the Lang Foundation. Garrett Countian Barbara Hurd, an English professor at Frostburg State University, headed up the instruction.

Caring Connection Submits FY '96 Final Report

The Caring Connection Program of Garrett Community College recently submitted its year-end report for fiscal year 1996, completing eight years of program operation at GCC. The Caring Connection Program provides special services to adolescent single parents and single pregnant teens, ages 12 to 19. Services include career counseling, skills identification, interest testing, personal development assistance, pre-employment skills training, vocational skills training in credit and non-credit courses, job awareness assistance, and service agency referrals.

Twenty-nine eligible adolescents received program services through The Caring Connection during FY '96. Of the 29 adolescents, 25, or 86.2% of total program participants, were enrolled in middle or high school. A support system was provided by The Caring Connection Intake/Counselor Specialist who visited the participants within the school system on a weekly basis. Resources used with target population included: Three Generation Living, Planning Life Directions, Your Pregnancy and New Born Journey, and Your Baby's First Year.

Two adolescents who had previously graduated from high school enrolled in classes at Garrett Community College, one in credit and one in non-credit. These students received academic counseling from Caring Connection program staff as well as support from the program. In addition, one participant still attending high school enrolled in two credit courses through GCC. One program participant enrolled in a beauty academy right after graduation, having received a partial scholarship. Four participants received tuition/book assistance while enrolled in their various education programs.

With 25 adolescents enrolled in middle or high school and two adolescents enrolled in college, 93.1% of total program participants in The Caring Connection during FY '96 were enrolled in education.

Child care and transportation subsidies enabled 13 program participants, or 44.8% of total program participants, to receive assistance while enrolled in high school or college.

Adolescent pregnant and parenting teens interested in learning more about The Caring Connection Program and eligibility requirements are encouraged to call Virginia Jeffrey, Intake Specialist for The Caring Connection, at 387-3103 Monday through Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m.

The Caring Connection is funded by the Maryland State Department of Education with grant funds in the amount of $20,000 made available to the program through the Division of Career Technology and Adult Learning.

JUST PASSING THROUGH - Among the visitors to Garrett County this week was a large group of cyclists who arrived at St. John's Lutheran Church, Red House, on July 26, during their annual cross-country trek. Members of the Wandering Wheels cycle touring company set out from Seattle, Wash., earlier this summer, and will end their 3,200-mile trip as they have for the past 30 years, in Rehoboth Beach, Del. As the cyclists travel across the country, scheduled stops in places like Red House offer a respite for the weary travelers, giving them a chance to shower, provide needed maintenance on their bikes, and occasionally enjoy home-cooked meals. In the above left photograph, members of St. John's Church, shown left to right, Arlene Lantz, Nathan Cussins, Erik Cussins, and Helen Roth, were among those offering hospitality to the bikers. They are shown here with the first cyclist to arrive, Lynn Wietharn, Pittsburgh.

New HIV/AIDS Video Available At Area Libraries

A new video, "HIV/AIDS Clinical Trails: Knowing Your Options," is now available at several libraries in western Maryland.

"This 19-minute video is a valuable resource designed to help individuals and families living with HIV/AIDS learn more about what clinical trials are so that they can make informed choices about whether to participate in medical research studies," said Mona Clites, coordinator of library services at Allegany Community College, Cumberland.

The video was provided free to libraries which are members of the National Network of Libraries of Medicine by the AIDS Clinical Trials Information Service (ACTIS). ACTIS is a program sponsored by the National Library of Medicine and is funded by the National Institute for Allergy and Infectious Diseases, the Federal Drug Administration and the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention. ACTIS also provides information about HIV/AIDS clinical trials via a toll-free telephone service, 1-800-TRIALS-A.

The video was recently reviewed by members of the region's Consortium of Health Information Libraries Outreach group, referred to as the CHIL-Out group. CHIL-Out is a network of librarians and library managers at academic, public, and health sciences libraries in Allegany and Garrett counties.

Michele Beaulieu, RN, information specialist at the Western Maryland Area Health Education Center (AHEC) and CHIL-Out member, said "Anyone working with HIV/AIDS patients and their families might want to see this video. It is an important resource which health care practitioners can use with patients."

The video is available for checkout from the following libraries: Allegany Community College, 301-724-7700, ext. 138; Memorial Hospital, 301-777-4027; Sacred Heart Hospital, 301-759-5229; the Thomas B. Finan Center, 301-777-2118; Washington County Hospital, 301-790-8801; and the Western Maryland AHEC, 301-777-9150, ext. 116.

COVER STORY

The Big Easy arrives as drama series on USA

By Roberta Nelson
©TVData Features Syndicate

Barry Corbin

The steamy, sultry city known as the Big Easy sizzles onto television screens Sunday, Aug. 11.

Based on the 1986 theatrical release of the same name, The Big Easy premieres on USA Network as an hourlong drama series filmed entirely on location in New Orleans.

"The city has kind of an underbelly and nether world, and that hasn't been portrayed in the past by films that tried to portray it, including (the film) The Big Easy," says David Ross McCarty of Louisiana Locations, consultant to the film and the series.

"We ask the locals, 'What is unique? Things that have never been seen? Neat little getaways that you know about?' "

The sexy, sassy city famous for its wrought-iron architecture, cool jazz and hot Cajun food is as prominent in the series as the stars.

"We're using all very realistic names, music, foods, beers and flavors; we'd use smells too, if we could do it," McCarty says.

Music – Dixieland, blues and zydeco, plays a prominent role.

The Big Easy stays faithful to the original film, straying only occasionally to accommodate the series' story lines.

Tony Crane plays Detective Remy McSwain, a charming womanizer who rarely goes by the book. "We've got our own way of doing things," he tells Anne Osborne, a beautiful federal attorney, in a memorable line borrowed from the film.

Remy's smooth, sexy style annoys, alarms and excites Anne, who is engaged to an environmental attorney in her hometown, Washington, D.C.

In another scene, also true to the film, she tells him, "I've never had much luck with sex."

Anne is in New Orleans to investigate illegal dumping in the bayou – an opportunity for the show's directors to use stunning photography of New Orleans' natural environment.

Anne, played by Susan Walters, is as foreign to the hot, humid South as a Nordic ice queen. She's even allergic to shellfish.

Together, Remy and Anne fight crime in the Crescent City. That is, when the sexual sparks between them momentarily subside.

Remy seems to be related to half the town – the half he hasn't slept with.

Wherever he goes, there is a cop who is his cousin, a woman from his past or a body whose face he recognizes.

"Remy McSwain never met a floater he didn't know," says his partner, Detective Darlene Broussard (Karla Tamburrelli), a former showgirl.

Barry Corbin, who played Maurice Minnifield in Northern Exposure, plays C.D. LeBlanc, New Orleans' sheriff and Remy's uncle.

While the C.D. LeBlanc character in the movie was corrupt (and killed off), the series' C.D. is a wise counselor to Remy.

What sets The Big Easy apart from other crime dramas is its strong identification with the people and places of New Orleans.

From the jazz funeral at the end of the second episode to the Mardi Gras beads hanging on Remy's bedpost, no one would mistake The Big Easy for a show set anywhere else.

SOAP TALK

Two soap favorites take on prime time

Michael Easton

It's that time of year again when the networks and cable stations announce their new fall lineups.

This year there is a big plus for fans of soap operas. Several favorites from the past are showing up all over the prime-time schedule.

Michael Easton is one such favorite. Easton starred as Tanner on Days of Our Lives a few years ago. After a short stint on V.R.5, Easton has taken on his own show.

The syndicated program Two is the story of twins (both played by Easton) who fight the battle of good vs. evil.

"It's a show where viewers will be left wondering which twin is actually on screen," says Easton.

"It is a great part to play, and you just don't find these [kinds] of roles every day.

"In the story, the twins were separated at birth by a car accident. One twin, the evil one, was sent to foster homes. The other twin was raised by a very loving family.

"The evil twin discovers he has a brother and decides to ruin his life."

Easton says working on the soaps gave him an appreciation of what it takes to be an actor. "Working on Days was hard work," says Easton. "People don't realize just how hard daytime actors work."

Easton's new show is one of the better syndicated programs up for grabs this year.

His fans will definitely be happy to see him back on a regular basis.

Susan Walters, who played the popular Lorna on Loving, also has a new show. Walters is a member of the cast of The Big Easy on USA Network.

"It's a wonderful role," says Walters, who plays a federal attorney who has recently moved to New Orleans. "It's a new place and a new way of life for the character.

"I like the character because she is strong and in some ways fearless," says Walters. "In some ways she is very headstrong, but at the same time she wants to learn as much as possible about life. And what better city than New Orleans?"

Walters has gone blond for the role, and she loves it. "I've been wanting to make a change for a long time. Big Easy was the perfect excuse."

Campbell Scott stars as a sheltered, wealthy young man battling leukemia in Dying Young. This 1991 movie airs Sunday, Aug. 11, on CBS.

The ill man puts an ad in the paper looking for someone with nursing experience to help him get through chemotherapy.

He hires a young woman (Julia Roberts) who not only assists him with his illness, but helps him find love as well. Vincent D'Onofrio, Colleen Dewhurst and Ellen Burstyn also star.

No fireworks expected at GOP convention

By Roberta C. Nelson
©TVData Features Syndicate

Everybody knows how the story will end at the four-day Republican National Convention in San Diego, which begins Monday, Aug. 12. So why watch?

"The absence of knockdown, drag-out floor fights has only to do with fireworks," says Jim Lehrer, PBS anchorman for the convention coverage.

"It is not a show of sparks and explosions. It is a show of purpose and substance."

Lehrer and NBC's Tom Brokaw will lead their respective news teams at the convention in a cooperative venture between the two networks that began in 1992.

ABC's news team, headed by Peter Jennings, plans live coverage with Cokie Roberts, Jeff Greenfield and Michel McQueen.

Dan Rather heads the CBS contingent, which includes Ed Bradley, Lesley Stahl and Andy Rooney.

Since the proliferation of individual state primaries, national nominating conventions have become carefully orchestrated coronations of a party's nominee.

But Lehrer says there is still much to learn from watching the proceedings.

Voters and viewers gain important insight watching the party hammer out a platform that indicates – even if it does not predict – its philosophy for future policy decisions.

"National nominating conventions are the parties' first opportunity in the election season to address the voters 'wholesale,' as [political analyst] Mark Shields would say. 'Here is our candidate. Here is what we believe. Here is why you should vote for us.' "

Tom Brokaw of NBC and Jim Lehrer of PBS will provide live coverage and analysis of the Republican National Convention Monday through Thursday.

Benjamin Bratt

Q: Tell me about Benjamin Bratt of Law & Order. He's terrific. –L. Bergman, Farmington Hills, Mich.

A: Born and raised in Northern California, Bratt graduated with honors from the University of California at Santa Barbara. He then was accepted into the master's program at San Francisco's prestigious American Conservatory Theatre.

Bratt made his professional debut at the Utah Shakespeare Festival.

His feature films include Clear and Present Danger, The River Wild and Demolition Man.

He had a leading role in the TV adaptation of James Michener's Texas and was a regular on the short-lived NBC series Nasty Boys.

He divides his time between New York and Los Angeles.

Q: Please help me identify the movie in which Barbra Streisand was running errands to repay a debt to the mob. –Randy McCann, Calgary, Alberta, Canada.

A: It was called For Pete's Sake.

Q: I have a dinner bet regarding who is older, Pernell Roberts or Lorne Greene.

My friend says Roberts is older than Greene, which is one reason he left Bonanza. I say Greene is older. –Jan Sprague, Hayward, Calif.

A: Would it muddy the waters to point out Greene is dead? If not, let's just say Greene was born in 1915, Roberts in 1930, and let it go at that.

Q: My son and I disagree over which Jack Ford is the son of former President Gerald Ford: the dark-haired NBC correspondent or the blond actor who was on The Young and the Restless. I say the latter. –Pat Becker, Toledo, Ohio.

Q: Several years ago Maggie Smith did a one-woman show on PBS in which she played a parson's wife who liked her afternoon sherry. What was the title? –F. Bender, Colorado Springs, Colo.

A: That was Bed Among the Lentils, part of a cycle of plays by Alan Bennett called Talking Heads.

Q: Are Farrah Fawcett and Cheryl Ladd sisters?. –C. Hobbs, Anadarko, Okla.

A: No.

Q: Could you please tell me where I can write to figure skater Paul Wylie? I would really like to get in touch with him. –Hannah S., Gig Harbor, Wash.

A: In case anyone else missed this when it ran earlier, you can write to Wylie or any other U.S. skater c/o the U.S. Figure Skating Association, 20 First St., Colorado Springs, Colo. 80906.

PSI Ordered In District Court For Oakland Man Convicted Of Theft

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a young Oakland man who was found guilty of one count of felony theft, by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett, in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings.

Chad R. DeWitt, 21, will be sentenced following the completion of the investigation. One additional count of felony theft, two counts of removing/obliterating manufacturers' serial numbers, and one count of petty theft were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

DeWitt had been charged with those offenses by Maryland State Police, after an investigation revealed he had stolen a pair of Rossignol skis and poles, belonging to Paul R. DeBruin, a pair of Nordica ski boots, belonging to J.D. Williamson, and a pair of Dynastar skis from Jason P. Ricker. Court records indicate that he then removed the serial numbers affixed to a plate on the skis to prevent them to be traced or identified.

The skis were reported stolen from the Wisp Ski Resort on Jan. 18, and it was reported to the state police on March 8, that DeWitt had stolen the skis, and a friend of his was holding the skis at his home so DeWitt's parents would not find them. The police reportedly arrested the defendant the next day, and he admitted to them his involvement in the theft.

In related cases, felony theft charges, filed against Scott D. Collins, 18, Deer Park, and James N. Ashby, 18, Oakland, were placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that the men must complete 20 hours of community service, and continue to cooperate with authorities. Additional charges of being accessories after the fact, and retaining items that had the manufacturers' serial numbers altered, were not prosecuted.

Maryland State Police filed the charges against Collins and Ashby, who were connected to DeWitt's theft, after it was learned that they had each stored the stolen skis at their homes, and took turns transporting the skis to the Wisp resort so DeWitt could use them.

In other district court news, a pre-sentence investigation was also ordered for Earl L. Spiker, 18, New Salem, Pa., who pleaded guilty to one count each of petty theft, and unauthorized use of a vehicle. Lewis will be sentenced upon completion of the investigation.

According to court records, Lewis, along with two juveniles, ages 14 and 16, were apprehended by Maryland State Police on May 2, after the police were notified that the three had failed to pay for gas they had pumped at Arrowhead Market. When the troopers arrived, they reportedly detained the vehicle, and a check through the Motor Vehicles Administration revealed the 1993 Ford Probe, being operated by the 14-year-old, had been reported stolen from Seven Springs, Pa.

A pre-sentence investigation was ordered for a Swanton teenager who pleaded guilty in district court of one count of battery. Timothy L. Rounds, 19, will be sentenced upon completion of the investigation. Additional charges of trespassing and fourth degree burglary were not prosecuted.

The charges against Rounds were filed on Jan. 29, by Kelly L. Slaubaugh, Mtn. Lake Park, who stated that she had arrived home to find the defendant and his father in her apartment. Rounds, who apparently was not supposed to be in the residence, told Slaubaugh that he would be leaving soon. When his ride didn't arrive, the complainant asked him to leave, and an argument ensued.

Rounds reportedly grabbed Slaubaugh and threw her down on the bed. He then held her down, squeezed her throat, put a pillow over her face, and threatened to smother her. He then followed her through the apartment, and grabbed her again, this time jerking her backward, causing her to hit her head on the coffee table. Slaubaugh said she tried to knock on the wall to alert her neighbors, and Rounds struck her in the face, bloodying her nose. He then ran out of the apartment.

Travis A. Duckworth, 18, Frostburg (Garrett County address), pleaded guilty to one count of credit card forgery. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, ordered to complete 30 hours of community service by Nov. 1, and placed on one year of supervised probation, and told he must continue counseling through the health department. One count of credit card fraud was not prosecuted.

District court records indicate that Duckworth used a credit card belonging to Kevin A. Keating, who reported to police on Dec. 12, 1995, that three phone calls, totaling $94.05, had been charged to his account, and neither Keating, nor any other authorized family member had made the calls. During an investigation into the matter, Duckworth apparently admitted to the police that he had made the calls.

Robert P. Lichty, 26, Grantsville, pleaded guilty in recent district court proceedings to one count of battery. He was sentenced to serve six months in jail for the offense, but all of that sentence was suspended except for 30 days. Weekend incarceration was recommended. He was also placed on one year of supervised probation, and ordered to have no contact with the victim, Lori L. Lichty, except during visitation with the children. Conditions of his probation state he must continue his employment and make child support payments.

The charges against Lichty were filed on March 24, after he reportedly struck his wife in the face with his fist, and when attempted to leave, he aimed a shotgun at her and told her she couldn't take the children.

Deborah A. Gontis, 38, Oakland, pleaded guilty to a charge of harboring a nuisance dog. She was fined $50 for the offense. The charge was filed on March 16 by Brenda Robinette, who stated Gontis's dogs were allowed to run loose, and were continually entering her property.

An Oakland man found guilty in March of a fourth degree sexual offense, was sentenced in recent district court proceedings. Robert J. Funk, 34, convicted of that offense by Judge Burnett, who had initially ordered a pre-sentence investigation, was given a six-month suspended jail term. He was also fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must also continue counseling. The charges against Funk were filed after he reportedly sexually abused his step-son several times over a period of a year-and-a-half.

Todd A. Crosco, 24, Oakland, found guilty in March of a fourth degree sexual offense, was also sentenced in district court. Judge Burnett imposed a 30-day suspended sentence on Crosco, fined him $150, and placed him on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must have no contact with the victim. The charge against the defendant was filed on Jan. 23, after he reportedly engaged in consensual sexual intercourse with a 14-year-old female.

Dwight H. Clary, 18, Oakland, was not prosecuted on two counts of malicious destruction of property. Conditions of the judge's decision state he must refrain from all alcoholic beverages. The charges were filed by Kristy A. Tasker, Terra Alta, W.Va., and Michael L. Clary, Oakland, after an altercation with the defendant on May 4.

Chester S. Lauck, 31, Friendsville, was sentenced in recent district court proceedings to serve a total of 60 days in jail, after being found guilty in March of DWI (driving while intoxicated) and theft. Initially sentenced to a six-month term, all of the sentence was suspended except for 60 days. He was also fined $100, and placed on two years of supervised probation. Lauck was arrested on July 22, 1995, by sheriff's deputies who had stopped him for speeding. According to the charging statement, he was unable to produce a driver's license or registration card, and a check through the Motor Vehicles Administration revealed the registration plates on the vehicle were issued to another vehicle, and had been reported stolen. During a conversation with the deputies, a strong odor of alcohol was noticed on Lauck's breath, resulting in the DWI charge.

In an unrelated case, Lauck was handed a 30-day suspended sentence after pleading guilty to battery. State police had arrested the defendant on May 7, 1995, after he kicked Colleen F. Bittinger, and grabbed her by the arm, during a domestic dispute.

Jeffrey A. Koton, 18, Oakland, was sentenced to serve nine months in jail, after being found guilty in April of petty theft and fourth degree burglary. He was given 109 days' credit for time already served. According to district court records, Koton broke into a warehouse in Crellin, owned by Tom Henline. Once inside, he stole a stack of pornographic magazines and a bottle of whiskey.

Jimmy L. Poland, 41, Frostburg, was found guilty of violating his probation from an earlier conviction of trespassing. The judge reimposed a 90-day jail term for the defendant. Poland was handed a 90-day suspended sentence in April 1995, and at that time was also placed on two years of supervised probation. He had been arrested in September 1993, after he acted in a disorderly manner while at Razzberry's Sports Bar, McHenry, and refused to leave.

Charges of trespassing, malicious destruction of property and harassment, filed against James L. Patton II, 22, Oakland, were all placed on the stet docket. The charges stemmed from three separate dis-

ARMED SERVICES REVIEW

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class James N. Fox, son of Jane G. Fox, Friendsville, recently reenlisted for two years while serving with Navy Band, Naval Education Training Center, Newport, R.I.

The 1981 graduate of Northern Garrett High School joined the Navy in December 1985. He is also a 1985 graduate of Frostburg State University with a BS degree.

Taxpayers Give $968,000 To Special Funds

Maryland State Comptroller Louis L. Goldstein said that more than 63,000 Maryland taxpayers contributed $968,212 to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Trust Fund and the new Fair Campaign Financing Fund on current and prior year state income tax returns filed during fiscal year 1996. The Fair Campaign Fund checkoff feature was introduced for the first time on 1995 state tax forms.

"Contributions to the bay fund declined by just about the amount contributed to the new campaign financing checkoff. This is proof that multiple checkoff on income tax returns confuse taxpayers and lower contributions to the original checkoff," Goldstein said.

The combination of the $892,270 donated to the bay fund and the $75,942 contributed to the Fair Campaign Fund slightly exceeded the $967,357 collected for the bay fund on Maryland returns filed during the previous fiscal year.

"Nearly 2.4% of taxpayers contributed to the Chesapeake Bay checkoff and nearly one-half of one percent made donations to the Fair Campaign Fund. Last year, 3% of taxpayers contributed to the Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Fund," Goldstein said.

Montgomery County led the way in donations, with the largest number of taxpayers contributing the largest total to both checkoffs. Montgomery County taxpayers donated $261,849 to the bay fund on 13,191 returns and $27,222 to the campaign fund on 2,917 returns. Prince George's County came in second, with $115,534 donated to the bay fund on 6,962 returns and $12,338 contributed to the campaign fund on 1,633 returns. Baltimore County reached third place, with $105,774 donated to the bay fund on 7,325 returns and $7,634 contributed to the campaign Fund on 1,130 returns.

Eighty-two Garrett County taxpayers donated a total of $10,808 to the Bay Fund, and 11 taxpayers contributed a total of $68.46 to the Fair Campaign Fund.

The highest average contributions came from Montgomery County, where taxpayers donated an average of $19.85 to the bay fund and $9.33 to the campaign fund. Calvert County taxpayers donated the second highest average of $19.79 to the bay fund.

The second highest average contribution of $8.77 to the campaign fund came from Howard County taxpayers.

The statewide average for the bay fund was $16.74 - more than $2 higher than last year's average. The campaign fund's average statewide contribution was $7.78.

Taxpayers contribute to the funds on the Maryland long or short income tax forms, using line 63a to donate to the bay fund and 63b for the campaign fund. Any individual contribution to the campaign fund on line 63b cannot exceed $500.

Donations to either checkoff reduce the amount of a taxpayer's refund or add to any additional tax they owe. Contributions to the bay fund on tax returns filed in 1996 are deductible on federal and state income tax forms filed next year, if taxpayers itemized deductions.

Chesapeake Bay and Endangered Species Trust Fund donations on line 63a are divided equally between the Chesapeake Bay Trust and the Maryland Department of Natural Resources. The Chesapeake Bay Trust uses its funds to provide grants to groups ranging from scientific organizations doing research to local community groups planting marsh grass. The Department of Natural Resources uses its funds for endangered species habitat projects and nongame protection programs.

Contributions to the Fair Campaign Financing Fund on line 63b provide a funding alternative to gubernatorial candidates who accept spending limits.

Stephens Family Gathers For 32nd Annual Reunion

The 32nd annual reunion of the Peter J. Stephens family was held July 27 at the Grantsville Community Park. Twenty-six family members came from Maryland, West Virginia, Virginia, and Ohio for a day of reminiscing and fellowship.

Lulu Smith asked the blessing before the meal was shared. In the absence of the president, Ruby Collins, Alice Stephens conducted the meeting. Members were asked to submit the names and addresses of those interested in receiving notification of the 1997 reunion. Hazel Jenkins served as secretary.

A memorial service was held for those who died during the past year. Remembered were Carrie Miller, Bessie Sangston, Helen Robison, Allan Broadwater, Pearl Martin, Ilsa Jenkins, Lisa Knox, and H. Carl Stephen. A moment of silence was followed by prayer offered by Mildred Martin.

Prizes were presented to the following people present: oldest person, Lloyd Kroll, Barton; youngest girl, Ashley Jenkins; youngest boy, Joshua Jenkins; traveling the farthest to attend, Beulah Feight, Ohio; the longest married couple, Lloyd and Helen Kroll; most family members present, Hazel Jenkins; and person with birthday nearest to the reunion date, Margaret Knox.

GCC Fair Booth Adds Activities

Something different will be added to the activities at the Garrett Community College booth at this year's Garrett County Agricultural Fair, according to Darlene Reed, administrative assistant for admissions.

Members of the Agriculture, Wildlife, and Adventuresports clubs will conduct an Awareness Survey with passers-by each day. Everyone who participates in the brief survey will be eligible for the drawing of a daily prize, such as a hummingbird feeder or a field guide to birds, wildflowers, etc. All participants will also be eligible for the grand prize drawing at the end of the week, Reed added. Grand prizes will be a three-credit course, and a non-credit course.

Maryland Forest Conservation Act Revised By DNR

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary John R. Griffin recently announced that the DNR Forest Service has streamlined the state's forest conservation act.

"These changes are designed to allow builders and developers to get quicker approvals for their subdivision plans while ensuring that the provisions of the nation's first forest conservation act are followed," Griffin said.

The Maryland forest Conservation Act (FCA), approved by the General Assembly in 1991, sets guidelines for developers and builders to follow to ensure that Maryland retains its forest cover. The act applies to all new development in the state.

The changes are the result of recommendations by an ad-hoc task force appointed in 1993, as well as further revjew last year by the DNR's FCA Advisory Group. The revisions are intended to enhance the effectiveness of the act while reducing processing detail and plan review times for developers and builders.

Under the changes, local jurisdictions, which must apply the FCA to all development, would be able to:

- Adopt simplified procedures for forest stand delineations.
- Adopt provisions for forest planting credits using street trees and easements.
- Exempt certain activities if they are part of an approved local program and consistent with sensitive areas protection as established in an adopted land use plan.
- Allow the use of forest management plans and amended sediment and erosion control plans to satisfy requirements for a declaration of intent.

Other changes, which will appear in the second edition of the DNR FCA guidebook, the State Forest Conservation Technical Manual, include:

- Clearer directions for applicants and more use of checklists and enhanced drawings to express guidelines.
- Simplified procedures allowing for easier field data collection when little or no forest is on site.
- Recommendations for selective clearing and planting, natural regeneration, street trees and landscaping, as well as conditions for which alternatives can be used.

Also under the changes, persons with four years of experience in natural resources will be considered "qualified professionals."

Copies of the new FCA guidebook are available for review at the DNR Forest, Wildlife, and Heritage Service in Annapolis or at regional forest service offices in Salisbury, Centreville, Bel Air, and Cumberland during regular business hours.

CYCLISTS PUT ON SHOW DURING KITZMILLER HOMECOMING - The six young bicyclists pictured above took top honors in the bike decorating contest held during the annual homecoming celebration in the community of Kitzmiller. The contest was sponsored by the Kitzmiller Empowerment Group, a community organization that provides alcohol-, tobacco-, and drug-free events for local youth. The group is funded in part by the Garrett County Health Department's alcohol, tobacco, and other drug prevention (ATOD) mini-grant program. Pictured left to right are Kara Paugh and Anne Lucas, winners in the 9 to 13-year-old age group; Megan Brady, winner in the 0 to 5-year-old age category; Danny Stiles and Faith Stiles, winners in the 6 to 8-year-old age bracket; and Patrick Brady, winner in the 0 to 5-year-old age group. Judges for the contest were Maryland State Police Officer Jesse Broadwater and Deputies Pat Kelly and Mike Bittinger from the Garrett County Sheriff's Office.

High Temperatures Can Be Harmful To Dogs, Cats

The blistering hot and sunny days of August beckon pets and people to the great outdoors, but too much heat and sun can be harmful to cats and dogs as well as humans, warns Dr. James Tibbs, of District Heights, president of the Maryland Veterinary Medical Association.

Animals do not perspire like humans and can overheat quickly, Dr. Tibbs said. A little common sense, however, can minimize the chances of a serious incident.

"Never leave pets or children in a closed, parked car," he warned. 'Within minutes, interior temperatures can soar to lethal levels." Dr. Tibbs advises leaving pets at home.

Animals kept outdoors should have access to shade and fresh water. A temporary shelter can be made by placing a blanket over wooden crates or lawn furniture. Remember that the sun moves; a shady area may soon be in full sunlight.

Exercise and play periods should be limited to the cooler times of the day. Owners should provide adequate ventilation with screened, open windows, air conditioning or fans inside the house.

"An overheated animal win pant heavily, slobber from the mouth, vomit and/or experience diarrhea," Dr. Tibbs said. "Collapse or coma is possible.

"If that happens, you must quickly reduce the body temperature by soaking the animal with cold water and gently massage the legs and body. Provide small amounts of water, give artificial respiration if necessary, and seek veterinary attention as soon as possible."

putes, between April and May, between the defendant and Regina R. Kitzmiller.

One count of malicious destruction of property, filed against Gary A. Upole, 21, Crellin, and Ernest A. Helbig, 23, Oakland, was placed on the stet docket. Conditions of that decision stated the each must complete 20 hours of community service by Oct. 1. The charge was filed on March 14, after the men reportedly shot out a window of a payloader owned by Maryland Minerals, Inc., that was parked near the Hoyes-Sang Run Road, Accident.

Connie F. Kifer, 26, Mtn. Lake Park, was granted probation before judgment on a guilty verdict for malicious destruction of property. She was placed on one year of unsupervised probation, ordered to make $50 restitution to the victim, Jason Lewis, and complete 20 hours of community service. Conditions of her probation also state the she is to have no contact with the complainant. One additional charge of fourth degree burglary was not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against Kifer were filed on April 19, after a Garrett County sheriff's deputy responded to Lewis's apartment in Loch Lynn for a reported breaking and entering. Lewis told the deputy he arrived home and found his door had been kicked in. At that time, according to court documents, he heard someone from inside the apartment say, "Let's get out of here before Jason comes home." Lewis said he recognized the defendant's voice, and at the conclusion of the investigation, she reportedly admitted to kicking the door in because Lewis had her evicted from her apartment.

Todd A. Doerr, 28, Friendsville, was granted probation before judgment after receiving a guilty verdict for malicious destruction of property. He pleaded not guilty to the offense. Doerr was ordered to pay $75 restitution to the complainant, Christine Friend. He was also fined $105, and placed on one year of unsupervised probation.

Doerr was charged with the offense on Oct. 1, 1995, after he shot the victim's son's dalmatian dog. The dog was reportedly found on Oct. 7, and he admitted to Friend on Oct. 9 that he had killed it.

Kenneth G. Wiley, 27, Grantsville, pleaded guilty to one count of possession of a controlled dangerous substance (CDS). He was sentenced to 30 days in jail, with all of that term suspended except for 48 hours, and was given 12 hours' credit for time already served. He was also fined $155, and placed on one year of supervised probation. An additional charge of possession of CDS paraphernalia was not prosecuted by the state's attorney. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 30 hours of community service by Nov. 1, and attend and complete an addictions education or treatment program.

Wiley was arrested on drug charges on Jan. 18, by a sheriff's deputy who had responded to a complaint that someone was driving erratically through the town of Accident. The defendant's car was later found abandoned behind the Accident Garage, and he was located in a nearby apartment. A subsequent search of his clothing revealed a metal pipe containing burned marijuana residue, which resulted in his arrest.

Ronald J. Tasker, 25, Swanton, also pleaded guilty to CDS possession. He was sentenced to serve 30 days of a six-month jail term, fined $355, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to complete 30 hours of community service, and attend addictions counseling while in jail.

The charge against Tasker stemmed from his Dec. 29, 1995, arrest by sheriff's deputies who had received information that he and several others would be traveling to Westernport to purchase marijuana. The deputies later spotted the vehicle as it returned from Westernport and initiated a stop for speeding. A search of the vehicle revealed a plastic bag containing marijuana was on the floor of the vehicle, near where Tasker was seated, and more in his pants pocket.

CORRECTION NOTED

In a recent district court report, one list of people involved in an ongoing dispute contained an error. Below is how the report should have read:

One count of battery, filed against Marlin Savage, 58, Accident; charges of telephone abuse, intimidating/influencing a juror, filed against Pearl A. Frazee, 32, Friendsville; charges of battery, assault, telephone misuse, reckless driving, and negligent driving, filed against Lori DeWitt, 30, McHenry: and one count of battery, filed against Lillian A. Snelling, 37, McHenry, were all placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that there must be no contact between the parties involved. The charges, filed in April, all stemmed from an ongoing dispute.

Charges of trespassing, harassment, and telephone misuse, filed against Sandra Garlitz, 23, Frostburg, were also placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state she must have no contact with the complainant, Karen Durst, Grantsville. The charges were filed in April after an ongoing dispute between the two.

First United Corp. Announces Stock Re-purchase

As a part of the corporation's capital plan, the Board of Directors of First United Corporation, Oakland, recently authorized the corporation's officers to re-purchase up to 5 percent of its outstanding common stock. Purchases of the corporation's stock under this program will be completed in brokered transactions or directly from the corporation's market makers. The re-purchased stock will be used for future stock dividends, acquisitions, or other corporate purposes, according to a corporation spokesman.

The corporation's stock has been listed in the Nasdaq National Market System since September 1992 and is traded under the symbol FRANC. The corporation has 6,506,295 shares of common stock outstanding.

The corporation, a one-bank holding company, recently announced that year-to-date as of June 30, 1996, income was up 32.44 percent over the same period in 1995. Net income for the first two quarters of 1996 was $3.22 million or $.49 per share, as compared to $2.43 million or $.37 per share for the same period in 1995.

William B. Grant, chairman of the Board and chief executive officer for First United Corporation, explained that 1995 was a year of positioning for the company. First United invested $1.08 million in restructuring efforts. This included some consolidation efforts and employee early retirement packages, all aimed at maintaining a high level of quality customer service, while increasing the future efficiency of the organization. Grant attributed much of the increased year-to-date income in 1996 to the "forward-thinking management decisions" made in 1995.

First United Corporation offers full-service banking through its primary banking subsidiary, First United National Bank & Trust. The bank operates a traditional network of offices throughout Garrett, Allegany, Washington, and Frederick counties in Maryland, as well as Mineral, Hardy and Hampshire counties in West Virginia.

Accident Youth Urge Residents To Go Tobacco-Free

Members of Accident's North Star 4-H Club took to the streets of their community recently to encourage residents and visitors to avoid tobacco use.

The nine students and two 4-H Club advisors positioned themselves along U.S. Route 219 in Accident at 9 a.m. on July 27. Holding signs decorated with anti-tobacco messages, the 4-H members talked to residents visiting the bank, post office, thrift shop, and local market and handed out free mugs bearing the slogan "It's No Accident We're Tobacco-Free."

The event was titled Accident No Tobacco Day.

"The first person the students saw on Saturday morning was Rosie Moon from Matthew's Store as she was leaving the bank and going to open the store," remarked Donna Knox, leader of the North Star 4-H Club. "Rosie brought soda out for all of the youth and asked if she could buy several of the mugs for her store's counter top. She is going to ask all of the young people who come into Matthew's to sign the mugs, pledging to remain tobacco-free."

Knox and Bonnie Klotz, who assists with the 4-H club, organized the recent activity. The participating youth designed their own signs.

Midway through the morning, club member Kista Knox designed a new sign asking drivers "Honk if you're tobacco-free!"

The evening before the Accident No Tobacco Day, members of the 4-H club posted large signs at both ends of town to promote the event.

"Back on July 4, our club designed a float for the community parade to promote a tobacco-free message and my relatives from out of town started talking to me about the choice to smoke," remarked North Star member Susie Broadwater. "I explained that non-smokers have a choice too and why didn't anyone ever talk about their rights?

"I think people will listen to us when we push a message to remain tobacco-free," Broadwater added. "Kids really mean what they say and most adults understand that."

First Federal Corp. Announces FY '96 Income

First Financial Corporation of Western Maryland, the holding company for First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland, has announced consolidated net income for the year ended June 30, 1996, of $3.6 million or $1.65 per share, as compared to a net loss of $1.2 million or $0.56 per share for the prior fiscal year.

The Corporation's return on average assets and return on average equity were above industry averages at 1.09% and 8.97%, respectively, for the year ended June 30, 1996. Fiscal 1996 results represent record core earnings for the Corporation as net income before income taxes and accounting changes was $5.9 million for fiscal 1996 compared to a loss of $2.0 million in fiscal 1995, and income of $3.8 million and $3.4 million in fiscal 1994 and fiscal 1993, respectively.

Total stockholders' equity and book value per share increased to $41.7 million and $19.16 per share, respectively, at June 30, 1996, as compared to $38.5 million and $18.06 per share, respectively, at June 30, 1995. Total assets minimally decreased to $322.0 million at June 30, 1996 from $329.4 million at June 30, 1995.

Improvements in core operating results for fiscal 1996, included an increase of $1.0 million or 7.6% in net interest income, to $14.4 million in fiscal 1996, from $13.4 million in fiscal 1995 and a reduction in operating expenses of $1.4 million or 12.9%, to $9.3 million in fiscal 1996, from $10.6 million in fiscal 1995. Contributing to the increase in net interest income was an improvement in the Corporation's net interest margin to 4.52% for fiscal 1996, up from 4.11% in fiscal 1995. This increase in net interest margin can be attributed to a strategic realignment of the Corporation's securities portfolio achieved during fiscal 1996 by reinvesting underperforming securities and securities with significant prepayment risk into higher yielding government agency securities and loans, a planned reduction in deposit costs and increased average loan balances from fiscal 1995 to fiscal 1996. New loan production for fiscal 1996 was $98.4 million resulting in a net increase in loans receivable of $20.0 million or 9.0% to $243.1 million at June 30, 1996 from $223.1 million at June 30, 1995.

During fiscal 1996, the Corporation continued its steady progress in reducing the level of problem assets. Non-performing assets decreased $1.2 million or 16.0% to $6.4 million at June 30, 1996 from $7.6 million at June 30, 1995. Total loan loss and real estate owned reserves represented 121.4% of non-performing assets at June 30, 1996.

First Federal Savings Bank of Western Maryland is a federally chartered, FDIC-insured stock savings bank which conducts its business through 10 offices located in Hagerstown, Frostburg, Oakland, and Westernport.

"City Kid" From Berlin, Germany, Spends Summer Gardening At Salem

by Patti Grose

When he finished school in 1994, Simon Hauke, a young man from Berlin, Germany, started making plans to further his education to prepare for a career as a construction engineer. But, before he could begin studying for that career, he had an obligation to his country to either serve a year in the military, or fulfill an alternative responsibility by volunteering his time in community service. Little did he know that the service to his country would lead him to Garrett County.

"I wasn't interested in serving in the military," said Simon who was just 19 years old at that point, "and I knew that many community service assignments would give me a chance to be outdoors." After looking into several different possibilities, he was invited by the Salem Village in Kovahl, Germany, a five-hour train trip from Berlin, to visit there and consider it for his stay of community service.

The village, as young Simon learned, was one of three villages in Germany, and several others located throughout the world, that had been established to provide homes for abused, neglected, and abandoned children. Although the homes are all run independently of one another, each has a common philosophy and dedication to God. The Salem program, initially founded in Germany by Gottfried Mueller, is designed to meet children's spiritual, emotional, mental and physical needs; and part of those needs are met by providing music therapy, water therapy, individual and group psychotherapy, vegetarian nutrition, and organic gardening. And, as Simon learned, the village at Kovahl needed someone to help in its large gardens, so he decided that was where he wanted to be.

"I didn't plan to be a gardener," Simon said. "It was all new for a 'city kid' like me. But, it was the kind of help needed at Salem, and that's what I went to do." He spent the next year with four other young men who worked for Salem's head gardener, growing crops like cabbages, carrots, beets, and potatoes, many of which were sold to help support the village.

During his stay at Salem, Simon enjoyed the quietness of nature in Germany's countryside, playing his guitar with a group at the village, and spending much of his free time exploring his surroundings and playing volleyball, table tennis, and other interactive games with the children there. "Kovahl was an unforgettable experience," Simon said, "I can't count all the great things I witnessed there."

VOLUNTEERING HIS TIME THIS SUMMER AS A GARDENER at The Maryland Salem Children's Trust, Inc., near Grantsville, is 21-year-old Simon Hauke, a "city kid" from Berlin, Germany, who spent a year in his country performing community service (as an alternative in his country to spending equal time in the ranks of the military), helping in the garden at a similar village in Kovahl, Germany. Although he confessed that he didn't set out to be a gardener, and plans someday to be a construction engineer, it was the type of help needed at Kovahl's Salem village, and he found that he enjoyed the new experience. In Germany, Simon and several other young men worked for a gardener, but here he takes care of the garden mostly on his own, growing crops like peas, potatoes, broccoli, corn, beans, etc. Above, Simon is shown as he cares for his plants, and below, he runs a garden tiller between the rows to keep the soil loose, and weed free.

When his year of service was over, he thought he would like to experience life in a foreign country before he began his engineering classes. He asked Salem's director if there were other villages like this one, and was told about one in Africa and another in the United States. Simon returned to his home in Berlin in December 1995, and contacted the Maryland Salem Children's Trust, a home similar to the ones in Germany; and Louise Richards, the director at the home, invited him to come. Preparations then began for a trip to America, and another new adventure.

Simon, now 21 years old, arrived in New York City on April 10, and after a week of "getting used to American life," he headed for Garrett County. "I was very busy seeing the sights of this loud town," he said, "and was happy to get by bus to Salem at Maryland."

On his arrival to Garrett County's Salem children's home, located on a 380-acre farm near Grantsville, Simon got to work preparing the ground for the coming planting season. He wasn't quite ready for the difference in the weather he experienced here, though, not to mention the mountainous terrain which was very different from his home where there are fewer mountains and the weather is a little less unpredictable.

"It is hard to plant here," the young volunteer gardener said, "because everything was planted so late. And it's too high here. The plants look good, but they're small." He added that the weather in Garrett County "changes so fast. Here, every day can be different...like in England. When I arrived here in April, I arrived in snow. Two days later, I got a sunburn." He noted that unlike Germany's long, gentle rains, Garrett County has experienced heavy, torrential rains this growing season, which has made his job a bit more difficult.

But the gardening experience he gained while completing his community service in Germany has helped him successfully grow a variety of crops similar to those grown at Kovahl, along with tomatoes, green beans, peas, and others. One major difference in the harvest of the mature vegetables, however, is that here, they are used mainly for consumption at the home, and are not sold at the market.

Not all of Simon's time here is spent gardening, however. When he first arrived, he experienced the sounds of a local bell choir, visited area churches, and saw the circus. He has met many people who want to show him the sights and highlights of Garrett County, and even spent a day going from farm to farm with a veterinarian.

He noted that also he enjoys driving in America. "The cars are bigger here," he said, "but they don't travel as fast as in Germany. It is a real pleasure to drive on the interstates here."

In September Simon will return to Berlin to his family and to his chosen career, taking with him experiences and memories that will last a lifetime. His courage for setting out on his own to be a part of an unfamiliar life, helping and living with people he didn't know, and joining in a culture foreign to him are all traits that the German military missed, but people at the Salem villages, as well as many in Garrett County have been fortunate to have experienced.

Friendsville Days '96

A DOWNTOWN PARADE, led by Mayor Spencer Schlosnagle, was one of the highlights of the 1996 Friendsville Days, held this past Friday and Saturday in that town. Great weather, lots of entertainment, and plenty of good food drew a large crowd for the festivities. The photos on this page provide a glimpse of the fun.

CLOWNS AND CLOWN FACES were available for everyone.

THERE WAS FOOD...

NOVELTIES sparked many smiles.

SPECIAL TRANSPORTATION around the festival grounds was provided.

REMINISCING between old friends was among the quieter activities.

FOOD...

ARTS AND CRAFTS were in abundance.

GAMES FOR CHILDREN of all ages were plentiful.

AND MORE FOOD.

SHARING FRENCH FRIES was among the unscheduled events.

AND, YES, THERE WAS MUSIC...

The Homemakers Corner

by Joan Schultz
Public Relations Chairperson

This year's theme for the FCE Extension Homemakers' booth at the Fair will be "Children and T.V." In April 1996, our organization ran a nationwide campaign. At that time we asked parents to pledge to tune out violence on T.V. for a 24-hour period on a specified date. Garrett County members acquired 144 signatures.

We feel there is a need to repeat this campaign. With the large number of people attending the Garrett County Fair, this would be a perfect opportunity to inform more people about the effects T.V. violence plays in the lives of our children. "Tune Out Violence Day" will he Saturday, September 7, a day we will ask parents to pledge to monitor their children's T.V. viewing habits. Hopefully it will be come a daily practice.

This is but one very important step we can take in helping our younger generation to become active and productive members of our society. Sign-up sheets and other literature will be available at the Homemakers booth throughout the fair.

The booth will also display various crafts which each club made throughout the year. Demonstrations will also take place, by Casselman Valley club on Thursday, Aug. 15, from 6 to 8 p.m., Sunnyside on Friday from 2 to 8 p.m., and Meadow Glade on Saturday from 6 to 8 p.m. Directions for some crafts will also be available.

Lee Family Meets At Rowlesburg Park For Reunion

Descendants of the Wheeler and Mary Jane (Loar) Lee family gathered for a reunion, July 27, at the Rowlesburg Park.

Those attending the event included Delbert and Pauline Hoffman, Marcella Lee, and Evelyn Withers, all of Grafton; Karen Reith and Linda Rhoades, both of Springfield, Va.; Diana McCrea, Littlestown, Pa.; Robert H. Lee, Alexandria, Va.; Craig, Chris, and Casey Lee, Stafford, Va.; Donna (Lee) Miller, Woodbridge, Va.; Wayne and Edith Mullins, Beckley; Ralph and Barbara Lee, Oakland; Mary Lee Phillips Mayle, and Larry, Carolyn, Slade, and Lance Turner, all of Kingwood.

It was decided to have the next reunion on July 26, 1997, at the Rowlesburg Park because most of the Lee family was reared in this area, and it is the location where the reunions originated.

Lunch-Hour Picnics Set In Kingwood

by Nathan Raybeck

Main Street Kingwood in conjunction with the Preston County McGrew Society is attempting to break the monotony of the old lunchtime routine with a series of "picnics in the pines."

"It [the picnic] is lunchtime entertainment for anyone who wants to come," said Janet Harriman, whose daughter Jessie read some of her poetry at last Friday's picnic.

The picnics are held on the back porch of the McGrew House in Kingwood.

"For four Fridays we are going to have entertainment from noon to 1 p.m. to let people come out and have something to do on their lunch hour and showcase some of our local talent and just let people get together and have a good time," said Fran Kirk, drama teacher at Preston High School. "It is a total variety of entertain."

Signing, short stories, poetry, dancers from Sally Ann's Dance Studio, and possibly some music from members of the Central Preston Junior High School Band will provide the entertainment during the hour-long programs. The project was put together by Main Street Kingwood with some help from the McGrew Society, and the whole idea of the program was to get people to enjoy the downtown area, Kirk explained.

Brian Ward, director of Main Street Kingwood, said that many Main Streets communities all over the country have used picnics in the park and activities on the courthouse lawn to get people to start thinking about downtown as a place of fun and interesting activities. Ward also stated that Main Street got together with the McGrew Society, which sells refreshments at these activities, because they had a pleasant lawn and big porch and plenty of space so people could enjoy Preston County afternoons while being entertained by local Prestonians. The activities at the McGrew House will run until August 16 and the public is invited.

EMPLOYEE HONORED - Horse Shoe Run resident Gary Judy has been named employee of the quarter at Coastal Lumber Company's Horse Shoe Run Mill, where he has worked for 17 years. "Gary received Employee of the Quarter because of his dedication to his job," stated Larry Roth, mill manager, in making the award. "He is always on time and always has his machine serviced and ready to go each morning. It's a nice to have an employee like Gary. He helps to keep the mill running smoothly and makes my job a lot easier."

Wiles-Watkins Reunion Slated

The 84th annual Wiles-Watkins family reunion is set for Sunday, Aug. 18, at the Mt. View Church, near Tunnelton. The day will begin with a basket lunch at 1 p.m.

Children's games, as well as a cake walk, are among the activities planned throughout the day. Prizes will be awarded to the oldest and youngest persons present, as well as the one traveling the farthest to attend.

An auction is also planned, with proceeds to be used by the reunion association. Those planning to attend are asked to donate an item for the action, and any memorabilia or photographs from past reunions.

Shrout Home Is Museum Of Artifacts

by Nathan Raybeck

Not too many houses in Kingwood are decorated with helmets from the first and second World Wars, coins from the Byzantine Empire, and more than 5,000 different horseshoes, but then again, not many houses are like Junior Shrout's.

"I'm a historian," said Shrout," and I've been collecting things since I was 5 or 6 years old."

Shrout's home is stocked full of interesting historic relics, such as over 5,000 horseshoes, an old hand-operated washing machine, and an old fork collection. Shrout also has an interest in stamps; he has two complete file drawers full of them. When asked how many he had, Shrout just laughed and shook is head. "I really don't know," he said.

Other notable items in the Shrout collection include German and American helmets from both World Wars, an old-time machine used to stuff sausage, an old ice hook which was used to carry big blocks of ice to people's homes back in the late '20s and early '30s, and a Civic War slave whip. Shrout also has several old coins, including coins from the middle 1800s, the early 1900s, and even one that dates from the Byzantine Empire. Shrout also has West Virginia license plates dating from the early 1900s. He also owns a collection of Nazi paraphernalia and an outfit used by the KKK.

Shrout also has a collection of ice cream spoons, as well as a large portion of the equipment used by the cobblers of days gone by. Shrout said that anyone is welcome to come and see his collection and all they have to do is contact him.

"It [the collection] is something you can't describe unless you see it for yourself," said Shrout.

He also collects fossils and has a few tree fossils that are supposed to be over 4 million years old! Shrout said that he does not go to many auctions anymore because people "just bring me all kinds of stuff and I really don't have much room left, so I don't really try to add a whole lot."

When asked what people take away most from seeing his collection, Shrout comically said that everyone tries to buy some of his guns, to which he replies, "Sorry, not for sale."

TV Commercial On Tourism Gets Significant Award

The Maryland Office of Tourism received recognition for its creative achievement by the National Council of State Travel Directors (NCSTD) for its television commercial promoting the state as a vacation destination. The award was presented at the annual meeting of NCSTD on Saturday, July 13, in Naples, Fla.

The Maryland Office of Tourism produced its television spot in conjunction with its advertising agency, W B. Doner of Baltimore. The spot demonstrated in 60 seconds all that there is to do in Maryland and how easy it is to travel throughout the state. Among the activities featured were races in Maryland's Hunt Country, white water rafting down rushing rivers in Garrett County, and cheering on horses at the Preakness Stakes.

When an activity was featured, a panel showed all the things that a visitor would need for each activity. One example featured the beach, a visitor was shown that they should bring suntan lotion, sandals, and a towel. Each item for each activity was packed into a suitcase that got progressively fuller. The announcer agreed that, "It may seem like a lot to bring for a weekend but in Maryland there are so many things to do, so close together that the you might want to bring one more thing -- Someone to carry your bag." The spot then ends with a shot of a body builder who is smiling at the camera knowingly. The viewer is shown an 800 telephone number for them to calf to receive a free travel kit, which includes Maryland's travel guide, Destination Maryland.

The Maryland Office of Tourism markets to areas that are 350 miles from its borders. Some of the cities were the television commercial was shown were Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, Indianapolis, and Cincinnati. In-state residents were able to see the spots during Orioles baseball on the cable network, HTS. The commercials aired during the months of April, May, and June as this is the time when most consumers make their travel plans.

The spots have generated hundreds of telephone calls from consumers requesting information and are viewed as a success by the Maryland Office of Tourism. "The tourism market is highly competitive and this spot has made our phones ring 20% more than during the same time period last year," said George Williams, director of the Maryland Office of Tourism.

Maryland's tourism industry is the third-largest in the state and employs 50,000 people. The money received through visitor spending generates over $5 billion, which returns over $365 million in state and local taxes. The money received into the tax funds saves each tax payer $105 annually. The Maryland Office of Tourism is a division of the Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development.

For more information on Maryland tourism and its marketing programs, persons may contact Andy Spitzler, Maryland Department of Business and Economic Development, 410-767-6318.

SUNSET AT THE FAIR - The sun was just going down and, in response, the carnival ride lights were just coming on when staff photographer Craig Phillips snapped this photo at the Garrett County Fairgrounds this week. The 40th annual county fair is underway this week and, with the exception of on Monday, has enjoyed excellent weather conditions. The event, which serves for many former county residents as a homecoming, will continue through Saturday night.

Florida Youth Arrested For Felony Theft

A Florida youth was jailed on a felony theft charge late Sunday evening after it was learned the vehicle he was traveling in had been stolen from a residence in neighboring Preston County, W.Va.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Conor P. O'Neill, 18, Fort Meyers, was arrested for theft, along with driving while intoxicated (DWI), after a trooper responded to the Pysell Road, near Rt. 219, to check on a vehicle that was reportedly in a ditch.

Upon arrival, the trooper found O'Neill passed out behind the wheel. When the officer was able to awaken the young man, he reportedly noticed O'Neill had slurred speech, bloodshot eyes, and was unsteady on his feet. When asked who owned the vehicle, O'Neill told the officer that he had stolen it from where it was parked in Albright, and that the keys had been in the vehicle at the time. It was later learned that the car, valued at approximately $1,000, was owned by Kenneth and Lori Collins, Albright.

Following his arrest, O'Neill was transported to the Garrett County Jail, where bond has been set at $20,000.

ARRESTED ON DRUG CHARGES

A Virginia man was arrested on drug charges Sunday afternoon, when he returned to his room at the Casselman Inn, Grantsville, to retrieve some items.

State police said James Richard Short, 35, Dale City, was charged with possession of marijuana and drug paraphernalia after they responded to the inn where two film canisters containing suspected marijuana were found in a drawer in one of the rooms. When troopers arrived, they were first told the room had been rented to Short, but he had left. He apparently returned to the inn to pick up some of his belongings while a trooper was there and was arrested and transported to the Garrett County Jail. He was later released on his own recognizance.

THEFT REPORTED

The theft of a tire and wheel from Billy Bender Chevrolet, Grantsville, were reported to the state police on Aug. 9.

William Stewart told the police that sometime between 2 p.m. on Aug. 3, and 8 a.m. on Aug. 5, unknown persons removed a Goodyear Wrangler tire from the spare tire area under a 1996 Chevrolet S-10 pickup truck that was parked in front of the car dealership's showroom. Laah Jane Broadwater was crowned the 1996 Garrett County Farm Queen Sunday at opening ceremonies of the 40th Annual Garrett County Agricultural Fair in McHenry. Laah is the 19-year-old daughter of Hazel and Willard Broadwater of Swanton. The family owns a 230-acre farm where they raise Hereford beef cattle, market hogs, laying hens, and crops such as hay, corn, and oats.

As a farmer's daughter, Laah's outdoor responsibilities include mowing the lawn, making hay, helping to load hogs, helping to band and vaccinate calves, herding cattle, caring for the flowers, and other farm work as needed.

In the house, she helps her mother with baking, cleaning, laundry and cooking.

Laah is entering her second year at Garrett Community College with a 3.45 grade point average in the Ag Management Program.

The new Farm Queen is a past Maryland FFA president, Garrett County Livestock Association member, Oakland FFA Alumni president, and showman at the Garrett County Fair. She is a member of GCC's Agriculture Club, and a member of Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, Accident.

Her hobbies include showing livestock, participating in FFA events, public speaking, running, photography, and horticulture. Her special interests include enjoying nature and learning as much about agriculture as possible.

Laah would like to pursue an Ag Management Degree, and may transfer to Potomac State College to finish her degree. Her college minor is Agriculture Education. Other plans for this energetic young Farm Queen are to possibly intern at the Wye Mills Research Farm and earn the American FFA Degree.

Laah will represent Garrett County Farm Bureau and agriculture for the coming year, and compete in the Maryland State Farm Queen Contest Sunday, August 25, beginning at 7 p.m. in the State Fair Cow Palace in Hmmonium.

The first runner-up was Jennifer Linn Barnard, the 17-year-old daughter of Debra and William Barnard of Swanton.

Jennifer lives on a 350-acre family farm, and her responsibilities are her 4-H and FFA market animal projects, helping in the hay fields, garden and yard, and cleaning the animal pens. She does regular household chores such as cleaning and laundry, and spends a great deal of time baby sitting.

She is entering her senior year at Southern High School, and is an honor roll student in the honors program. She has just been elected the 1996-97 FFA president of the Oakland FFA Chapter, and serves as the 4-H representative to the Garrett County Live-

Friedman Reflects On His Career, GLAF, And Symphony At Deep Creek

by Kristina Carr Smith

Quality music will fill the mountain air this weekend as the Symphony at Deep Creek opens its 10th season under the direction of violinist Erick Friedman, who has also served as musical director and conductor since the group's inception. Friedman, world renowned for his musical talent and innovation as a violinist, teacher and conductor, will again grace the Garrett Community College performance hall, filling it with powerfully sweet sounds from his heart that have been shared across the globe.

ERICK FRIEDMAN

"We've been putting on these programs for the last 10 years and it's been just wonderful; successful and terrific. This summer I've been in France and in Brazil having classes, performing and teaching. It's been a busy summer," said Friedman, who has just finished performing and teaching engagements in New Jersey and has arrived in Garrett County for the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's symphony season.

Friedman, awarded a Grammy this year after two nominations for a recording done with mentor and teacher Jasha Heifetz 35 years ago, is said to be playing better than ever today by critics after a car accident some years back which rendered him unable to perform publicly for over five years. I didn't play, not so much that I couldn't, but that my playing was not on the level that I was accustomed, wanted to, and I didn't want to subject people to that," said Friedman, a professor of violin studies at Yale, where he studied with Heifetz. "Little by little, I kept practicing, doing a little at a time, and now I'm back to normal. Some people say I'm playing better now than I ever did before."

If his arm had not returned to normal, Friedman would have continued to teach, give masterclasses, and conduct. "I'd still be doing what I am doing now," said Friedman. "My career now is more geared toward my professorial responsibilities at Yale. Heifetz wanted me to teach as soon as I finished my studies, but then I felt I was too young. I had my own life at that time, and now, teaching is something that I want to do. It is wonderful."

Friedman is loved and admired by all of the musicians he works with and conducts, and his talents as performing artist are no secret. The Grammy was unexpected recognition for work done a long time ago, early in his career. "There have been so many rewarding experiences; I never dreamed of winning a Grammy," said Friedman. "It's kind of funny after receiving two nominations and after 35 years, belatedly receiving one."

While performing, working as a conductor or teaching, Friedman has only three things on his mind: intonation, playing in time, and playing together. That's his recipe for a great performance.

"I have a certain kind of philosophy," he said. "There is nothing so spurious as a conductor. I have an attitude that the performance is something that is saved for the performing hall, not the rehearsal."

As musicians will begin working under his baton this week, Friedman will be letting his musicians know exactly what he's looking for, and also that it's up to them to make it happen. "I like to state a point of view about the kinds of things I'd like to have happen, and then not over-rehearse the musicians. Having played so many concerts under so many conductors, I see and it's always been my impression that this kind of atti-

Construction Of Two-Lane Glendale Bridge To Get Underway Next Month

The Garrett County commissioners voted unanimously this week to award a $3 million contract for the construction of a new superstructure for the aging Glendale Bridge, which spans Deep Creek Lake.

Work on the project will begin after Labor Day, so as not to interfere with summer recreation and tourism at the lake. Planners expect to open the new bridge to traffic by Memorial Day, 1997.

The refurbished bridge will consist of a new two-lane superstructure, or roadway, installed atop the bridge's existing stone piers, and the completed structure is expected to resemble the U.S. Route 219 bridge which crosses the lake further north.

The project will also include the construction of a retaining wall to reduce the impact of the new bridge on the end property of the Glendale Shores development.

Lee Thorne, acting roads director for Garrett County, told the commissioners this week that the $3,130,505 low bid for the project, submitted by I.A. Construction, a firm which maintains an office in Cumberland, is some $596,044 below what engineers had predicted the project would cost.

Commissioner Wayne Wilt stated this week that the renovation of the bridge will be funded with $50,000 in state road funds; a $500,000 state grant; a $500,000 state loan which will accrue no interest for a period of 10 years; and $2,350,000 in state and federal bridge funds. In addition to covering the $3 million contract cost of the new bridge, these funds will also be used to pay for redesign work needed to include the retaining wall in the overall plan and to comply with changing state bridge specifications.

The bridge will be closed to traffic during most of the construction period, and the contractor will be responsible for placing signs to indicate detour routes.

During the summer of 1991, the board of commissioners received a low bid of $2,868,790 for the repair of the bridge, including the installation of a new superstructure. However, the contract was not awarded and the project was tabled for financial reasons.

Savage River Bridge

Thorne announced this week that a temporary bridge across Savage River will be in place around the first week of September "if the weather cooperates."

The Savage River Bridge was seriously damaged during January flooding and has been closed to traffic ever since. In June, area residents presented the commissioners with a petition, bearing 300 names, which asked that the bridge situation be addressed.

The temporary bridge will remain in place until a permanent bridge structure is installed.

Wilson Road

The Garrett County Board of Commissioners also this week voted to reject all bids for the paving of Wilson Road near Mettiki Coal Company. Thorne recommended that the county re-bid the project because the three bids GOING, GOING . . . The old Glendale Bridge is about to be dismantled to make way for a new double-lane bridge. Construction on the new structure, which will resemble the larger U.S. Route 219 bridge, will begin after Labor Day, and local planners hope to cut the ribbon on the new bridge by Memorial Day, 1997. However, during the period between the two holidays, local drivers will have to use detour routes, as the bridge will be closed to traffic. See story.

School-To-Work Program Grant Under Scrutiny By Education Brd.

The Garrett County Board of Education met Tuesday for its regular meeting and included in the eight-hour session was a discussion concerning the county's School-to-Work initiative. The program, which is under the leadership of JoAnn Vent and Albert Coviello (assistant superintendent of curriculum and instruction), is designed to arrange working experience situations for students who choose particular career paths in school. Vent has worked for the past three years to develop the program, the planning of which was in an attempt to be prepared for what would eventually be a federal mandated program.

The local program has involved several businesses and worksites where selected students have received hands-on work experience in career areas in which they have high interest. The work hours provide some with various certifications and others with a clearer idea of what the chosen career truly entails. Coviello explained that the local system was eligible for a grant earlier this year, as the initiative began its first year of state funding. However, even though the county's program was advanced and "on the cutting edge" of development, Coviello said the local system was not awarded the money. Four other counties in the state instead were funded.

Local officials learned early this year that to be eligible for the next round of federal grants of which there might available - Garrett County would have to join with Allegany and Washington counties in a joint effort to fulfill the purposes of the School To Work initiative. According to both Coviello and Vent this was a somewhat of a

"EVERY TIME I TURN AROUND, he's floating to the ceiling" might be the words of this mother, caught on film at the Garrett County Fair this week. Who would believe that just four small helium balloons would have such lifting power? This tyke and hundreds of others will find many such thrills available at the annual fair, which will continue the rest of this week at the fairgrounds in McHenry through Saturday evening.

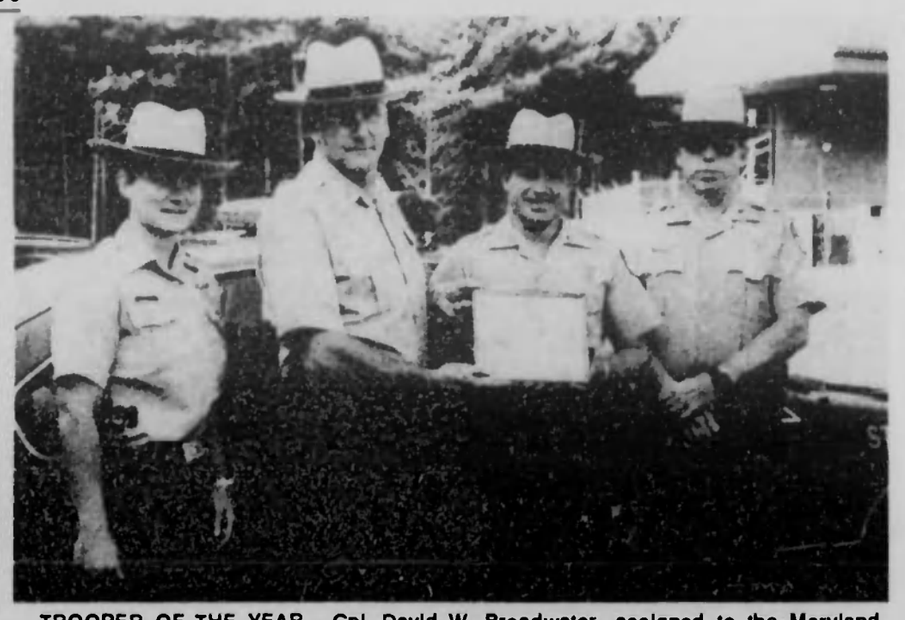
FOUR STATE POLICE TROOPERS PROMOTED TO THE RANK OF CORPORAL - Following the completion of a promotion process designated by the Maryland State Police, four troopers at the McHenry barrack were advanced to the rank of corporal, which became effective Aug. 14. Lieutenant Charles H. Hinnant, commander at the local barrack, expressed his elation at the troopers' promotions and noted that all will remain assigned to Barrack W. "All four live in the Garrett County area," Hinnant said, "and keeping them at the McHenry barrack will add stability to my staff." Pictured above, from left to right, are Lt. Hinnant; the four new corporals, Cpl. Paul R. Brown, Cpl. Wayne L. Mowbray, Cpl. Mark E. Rodeheaver, and Cpl. David W. Broadwater; 1st Sgt. Daniel E. Stanton; and Major Cynthia R. Smith, commander of the Western Region of the Maryland State Police.



TROOPER OF THE YEAR - Cpl. David W. Broadwater, assigned to the Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, was recently named the barrack's 1995 Trooper of the Year. Chosen for the award by his direct line of supervisors at the McHenry barrack, as well as others in the supervisory capacity, Broadwater, who was then a trooper first class, received his certificate of recognition during a presentation at the local barrack on Wednesday. Pictured above, from left to right, are Major Cynthia R. Smith, commander of the Western Region; Lt. Charles H. Hinnant, commander of the McHenry barrack; Broadwater; and 1st Sgt. Daniel E. Stanton.

Corporals Named At MSP Barrack; Broadwater Chosen Trooper Of Year

Lt. Charles H. Hinnant, commander of Barrack W of the Maryland State Police, McHenry, announced this week the promotion of four troopers within the local barrack to the rank of corporal. He also revealed the recipient of McHenry barrack's 1995 Trooper of the Year award.

Promoted to the rank of corporal, which became effective Aug. 14, were David W. Broadwater, Paul R. Brown, Wayne L. Mowbray, and Mark E. Rodeheaver, who each completed the promotion process and were advanced to their new ranks by Col. David B. Mitchell, superintendent of the Maryland State Police. Additionally, Broadwater was chosen, for the second time in his career by the supervisors at the local barrack as the trooper they believe to be the most deserving of the Trooper of the Year award. He was also the recipient of this award in 1990.

"As the commander at McHenry, I am elated to have four deserving troopers promoted to the rank of corporal," Hinnant said. "I am also pleased to be able to keep them at Barrack W, which will add stability to my staff. All four live in the Garrett County area, and all have been here as troopers." He added that it is unusual to have this many troopers promoted at the same time. "Usually one or two will advance together, but this is the first time at this barrack that four have been promoted at once," he said.

With their promotions, the four new corporals advance from patrol troopers to first-line supervisors, according to Hinnant. Although each will continue to patrol Garrett County's highways, their main function will be first-line, on-the-scene supervisors. During major incidents such as traffic accidents, shootings, and criminal investigations, the corporals will act in the capacity of supervisor to take control of the situation to evaluate, assess, and decide what is needed.

"I lost four troopers to supervisory positions," Hinnant said, "and since no new troopers have been assigned here to replace them, they will wear two hats (patrol troopers and supervisory positions). I will count on them to make a lot of decisions."

Broadwater was hired by the Maryland State Police on Jan. 10, 1983. After he graduated from the police academy in June of that year, he was assigned to the Rockville barrack, where he remained until August 1984. From then until his promotion, he has been assigned to the McHenry barrack as a road patrol officer.

On hand to help present Broadwater with a certificate of recognition as Trooper of the Year, was the Western Region Commander, Major Cynthia R. Smith, as well as Lt. Hinnant, and 1st Sgt. Daniel E. Stanton.

At the time of his selection, then Trooper First Class Broadwater was recognized, according to the certificate, for his "concentrated efforts in providing community policing throughout the state. He led all barrack personnel in the total number of hours dedicated to this program and in total enforcement action taken..." and in crime scene processing "...continually searches for additional clues that could lead to an arrest and case closure." In 1995, Broadwater maintained a criminal caseload that included a 69 percent case closure rate.

"I have known Cpl. Broadwater virtually all of his career," said Major Smith, "and he has consistently been a top performer, dedicated to the mission of the Maryland State Police. This is a well-deserved award."

"Dave exemplifies the standards expected of a Maryland state trooper, that's why he was selected for this honor," Hinnant said, adding that "several receive this award once in their careers; many don't receive the honor at all; and Cpl. Broadwater has received it twice."

Broadwater and his wife, Rachel, live in Barton, near the Garrett-Allegany County border, with their two children, Andrew, 10, and Stephanie, 7.

Cpl. Brown, who has spent his entire state police career in Garrett County, graduated from the police academy in 1986, and was assigned to the local detachment in 1987. He was promoted to trooper first class in October 1989.

Brown and his wife, Deborah, live in Swanton with their children, 9-year-old Erik, and 7-year-old Caitlyn.

Cpl. Mowbray entered the police academy in January 1986. He graduated in July of that year and was assigned to the Cumberland barrack. In February of 1987, Mowbray transferred to the aviation division, and was promoted to trooper first class in January 1989. He has been with the McHenry barrack since September 1992.

Mowbray lives in Mtn. Lake Park with his wife, Erica, and their two children, Andrew and Leah.

Cpl. Rodeheaver began his career with the state police on July 12, 1989, as a cadet. He served at the New Market Scale House in Frederick until July 9, 1990, when he entered the police academy. Following his graduation, he was assigned to the Centreville barrack in Queen Anne's County, where he worked the patrol function for nearly two years. He was transferred to the McHenry barrack in September 1992, where he worked as a patrol officer until his recent promotion.

He lives in McHenry with his wife, Sarena, and their son, Derek.

Sheriff's Office Arrests Noted

The Garrett County Sheriff's Office logged various arrests this week, with charges including theft, disturbing the peace, and failure to appear. The deputies are also investigating cases of theft and property destruction.

A Davis, W.Va., man was arrested on the strength of two warrants. David Rhodes, 51, has been charged with theft and malicious destruction of property. He is accused of stealing a .38 calibre handgun valued at $425 as well as a gas tank.

Daniel M. Holland Jr., 33, Oakland, was arrested this week and charged with one count of disturbing the peace. Further details were not available.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Elmer C. Wolfe, 39, Terra Alta, W.Va., who was accused of violation of probation.

Michael W. Welch, 31, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a bench warrant for failure to appear in court, according to the report.

DOP, THEFT

The theft of a surveying transit was reported to the sheriff's office this week. Joe G. Spiker told investigators that the instrument was taken from a Sang Run Road area sometime between 5 p.m. on Aug. 6 and 8 a.m. on Aug. 7.

The transit is gray with silver tripods. It is valued at $1,500.

Cody L. Lewis, Oakland, reported recently that someone had apparently vandalized vehicles at his home. A tire on a four-wheeler was slashed, and two vehicle windows were shattered. The wiring assembly on a Ford tractor was damaged, and a Minkota turbo trolling motor was apparently stolen. The total loss for Lewis was estimated at over $300.

The vandalism apparently occurred in the last week of July, according to the report.

Samuel E. Sisler, Oakland, reported the theft of a bicycle. A 20" Haro Freestyle bike with "No Fear" printed on it was taken from his home sometime between 10 p.m. on July 31 and 7 a.m. on Aug. 1. The bike is worth $350.

Persons with information about any of these crimes are urged to contact the sheriff's office at 334-1911.

ONE MORE RUN of the Garrett County Ecumenical Youth Ministry's production of the musical Godspell is scheduled for next weekend, Aug. 23-24, in Pealer Hall at Frostburg State University. The production, under the direction of EYM director Lynn Broderick and featuring a cast of some 30 young people from five local congregations, played to three packed houses in Oakland back in March and then to an audience of over 600 in Fairmont, W.Va., in June. Tickets for the FSU performances, which cost $3 each, may be purchased at Gregg's Pharmacy in Oakland or at any of the participating churches: St. Mark's Lutheran, St. Peter's Catholic, St. Paul's United Methodist, and St. Matthew's/St. John's Episcopal. Among the cast members pictured above are, standing, from left: Andrew Grant, Shawn Cardiff, Nicki Hughes, and David Peterson, who portrays John the Baptist and Judas. The script for the play is taken directly from the New Testament book of St. Matthew and features the life of Christ from the time of his baptism to his crucifixion.

LaVale Youth Injured When Car Overturns

A 16-year-old LaVale youth was injured in a single-vehicle accident late Monday evening when she lost control of her vehicle on the Chestnut Ridge Road, near New Germany Road.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Jamie Marie Spano failed to negotiate a curve in the roadway and lost control of the 1988 Chevy S-10 pickup she was operating, causing it to travel off the road and overturn.

Volunteers responded to the scene of the 10:18 p.m. accident and transported Spano to Garrett County Memorial Hospital. She was reportedly treated and released. Also responding were members of the Grantsville Volunteer Fire Department.

TREATED, RELEASED

Two Fairmont, W.Va., residents were injured in a Monday afternoon mishap on Rt. 219, at the entrance to Farmers' Market.

Treated and released from Garrett Memorial were Mark Kincaid, 34, and his passenger, Rhea Kincaid, who were injured when their 1997 Ford was struck by a 1989 Pontiac driven by Nancy L. Hinebaugh, 33, Oakland, as she pulled her vehicle from the parking lot at Farmers' Market, directly into the path of the Kincaid vehicle. State police said Hinebaugh failed to yield right-of-way in the rainy 1 p.m. accident.

Neither Hinebaugh, nor her passenger, 15-year-old Amanda Hinebaugh, were injured in the accident, according to the police report. It was also noted that the airbags in Kincaid's vehicle inflated, reducing the severity of the couple's injuries. An investigation in to the accident is continuing.

CARS COLLIDE AT INTERSECTION

Four people were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following a two-vehicle accident Wednesday afternoon at the intersection of Rt. 219 and the Mayhew Inn Road.

The state police said Virginia R. Craig, 41, Deer Park, and her passengers, Logan Craig, 7, and Kenzie Craig, 8, along with the passenger in the other vehicle, 85-year-old George Acton, Oakland, were taken to the hospital following the 4:56 p.m. accident. All were treated and released.

According to the state police report, Craig was operating a 1996 Plymouth south on Rt. 219, when a 1992 Subaru, operated by Frances D. Acton, 81, Oakland, pulled into her path, causing the collision. Acton had apparently stopped at the stop sign on the Mayhew Inn Road, and was attempting to make a left turn onto Rt. 219 when she pulled into Craig's path.

Mrs. Acton, who did not require transport to the hospital, was charged by the state police with failure to yield right-of-way. Also responding to the scene were members of the Southern Rescue Squad and the Deep Creek Volunteer Fire Department.

Mtn. Lake Park Man Arrested By Oakland Police

A young Mountain Lake Park man was arrested Saturday evening and charged by the Oakland City Police with disturbing the peace, destruction of property, and harassment, following an incident at a residence in Oakland.

Jolin M. Friend, 18, was arrested by Officer Shawn Fratz who had responded to a disturbance at the Richard L. Welling residence. According to the officer's report, he arrived to find Friend yelling and pointing at Welling's house, and his hands were bleeding. Friend had apparently kicked the house and broken a window prior to the officer's arrival.

Earlier in the evening, Fratz had been called to the Welling home for a reported harassment complaint. At that time, Fratz spoke to Laurie Bateman who claimed Friend had made several threatening phone calls on Welling's answering machine. Welling added that Friend also had repeatedly driven past his house.

After the officer's second response to the disturbance, he arrested Friend and transported him to the Garrett County Jail. Following a bond hearing before a district court commissioner, Friend was released on his own recognizance.

Don't Scrap It...

Fanaticism and paranoia were evident at this week's Garrett County Board of Education meeting when the discussion focused on the highly successful program known as School-to-Work. The program, which was initiated three years ago by program director JoAnn Vent and assistant superintendent Al Coviello, provides for our high school students opportunity for work experience after school and during the summer months to help them select a career path and a corresponding course of study. It has spawned wonderful cooperation and involvement of participating local businesses in our education process. Like so many of Garrett County's educational initiatives, it is on the cutting edge of the concept and has become a model for the rest of the state's counties, since most of them have not yet even started the program. Our educators' rationale has been: If it is going to ultimately become a mandate, why not take the initiative and have a major say in its design?

So far, this local program has not been fully funded. It has been paid for with in-house monies. To keep it going, grant monies have been sought. However, for some unknown reason, our county's highly developed, working program, was overlooked when the first round of grants came about. Then the local system was informed that it must meld with Washington and Allegany counties in order to apply for the next available grant. While the directive was a difficult pill to swallow at the outset, our adaptable educators rose to the challenge and jumped into the job at hand, attending meeting after sometimes frustrating meeting with the new partners.

While this funding mechanism does indeed muddy the waters, we object to board member Pat Riley's advocating that we simply drop the grant pursuit altogether. His reasoning is that this mandate/funding is just one more avenue for the federal government to seize control of our lives, and thus we should reject all funding but keep the local program. However, local officials say there is no money to fully implement the local plan without the help of the grant.

While we agree that there is too much governmental invasion into our lives, we believe this program is far too important for us to simply scrap. The age of technology in which we now live has drastically reduced the number of jobs that were once available for the large section of average-ability workers. We pay taxes to our federal government and we should expect some real return for that money. We also recognize that there are many useless, wasteful government-funded programs, but this particular program is precisely what should be funded with some of our tax money. The involvement by cooperating businesses greatly reduces the cost of the schools' having to provide this kind of training. We would be foolish to reject it.

A special meeting of the board will be held next week, probably Tuesday, to make a decision on this issue. Unfortunately, at press time a time had not yet been set, but we hope many will take the time to find out the time, attend the meeting, and participate in the discussion.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

After two vetoes of legislation proposed in the last two years by the Republican Congress to change the welfare system in this country, this last week in July, Democrat President Clinton agreed to sign legislation approved by the U. S. Senate and House (328 191) that would do just that. It is a sea change which will, sooner or later, affect everyone; immediately most of the 12.8 million people on welfare and almost all of the 25.6 million people who receive food stamps.

In broad terms the new law would eliminate the 61-year old federal guarantee of automatic cash assistance to people whose need makes them eligible, including the nation's poorest children, by abolishing the Aid to Families with Dependent Children program created by the Social Security Act and signed by President Franklin D. Roosevelt in August of 1935. Among other provisions of the law are those that give the states wide latitude to create and manage their own welfare programs; requires some single mothers on welfare to get jobs or lose some federal funds; requires states to reduce benefits to people who refuse to work; provides bonus payments to states that reduce illegitimacy; permits states to deny welfare payments to unwed mothers under certain conditions; and reduces federal spending on food stamps. The law creates federal and state registers to help track deadbeat parents and requires states to suspend driver's licenses of those owing unpaid child support.

Political pressures on all sides influenced the enactment of this legislation and its content. The New York Times editorial (8-1-96) titled, "A Sad Day For Poor Children," said the President's comments on his decision to sign, "an atrocious welfare bill exaggerated its tiny virtues and ignored some large faults." Sidney Johnson, executive director of the American Public Welfare Association, noted, "The welfare system, for its first 50 years, had the principal and almost sole goal of providing income maintenance for people in poverty. Today, the goal is promoting work and self-sufficiency and ending dependence."

All of this is a huge and complex set of issues that will take a long time to work out. Representative John Kasich (R-Ohio), chairman of the House Budget Committee, remarked that the legislation "Goes right to the heart and soul of our nation and its values." No one has argued the law is perfect, but most have argued the present system of creating dependency is self-defeating and needs to be changed.

To the Editor:

Recently the Mountaintop Soccer Association hosted the third annual Major League Soccer Camp at the Open Space fields at Southern High School. Over 120 youngsters from age 4 through 17 participated in the week long program. The majority was residents of Garrett County with others attending from nearby West Virginia and the Washington, D.C., area.

A project of this magnitude is never accomplished by one person. I was very fortunate to have the assistance of Mary and Bill Dale, Jack and Norma Rickman, Tom and Sue Potts, Walter and Polly Ramsey, Mary Bruno, Cathy Menker, Barbara Wolf, and Tawney Brack.

Special help was also received from Jan Finkel and the Oakland Mt. Lake Park Lions Club.

Arby's, Cornish Manor, McCabe's, Pizza Hut and Red Run Lodge were generous hosts and provided meals for the British soccer coaches during their stay in Garrett County.

A very sincere thank you to all of these folks who made the 1996 soccer camp a great success!

Mark your calendars for the week of July 28, 1997, for the fourth edition of Major League Soccer Camp in Garrett County!

Yours truly,
Carole Ann Lovett
Camp Coordinator

To the Editor:

Monday night I tuned in the Republican National Convention on ABC. Their staff were exchanging bon mots. The same can be said of CBS. I switched to PBS and came in upon the address by former President Gerald Ford. So much for the "coverage" by the "major networks."

It was gratifying to see and hear remarks by gentlemen such as Mr. Ford, former President George Bush and General Colin Powell, and that fine lady, Nancy Reagan. It was truly refreshing to see again the gracious Betty Ford and Barbara Bush. I was disappointed to miss Mrs. Powell, she would have been right at home there.

The speeches were noteworthy. Mrs. Reagan calmly stole the show and Gen. Powell "burned the barn." The two presidents were brilliant. Every American should have been in that audience!

Sincerely,
Irving Day

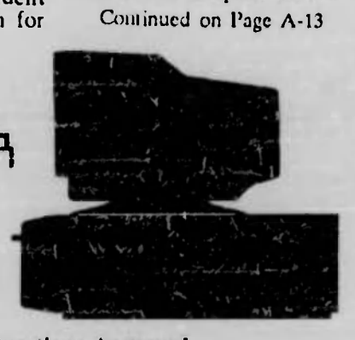
THE COMPUTER CORNER

By Tom Hudson



Some Questions Answered
Part Two

I will continue this week with the last two reasons that I give in answer to the question, "why should I care about computers?"

You should care about computers because your career or financial success may depend on them. Yes, you may actually have to obtain computer skills in order to be successful in the 21st century.

Again, I am drawn to reflect on the kinds of training that are available in our local educational system. I believe that there are three levels of computer training. First, there is basic computer literacy. Everyone needs to know the bare minimum about what computers can do. This will allow each of us to evaluate how we might take advantage of their capabilities. This is the kind of training that most children are now getting in school and it is indispensable. I think that any money spent on this type of education is a worthy investment in our future.

Second, there is the level of computer skills that enables our citizens to take jobs that require interaction with computers. I am thinking here of word processing, data entry and basic accounting programs. You don't have to know how to create the programs, just how to use them to your own advantage. Again, our schools and colleges provide an excellent platform of skills for children and adults in this area.

Finally, there are a few of us (yes, I am one of them) who can make a career out of being computers nerds. I do what I love, and I am sometimes astounded that people actually pay me to have so much fun. This is clearly not for everyone, but I am sure that there are many young people in Garrett County who will excel in this enterprise, and I heartily encourage them to go for it. I have heard that there is a young man in high school here who can perform miracles with computers, and I view this fact as a real asset to our community. We don't need a thousand of him, but I'm glad we have at least one!

Finally, you should care about computers because they are loads of fun! I don't think I am telling tales out of school if I mention that my wife likes the software that I use to create greeting cards. I can take photographs of our family and pets, and I can merge them into customized cards for birthdays, Mother's Day, Christmas, etc. She likes the cards and seems to really wish that she could create some of her own (she is trained as a commercial artist). As usual, the cobbler's children are the last to get new shoes!

Although I am a person who makes a living out of working with computers, I still find plenty of ways to use them to relax or to perform my personal activities with them. I am not talking about computer games -- I am actually pretty bad at them (my hand-to-eye coordination, as I approach 50, is not what it once was). However, I find that I can produce letters, budgets, resumes, artwork, greeting cards, banners and other useful output with my desktop and laptop computers.

I hope that these thoughts have provoked some thought and have lead you to the realization that computers are not going to go away, and that every one of us needs to be somewhat aware of them. Please let me know if you have any further questions along this line.

The second-most frequently-asked question that I get is, "what kind of computer should I buy?" I will begin with it next time.

View From My Window

The Profit Motive Is Not Enough

I have spent most of my life believing in the idea of enlightened self-interest. In capsule form, the idea is that if someone is shown a way of doing the right thing in a way which is profitable he will choose to do the right thing rather than the wrong thing which is either unprofitable or less profitable. Nineteen days in England have suggested to me that it ain't necessarily so."

We heard a lot of discussion about the royal family, for example. The divorce between Prince Charles and Princess Diana was a fresh topic of conversation which led to more general expressions of the rights and wrongs of the monarchy.

When I expressed to one friend an opinion that I had not heard (namely that the monarchy is a multi-billion dollar tourist attraction and therefore if one has to have a head of state who does nothing-- the case in most countries to which the United States is the exception-- then the head of state might as well draw millions of visitors every year who boost the national economy), he called me cynical. And I began to think to myself: the profit motive is not enough.

One of the enduring results of Margaret Thatcher's years of leading the country as Prime Minister is the privatization of many government-owned companies. The telephone company is one of them. In order to signal to the nation that the phones were now in new hands, the telephone company let a contract for the redesign of the telephone booth.

The traditional British telephone booth is a classic, made of four metal grids with a distinctive top, painted red. For more than a century it has been part of the British landscape. So distinctive and remarkable is this phone booth that it too has been something of a tourist attraction. While we were in London we watched an American couple have their picture taken beside one in much the same way that we saw people have their photos taken beside a Beefeater at the Tower of London or a kilted bagpiper in Scotland.

No tourist will ever have his picture taken beside the new phone booth. Millions of dollars were spent on a new phone booth, and in the meantime the golden goose is being slowly slain as a Victorian classic is replaced with the gray ugliness of modernity.

Then I went to buy a new pair of shoes from a small shop that has been selling extremely well-made and rather expensive shoes for more than a century. Two brothers run the shop who advised me that in 10 years time I should consider buying enough pairs of shoes from them to last the rest of my life because they plan to retire about then and that there is no one on the horizon to take over the business. Oh, someone will buy the business all right, but not take it over. The kind of shoemaking the brothers do will die.

In the course of conversation one brother let drop that he had tried out a Jaguar the previous weekend. I could only infer that their enterprise was more than moderately profitable and that the profit motive is not enough to ensure its future viability.

In the past I had always thought the kind of person who climbs over the wall without checking to see if the door was unlocked to be an aberration, This trip to England made me realize that original sin is much more pervasive than I had previously thought. Human beings will commit stupidity and ugliness not only because it feels good or because it is to their advantage, but also just because they prefer stupidity and ugliness to anything better and for no other reason.

This was a bitter lesson, but many things became clear for having learned it. And I despair just a little that many things I love that are fine, lovely, and good are now passing forever out of reach for no reason other than that the world does not want them anymore.

Social Security

SOCIAL SECURITY ASKING WORKERS TO UPDATE EARNINGS ESTIMATES

by Thomas W. Armbruster
Social Security Manager, Cumberland

Are you in this picture? You own and operate a business. You're at retirement age and the golf course looks more inviting every day. You don't want to sell the business. Perhaps you could put it in a family member's name. You would continue working, but not work as much. That way you could spend more time on the course and collect Social Security benefits at the same time.

Before you consider such a plan, you should talk with your local Social Security office. We'll need to know whether you'll be completely retired or whether you plan to have some involvement in the business. To get all of your Social Security benefits, you must retire, or at least reduce the extent of your involvement in the business to match any reduction in your reported earnings.

When you work for wages, it's easy to determine whether you're retired. Your earnings tell the whole story. But when you work in a business that you or your family owns, or you're an officer in a corporation, it's not that simple. Because you could be in a position to control the amount of earnings reported in your name, you may need to furnish us with additional information -- such as tax returns or corporate records -- when you file your application, or when you file your tax return (if later). This will help us decide whether you have reduced your services in the business to match the reduction in your income. You cannot simply pay yourself a smaller salary to stay under Social Security's earnings limits. Your earnings must match the work you do.

When you continue to receive compensation, we consider the work you performed and the amount you earned while working and compare it with your work and earnings after "retirement." We determine the reasonable value of the services you perform for the business, based on the time spent and the nature of the services, and compare it to the income you receive. If the value of your services exceeds your income, we determine a dollar amount for those services and count it against Social Security's annual earnings limits.

The annual earnings limit is the amount you can earn at a certain age before your benefits are reduced. Here's how the reduction is figured: If you're under age 65, your 1996 benefits are reduced by $1 for every $2 you earn over $8,280. If you're age 65-69, your benefits are reduced $1 for every $3 you earn over $12,500. There's no earnings limit after you reach age 70.

Social Security isn't trying to tell you when to retire or how to run your business. We're merely encouraging you to check with us before filing for retirement benefits to make sure you are aware of the documentation you'll need for the interview. We also want to remind you that you have to "retire" to collect "retirement" benefits -- or at least significantly reduce your involvement in the business and keep your earnings within the income limit. That will permit us to pay some or all of your Social Security benefits.

When you decide to retire, call our toll-free number, 1-800-772-1213, to make an appointment to talk with a Social Security representative. Our lines are busiest early in the week and early in the month, so if your business can wait, it's best to call at other times.

Under Scrutiny

setback in that Garrett was ahead of the other counties in program development. The combining of the counties also meant that three boards of education as well as the leaders of Frostburg State University and Hagerstown Junior, Garrett Community, Allegany Community colleges had to agree on the components and implementations of the program. The group had approximately two months to compile a program design, which was done this summer.

The final grant application is due by September 3, Vent explained to the board Tuesday. A copy of the grant application was given to each board member before the meeting. Patrick Riley, board member, initiated a discussion about the document, expressing his concern that the grouping of the three counties and the work done by the officials has created a program that will leave the local board "out of the loop" in its implementation. Board President Charlotte Sebold concurred with that idea, noting in a later interview that the regional and county labor management teams to be formed, as directed by the new program guidelines, do not include the local education board.

Riley also stated that he is not comfortable with using federal money to implement the program, and feels that the new program is another example of the federal government "trying to move in on removing the local control we have over our own school-to-work program and our curricular programs." Riley has suggested that the local board reject the plan to join the other counties and continue with the current School-To-Work that Vent has developed in the past three years.

In response to that idea, Coviello said in an interview this morning that while the local program is good, it is not currently reaching every student in need of the worksite experience.

"We haven't completed the project because we have no funding for it. In the best interest of our students, I think we should forge ahead. There are many students out there for whom the worksite experience is essential. If we continue with what we have, I can foresee that we will not be able to handle a large group of students who would benefit from the work," Coviello said.

Sebold said in an interview that her concern lies with the program developed by the three counties and four higher education facilities.

"I am just not happy with the fact that it seems so different to me that what I originally thought it was. I do want to give it another chance. I want people to come to me and tell me how we can mold it to our county - if we can mold it to our county - and how we can make it a positive. I just cannot see junking the whole thing," she said.

Board member Hannah Sincell supported the grant application.

"We have to do the tech prep program - that's a state mandate," she said. "This is a way we can get the money to keep it going. Definitely we should continue - definitely we should enter the competition to get this money." Sincell said she felt the program was good for students entering the work field, and that it should not be stopped because of concerns over federal input.

"We have the 10-15 percent of students at the top who will always do well; we have the low group who will always need help. But, we have this huge middle group that used to go into factories. Well, that job market is not there nowadays. So the whole idea was to teach our children how to think and how to solve problems in a real situation because there are no more assembly line jobs. That's what I think has started this whole program. And I think it is important to continue," Sincell said.

Vent was not available for comment on the issue, but will be present next week as the school board meets in special session to decide whether or not to support the grant application involvement of the local system. A day and time were not determined by press time today.

Already, it has been a year
We think about you each
And every day in every possible way
We "Luf" you very much
And miss you dearly

Mommie, Dado, Sissy and Brother and Your Whole Family Too. . .

Precious Theresa,
If only I could hold you one more time.
If only once more on my lap you would climb.
I'd feel warmth of life now gone,
And the weight of your tiny body close to mine.
I'd look into the depths of your big brown eyes
To your very soul.
And in those depths, our souls would join,
And if I could choose, that moment would Become eternity.
With my hands and eyes,
I would trace the soft curves of your cherub face.
And smell the sweetness of your silk blond hair.
I would feel the breath of life
As it moved through you once more,
And I would lose myself in the Miracle that you were.

Love,
Grandma & Grandad, Aunts & Uncles

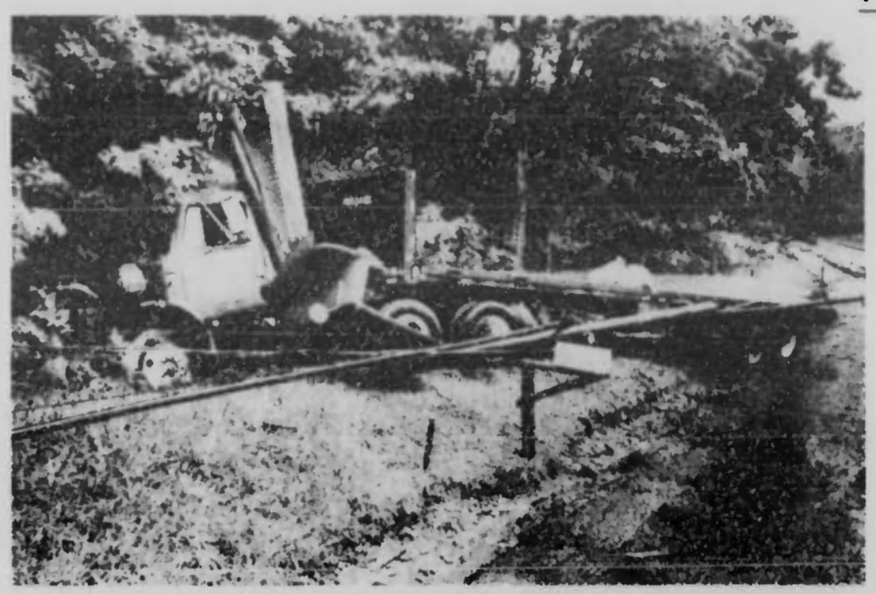
received were above the county's projected costs for the paving job.

Contractors will re-submit new bids by Tuesday, and a contract for the project may be awarded by Thursday.

The county has also taken steps to cut the cost of the project, such as reducing the proposed width of the new roadway from 24 feet to 21 feet.

"We've cut about everything that we can" Thorne told the commissioners this week.

Thorne also stated that Mettiki will assist with the paving project.



ONLY MINOR INJURIES WERE REPORTED in this two-vehicle accident that occurred Monday afternoon on Rt. 219, near the intersection with King's Run Road. Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, said the above 1994 International tractor with an empty flatbed trailer, driven by Paul D. Puskar, 43, Monroeville, Pa., was traveling north on Rt. 219 when it approached a 1991 Pontiac Grand Prix (shown below) that was driven by Albert L. Streets, 38, Grantsville, who was attempting to make a left turn onto the Mt. Nebo Road. Puskar reportedly saw the Streets vehicle and attempted to slow his rig down, but because of the rainy conditions and wet roadway, skidded into the rear of the Pontiac. Both Streets and his passenger, Cheryl A. Streets, 36, were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital where they were treated and released. Puskar was apparently uninjured in the 12:20 p.m. accident. The police report indicated that a utility pole, owned by C&P Telephone Co., snapped during the accident, causing the lines to fall onto the westbound lane of Rt. 219. Southern Garrett Rescue Squad and members of the Oakland Volunteer Fire Department also responded to the scene.

DNR Offers More Black Bear Tips

Western Maryland's black bears, and how humans may better co-exist with them is the subject of a press release issued yesterday by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

The DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division estimates that approximately 300 black bears live in Maryland, primarily in western Allegany and Garrett counties. Maryland's black bear range is part of a much larger Southern Appalachian Mountain region, encompassing parts of both West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

"Black bears prefer expansive forested habitats and populations throughout the tri-state area have been on the increase in recent years, and DNR spokesperson said. "Although numerous, black bears are shy and secretive by nature and are rarely seen by humans."

During the spring and early summer months, black bears do, however, become more active. This increase in activity occurs when young bears (about 1½ years old) are chased away by their mothers to find a home of their own. Also during June and July, black bears are breeding and older males will wander long distances in search of a mate.

"DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division warns that people who come upon black bears should treat them with respect and leave them alone. Bears usually pose no threat to humans unless they are harassed, pursued, cornered, or have cubs with them." the spokesperson said.

"Bears should not be approached for any reason. It puts both you and the bear in danger. In Maryland, it is illegal to harass, pursue, or destroy a black bear. If left alone, the wandering bear will find its way back to more suitable habitat, usually within a day or two," the spokesperson added.

"Avoid approaching bears which appear to be tame. Do not approach bears with cubs or cubs that appear to be alone. Female bears may move off a short distance from their cubs but can return rapidly and aggressively if the cubs are threatened," the spokesperson said.

"Bears have an excellent sense of smell and it is not uncommon for bears to raid garbage cans, corn cribs, or ransack outbuildings in search of food, especially when natural foods are scarce," the spokesperson said. "At no time should you leave food out for bears since this may cause them to lose their natural fear of humans. Maryland law strictly prohibits the baiting or feeding of bears. A bear which associates food with humans is more likely to hang around waiting for more handouts and may lose its ability to survive in the wild. Encounters with black bears are less likely to occur in situations where bears have learned to fear people."

The press release offers the following tips to help prevent problems that may occur if a bear is spotted in the vicinity of one's home:

•Remove all possible food sources from the yard and porch, including trash, barbecue grills, pet food, and birdfeeders.

•Feed pets only as much as they can eat at one time and bring the remainder inside.

•Bring in bird and other wildlife feeders until the bear moves on.

•Do not store bird food, corn, or trash on screened porches.

•If garbage must be placed outside, sprinkle ammonia on the bags and in the can before securing the lid. The ammonia vapors will build up and help deter the bear, should it try to get into the can.

"It is important to remember that bears are very opportunistic feeders and they have very good memories when it comes to finding food," the spokesperson explained. If a bear has had a meal of garbage, pet food, or bird seed, it will more likely return to feed again. It is, therefore, very important to stop the problem before it starts. A bear that associates food with people will eventually loss its natural fear of humans. This, in turn, may lead to the bear needing to be relocated or destroyed.

"Seeing a black bear is proof that we still have forests extensive enough to provide habitat for this wide-ranging animal. Encounters with bears are remembered and retold for years to come," the spokesperson concluded.

To ask questions or to receive additional information about black bears in Maryland, persons may call their local DNR Wildlife and Heritage Division office: Garrett County - 334-4255; Allegany County, 777-2136; Washington County - 842-2702.

stock Association. In March, she was one of Maryland's representatives to the National 4-H Conference, and while attending visited with her Congressman to discuss agricultural issues. She serves as secretary of the Country Kids 4-H Club, is the drum major of Southern Garrett's Marching Band, and attends the Deer Park United Methodist Church where she is the pianist for Sunday services.

Jennifer plans to continue her education and pursue a career in veterinary medicine.

Also competing in the contest was Melissa Paugh, the 17-year-old daughter of Joyce Paugh and the late Frank Paugh of Accident.

She carries 4-H projects such as beef and veal. Her outside activities include feeding her animals and buying the feed. Inside she helps with the laundry, cleaning, and cooking.

Melissa will be a senior at Northern High School this fall, where she maintains a B average. She is a member of the Cove Kids 4-H Club, helps with Northern FoodShare, and the Brown Bag Program.

Her future plans are to finish high school and attend Garrett Community College and Frostburg State University. Her dream is to marry and live on a small farm.

The judges for the Garrett County contest were Valerie (Loughrie) Frazee, of Friendsville, who was the 1976 Garrett County Farm Queen and the first runner-up at the state contest that year; Sue (Hershberger) Crossland, of LaVale, the 1958 Garrett County Farm Queen and the Maryland Farm Queen that year (the only other Garrett County girl to be chosen state Farm Queen until 1995's Farm Queen Lori Evans); and Bill Slagle, of Hazelton, W.Va., a farmer and instructor at Preston High School.

This year the Farm Queen contestants were given a special honor. They were introduced to Garrett County's first Farm Queen, Hazel Klotz, who was crowned in 1946. Garrett County has had a Farm Queen since the fair started 40 years ago and for 10 years prior to that.

Garrett County Farm Bureau Public Relations Director Rebecca DeBerry welcomed the large crowd who attended the Farm Queen Contest, and the contestants were introduced by 1994 Garrett County Farm Queen Amy Bowser. Rebecca DeBerry conducted the interviews, and Ms. Broadwater's answer to her "fish bowl" question, "Where do you see the future of farming in the year 2020?", helped her to win the contest and the title of 1996 Garrett County Farm Queen.

Gary Fratz, president of the Garrett County Farm Bureau, and Laura Kaminski from the Maryland Farm Bureau presented greetings from the organization. Kaminski, the western counties field representative, also showed a farm-related video while the judges were making the decision.

Lori Evans, the 19[illegible] Maryland and Garre[illegible] County Farm Queen gav[illegible] her farewell address, thanking Farm Bureau and th[illegible] public for making her ye[illegible] so special.

Oakland Topped By Hagerstown In Semi-Pro Regional Final

A rather sudden change in scheduling thrust the Oakland Oaks of the Pen Mar Baseball League into the West Region title game of the Maryland Semi-Pro Baseball League three days early, and the Oaks were defeated by the Hagerstown Braves of the Blue Ridge League, 8-5, on Sunday afternoon in Funkstown. Hagerstown now advances to the final four of the state tournament, to be held Saturday in Tawneytown.

The game was originally scheduled for next Wednesday and the earlier time created huge problems for the Oaks, as several key players were unable to participate. With the exception of one inning, however, the Oaks played well.

After two and one-half scoreless innings, Hagerstown took a 4-0 lead with four runs in the bottom of the third. A lead-off walk followed by a double by Corey Heinbaugh put runners at first and second. Kevin Crawford then blasted a sinking liner to right, which just got by the diving fielder and two runs scored. Two errors later and the inability to turn a double play resulted in the second two runs of the inning.

Oakland responded with three runs in the top of the fourth, as Jeremy Fitzwater singled and moved to second on a sacrifice bunt by Aaron Taylor. Alan Sebold then reached on an error and Mark Elliott's single loaded the bases. Ryan Folk followed with a run producing single and the Bill Phillips singled home two more runs.

Mike Martin put Hagerstown up 5-3 in the fifth with a solo home run, and made it 7-3 in the sixth on a fielder's choice and an RBI single by Kramer. They scored their final run of the game in the seventh on a sacrifice fly.

The Oaks rallied for one run in each of the eighth and ninth innings on an RBI single by Folk and a solo homer by Fitzwater, respectively. Fitzwater, a former standout for Southern High School and now a member of the Garrett Community College team, finished the game with a home run, two doubles, and a single.

Mark Shives, who pitched into the eighth, earned the win on the mound for Hagerstown, while Ritchie Eichelberger recorded the save. Oakland's Jeff Barclay allowed only three earned runs over five innings in taking the loss.

Hagerstown came off a regular season in the Blue Ridge League that featured 20 more games than the Oaks played in the Pen Mar League, and had just blanked Brunswick, 4-0, to win the Blue Ridge title.

The game concluded the 24th Pen Mar League season for Oakland, the regular season champion. According to manager/player Terry Helbig, this was one of the youngest Oakland teams ever, with an average player age of 20. Thirteen members of the team will be playing collegiate ball this fall.

Turning in excellent performances for the Oaks this season were lead-off hitter and right fielder Josh Woods, who plays for West Virginia Wesleyan; shortstop and pitcher Jeremy Fitzwater, who will be playing for the Lakers; Alan Sebold, who will be catching at Frostburg State University; Mark Elliott, outfielder and pitcher, who will be playing for Davis and Elkins College; and centerfielder Ryan Folk and first baseman Bob Fritz, who will also be at FSU this fall.

Other players who were key to Oakland's success were: third year player John Gordon, who played five different positions this season; Ernie Galinsky, second base, Mike McCrobie, catcher, and Mark Keener, pitcher, all from Masontown, Aaron Taylor, third base, Bill Phillips, first base, and Kent Taylor, pitcher, all from Elkins; Casey Stanton, pitcher, and Dave Kretchman, outfielder, both from Meyersdale; Jake Barclay, pitcher, of Fellowsville; and Cameron Younce, infielder, who attended GCC.

"Our success this year was attributed to good defense, good pitching, timely hitting, and aggressive base running," Helbig said. "We look forward to next year and the proposed expansion of the league to 14 teams."

The league is hoping to add teams from Elkins, Buckhannon, Petersburg, Bruceton Mills, Keyser, and Meyersdale for 1997.

Weekly winners are awarded an emblem and citation, and plaques are awarded for the season's largest catches of bluegill, brown trout, chain pickerel, crappies, largemouth and smallmouth bass, northern pike, rainbow trout, walleye, and yellow perch. To enter the contest, catches must be taken to Johnny's Bait House, Rt. 219, south of the Deep Creek Lake bridge.

Friday League Has Roll-Off; Smith Winner

August 2 was the final night of competition for the Friday Summer Singles Bowling League. The league bowls a position round and seeds the top three point winners and a fourth seed goes to the highest set handicap for the night.

The top four places at the start of the night were: Tim Chapman, first; Rocky Smith, second; Tom Mattingly, third; and Hugh Schrier, fourth. Butch Spurrier was in fifth place and had an opportunity to make the final cut.

Smith rolled games of 190, 215, and 266 for a total of 674 scratch, 731 handicap to take five points from Chapman who shot 191, 218, and 176 for a total of 585 scratch and a 600 handicap. This secured the top seed for Smith. Schrier rolled 234, 215, and 259 for total of 708 scratch and a 753 handicap to take five points from Mattingly's 184, 202, and 227 for 613 scratch and 643 handicap. This secured the second seed for Schrier. Chapman held onto the third seed. The wild card seed of fourth place went to Kevin Biser for shooting 211, 247, and 286 for a scratch total of 744 and a handicap total of 825.

The first match of the roll off had Biser post a 181 scratch score to win over Chapman. The second match had Biser shoot a five bagger in the middle of the game and hang on to win with 208 scratch and 220 handicap against Schrier's 202 game. The final match had Biser roll a 199 scratch and a 207 handicap, but Smith hit a five bagger late in the game to finish with a 233 scratch game and the league title.

The individual awards for this league were: High Set Handicap, Kevin Biser, 825; High Set Scratch, Tom Mattingly, 760; High Game Handicap, Rocky Smith, 285; High Game Scratch, Tim Chapman, 266; High Average, Tom Mattingly, 218; and Most Improved Bowler, Rocky Smith, +12.97 pins.

David Ritchie, Swanton, finished third overall in the event with a time of 38 minutes, 28 seconds, while Mike Kozier, Oakland, was seventh overall and first in the men's 40-49 age group with a time of 39:50.

Soccer Referee Re-Cert Slated At Bausch, Lomb

The soccer referee re-certification class slated for Saturday, Aug. 24, and sponsored by the Mountaintop Soccer Association will be held in the training rooms at Bausch & Lomb, according to Ned Holloway, coordinator.

Holloway said that the certification class for new referees that was tentatively slated for that weekend has been cancelled since a minimum of 12 applicants was not attained. The re-certification class and test for current referees will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m. on that Saturday. Wayne Ray and Bruce Steele, both certified FIFA instructors, will conduct the class.

Holloway requests that referees planning to attend the class contact him (387-9411) or Jim Hart, MSA referee coordinator, (334-4835) to register and/or obtain more information.

Restaurants Host British Soccer Coaches

Five area restaurants recently "rolled out the red carpet" for the British soccer coaches who were in Oakland conducting the third annual Mountaintop Soccer League youth camp.

Arby's, Cornish Manor, McClive's, Pizza Hut, and Red Run Lodge each provided a meal during the week the coaches were in town.

"The MSA is very appreciative of the hospitality shown by these five restaurants," stated Carole Ann Kemp Lovett, camp coordinator. "The coaches were given the opportunity to enjoy various menus and have a look at different regions of the county at the same time.

"It is this special hospitality, along with well-mannered campers, that make 'Moumaintop' a premier camp in the Major League Soccer program," she concluded.

Over 100 area youth attended the camp, which was held July 29-Aug. 2 on the Southern High fields.

Gregory Named Scholar Athlete At Wesleyan

Adding to its impeccable 11 West Virginia Intercollegiate Athletic Conference (WVIAC) championships during the 1995-96 season, 34 West Virginia Wesleyan College students were named scholar athletes by the conference, more than double the number awarded to any other WVIAC school.

Among those receiving this honor was men's tennis player Sean Gregory, son of Gary and Patricia Gregory, Oakland. He is a graduate of Southern High School.

A scholar athlete nominee in the WVIAC must have junior or senior academic status, must have participated in a varsity sport for the year in which they are selected, and must have maintained at least 3.3 grade point average.

West Virginia Wesleyan College offers more than 40 academic majors in the liberal arts and career-related fields of study, including four bachelor degrees and the master of business administration degree. Affiliated with the United Methodist Church, Wesleyan has an enrollment of approximately 1,650 students.

DNR Announces Canada Goose Hunting Season

Maryland Department of Natural Resources Secretary John R. Griffin has announced Maryland's selections for the September resident Canada goose season.

"The early September season provides recreational opportunity, helps slow growth of the population, and assists landowners in resolving some nuisance problems, Secretary Grilfin said. "Along with other states in the flyway, we are seeking ways to harvest resident Canada geese without affecting the migrant Canada goose population."

With the growth of Maryland's resident Canada goose population, now between 40-50,000, problems associated with the birds have grown as well. Flocks of resident geese have caused signilicant damage to agricultural crops. A special late-winter season for resident Canada geese in the western part of the State is also being considered.

The 1996 resident Canada goose season features a later ending date in the western part of the state. "The season dates are set to avoid migrant Canada geese which start to arrive on Maryland's Eastern shore from their Quebec breeding grounds in late September," said Joshua Sandt, DNR Wildlife and Heritage Director. "Very few migrant Canada geese occur in the western part of the state, so extending the closing date in this area will not affect the migrant population."

The 1996 resident Canada goose season will be held September 3-14 in the following counties: Anne Arundel, Calvert, Caroline, Cecil, Charles, Dorchester, Harford, St. Mary's, Somerset, Talbot, Wicomico, Worcester, and the portions of Prince George's, Howard, and Baltimore counties east of Interstate 95.

The season will run September 3-25 in the following counties: Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Montgomery, Washington, and the portions of Baltimore, Howard, and Prince George's counties west of Interstate 95. The season is closed in Kent and Queen Anne's counties where few resident geese are found. The season selection is contingent on approval by the U.S. Department of Interior.

An additional change, recommended by the Department's Wildlife Advisory Commission, is to raise the daily bag limit to five with a possession limit of 10. Sandt noted that all other states with early resident goose seasons have chosen the liberal bag limit to allow hunters greater opportunity.

Hunting resident Canada geese in early September requires different tactics from traditional fall and winter hunting. Hunters need to scout areas to determine feeding and flight patterns and obtain permission where needed. September is a popular time for other water-related recreation and hunters are reminded to use good judgement to avoid areas where conflicts may occur.

In addition to a valid Maryland hunting license, every hunter must have in his or her possession a Migratory Bird Harvest Information Program (HIP) Permit, federal duck stamp, and State Waterfowl Stamp. Possession of a HIP Permit is required of all hunters that hunt migratory birds, including those who are exempt from possessing an annual hunting license (i.e., landowners and lifetime hunting licensees). No special permits are required to hunt in the September Canada goose season.

The free HIP permit and State Waterfowl Stamp are available at Maryland sport license agents and DNR Regional Service Centers. Hunters may obtain federal duck stamps at U.S. Post Offices and National Wildlife Refuges or order them by calling 1-800-STAMP-24, a toll-free, 24-hour ordering system that accepts Visa and Master Card.

Softball League Results Noted

Results from the past week in the Garrett County Christian Men'a Softball League are as follows:

Cherry Glade defeated Faith, 16-5, 24-23; winning pitcher, B. Maust; home runs by K. Miller (2) and D. Tice.

Glade Mennonite defeated Crellin, 28-3, 34-8; winning pitcher, R. Brenneman; home runs by T. Brenneman (3), R. Brenneman, and C. Cumberworth.

DNR Proposes Hunting Seasons; Meetings Slated

Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Secretary John R. Griffin has announced suggested dates and bag limits for the 1996-97 waterfowl hunting seasons.

"We are looking for public comments on these seasons, and will hold four public meetings to share information and listen to suggestions before making final decisions," Griffin said.

The suggested seasons are selected from within proposed federal frameworks established by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFWS). The federal frameworks include the maximum allowable season length, bag limits and the earliest opening and latest closing dates.

A National Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day has been approved by the USFWS for the 1996-97 season to promote participation by young people. This day does not count against the regular duck season days allowed under the federal frameworks. Only young people 15 years of age and under, accompanied by an adult at least 21 years of age may hunt. The department suggests Nov. 2 for this special hunt.

Excellent habitat conditions and high duck numbers in the prairie pothole region of the United States and Canada continued during 1996. Duck season frameworks allow a 50-day season and five ducks/day. In 1995-96, Maryland selected a 50-day season with four ducks/day based on comments from hunters. DNR is proposing a similar season in 1996-97. Black ducks would be legal during the Youth Waterfowl Hunting Day and from November 25-29 and again during the last split.

"States are required to maintain reductions in the harvest of black ducks despite the longer duck season," said Joshua L. Sandt, director of DNR's Wildlife and Heritage Division. "Restrictions on black ducks early in the season help to conserve locally breeding populations.

Canvasbacks wintering on the Chesapeake Bay have increased in recent years as a result of the improved habitat conditions in their prairie nesting areas. The total North American population of canvasbacks is the highest recorded since surveys of the nesting regions were begun in 1955. DNR's suggested season for 1996-97 would allow canvasback hunting from January 1-18, similar to Maryland's selee-

Sailboat Racing
On Deep Creek Lake

Women's Regatta, Laser Invitational

by Dan Muss

The Women's Regatta was sailed this past weekend in Flying Scots. The Flying Scot A fleet was composed of teams with a woman at the helm and an all female crew; there were six Scots A on the starting line. The Flying Scot B fleet had a woman at the helm with male crews; there were seven Scots B on the starting line. The Women's Regatta ran two races on Saturday and one on Sunday; the Laser Invitation Regatta ran three races on Saturday and two on Sunday.

The weather on Saturday was cool and partly sunny with wind out of the north at 5-10 mph. Sunday was much the same with winds easing quite a bit.

The ranks of the Lasers were swollen by two very good Scot sailors. Harry Carpenter and John Meredith, but neither of them placed in the top three. I guess they need more helm time in that hot little boat.

RESULTS - WOMEN'S REGATTA

Flying Scots A - Allison Felix, Jennifer Meredith, first; Audrey MacMillan, Andi MacMillan, Marilyn Filemyr, second; Stephanie Mahan, Jane Mahan, third; Vicky Wiley, Charlotte Hott, fourth.

Flying Scot B - Rebecca Carpenter, Jack Carpenter, first; Barbara Griffin, Don Griffin, second; Loren Spinnenweber, Bruce Spinnenweber, Rachel Schubert, third; Meredith Dodd, Jeanette Dodd, Al Riebel, fourth.

RESULTS - LASER INVITATIONAL

Lasers A - Kevin Rissell, first; Keith MacMillan, second; Tom Johnson, third.

Laser B - Jessica Potts, first; Meredith Jacob, second.

The season for migrant Canada geese will remain closed in 1996-97. The number of breeding pairs in northern Quebec improved from 29,000 in 1995 to 46,000 in 1996 and Sandt noted that the improvement in breeding pairs is very likely a result of the season closure in 1995-96. However, gosling production will be poor because of a very late spring thaw.

Resident Canada geese continue to increase in Maryland and through the Atlantic Flyway. Special seasons held when migrant birds are not present provide recreational opportunity, help slow growth of the population, and assist landowners in resolving some nuisance problems. In 1996, the September season dates will be extended to September 25 in the western part of the state where very few migrant geese are found.

A special late season for resident Canada geese is proposed for the western part of the state from January 15 to February 15 in the following counties: Allegany, Carroll, Frederick, Garrett, Washington, and Montgomery county south of I-270. Band recoveries and neekcollar observations indicate this part of the state has very few migrant birds. However, the resident Canada goose population in the area is large and growing with numerous nuisance and damage complaints.

Snow geese continue to increase and expand their range in Maryland and the Atlantic Flyway. The tremendous increase in snow goose numbers has led to overgrazing and damage to their arctic nesting areas. Several liberalizations to snow goose hunting season have occurred in recent years to help stabilize their numbers. In 1996-97, the bag limit for snow geese has been increased to eight geese/day.

DNR has scheduled four public meetings to provide an opportunity to comment on the suggested waterfowl seasons. The meeting for Western Maryland is set for next Monday, August 19, at Governor Thomas Johnson Middle School, 1501 North Market St., Frederick, from 7 to 9 p.m.

Comments received at the public meetings will be reviewed by DNR prior to finalizing selections. Written comments should be sent to Josh Sandt, Director, Wildlife and Heritage Division. Department of Natural Resources, Annapolis, MD 21401, and must be received by 4 p.m. on August 28.

Room from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. each Thursday evening. There is no charge for these classes.

Classes will be offered in listening skills, universal precautions, family dynamics, the impact of children and loss, bereavement, bedside care, a visit to a funeral home, and others.

Our volunteer caregivers give many hours of care to terminally ill patients and their families. They are good listeners, and do what they can to make a difficult time easier for families.

I hope many of you reading this will consider becoming Hospice volunteer caregivers. Perhaps you have always thought you would like to volunteer for something. Here is your opportunity. Come and see what it's all about. It has been a very rewarding part of my life. And, when I think of Hospice, I think of many very special people in Garrett County.

Call us at 334-5151 for more information or to register for the classes.

God bless you all!

WOMEN'S FASHIONS
Doing the Decades

For fall 1996, fashion turns a fond eye toward decades past, adding modern touches that make old ideas look new. Beaded evening dresses from the '20s, suits with shaped jackets and long skirts from the '30s, fitted '40s suits, and nylon lace dresses from the '50s, are members of decade parade.

Textured textiles, including velvet, mohair, lace, corduroy, boucle, and chenille, join forces with techno textiles that feature holograms, plastic coatings and sprayed finishes. Colors are beautiful, subtle: charcoal, mahogany, black, brown, lavender, spice, henna, coffee, plum, and burgundy head the palette with sparks of silver, gold, brass, and copper adding a jolt of fashion electricity.

The overall trend is toward the long, the lean, and the linear. The maxi coat is back, in narrow shapes and luxury fabrics, such as cashmere, velvet, leather, and suede. Pantsuits stay on the straight and narrow with long, slim jackets mated to slender bootleg pants. Seaworthy peacoats, resurrected from the '60s, make a perfect match, as do wrapped blazers, elongated cutaways, and military-minded jackets.

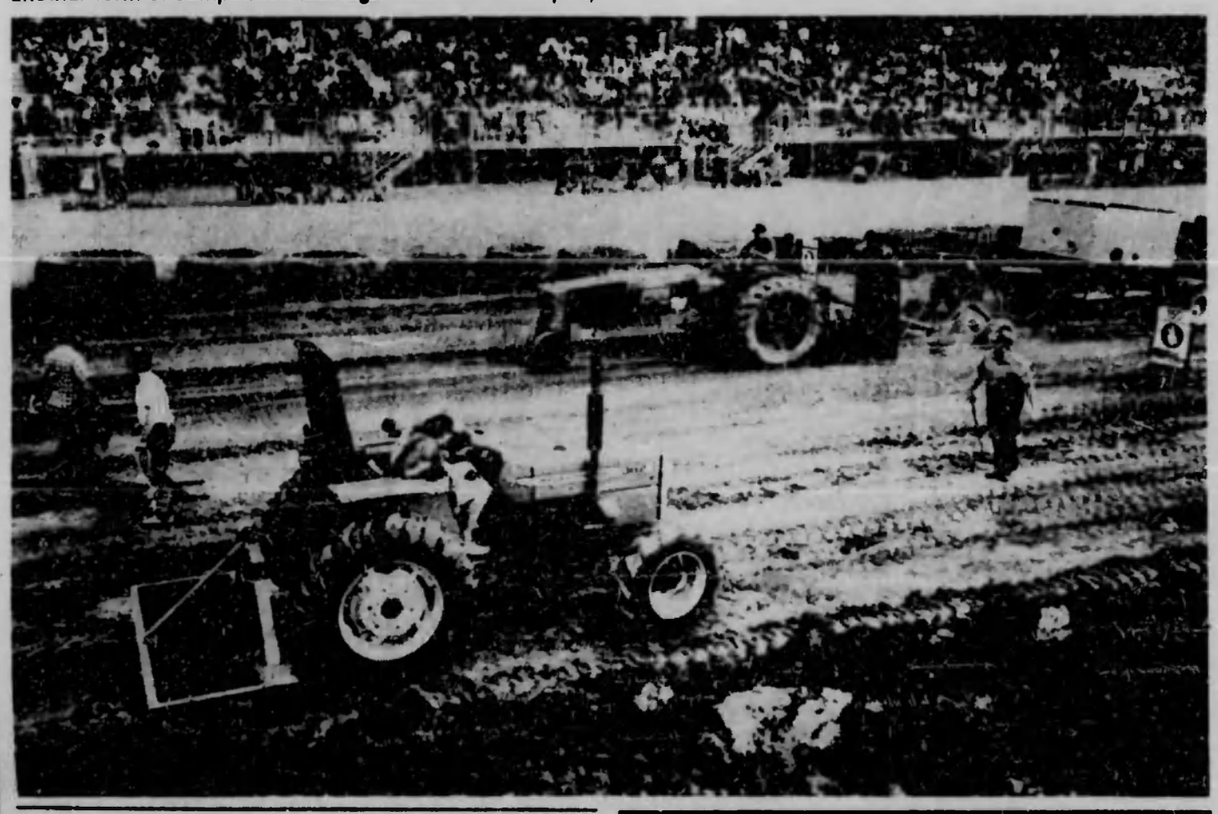
Jumpsuits leap out in stretch jersey, stretch velvet, and stretch wool double crepe. Knitted bodices paired with woven bottoms create a fashionable juxtaposition.

Turtlenecks are poking out their heads, in plain or patterned knits, as tops or slim-line dresses. Shetland sweaters, knitted camisoles, fine-gauge pullovers, flamestitch knits, and pearl-encrusted cardigans harkening from the '50s are all part of the knit parade.

This fall's layered look has a new twist: dresses over skirts, twin dresses, double skirts, pants overlayed with sheer skirts.

For evening wear, velvet is in the spotlight. It's shaved, tie-dyed, embossed, flocked, panned, beaded, cut, and crushed. It shows up in jackets, pants, dresses, coats, and even ascots. It makes daytime appearances, too, adding lush, plush texture to sportswear separates. Stretch knit versions add comfort and luxury to slim pants, clingy dresses, tunics, and skirts.

RIBBONS, RIBBONS, and more ribbons have been awarded at this week's 40th annual Garrett County Agriculture Fair at McHenry for everything from canned foods to artwork to homemade clothing to photography. Meanwhile, another form of competition last night was the tractor pull, held before a large crowd at the fairgrounds track. The fair will continue through Saturday evening and admission price, which covers all carnival riding and entertainment, is $6 per person.



Two Escape

Virgil R. DeWitt, 48, Terra Alta, who was traveling east in a 1994 Ford Ranger, were both injured when their trucks collided at 10:05 p.m. just south of Hopemont. The wreck reportedly closed the road for aproximately an hour.

Lefkowitz was thrown from his truck, according to the report, just before the vehicle burst into flames. He was initially transported to Preston Memorial Hospital in Kingwood, W.Va., and later transferred to by helicopter to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown. He was reportedly released from that facility after a brief stay.

DeWitt was trapped in the wreckage from his vehicle until rescue workers were able to free him and transport him to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was admitted and kept overnight for observation. He has since been released.

tude of not being over-rehearsed and over-disciplined enables musicians to have the motivation and energy to do these things in concert."

Friedman's philosophy of music is really quite simple. "Music is not a science. The only way to be a good musician is to be a very poor student. There is no way to learn to be an artist; one learns to become an artist by having the judgment, taste, and musicianship that blends in terms of intelligence. The only responsibility of a teacher or conductor is to teach musicians to play well in public as well as in front of their peers. Too many teachers teach students only what they themselves do - the real definition of genius is to always agree with one's self," stated Friedman.

"I used to get into a lot of trouble when I was a student, and involved in chamber group situations where somebody would say, 'let's work on intonation.' My attitude still is, why don't we just play in tune? The ability to play in tune is probably one of the most requisite in terms of any music making. The letters in the book have to be clear - otherwise you're not going to be able to read the novel. I remember asking Heifetz as a teenager how he'd describe a great musician, his eyes twinkled at me and he said, 'someone who can play half-steps.' The simplest things will produce the greatest performances," said Friedman.

"Every instrument has its own mystery. The violin is the simplest - in concept, construction, and definition. But it is made so complicated that usually people have

A "Prescription-Only" Insulin for Diabetes

A new type of insulin, which will be available on a prescription-only basis, has been approved by the U.S. Food and Drug Administration (FDA). It will be called insulin lispro. This new insulin, which should be available this summer, is prepared by combining two different amino acid chains that occur with natural insulin. These amino acids are lysine and proline, hence the name insulin "lispro".

According to a report from Facts and Comparisons, lispro insulin more closely mimics the body's normal release of insulin. Lispro insulin has a rapid onset of action. This means that it can be injected just before eating, instead of at least 30 minutes before meals as with regular insulin. Another reported advantage is its short duration of effect. This insulin tends to cause a lower incidence of low blood sugar. However, the short term effect may need to be supplemented with longer-acting insulins to maintain long-term control of blood sugar levels.

The FDA is requiring a prescription for lispro insulin because it wants to gather more information about the drug before it is approved for over-the-counter use. Lispro insulin can be mixed with some commercial human insulins, but mixtures should be injected within 15 minutes.

Household Help
by John Amantea

Redecorating your home — whether it's a single room or the entire house — is an exciting opportunity to create a new look and ambiance that expresses your taste, personality and lifestyle. And today, more and more homeowners are turning to the elegance and versatility of ceramic tile to enhance any room with classic, individual style.

Perhaps the most common use of ceramic tile is for flooring. However, tile is increasingly finding its way onto walls, countertops, fireplaces, and even furniture, as a decorative accent. That is because the broad range of sizes and shapes, including border and accent tiles, allow for virtually unlimited creativity in their application.

For homeowners who have decided to incorporate ceramic tile into a particular decor, there are a number of aspects to consider when choosing the actual tile. These include the finish, color, pattern, size and shape.

Regarding the finish and texture of the tiles, today's selections range from the high gloss of a smooth glaze, to the metallic sheen of a lustre glaze, to matte surfaces, which can be rough or smooth. The texture you choose should relate to how and where the tile is to be installed. For instance, a rough, unglazed surface might be perfect for an entryway where people tramp in wet shoes or boots, but not for a spot where children play or tend to walk barefoot.

Colors also run the gamut. When selecting a color, decide whether you want it to blend or contrast with the room's other colors.

In addition to color, there is a huge choice of patterns. You can make your selection from tiles that recreate the look of natural stone, that echo the intricate mosaics of ancient European villas, that convey the elegance of rare marble, that capture the charm of delicate florals — or dozens of other designs. Or you can create your own pattern simply by using tiles of different colors, sizes or shapes, for an eye pleasing design and unique look.

Dollars & Sense

Bankers are stepping up their campaign against the nation's credit unions.

Major bank trade associations recently formed a strike force to find ways to block consumer access to credit unions and make it more difficult for them to compete.

They have already over the past several years launched lawsuits in 10 states to restrict access by consumers to credit union membership. Bankers are also stepping up lobbying efforts to persuade lawmakers to repeal credit unions' federal income tax exemption.

The Credit Union National Association and its member state leagues have been fighting the lawsuits in court and are gearing up to respond to the latest anti-consumer threat.

Credit unions are nonprofit financial service cooperatives owned and governed by their consumer members. Some 12,200 credit unions serve 70 million members.

Their nonprofit status helps credit unions generally offer better rates and charge lower fees than for-profit institutions. For example, credit unions have been recently charging an average of 13 percent on credit card balances as opposed to more than 18 percent for banks.

"The banks are just getting greedy," said Pete Crear, acting president of CUNA, which represents 90 percent of the nation's credit unions.

Crear pointed out that bank assets grew by more than $300 billion last year. "That one year's growth was nearly equal to the entire assets of the credit union movement.

"Banks made record profits last year, and most banks saw net income soar again in the first quarter of 1996," he said. "But in spite of that, they seem to begrudge consumers any opportunity to escape from high fees and take-a-number service.

"We'll fight them all the way. We have the support of our 70 million members," said Crear.

Q. I have a toy horse-drawn Coca-Cola wagon that I just found at a flea market. It is a red cart with red-and-yellow coke cases filled with bottles. There is a red and white umbrella over the driver. The horses are brown. The toy is in mint condition.

A. You probably have a reproduction toy made during the past 10 years. The pristine paint suggests that the toy is not very old.

Old Coke trucks were made in the 1930s and after.

Q. I found some business-card-sized cards that commemorate Abraham Lincoln's birthday. The earliest one is dated 1874. They're made by Cosack & Co., Buffalo, N.Y. Do you know anything about Lincoln birthday cards?

A. The custom of sending cards to commemorate the day started as early as 1905. Several series of postcards were issued to mark the centennial of Lincoln's birth, Feb. 12, 1909.

Your Buffalo "business" cards were distributed to school children by druggist Julius Francis. Francis was a founder of the Lincoln Birthday Association, which petitioned Congress in 1874 to make the day a national holiday.

Q. I have a bottle of Dr. Ward's Celebrated Liniment that's half-full of red liquid. The label says it was manufactured by Ward-York Products, Madrid, Iowa. It is dated 1856. Value?

A. In the mid 19th century, there were many patent "medicines" like Dr. Ward's Celebrated Liniment. Others included Pa-Ja-La Famous Liniment, Hy-John Famous Liniment and Snake Oil Liniment.

They were used externally and reportedly cured toothaches, head and chest colds, corns, bunions, rheumatism, sore throats or whatever ailed you. Some also "cured" your horse.

Bottles of liniment from that era sell for between $15 and $50.

Home Tips

HEAD START — My 21-year-old son recently left home and moved 2,800 miles away. He left in his pickup with all the belongings he thought he could handle.

I was at a loss as to what to give him for a going-away gift. I wanted something that would be useful that he would remember. Well, I thought of it. I made him an apartment start-up kit. In it was everything from bathroom tissue to adhesive bandages to a can opener, the little things you can't do without when you start on your own. I even threw in a box of cookies.

The entire contents cost around $50. Instructions were not to open it until he moved in. It was the best gift ever and I have been thanked half a dozen times already. Jill V., Jamestown, N.D.

YES, WE HAVE NO BANANAS — I have discovered a method of storing bananas in the fridge for a week or longer, depending upon ripeness at the time of purchase.

Buy bananas not too ripe, put them in a doubled paper bag and fold over the top and wrap the bag around the bananas. Then, put in a plastic grocery bag that fruit comes in and wrap around the bananas and close with a rubber band. Make sure all the air is out. Put in the refrigerator.

Take out bananas a day or so before you'll eat them to give them time to ripen. Frieda L., Carmel, Ind.

MAP IT OUT — I changed my coupon system at the beginning of the year and am seeing greater savings and better use of my coupons.

Previously, I had organized them by product groups — dairy, baking, cleaning, etc. It required a lot of searching. Now my coupons are filed by the month they expire, one month early. Those expiring May 28, for example, are filed in April. Those with no expiration are filed in a separate category.

After making my grocery list of essentials, I look at the coupons that are soon to expire and pull out any for items already on my list and those extras I know from experience I'll be wanting on hand.

Combined with store specials, I find I'm saving more than ever on my grocery bill. Lisa P., Cartwright, Okla.

trouble with themselves," he said. "That's the same problem with conducting. You can lead an orchestra, but you can't get it to play in tune. If you criticize them, you can bring it to their attention, but it can't be fixed unless the musicians themselves have the motivation and the training to make it right.

"Musicians need to be able to play in a relaxed way without getting stymied by the previous note, and that simple concept is what makes a great orchestra," said Friedman. "I remember some years ago I played in an orchestra where the conductor took 20 minutes to tune before we even played a note. A timpanist auditioned for him, and when asked to play a 'D' took out a tuning fork and was sent home. Intonation and playing in time and together are the most important aspects. Everything else is just icing on the cake."

The violinist will conduct and perform the Respighi Sonata on Friday evening with returning pianist Heawon Stuckenbruck as the Symphony at Deep Creek season opens at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium. Friedman will solo again on Saturday evening with Sonata for Violin and Piano, Opus 105, No.1.

The series will include four different concerts at GCC on Aug. 16, 17, 23, and 24, each beginning at 8 p.m. GLAF is providing a special classical music series ticket offer: guests may purchase a series ticket for all four concerts for $25. A student pass for the entire series is $11. Individual concert tickets are $12 for adults and $5 for students.

The Symphony at Deep Creek is being sponsored by Sincell Publishing Company, Inc., and Friends of the Symphony.

MANY HOSPITALS LET MOM STAY WITH CHILD

The presence of a parent can often do more to help a child recuperate than anything else. Realizing this, a great many hospitals have radically changed their visiting hours and overnight policies for the parents of a hospitalized child. Knowing the temperament and emotional reactions of your children you should inquire about this before planning any admission to the hospital.

We hope it never becomes necessary, but if you do have to plan an overnight stay with one of your children, we can make you up a small kit of night-time essentials to help you be more comfortable.

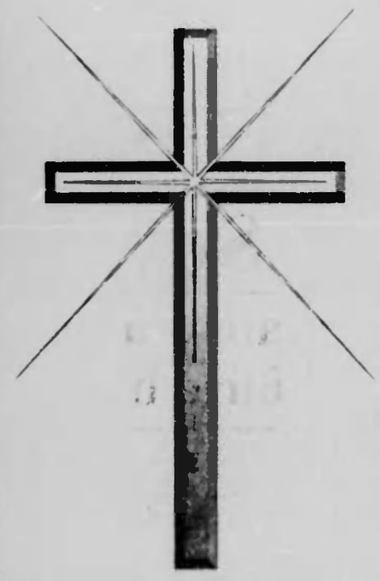
To Reach Love..



Love...like life itself...either exists or it does not. It is constant and unchanging. From day to day, moods and attitudes may change according to circumstances...but not love, if truly it is love.

We do not choose love. Love chooses us. It finds us in the most unlikely places at the most unusual times. Suddenly, that which was considered idealism magically becomes realism.

Upon studying God's Word each Sabbath, we find love elevated to the highest plane when in 1 John 4:08, we are told that "God is love". In 1 Corinthians 13a:13, it is said, "So faith, hope, and love abide...but the greatest of these is love."

Where love is involved, no obstacle is insurmountable. It has been stated that "faith can move mountains." Could it be that faith truly does move mountains...thus to reach love?

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

WHATEVER BECAME OF SIN?

August 18, 1996

Background Scripture:
Psalms 51
Devotional Reading:
Ezekiel 18:25-32

Twenty-three years ago, Karl Menninger, M.D., co-founder of the famous Menninger psychiatric center in Topeka Kansas, wrote a book entitled, "Whatever Became of Sin?" (Hawthorn Books, NY).

The book shocked a lot of people because the concept had seemed to become obsolete, even with many Christians. Struggling against an overemphasis upon the sinfulness of human nature, many people went to the other extreme of denying the concept of sin itself. According to the prevailing mood of many, people did not so much sin as make mistakes. Instead of being sinful, they were presumed simply misguided. Many people ascribed to the concept of sin serious problems of low self-esteem.

Then along came a respected psychiatrist who said that mental and moral health are identical and concept of sin is essential to both. Granted that some religionists emphasized human sinfulness to the exclusion of everything else, when we deny the reality of sin we deny ourselves the opportunity of true self-esteem.

FACING THE BEAST

The late Samuel Terrien, Professor of Hebrew and Old Testament at Union Theological Seminary in New York, in commenting upon the 51st Psalm, wrote that: "The psalmist knows that a consciousness of sin, far from leading man into pessimism, despondency and despair (as many humanists and psychologist maintain), is on the contrary the prerequisite for the healing of personality and discovery of the power to live aright" (The Psalms And Their Meaning Today, Bobbs-Merrill, 1952).

Essentially, that is what Dr. Karl Menninger was saying, too. Only when we recognize the reality of sin and deal with it forthrightly can we escape the joy that it sucks out of our lives. Classic Christianity is not obsessed with human depravity but the joy of escaping from the guilt which no none needs to teach us. Unless we are mentally or morally impaired, guilt, no matter how well and deeply repressed, poisons us from within. As Seneca has said, "Some have sinned with safety, but none with peace of soul." That is the bad news.

The 51st psalm beautifully demonstrates the need for repentance and forgiveness. The psalmist uses four different words to label what bedevils his conscience: "Sin," "iniquity," "transgressions," and "that which is evil." "Have mercy on me, O god, according to they steadfast love; according to thy abundant mercy, blot out my transgressions, wash me thoroughly from my iniquity, and cleans me from my sin" (51:1,2).

DELIBERATE & TWISTED

A transgression means an act of deliberate rebellion. Iniquity represents a twisted or distorted state of mind and soul. Sin is missing the mark or falling short of the goal. Note that the psalmist meets the problem head on, neither excusing himself or trying to shift the blame, even partially, to others. "Against thee, thee only, have I sinned, and done that which is evil in thy sight" (v. 4a). Nothing keeps guilt persisting within us more than failing to consciously recognize it. Once we see it, we can get rid of it. And that is the good news!

The psalmist uses diverse terms to indicate what he is seeking from the Lord: blot out–erase it from the record, wash me thoroughly–to purify completely, and cleanse me–free me of that which makes me feel unclean.

But the psalmist wants to be free not only of his sins that he has committed, but of the sinful proclivity that gave rise to the sins. He asks not only to be forgiven, but to be made a new person: "Create in me a clean heart, O God, and put a new and right spirit within me" (v. 10). Following forgiveness there must be transformation.

"Restore to me the joy of thy salvation, and uphold me with a willing spirit. Then I will teach transgressors thy ways, and sinners will return to thee" (vs. 12, 13).

COVER STORY

PBS provides programs to pledge by

By Suzanne Gill
©TVData Features Syndicate

David Hyde Pierce

From the "Hallelujah Chorus" to Angels in America and "String of Pearls" to stress management, PBS plays the hits this week, with a schedule meant to lure not only viewers but dollars to public television.

The late-summer pledge week falls between the major political conventions. (Check local listings for all PBS programs.)

Now is not the time for disquieting documentaries, uncensored dramas or in-depth investigative reports. Though these are among the programs of quality and integrity that PBS provides, commercial-free, to all viewers, pledge week has become a festival of the acceptable. Pledge shows are bright and inoffensive, with the broadest possible appeal and plenty of celebrity sightings.

The week's flagship program is The Kennedy Center 25th Anniversary Celebration Sunday, Aug. 18. The three-hour gala boasts a who's who of the classical music and highbrow TV worlds.

There is a rendering of Handel's "Hallelujah Chorus" by the choir of Soulful Messiah and a piano performance for 20 hands, two of which belong to David Hyde Pierce of Frasier.

Laurence Fishburne, Christine Lahti, Tyne Daly and Alan Arkin mount scenes from Angels in America, The Heidi Chronicles and Death of a Salesman.

The American Ballet Theatre dances La Bayadere. Han-Na Chang plays Haydn's Cello Concerto in C. Barbara Walters, James Earl Jones, Wendy Wasserstein and Patrick Swayze put in appearances, and Sen. Edward Kennedy speaks about the center's founding.

Monday, Aug. 19, brings the rather curious Gifford's Lullabies for Little Ones with Kathie Lee Gifford. The syndicated talk show host, women's wear spokeswoman and famously proud mom performs on a set decorated with an enormous teddy bear and giraffe, giant building blocks and antique furniture. Gifford's guests include Shari Lewis and Lamb Chop, Big Bird, the Lennon Sisters and the suddenly ubiquitous Wilkinson.

Also on the schedule Monday is The Doobie Brothers Rockin' Down the Highway with special guest Michael McDonald. In between is a documentary about Denver Zoo babies abandoned by their mother, Klondike & Snow – A Tale of Twin Polar Bears.

Humor Your Stress with Loretta LaRoche on Tuesday, Aug. 20, is paired with Dr. Laura Schlessinger on Character, Courage and Conscience. Later, Billy Crystal hosts Caesar's Writers, a spirited roundtable of comedy writers who worked with Sid Caesar during TV's Golden Age.

Wednesday, Aug. 21, brings Julia Child and Jacques Pepin – More Cooking in Concert. Wednesday's Country Music's Finest Hour: The Best of Austin City Limits gives way on Friday, Aug. 23, to Swing Alive! At the Hollywood Palladium, featuring Bob Hope in a tribute to Les Brown and His Band of Renown.

Comic Jerry Lewis talks frankly about his life and career in "Jerry Lewis: The Last American Clown," a special Biography debuting Sunday, Aug. 18, on A&E Network.

The show follows Lewis' life from his days with Dean Martin to his battle with drugs, and describes how his work with the Muscular Dystrophy Association kept him going.

Lewis also talks about his grandmother, who raised him while his parents were on the vaudeville circuit.

SOAP TALK

Fans want Edmund, Maria back together

By Candace Havens

Keith Hamilton Cobb

Dear Candace: I would like to know when the agony of the Edmund/Maria (John Callahan, Eva LaRue) thing on All My Children is going to end.

It is such a lame story line! Maria, being the savvy medical professional that she is, would never return to work in her present state of mind!

Surely she would be in therapy by now and never would have blamed her husband. And, of course, she will become pregnant as a result of the one-nighter with Dimitri (Michael Nader). It's too predictable for words.

I fervently hope Kelsey (T.C. Warner) will leave AMC soon. She is irritating beyond belief, and the scripts written for her are pathetic.

That little pursed mouth and the victim routine – gag! It seems unlikely she could go from manipulative, conniving you-know-what to the seminaive waif she has been these past few weeks. Madness, I say! Get her out of there.

I have followed AMC for almost 25 years now, and rarely fail to be amused. –Eliza Agawa, Kensington, Calif.

Dear Reader: Fans are in an uproar over the entire situation involving Edmund, Maria and Dimitri.

As for Kelsey, she is a character we are all supposed to hate. Warner has done a terrific job of playing the teen-ager from hell.

What a shame AMC had to bring us down so soon after the wonderful spectacle of Noah and Julia's (Keith Hamilton Cobb, Sydney Penny) wedding. It was such a fun fantasy and then boom, they hit us with a reality punch.

It will be interesting to see how the writers resolve the story line. It had better happen fast, though, or fans will mutiny.

Dear Candace: Could you please tell me the name of the actor who plays Gabe on Another World? I love his character, and I hope he and Lorna (Robin Christopher) are able to get married. They belong together. –A Fan on the Internet.

Dear Reader: The actor's name is John Bolger. Lorna and Gabe will be thrown a few twists and turns, but we can hope true love will survive. Goodness knows they both deserve a little happiness.

Film on fertility clinic scandal airs Wednesday

By Roberta C. Nelson
©TVData Features Syndicate

For the Future: The Irvine Fertility Scandal is the story of how a couple's dream come true became a real-life nightmare.

The fact-based film, premiering Wednesday, Aug. 21, on Lifetime, follows Debbie and John Challender, parents of an adopted and adored little boy, who long to have a biological child also.

Their joy at finally conceiving and bearing a child through the help of a fertility clinic ends in a shattering discovery. Some of their harvested embryos were stolen and implanted in other women.

Unknowingly, the Challenders have become the biological parents of at least three babies – including twins – whom they will likely never see.

The news broke in the Orange County Register following observations of unorthodox practices by the clinic's office manager.

The clinic was shut down when the university accused the head doctors of breach of ethics and contract.

An ensuing investigation revealed that as many as seven children might have been born as the result of at least 30 cases involving stolen eggs or embryos.

Marilu Henner stars as Debbie Challender, a professional nurse in her mid-30s. Randle Mell plays her husband. Linda Lavin plays Marilyn Killane, the office manager, who was later dismissed for poor job performance.

For the Future is followed by the 30-minute documentary Final Take: The Fertility Scandal. The real Debbie and John Challender appear and discuss their devastating experience.

Randle Mell and Marilu Henner star in For the Future: The Irvine Fertility Scandal, a fact-based film premiering Wednesday on Lifetime.

Barry Corbin

Q: What are the chances of a Northern Exposure reunion show? –S.P. in Connecticut.

A: "The chances are almost nil," Barry Corbin (who played Maurice Minnifield on the series) told me recently. "It was almost like CBS wanted to make sure it wouldn't happen."

The actor, who is starring in the new USA Network series version of The Big Easy, says CBS sold off all the show's props and appointments immediately after the cancellation was announced.

He also blames the show's producers for drawing out star Rob Morrow's departure, which kept viewers from bonding with the new characters (Paul Provenza and Teri Polo) and "made people think they were seeing a spinoff that never happened." Supportive TV critics, not CBS – which kept moving Exposure in its last season – helped keep the show running, he says.

Q: A TV movie starred Stockard Channing as an ugly duckling who has plastic surgery and comes back for revenge. What was the name of it? –A.K., Ajax, Ontario, Canada.

A: That was The Girl Most Likely to..., a 1973 black comedy co-written by former talk show host Joan Rivers.

Q: My friend is a great fan of Perfect Strangers. What happened to Mark Linn-Baker, who played Larry? –S. Crowther, Meriden, Conn.

A: As of this writing, Linn-Baker is receiving kudos in the Broadway revival of A Funny Thing Happened on the Way to the Forum.

Q: What's going on with Kindred: The Embraced? I was really into it. –Phyllis W., Tallahassee.

A: It was canceled.

Q: What happened with Profit? This fascinating show disappeared after only a few episodes. –S.L., Honolulu.

A: Fox executive John Matoian says the black comedy, which garnered stronger reviews than any other Fox series since The X-Files, drew such low ratings that it was almost impossible for the network's ad department to sell commercial time. The show had Fox station managers unhappy to boot.

Executive producer Stephen J. Cannell says the premium channel Showtime is talking with him about possibly picking it up.

Q: My father and I are having an argument. On Battlestar Galactica, who played Apollo's best friend, Starbuck? My father says it was Bruce Boxleitner. I know it wasn't. –Margaret Nutt, Nashville, Tenn.

A: Dirk Benedict, who went on to play "Faceman" on The A-Team played Starbuck.

Gov. Glendening's Chief Of Staff Visitor At GCC

Major F. Riddick Jr., chief of staff for Governor Parris N. Glendening, visited Garrett County last week to explore ways the state can assist with economic development and to view Garrett Community College's new advanced telecommunications system. Governor Glendening has appropriated $90,000 in fiscal year 1997 to help seed the project.

At a breakfast in the Bausch & Lomb Art Gallery attended by Delegate George Edwards, County Commissioners John Braskey and Wayne Wilt and other dignitaries, Riddick heard GCC president Dr. Steve Herman explain the capabilities of the new system. He then had a "hands-on" demonstration of the recently installed hub for the GC Net.

Following the session at GCC, Riddick and other members of the governor's staff continued their discussion on economic development with Garrett County Economic Development Director Jim Hinebaugh, who reviewed other economic development projects in the aftermath of the announced Bausch & Lomb closing. Riddick expressed the governor's desire to help Garrett County.

Riddick Jr., chief of staff for Governor Parris Glendening, pictured center, on a recent visit to Garrett Community College hears an explanation of the new telecommunications hub from John Hathaway, vice president for operations of Community Information Services in Chicago. Pleasant View Church To Host Musical Theatre

The Pleasant View Baptist Church will host a musical theatre presentation titled, The Greatest Star of All by New Life Ministries' International Touring Company, a children's ministry that performs for audiences throughout the world. The performance is set for Tuesday, Aug. 20, at 7 p.m.

Written by Greg Gulley and Lenny LeBlanc, The Greatest Star of All is designed to appeal to "children of all ages." A modern-day parable set to an original musical score, the musical takes place in a circus setting, complete with clowns and a ringmaster. The adventure that unfolds weaves a tale of fun and learning as Zack, the animal trainer, welcomes three new animals to his Training Center for Beasts of the Field - a lion, a tiger, and a bear; and the villainous Harley the Hobo attempts to sway Zack's new recruits.

Since 1987, the New Life Ministry teams have traveled throughout North America, Hungary, Germany, Slovakia, former Yugoslavia, Romania, Russia, Latvia, Belarus, and Ukraine. In 1990, the teams became the first Christian touring company to travel and perform in the Soviet Union by government invitation.

The Pleasant View Baptist Church is located two miles south of Oakland on Rt. 219. The public is welcome to attend. For more information, persons may call 334-8515.

Bartlett, Hafer Serving At GOP Nat. Convention

District VI Congressman Roscoe Bartlett and District 1 State Senator John Hafer are currently serving as a delegate and alternate delegate, respectively, at the Republican National Convention in San Diego, Calif.

Bartlett spokesperson Lisa Wright stated this week that the Congressman is attending the convention to represent the views of the constituents who elected him to the delegate post in the March primary. Otherwise, Wright explained, Bartlett would have remained in Maryland to meet with citizens.

Bartlett was elected as a delegate for presidential primary candidate Phil Gramm, a senator from Texas. However, Gramm bowed out of the presidential race and released his delegates to Kansas Senator Bob Dole.

"The congressman is very happy to support Bob Dole," Wright commented, adding that Bartlett had planned to support the GOP's Presidential nominee.

Sen. Hafer is in San Diego serving as an alternate for Convention Delegate John Bambacus, mayor of Frostburg.

Junkins-Griffith Family Reunites

The members of the Junkins-Griffith family recently celebrated their 50th anniversary reunion at the farm of Bobby Dale and Jo Ann Tichnell, Chestnut Grove Road, Swanton. To begin the festivities, the American Flag that belonged to Arthur "Red" Tichnell was raised during the singing of the Star Spangled Banner. Robert Lear, Fairfax, Va., offered prayer.

Ninety-six family members and friends shared dinner and fellowship. The planning committee members were Bobby Dale and Jo Ann Tichnell of Frederick, Edward and Linda Margraff, Accident, and Susan Colaw, Petersburg, W.Va.

Marguerite (Junkins) Petitt, the oldest living Junkins, and her husband John traveled from Sebring, Fla. Gloria Jean (Tichnell) Durning, her husband Joe, and daughter, Megan, traveled the farthest distance, coming from New Orleans. The youngest baby present was Zachery Tichnell, son of Kenneth C. and Bonnie Tichnell, Rawlings. Two special hand crafted 50th anniversary items were auctioned: an oak chime clock with appropriate brass plaque made by Frederick W. Tichnell, Mtn. Lake Park, and a decorative wreath crafted by Linda (Tichnell) Margraff, Accident. Each family was presented with a 50th memento glass cup and a folder of historical information.

The 1946 reunion was organized by Kathleen L. (Junkins) Tichnell and others and was held at the home of Kathleen and Arthur Tichnell on McMullen Highway. At that time, the family honored Maude (Griffith) Junkins and celebrated the return of her sons and grandsons from WWII. Mrs. Junkins had 19 grandsons and two sons who served in WWII; one son, Ted R. Junkins, was killed in action on September 28, 1944. The Junkins-Griffith family has had reunions in different places these past 50 years. The new president of the reunion association is David W. Junkins, Annapolis.

GCC Scholarship Winners Named

WENDY BROADWATER

JIMMY PAMEPINTO

Two 1996 Garrett County high school graduates, one from Northern High School and one from Southern High School, have been awarded scholarships to attend Garrett Community College beginning in the fall semester. Wendy Jo Broadwater, daughter of Ellis and Erma Broadwater, Accident, received the Gladys Nordeck and the Grantsville American Legion Post 214 scholarships, while Jimmy Pamepinto, Swanton, received the McDonald's Endowment scholarship.

At Northern High School, Ms. Broadwater was a member of the band, the Shakespeare Club, and served as FHA treasurer. She is a member of St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Accident and enjoys reading and babysitting. Her ambition is to work in an allied health field. In attending GCC she will be following in the footsteps of four older siblings, all of whom graduated from the college.

Pamepinto played basketball and baseball for the Southern Rams for four years and was selected on the All-WMIL first team for the 1995-96 basketball season at the All-Tournament team for the Snowball Classic. He also played in the 16th annual McDonald's All-Star Basketball Classic at Frostburg State University. He received multiple-year recognition awards from Who's Who Among American High School Students. He also enjoys hunting, fishing, and water skiing. His ambition is to have his own construction business.

Maryland Crews Leave To Fight Western Fires

Two 20-member crews of firefighters left Maryland early Tuesday to assist in efforts to battle wildfires at the Wallowa-Whitman National Forest in eastern Oregon.

Sponsored by the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Forest Service, the crews are expected to take part in firefighting activities in the forest for about 14 days.

The crews are comprised mostly of DNR Forest Service employees and volunteer firefighters, along with three congressional aides trained last week by DNR and four Delaware firefighters.

They were outfitted and loaded onto buses at the Madonna Ranger Station in Northern Harford County about 3 a.m. Tuesday. They were transported to Harrisburg International Airport in Pennsylvania, where they joined eight other fire crews from Pennsylvania, New Jersey, and West Virginia.

They have been assigned to Oregon's Heaven's Gate Fire, which early this week showed extreme burning conditions as it moved through dense fuels. The fire was estimated to be involving about 200 acres of forest land on Monday.

In addition to the two crews, DNR also sent three other Forest Service employees to help with wildlife efforts. DNR sent an ordering manager and field observer to the Nez Perce National Forest, near Elk City, Idaho, and Louise Upole, forest ranger for Garrett County, was sent as a dispatcher to Radnor, Pa., to help in coordinating national dispatching efforts.

Maryland trains and deploys crews for wildfire duties to assist with its own training and preparation for possible wildfires here, which typically involve less than 100 acres and occur usually in spring and fall, often in Western Maryland only.

The three congressional aides were among 12 aides from Washington who volunteered for training, held at the Perry Point Veterans Hospital property in Cecil County last week. During the four-day training, the volunteers learned proper techniques for operating hand tools and hose lines, as well as theory and practical information for battling fires safely and effectively.

Tuesday's deployment marks DNR's continuing efforts to assist other states with wildfires. Last year, DNR sent one crew, and two years ago, DNR sent nine crews to battle western wildfires. Earlier this summer, DNR sent eight people to assist firefighting efforts throughout the U.S. as part of its ongoing partnership with other states battling wildfires.

Through its cooperation with other states and federal efforts, DNR ensures that should a serious wildfire occur in Maryland assistance would be available from other states and federal sources.

Jackie Resh Is OCC Outstanding Member For '96

The Garrett County Community Action Committee, Inc., Beacon Project recently honored Jackie Resh as "Outstanding Member for 1996" in the Operation Child Care Program (OCC).

Resh is a freshman at Northern High School, where she is active in the Honors Band and the Notables Honors Chorus. She is a regular honor roll student and was the treasurer for the Student Council this past year. At church, she works regularly in the children's nursery. She has received the Citizenship Award from the VFW and has been in Who's Who Among American Middle School Students twice.

Operation Child Care, a Beacon Project sponsored by the Community and Emergency Services Department of GCCAC, was a nine-month program designed to educate interested Service Learning students in the art of child care and to give them hands-on experience working with young children. An AmeriCorps member with C&E Services, Tina Sumpter, coordinated the project.

In exchange for volunteering 40 hours working with Head Start children throughout the county, OCC members were given a two-day class in child care instructed by Garrett Community College; CPR/First Aid training; monthly child care trainings; resources; and continued support from the OCC staff.

Stated Sumpter, "We had three girls, Jackie Resh, Brandy Rush, and Rachel Bender in the program, and they all worked really hard. They were very dedicated, attending monthly trainings, and in many instances, going above and beyond what was expected."

According to Sumpter, the OCC members completed several projects for the Head Start children, including Easter egg hunts at Friendsville Head Start Center and at Broadford Park, a fun night for the children at Jennings, and a full day of activities for the day care children at the GCCAC Oakland Head Start Center.

"The girls did a lot of indirect things as well, like making baskets shaped like bunnies for the children at the easter egg hunts and putting together activity books for each Head Start center," Sumpter said.

Linda Green, director of the OCC project, added, "Although all of our OCC members did a fantastic job, we selected Jackie Resh as our 'Outstanding Member.' She was very active in the program and put a lot of herself into helping the kids."

"I enjoy working with young children," Resh said. "In the future, I hope to become either a pediatrician or a kindergarten teacher."

In Loving Memory of
RAYMOND D. PIPER SR.

It's been one year since God took you away,
We miss you more and more each passing day
We'd love to have you back with us,
But realize God knows best
But when our life comes to an end,

Voters League Picnic Slated; All Invited

The League of Women Voters of Garrett County will hold its annual picnic for candidates, elected officials, and agency heads on Wednesday, August 28, at Broadford Lake Park, Pavilion I, from 6 to 8 p.m. The League holds a picnic every year to give the public a chance to talk informally with government officials and agency directors, as well as candidates running for office in an election year. This year, voters will choose two members for the Garrett County Board of Education and one member for the U.S. House of Representatives, 6th District.

Everyone is welcome, including families. Those who plan to come are asked to bring a covered dish. The League will supply sandwiches, drinks, and table service. For planning purposes, reservations should be called in by Monday, Aug. 26, to Virginia Grove at (301) 334-8269.

Other events are being planned for this fall, including a tour of the Deep Creek Lake Sewer Treatment Plant and the Oakland Water Treatment Plant in Mtn. Lake Park; voter registration activities and a candidates' forum in October. For more information, persons may call Virginia Grove at the number above or watch for announcements in this newspaper.

Read. Then Recycle.

Glimpse of The Past . . .

IT WAS QUITE A PARTY at Swallow Falls State Park on this day many years ago, at least it appears to have been from the expressions on the faces of these gentlemen. What one would not readily recognize is that three of these men, believed to be the three standing in the center, are, from left, none other than Henry Ford, Thomas Edison, and Harvey Firestone. This threesome made at least two camping trips to Swallow Falls, one in 1918 and another in 1921. This photo is on loan by Robert Shank and is published courtesy of the Garrett County Historical Society and The Republican.

Shillingburg Clan Convenes

The 60th annual Shillingburg Reunion was held at the Shillingburg farm on Sunday. Ray E. Shillingburg was elected president of the association and Linda Shillingburg will serve as secretary/treasurer.

The reunion is held each year on the second Sunday of August.

BITTINGER NEWS

CHURCH NEWS

Mark Klawonn was ordained and installed as pastor of the Bittinger Lutheran Parish on Saturday, August 10. The service was followed by a reception at the Bittinger fire hall. Approximately 140 people attended.

Pastor Klawonn conducted worship on Sunday, in all three churches. All were invited to come forward for communion.

PICNIC SLATED

The annual Bittinger picnic will be held on August 17 at Brenneman's Grove. The Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department and auxiliary sponsored event starts about noon.

FAIR UNDERWAY

PERSONALS

ELCA MEETS

Women of the ELCA, Zion Lutheran Church, Jennings, held their monthly meeting on August 6, with an attendance of six.

The study theme was "The Friend of Sinners," which consisted of discussion of the parables of the lost sheep, the lost coin, and the prodigal son, which illustrated Jesus' conflict with the religious leaders over his relationship with sinners. Devotions closed with the group singing "Amazing Grace."

Judy Stanton presided over the business meeting.

Announcement was made of the area Christian Women's Fellowship annual meeting which will be held at the Bittinger fire hall in September. The program will feature a speaker and a memorial service.

The synodical convention for W.Va.-W.Md. Women of the ELCA was held August 2-3 at Morgantown, W.Va. Zion's unit was not represented by a delegate, but a love offering was sent and a quantity of potholders had been made for table favors for the event. A bulletin of reports of the convention has been received.

A birthday offering was presented by Ruthella Resh.

A package of 10 baby quilts was sent to Our Saviour's Lutheran Church, Box Elder, Montana, for their layette ministry on the Rocky Boy Indian Reservation.

The next project will be the annual washcloth shower for The Lutheran Home in Kane, Pa. Donations of washcloths will be received until September.

The next meeting is scheduled for September 3.

Ugly Bartender Campaign Needs More Volunteers

The National Multiple Sclerosis Society of Maryland is seeking adult volunteers "who have a warm heart and a sense of humor" to assist as U.G.L.Y. Agents for the Society's 17th annual Jack Daniel's U.G.L.Y. Bartender campaign. Individuals or organizations who volunteer are asked to help recruit bartenders in their areas and assist in keeping registered restaurants and bars motivated during the month-long, October campaign. Volunteers will be trained by the MS Society's staff. For details, persons may call the Society's toll free number: 1-800-FIGHT-MS, and ask to speak to the "U.G.L.Y. person."

To the National Multiple Sclerosis Society, which organizes this fund-raising event, U.G.L.Y. stands for all kinds of feelings patrons have about their favorite bartenders: U stands for understanding; G for generous; L for lovable; and Y for young at heart. The Society hopes to register over 100 bartenders in the Western Maryland territory.

During the contest, bartenders are lobbying for minimum votes of 25 cents toward their "U.G.L.Y.-ness." Promotional antics ranging from: Red Neck Olympics, Bull Roasts, Balloon Bursts, and Halloween parties are all in quest to win the coveted title through patrons votes during the Jack Daniel's U.G.L.Y. Bartender contest. The barkeep who raises the most through votes will win a trip to Toronto, the unique U.G.L.Y. trophy to display at his/her bar for a year, and the crowning title of the U.G.L.Y.-est Bartender in Maryland.

MS is a chronic, often disabling disease that attacks a person's nervous system. The progress, severity, and specific symptoms of the disease cannot be foreseen; symptoms may range from numbness to paralysis and blindness. Most people with MS are diagnosed between the ages of 20 and 40, but the unpredictable physical and emotional effects can occur for the rest of their lives. Since its founding in 1946, the Society has spent more than $200 million on research, the largest sum allocated for MS research anywhere in the world, outside the U.S federal government. Through its 144 chapters and branches, the Society provides services for people with MS across the nation.

McHenry Man Is Found Guilty Of Drug Possession

A McHenry man who pleaded not guilty of two drug charges was convicted last week in Garrett County Circuit Court. Bryan D. Olszewski, 37, was tried by Judge Frederick Sharer.

Olszewski had made a motion for a judgment of acquittal, but Sharer denied the motion. The judge found the defendant guilty of both charges, according to the report. Sharer ordered a pre-sentence investigation and continued the defendant's bail.

The charges against the defendant were filed after a search of his residence by the Garrett County Narcotics Task Force in April of 1994. Officers reportedly found approximately 93 grams of marijuana in separate baggies, marijuana seeds, and a pipe.

Miss Spinks Weds Mr. Kitzmiller In Texas Double-Ring Ceremony

J.R. Kitzmiller and Tracey Spinks exchanged wedding vows on Saturday, June 15, in an outdoor wedding at the home of the groom in Waller, Tex. The Rev. Jerry Kramer performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Janice Spinks, Waller. The groom is the son of Nancy and Edwin Kitzmiller, Waller. He is the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Daley Uphold Sr., Gorman, and Cynthia Kitzmiller, Mt. Storm, W.Va., and the late Leon D. Kitzmiller.

Given in marriage by her mother and escorted by her brother, David Mitchell, Hempstead, Tex., the bride wore a white ankle-length dress with gold and pearl buttons down the front and a stand-up collar. Her hair was pulled up in a French twist and held in place with a white wedding comb. She carried a bouquet of spring flowers accented with baby's breath, lace, and ribbon. The bridal bouquet and wedding flowers were designed by the bride's mother.

Serving as matron of honor was Shelly Krolczyk, Navasota, Tex., cousin of the bride. Serving as best man was Adam Kitzmiller, Waller, brother of the groom.

Serving as flower girls were Brittney and Brianna Martinez, Waller, godchildren of the bride and groom. Serving as ring bearer was Reed Loewe, Hockley, Tex. Guest attendant was Jeannie Martinez, Waller, who sang Wind Beneath My Wings and Love Me Tender.

The matron of honor wore an ankle length two-piece pink suit and carried a bouquet of spring flowers accented with baby's breath and ribbon. The flower girls wore matching pink printed spring dresses and carried white baskets filled with potpourri. The ring bearer was dressed to match the groom and best man -- he wore black dress pants, a white shirt, and a red rose boutonniere.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the groom.

A three-tiered wedding cake was baked and decorated by Dena Nolan, Hempstead, and featured a basket-weave appearance on all three layers with shell borders. The bottom and center layers where topped with spring flowers, baby's breath, and green leaves falling down the layers. The cake was also adorned with a cake topper with glass swans making a heart, lace, and bows.

The groom is a graduate of Waller High School and is employed by Amri Valve Company, Houston, Tex. The bride is now attending Tomball College where she is pursing a nursing career. She is employed at Tomball Hospital.

The newlyweds now reside in Waller.

Community Spirit Flourishes In Whetsell Settlement

by Nathan Raybeck

It is a close-knit community where neighbors are willing to lend a helping hand to anyone who needs it. It is neighborhood gatherings at the local community building, where the volleyball games go on into the night. And it is living on the same land your forefathers lived on hundreds of years ago. It is life in the Whetsell Settlement.

"The Whetsell Settlement was originally started by three Whetsell families," explained Jean Gerasimovich, who is a descendant of the first Whetsells and has lived in the settlement most of her life. According to Gerasimovich, the settlement started with the three families but before long it started to grow and more families started coming in. "One of the Whetsell girls would marry a Braham, or someone outside the settlement, and they would move in here and start their own family. That is how the settlement would grow," said Gerasimovich.

She went on to say that the land she lives on could be traced back to Peter Whetsell, one of her ancestors and one of, if not the, first Whetsells to move to the settlement. The land had been in her family since at least 1850, Gerasimovich added.

"What would happen was a family would have, oh, let's say 300 acres. Each time someone in the family would get married they would give 40 to 50 acres to whoever got married, and that's how the land would stay in the family," said Jean's husband Walter.

Gerasimovich has lived in the settlement many years, but she can never recall a time when people were not friendly with each other or did not want to help each other out.

"When I was growing up and even today, all you hear about is neighbor helping neighbor. That's the way it has always been and that is the way I hope it stays," she said.

She added that no one in the settlement pesters anyone else.

"If we heard that so and so was sick or there was a death, then we would help that person out any way we could, but no one would wear out their welcome," she explained.

"It's community living," said Gerasimovich adding that she believes this feeling is lost once one gets into the bigger cities.

The values of helping one another and being friendly to all are handed down, generation by generation, to all those who live in the settlement. When a new family moves into the settlement, Gerasimovich explained, the residents embrace the new family with open arms and invite the newcomers to attend all settlement functions to make them feel "at home."

"It takes some people a while to get used to new surroundings," said Gerasimovich. "We want them to participate in the community, but we do not take the 'I didn't see you in church Sunday' attitude. We welcome them here and we don't want to force them into doing anything. It takes time to get adjusted, and just give them time and they'll be part of the settlement before you know it."

Gerasimovich lived in Detroit for two years and then returned to the settlement.

"I don't like all that rush," she said. "People would walk by and never say anything and I just didn't like that."

Gerasimovich said that her roots are in the Whetsell Settlement and that she really does not want to be anywhere else.

To my friends at Sky Valley in Garrett Co.

If Diogenes had bothered to check Garrett County over he could have saved a lot of shoe leather and oil looking for an honest compassionate man. Thanks to all my friends and neighbors in Garrett County and their loving support, flowers and most of all their cards and prayers. I am doing much better in my fight against my illness. I know with their continued support I will continue to make progress toward returning to my old self. You see I was luckier than Diogenes. I found what he searched the world for right here among the wonderful people of Garrett County and Sky Valley. I will never forget the kindness of my neighbors and friends and thank you from the bottom of my heart.

BEE PATROL - After a large swarm of honey bees descended on the Mtn. Lake Park home of Mary Lyle Gnegy and entered an outside wall last week, Oakland beekeeper Dave Stonesifer and his brother, Nick, were summoned to the scene, where they attempted to smoke the bees out of the wall and suck them up with a vacuum cleaner. Pictured at left, Dave places his ear to the wall to listen for the buzzing swarm while Nick, on the ledge, peeks through a hole drilled to evacuate the insects. Dave estimated that the swarm contained approximately 10,000 bees. However, a healthy swarm can contain five times that amount. Pictured above, Dave uses a bee-collecting contraption consisting of hoses, a wooden bee hive, and a large shop vacuum to capture the bees without killing them, while Nick stands by with a smoke canister. According to reports, approximately 90% of the wild honey bee population died this spring following hive infestations by the Varroa Mite, so swarm sightings such as the one last week may become increasingly rare. By Saturday, the Stonesifers had completed their bee collections at the home and sealed the holes in the house.

Bender Book Is Recipient Of C.S. Lewis Award

A children's book written and illustrated by two local women has been honored by the C.S. Lewis Awards as among the top 50 noteworthy picture storybooks of 1995 with Christian values. April Bluebird was written by Esther Bender of Grantsville and illustrated by Edna Bender of Accident. The publisher is Herald Press, Scottdale, Pa., and Waterloo, Ontario.

According to Christian Library Journal, the author uses "simple sentences to tell a simple tale, a sensitive and moving story. The illustrator's watercolors (acrylics) enhance the drama of the story perfectly."

The listing of the top 50 noteworthy children's books of the year will appear in a C. S. Lewis issue of Christian School magazine.

The awards are named for the British author, C.S. Lewis (1898-1963), who wrote more than 30 books, including children's books, science fiction, literature and religion. His best known children's book is probably The Lion, the Witch, and the Wardrobe, a classic studied in children's literature.

The C.S. Lewis Award is the second award for April Bluebird. The book previously received an Award of Merit from Excellence in Media.

The book is available on the shelf or by order in your local stores through major distributors such as Ingram and Spring Arbor. It can also be purchased wholesale or retail through a toll-free number, 1-800-245-7894.

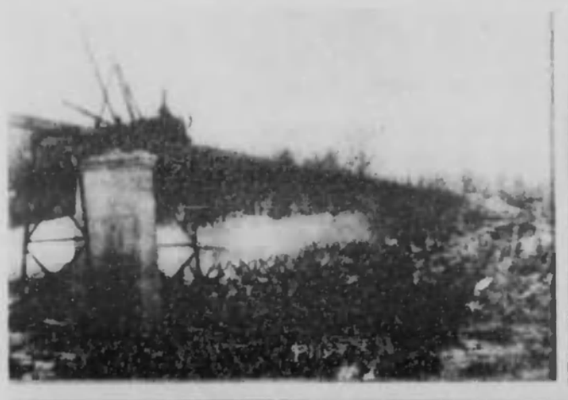
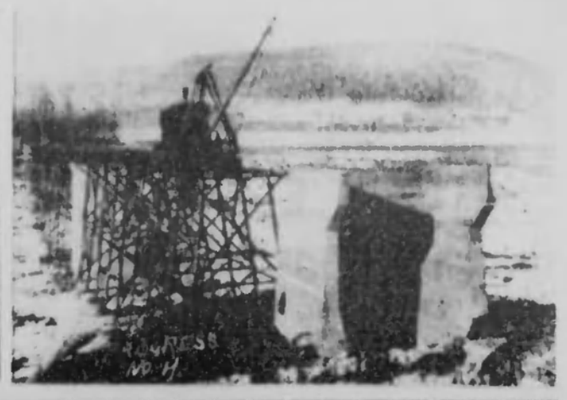
I Love Deep Creek Lake . .

Another in a series
by Ed King





The Glendale Bridge is a landmark on Deep Creek Lake. As it is about to be razed, I feel saddened. This bridge means so much to many of us in Garrett County and at Deep Creek. Although we are about to receive a new structure which will be much more serviceable, many of us will miss the old bridge.

I have several special interests in the bridge. First of all, my career was with American Bridge Division of U. S. Steel. And although I worked on many famous structures, such as the New River Gorge Bridge and the Chesapeake Bay Bridge, none hold the romance of the Glendale Bridge, which was built in 1924 before many of us were born. Second, and far more importantly, I have admired the Glendale Bridge since I was a child and have many memories of bridge happenings. Foremost of these is the friendly wave - most of the time - of passing drivers as each yields to oncoming traffic.

The bridge, for purposes of this story, will be telling its story in the first-person. Some of the memories are my own, but many are stories that others have related to me. Therefore, the bridge will tell its own story as we celebrate 72 years of her serving us and looking over us at Deep Creek Lake.

A Farewell with Fond Memories

(An Autobiography)

Memories! I have so many, it's difficult to know where to begin. Perhaps I should say a word about my beginnings. Look at the photos and try to imagine my large steel members being hauled from the railroad siding by horse-drawn carts and lifted into place by a steam-powered hoist. The false work timbers were positioned in the rocky cliffs known then as The Narrows, just beneath the "Cat Rocks" where Meshack Browning was reported to have hunted years before. I was built by the McClintic - Marshall Company of Pittsburgh, PA, in 1924.

That's when some special memories began. The memories of nature are probably some of the best in that, considering my size and height, there just isn't much I can't see.

To this day, I have not decided which is better - the sunrise, or the rising of a full moon. I suppose I would have to say it is the full moon coming up over Little Snaggy Mountain, because I get to see that only once a month if the weather is clear and at much longer intervals if it is not. The large yellow ball perches on top of the mountain. Then as I lower my eyes, I see the reflection across the water. No two look alike. You see, the clouds and fog have ways of creating an infinite number of variations on everything I see.

Being outdoors 24 hours a day, I don't miss anything. There are sunsets, northern lights (Aurora Borealis), and millions of stars that fill a cold, clear winter's night. I have seen beaver swim around my pier and abutments, deer swim across the lake, and the majestic bald eagle fish from a nearby tree. Through the years, I have seen nearly every type of migrant bird, from the tiniest hununingbird to the large whistling swan, loons, osprey, and even seagulls who come to visit from time-to-time.

Boredom is never a problem, especially during the boating season. I have watched the development of watercraft over the years, from canoes and many varieties of homemade boats to the fastest and sleekest of today's boats. The beautiful people sport their tans - and sometime their sunburns - as they pass beneath me. I recall the homemade iceboat of Bud Vanveh's driven by a large propeller, and the 2-cylinder, 10 HP Johnson engine with its small gas tank on top, and the compression release on one cylinder for ease of starting. Now there are the personal watercraft with engines powerful enough to pull a skier. The large whaling boat owned by Holy Cross crewed by boys in uniform singing as they glided down the lake.

I will never forget the Swan Boat lowering its graceful head to get under my bottom cord. In the wintertime it's inventor, Mr. Obenshain, would go to the Baptist Church on Sunday morning on ice skates, moved along by a hand-held sail. Oh, for the glory of the romantic mahogany boats by Century, Chris Craft, and Dumphy. And there have been the many boats which could not pass beneath me because of high windshields, roofs, or masts.

One of my closest neighbors was the late George McLaughlin, who for so many years tried through various authorities to have me raised - that is, physically lifted up high into the air to permit Flying Scot sailboats to pass beneath my deck. Gee, if only he had succeeded I could have seen many miles farther away. Also, the Yacht Club could have had a special regatta each year to sail beneath me. You see, George - known to many as "Old Blue Sails" - was a very accomplished sailor and would have loved to pass by my barrier to the southern end of Deep Creek.

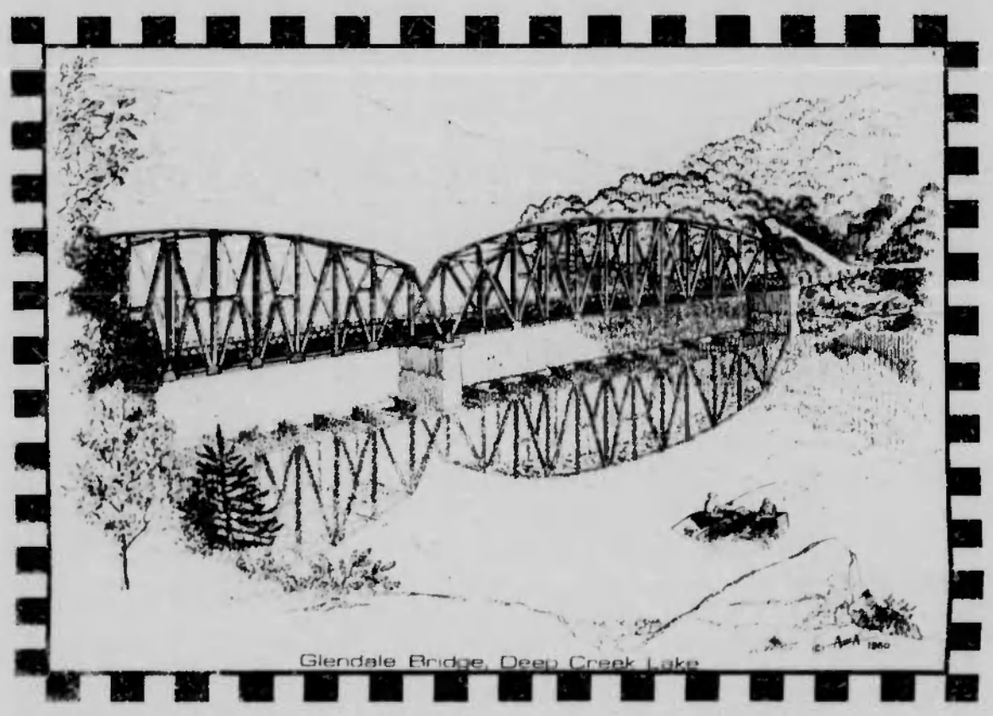
I have watched expert windsurfers and catamaran enthusiasts come to the lake. They generally come to a spot just off to my north close to the Deep Creek Lake State Park. Here the wind comes from the northwest and is, literally, funneled into the slot. For these high-performance boats, it's just the ticket. In the late evening, and even after dark, there was the hauntingly tranquil beauty of "Old Blue Sails" gliding by in his Scot in what seemed to be no breeze at all. Yes, he did have running lights on the Scot.

During the 1960's, the priests from the Carmelite Fathers monastery in Meadow Mountain Cove would swim all the way from the monastery (the present Carmel Cove Bed & Breakfast) to the cliffs at my east end. Here, while resting on the rocks, they would visit with Fulcher and Marie Smith, whose home was situated there. Marie would serve the Fathers some of her home-baked treats; and then they would resume their swim back to the monastery. During that same period, the Deep Creek Water-ski Club would hold ski shows at the State Park Beach. They moored their ski jump platform there, which was the highlight of the show.

In the 1940's, I enjoyed seeing the campers who pitched their tents on the rocks where the Smiths would later build their home. There was one group I recall, in particular, of some men from a church in Uniontown. They had two young boys with them who had asked permission of their father to go for a swim. His reply was "No, your mother told me not to let you go swimming." Later that afternoon, their pastor, Reverend Confer, and the two young boys slipped away from camp, hung their underwear on a willow twig, and dove into the water just like the Pharaoh's daughter did on the Nile.

These same two boys, after their skinny-dip, tried to catch a groundhog in a burlap bag. The groundhog was on my lower cord member. Rather than choosing to crawl into the bag, Mr. Groundhog chose a crash course in diving and swimming and successfully alluded the boys, and swam to the far shore

Watching Fulcher Smith as he labored for years with hand tools to clear the top of Narrows Hill and build a stone wall around the promontory to my east was quite a sight. Fulcher's nickname was "Pete," and everyone referred to his mountain project as "Pete's Pinnacle." Today, this is the new lake access community known as "The Pinnacle." The vista from The Pinnacle is inspiring, and Pete wanted it available for everyone to enjoy. Many did enjoy it; however, vandals pushed his Roman-style walls over the hillside and took away a lot of his enthusiasm. In an article dated March 31, 1970, signed by Pete Smith, he closes with these words, "God willing, I hope the Pinnacle will be enjoyed by our visitors for many years to come." It is, Pete. I observe people daily driving or walking through the Pinnacle enjoying your dream.



There have been many fish stories, too. Since 1925 when the lake was flooded, I have offered some of the best fishing on Deep Creek Lake. I have seen everything from the smallest sunfish and croppies to the largest pike swimming in my shadows. I have witnessed the thrill of children catching their very first fish and of a young boy catching the prize fish of the year (a 45" Northern Pike). Back in the days of Model "T's" and Model "A's" during the Depression, I saw men trap yellow perch by the hundreds at night. They would lower their homemade fish traps containing loaves of bread over my railing on ropes. Then off they would go to Stone Tavern for a few beers. Later they would raise the traps and ice-down their catch in large tubs and return home. It wasn't a legal activity then either - but neither was the Depression an easy situation to survive.

Winter is very interesting. The ice fishing is great when the ice is thick. However, in late winter when the thaw begins, fishermen must be very cautious of shifting winds blowing the ice away from the shoreline. This condition has occurred, leaving fishermen afloat with no contact to the shore. Thanks to the D.N.R. Rescue Team they were brought safely ashore. Snowmobilers give me the shivers! And it's not because of the cold temperatures. Under my west abutment is a spring where the warmer water keeps the lake from freezing - not a good spot for snowmobiles. Then I have seen several very serious accidents; sleds either running over thin ice and falling through, or hitting a compression bump in the ice and going airborne.

From my vantage point, I could see some of the old haunts around Deep Creek. There was Cabin Lodge, Stone Tavern, Thayer's Barn, and the Rainbow Inn (later the Glen Haven Pizza Pub). The music then wasn't much different than today. Kids loved the music, and parents thought the world had gone to the dogs. A man by the name of Felty played tunes by request on a honky-tonk piano at Glen Haven; his most famous song was "Bow-wow-bow-wow-wow."

Speaking of watering holes, some have left their mark. Traffic by boat or car was not exactly the wisest means of transportation after-hours from these places. In my immediate vicinity, I have witnessed boats driven right out of the lake and up the shore, completely tearing out the keel. The jolly old drunk wouldn't even be injured! Several boats have smashed directly into my center pier. I have witnessed boats hitting docks and other boats, leaping totally out of the water. One boat landed high and dry on the rocks at my east end.

Oh, my poor railing! It has been repeatedly hit and beaten crooked. On at least one occasion, an automobile driver missed me altogether and plummeted into the lake. Luckily for the driver, the frozen lake slowed the car's descent and prevented him from an icy swim, or worse. Drinking and trying to drive across my open steel decking is hard enough, but freezing rain and ice really make me treacherous.

I didn't always have open decking, you know. Originally, my flooring was a board system. Even when new, it rattled. As the boards aged, warped, and became loose, you should have heard me then. In the middle of the night when all was still, a car coming onto those deck boards would cause first-time guests in the vicinity to sit straight up in bed wide awake thinking for certain there had been a crash. The locals would calmly sleep through all the racket because they were accustomed to it.

Through the years I have seen my share of daredevils and jumpers. Bridge jumping is not wise and it is extremely dangerous. For that reason, I'm glad to be leaving you. Thank goodness, most of my jumpers made it safely; but not all did. One night I had to chuckle. A boat passed beneath my deck, the water was high, and a very locally renowned tennis player stood up in the boat and grabbed onto my bottom cord. He was scheduled for a tournament the next morning on the clay courts at Mt. Lake Park. The boat kept going and the fellow continued hanging. His "friends" in the boat decided to let him hang and took their merry old time returning to pick him up. As a result, his arms were sore and cramped, and he was unable to play his match the next morning.

The water skiers are such a delight to watch. The high sparkling spray from their skis reflects in the morning sunlight. I have devised a point system whereby I grade their sprays from 1 to 10. This is how it works. If a skier has the expertise to throw spray up through my open decking, they score a 5. If the spray touches the bottom of a car, their score is 8 or 9. If the spray hits a car's windshield, their score is a perfect 10!

I have bridged vehicular traffic for Garrett Countians, recreational property owners, and visitors for 72 years. I have also created another bridge - the bridge between people. Drivers have been given the opportunity to be friendly with what I shall call "the Glendale wave." It's a county tradition that folks in rural areas depend on to establish ties. A lot of people anticipate the Glendale wave long before reaching the bridge. You see, if you voluntarily give way to oncoming traffic, you'll get a wave of thanks that can make your day.

I watch drivers in their cars and observe their expressions. There are locals, and the people who need the bridge in their work such as all the service workers and those going to and from their places of work. Those who are courteous and who wave are much more relaxed and happier people.

When visitors from urban environments, where the wave isn't used much, come to Deep Creek primarily in the sununer, stress levels run higher. I really am a two-lane bridge. But in the late 1960's and 70's, the automobiles got wider, pickup trucks got big side mirrors, motorhomes grew in size, trailered boats were bigger, and so I became a one-lane bridge. Even though I created the Glendale wave, I guess circumstances also create the stressful standoffs. A standoff can be avoided totally by employing the "Glendale Wave." Or it can end with a punch in the face. Or it can be one of the nastiest traffic jams Garrett County ever sees.

One standoff sticks in my memory like glue. A lady driving a Suburban towing a boat trailer going east entered the bridge at the same time a man in a sports car going west entered from the opposite end. When this happens, you have the making of a standoff. It's a race to the centerline. Of course, the sports car got there first. The drivers initiated the standoff with a staring contest, followed by some hand gestures, and then exited their cars and repeated these steps in each other's face. This exercise takes several minutes, and it's too far from the ends of the bridge for oncoming drivers to see or hear the confrontation. Now those cars from either end pulled onto the bridge to hear the out-come and even to participate in the formalities. Not only is the bridge gridlocked at this point, it is solid with vehicles and reaching capacity as are my tension members. Speaking of "tension," it is at its max. Why did the Glendale wave not work? Darn!

A decision is made. The sports car is assuming victory, and the lady is going to attempt to back the boat trailer off my deck. The traffic behind her is now backed to Silver Tree Inn and there is nowhere for the cars to go that have added to the gridlock. She does not have the expertise to back a trailer; however, she has decided not to let anyone assist her. If it takes an hour, it takes an hour. And it did! Traffic is backed up to Route 219. The police came. And I'm still trying to promote a tie of friendship between people with the Glendale wave.

There have been regrets through the years. Tragedy has struck all around me. A jumper was killed, fatal motorcycle and car accidents, and one of Deep Creek's most beautiful boats exploded right beside me. I've seen suicide; in fact, for a short time I was dubbed the Suicide Bridge. I've seen fire take several cottages and commercial buildings. I have seen irresponsible persons dump junk over my railing, such as refrigerators, stoves, and on one occasion a safe stolen from Coca Cola was pitched over my side.

On a personal note I, too, have a regret. I'm ugly and beat up and have been grossly neglected in recent times when I most needed maintenance. I can't even remember what color I'm supposed to be. My railings are bent, my sway bracing fell into the lake several years ago, rust is prevalent, and my carrying capacity has been reduced. I don't have the pleasure of seeing the school children in buses any more. Many trucks can no longer use me. I feel I could have served you much longer if someone would have seriously taken care of me.

On a positive note, what a renaissance Deep Creek Lake has seen! Do you remember the "camps," the outhouses, the steel drum docks? Then we progressed to cottages, septic systems, and real bathrooms. Since the early 1980's, I've seen things I couldn't believe: 4,000+ sq. ft. homes with 5 bathrooms, hot tubs, commercial docking systems costing more than ten thousand dollars, and public sewer for a large portion of the lake community! Just in my immediate community, there are homes fit for royalty. How about Karen's Castle designed by architect Phil Silkey on the site of the former Smith property. Imagine, homes selling for well over seven hundred thousand dollars, and many others which have never been on the market that would dwarf that price tag.

As I say farewell, I have to say a very special goodbye to my friend, the late Aza Stanton. Although I will be gone physically, my friend/neighbor/artist, Aza, captured me in one of his more-famous pencil sketches. Aza and his wife, Louise, built their home on my south shoulder called "Cat Rocks." His studio overlooked the lake. His works, and hopefully the one of me, will live on for many years. His prints are still available at local shops.

My words of wisdom that I leave with all Garrett Countians, recreational property owners, and visitors to this place of beauty are to keep promoting "the Glendale wave." A sign at a nearby gas station reads: "Pump first, then pay. It's the Garrett County way." So, too, is being friendly with a smile, a nod of the head, or a wave of the hand a great start to being an ambassador for bridging friendship in this most-beautiful mountaintop resort known as Garrett County/ Deep Creek Lake.

SYETP Thanks Riley For Assistance

For over 20 years, Riley has worked closely with the SYETP participants and staff to provide meaningful work experiences at the park.

"Although there are many members of our community who work closely with our kids, and some also very deserving of thanks, Roger Riley exemplifies the outstanding worksite supervisor," said Redinger.

The 1996 program, which sustained federal budget cuts that limited previously offered services, still provided 94 participants with jobs this summer at nearly 40 worksites. Attendance was outstanding, a spokesperson reported, with 91% finishing the program. The work crew at Deep Creek Lake State Park had the highest attendance rate of 99% and was given a pizza party.

Training, or the educational component, was also limited with the dissolving of the Learning Alertness Program. However, the coordinators were able to compensate for the losses, using older workers as mentors for younger participants. This was the first summer that 14- and 15-year-olds were given full work schedules in the Regular Work Experience, according to the spokesperson. Crew leaders provided over 625 total hours of actual job skill on-site training.

The SYETP staff and the staff of the Training Place of the Western Maryland Consortium expressed appreciation to all participants and others who helped provide another successful program.

Northern Yearbook Staffers Honored At Pa. Seminar

Students representing the yearbook staffs of Northern High School and Northern Middle School received several awards for their participation in the annual Seven Springs Yearbook Seminar conducted recently by the Taylor Publishing Company in Seven Springs, Pa.

NHS editors Kimberly Bittinger and David Butler received the first runner-up award for effort and enthusiasm and fourth runner-up award for theme development, and NHS photographer Abby Bruch was honored for having the best photography portfolio at the seminar.

Even though NMS was the only middle school at the seminar, NMS students Kristin Lander and Leigh Ann Schefft received the outstanding achievement and top performance award for copy writing and the third runner-up award for theme development.

NMS yearbook advisor Nancy Frank also attended the three-day seminar, which covered theme development, copy writing, layout and design basics, photography, and financing.

Yearbook staffs from each school participating in the seminar completed a theme packet workshop in which the students selected a yearbook theme, wrote a theme statement, developed a ladder diagram, designed a cover concept, created an end-sheet design, and laid out at least three double-page spreads.

Garrett Child Support Office Among State's Most Successful

by Benjamin Rubb

Tucked away in a converted Army-Navy store just north of Oakland, the Garrett County Office of Child Support Enforcement (CSE) has quietly earned a reputation as one of the most successful CSE offices in the state.

Garrett's ten-member child support enforcement team, headed by Bill Graham, assistant director of CSE services, and Robert Shaffer, director of the Garrett County Department of Social Services, has collected over $1 million in child support each year for the past three years, and is usually ranked second or third in the state in terms of collection success.

Juggling a case load of over 1,000 cases, the local office not only obtains and enforces support orders, but also establishes paternity, locates absent parents, and reduces welfare rolls by obtaining financial support for children.

The Garrett CSE office, in the words of Kay Cullen, public affairs officer for the Maryland CSE Administration, is "small but mighty."

Although some Maryland counties produce much larger dollar figures in a year's time, Garrett's CSE team ranks high in percentage of funds collected. For example, in April, the last month for which complete figures are available, absent parents owed a total of $109,294 in child support for that month, not including arrearages (overdue payments). The Garrett CSE office was able to collect $80,253 of that total for a success rate of 73% - the second highest in the state for April.

For that same month, in the state of Maryland as a whole, a total of $35,786,593 in child support was owed, not including arrearages. CSE agencies across the state collected a total of $18,890,768 in April, for a state-wide success rate of 53%. Baltimore City's success rate for April was only 32%.

In fiscal year 1995-1996, the Garrett CSE office collected $1,316,734. In the previous fiscal year the total was $1,129,081, and in fiscal year 1993-1994, the first year that the local agency topped the $1 million mark, the total collection was $1,081,994.

Part of the local agency's success is a result of the many parents who conscientiously make their regular support payments.

"We do have a lot of honest people," Graham explained in a recent interview. "It's the few that don't that cause us the grief and work."

This work can involve locating an absent parent in another part of the county or even abroad, carrying out paternity suits, and even attaching lottery winnings.

However, Shaffer makes it a point that personnel at the office treat both custodial and absent parents with respect. Furthermore, Graham makes it a rule that staffers don't use the term "deadbeat dad" when referring to a parent owing support.

Graham explained that the office tries to build relationships not only with the custodial parent, but also with the absent parent.

"A notable amount are good payers and try their best to pay," he noted.

Beginning Oct. 1, state CSE offices will get a new tool to help enforce child support orders. On that date, a new state law will go into effect giving officials the authority to suspend the drivers' licenses of parents who are behind in their child support payments.

Graham hopes the new law will provide the local office with more negotiating leverage.

However, he noted that "The goal is to collect the money, not take the license."

To obtain the services of the Garrett CSE office, persons need only pay a fee of $25 for the duration of the term of the enforcement order, a price Shaffer describes as "a whale of a bargain."

This fee covers the costs of a lawyer, and, if necessary, lab tests to establish paternity.

Social Services clients receiving Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) because of the absence of a parent are required to participate in the CSE program. If the office successfully collects child support totalling more than the client's monthly AFDC allotment, the client is removed from the AFDC rolls. However, as is more often the case, when the child support totals less than the client's AFDC, the state receives the child support, less $50 which is given to the client. Either way, the outlay of tax dollars for AFDC is lessened.

"Child support enforcement is a very major piece of anything we want to do in welfare reform," explained Shaffer, who has worked in the Garrett County Department of Social Services for 35 years. "It's a very important component of what we do here."

Graham added that there is a "huge correlation" in collecting support for single-parent households and reducing the amount of funds spent on welfare.

At one time, the local CSE office handled approximately the same number of child support cases for clients on AFDC as it handled for persons not on AFDC. However, in recent years the proportion has shifted so that currently, approximately two-thirds of the office's CSE cases are for parents not on AFDC.

Approximately 10% of the custodial parents who come into the Garrett CSE office for assistance already possess a child support order. In these cases, the staff's duty is to enforce the order. However, in approximately 90% of cases, the parent - usually the mother - comes in without benefit of such an order. In some cases paternity has not been established, and to complicate matters further, approximately 50% of custodial parents seeking child support do not know the whereabouts of the absent parent.

To locate a missing parent, CSE personnel sometimes have to play detective. The office staff will first turn to phone books and records of the Maryland Department of Motor Vehicles. If a Social Security number for the absent parent can be obtained, employment records can be scanned to determine if the person has worked in Maryland during recent years. Employment, tax, and unemployment records may also indicate the absent parent's pay rate - information which will be valuable later on in determining the dollar amount of a child support award.

Military records can provide Garrett CSE personnel with a parent's location, even if he or she is located on the other side of the world.

If the local office still can't find the parent, the State Parent Locate Unit (SPLU), located in Baltimore, can access credit bureaus, departments of motor vehicles on the national level, and sensitive information from the IRS.

When searching for an absent parent, other relatives can also be of assistance. In the cases of an absent father, paternal relatives are willing to help the CSE office approximately half the time, Graham said.

After the absent parent is located, it is sometimes necessary to legally establish paternity, particularly if the child was born to unmarried parents. If the father does not admit paternity, genetic tests may serve to settle the issue, at least in the eyes of the courts.

Once the absent parent is located and paternity is established, salary guidelines contained in Maryland Family Law determine the amount the absent parent must pay. However, a judge may reduce the amount of child support if the absent parent also supports other children.

"When circumstances change, orders can be modified," Grahant explained, adding that either parent can apply for such a modification.

Child support is generally collected through wage withholdings, although officials can intercept state and federal income tax refunds and unemployment checks, in addition to lottery winnings.

In the past, wages were attached only when child support payments were 30 days late. However, wage withholding is now the first method of collection that officials use after a support order is made.

"The vast majority of money collected is through wage withholding," Graham said, adding that having one's wages attached for child support should not be seen as a stigma, as it is now done as a matter of routine.

Cases in which the absent parent is residing outside Maryland are more complicated and harder to enforce. However, new agreements between the states may make interstate enforcement of child support orders easier.

"They do very well, I think, because of teamwork," Cullen said, referring the Garrett CSE office. "We're proud of them."

"SMALL BUT MIGHTY" is the way a state official describes the Garrett County Office of Child Support Enforcement, an agency which boasts one of the state's highest collection success rates. The local office has collected over $1 million in child support each year for the past three years. Pictured above, office personnel hold a proclamation declaring August to be Child Support Awareness Month in Maryland. In the back row, same order, are Phil Gillum and Harland Tichnell, support enforcement agents; Marvin Beckman, supervisor of child support fiscal debt; Rebekah Howell, fiscal clerk; and Bill Graham, assistant director of child support enforcement services. Not pictured are support enforcement agent Mary Bonella and attorney Mary Murphy. See feature story, this section.

Charges Filed Against Oakland Woman Placed On Stet Docket

Among the numerous cases heard in Garrett County District Court during the past few weeks was one involving an Oakland woman who had several charges filed against her placed on the stet docket.

Charges of resisting arrest (two counts); battery (two counts); willfully disobeying the lawful order of a police officer; willfully driving a motor vehicle at a slow speed, impeding normal and reasonable traffic movement; negligent driving; attempting to elude a uniformed police officer; and driving without a license, all filed against Virginia A. Speicher, 60, were placed on the stet docket by Garrett County District Court Judge Ralph M. Burnett. The "stet" decision means any of those charges can be recalled in the next year if the court deems it necessary. Conditions of the judge's decision state that she may not drive without a valid driver's license, and must attend counseling.

The above charges were filed by the Maryland State Police on April 8, after a trooper initially attempted to stop Speicher's vehicle because it was traveling too slowly. According to the charging statement, that attempt failed, and Speicher then apparently accelerated to speeds greater than the posted limit. Several failed attempts by the trooper to stop the vehicle reportedly resulted in the defendant becoming abusive and combative, and her subsequent arrest.

During a sentence revision hearing for David E. Harmon, 19, McHenry, the judge granted him probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for giving a false statement to an officer. Harmon was charged with the offense following a vehicle accident on Oct. 18, 1995, when he told state police officers that [illegible] and wrecked in a field near Garrett Community College. It was later learned that Harmon had in fact been driving the vehicle when it was wrecked.

A charge of telephone misuse, filed against Richard L. Craver, 43, Mtn. Lake Park, was placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that Craver must make no abusive or annoying phone calls. The charge was filed by Margaret Craver, Swanton, who claimed the defendant made several annoying calls to her home over a several-month period.

Charges of being disorderly in public, disobeying a police officer, and telephone misuse, filed against Shirley A. Frazee, 50, Friendsville, were placed on the stet docket. She is to have no contact with the complainant, David Liston. Frazee was charged by the state police following an incident at the complainant's home in Friendsville.

During a sentence revision hearing for Andrew D. Poling, 25, Alexandria, Va., formerly of Oakland, the judge granted him probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for assault. The charge against Poling was filed following an Oct. 12, 1995, assault on his wife, Ladonna, during a domestic dispute.

James A. McKenzie, 40, Mt. Savage, pleaded not guilty, and was found not guilty of one count of battery and one count of being disorderly on private property. Court records indicate Gail A. McKenzie filed the charges on June 6, claiming the defendant shoved her and cursed at her during a domestic dispute.

Jason A. Speicher, 21, McHenry, was found guilty of violating his probation, and 96 hours of a one-year suspended sentence were re-imposed by Judge Burnett. Speicher was convicted in November 1995, of two counts of theft that occurred at the Silkscreener in McHenry.

DWI CASES

Several DWI (driving while intoxicated) and DUI (driving under the influence of alcohol and/or drugs) cases were heard in recent district court proceedings.

Andrew William Moser, 21, Pa., pleaded guilty to DUI. Sentencing was postponed for the court to obtain an evaluation.

Philip Wayne Beachy, 25, Md., was convicted of DWI. He was handed a 30-day suspended sentence, fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to complete 30 hours of community service, and attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program.

Jason Ray Speicher, 21, McHenry, pleaded guilty to DUI. He was fined $150 and placed on one year of supervised probation. Conditions of his probation state he must complete 30 hours of community service, attend an eight-week alcohol treatment program at the local health department, and a one-year alcohol restriction was placed on his driver's license.

Christine Michelle Terrant, 20, Swanton, was found to be in violation of probation stemming from an earlier DWI conviction. The judge opted to withhold sanctions, and imposed six months of supervised probation.

Kenneth Samuel Clark, 31, W.Va., pleaded guilty to one count of DWI. He was sentenced to serve 30 days in jail (suspended), fined $150, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to complete 30 hours of community service, and attend an eight-week alcohol treatment program.

During a sentencing hearing for Timothy Lowell Friend, 38, Md., who had been found guilty of two counts of DWI, the judge imposed a 30-day jail stay, and placed him on two years of supervised probation upon his release from incarceration. Friend was also ordered to attend addictions counseling as part of his probation.

Jeremy Lee Perando, 20, Md., pleaded guilty to DWI. Sentencing was postponed for further assessment.

Kenneth Franklin Moskey, 49, Pa., failed to appear for his DWI hearing. A bench warrant was ordered for his arrest, and a new $5,000 cash bond issued.

Chester Sidney Lauck, 31, Md., was sentenced to six months in jail for his earlier DWI conviction, but will serve only 30 days of that sentence. He was also placed on two years of supervised probation upon his release. Conditions of his probation state he must attend addictions counseling, and attend a 26-week alcohol treatment program with the health department.

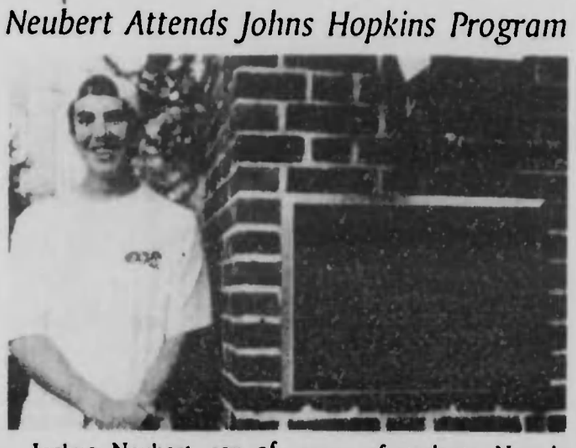
Neubert Attends Johns Hopkins Program



Joshua Neubert, son of John and Cathy Neubert, Grantsville, has been selected to attend courses this summer through the Center for Talented Youth (CTY), part of the institute for the Academic Advancement of Youth (IAAY) at Johns Hopkins University. Courses may be taken on several campuses around the nation. Neubert qualified to attend courses at Franklin & Marshall College in Lancaster, Pa., and has selected to take a special individually paced math sequence and a fast-paced physics course. Each course is given in a separate three-week session.

The institute for the Academic Advancement of Youth (IAAY) advocates the position that students' educational programs should be adjusted to match their individual achievements and abilities. All programs and offerings within IAAY are guided by a principle known as Optimal Match. The main idea of the Optimal Match is that students need academic instruction which matches their demonstrated individual abilities and needs.

Within IAAY, the Center for Talented Youth (CTY) offers courses in the humanities, mathematics, and sciences to students whose SAT scores place them academically in the top one-half of one percent of their age mates. Accordingly, the courses offered by CTY are designed to be challenging for this special group of students. Now in its 16th year, CTY offers students the opportunity to participate in challenging courses with knowledgeable instructors in a safe and supportive community, and the company of other bright students.

The roots of IAAY extend back to 1971, when The Johns Hopkins University initiated pioneering efforts on behalf of mathematically talented adolescents with the founding of the Study of Mathematically Precocious Youth (SMPY). A group of Johns Hopkins professors in the humanities initiated a program for verbally talented youth and in 1980.

Neubert will be entering his sophomore year at Northern Garrett High School where he is a member of the soccer and basketball teams. He is also an honor student and has attended Space Academy in Hunstville, Ala., and Astronomy Camp in Tucson, Ariz. He is the grandson of Charles and Alice Liller of Davis, W.Va., and Edith Neubert, Berkeley Springs, W.Va.

SCD SCHOLARSHIP PRESENTED TO MALONE – W. Brooks Hamilton (left) is pictured presenting a $1,000 check from the Garrett Soil Conservation District to SCD scholarship recipient Clint Malone of Finzel. Malone will be a freshman at Frostburg State University in September, majoring in agricultural engineering. See story for additional information.

Clint Malone Receives Garrett Soil Conservation Scholarship

Clint Malone of Finzel has received a $1,000 scholarship from the Garrett Soil Conservation District. Clint will be a freshman at Frostburg State University in September, and plans to transfer to the University of Maryland after two years.

The son of Beverly and Jerry Malone, this 1996 Beall High School graduate was the recipient of the Technology Award and the Maryland Certificate of Merit. He played football for four years and was chosen for the East-West Panhandle All-Star Football Team. The team was a state quarter finalist and three time region champ.

Clint is in his tenth year of 4-H, and last year, he won first place in the 4-H Tractor Operator's Contest at the Garrett County Fair, and placed fourth at the Maryland State Fair where the competition was a little stiffer. He received the 1995 4-H Citizenship Award, one of the highest awards given at the county level.

He has participated in the Hike and Bike for Garrett County Handicapped for the past six years, and is a member of Emmanuel United Methodist Church.

At Frostburg State University, the scholarship recipient plans to major in agricultural engineering with an emphasis on the mechanical aspects of the field.

This scholarship, sponsored by the Garrett Soil Conservation District Board of Supervisors, is meant to assist a worthy student entering their freshman year of college in the field of agriculture or resource management. This $1,000 scholarship is a one-time award presented to a graduate of either Northern Garrett High School, Southern Garrett High School or Beall High School with a 3.0 grade point average or better, who is entering his or her freshman year of college as a full-time student.

The Garrett Soil Conservation District Board members feel there's a need for young professionals entering the fields of agricultural or natural resources to have a rural or agricultural background. It is hoped that this program will help area students who can bring some experience and practicality to their education.

Persons interested in scholarship information may contact one of the area high school guidance counselors or the Soil Conservation District office for more information and/or application forms.

Grantsville Ag Service To Hold Membership Meeting

"Seventy-three years ago, farmers organized Southern States Cooperative to serve their basic agricultural production needs. Through the years, the cooperative has been innovative in providing new products and services to help farmers improve their livelihood," said Carroll Gilbert, the cooperative's director of member relations.

"Southern States: The Cooperative Advantage," the theme of this year's local annual membership meetings, reflects the regional co-op's "continuing dedication to improve farm inputs and services," added Gilbert.

Election of local board members and Farm Home Advisory Committee (FHAC) members are important features of the annual membership meeting for Grantsville Ag Service.

Board nominees are Dean Frazee, Reed Miner, Jeff Sebold, and Jim Stutzman.

The FHAC slate consists of Norma Bowser and Sandy McClintock.

A taped report from Gene A. James, Southern States' president and chief executive officer, will discuss the co-op's supply and marketing operations for the last fiscal year.

Local operating statements and services provided to the agricultural community will be discussed. Local FHAC and board members completing terms will be recognized.

Membership Day begins at 10 a.m., Thursday, August 22, Grantsville Ag Service, Grantsville, with the business meeting to be held at 3:30 p.m.

Southern States Cooperative, headquarted in Richmond, Va., operates in six states. The cooperative processes or manufactures and distributes feed, seeds, fertilizers, petroleum products and a wide range of farm supplies and lawn and garden products in West Virginia, North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Kentucky. It has grain marketing facilities in five of these states. The cooperative's membership totalled about 190,000 and the annual volume is estimated to have reached over $1 billion last year.

Soybean Seeds Are Focus Of "Historic" Study

It seems appropriate that during an Olympic summer, when the world comes together in the world of sport, that in the agricultural arena the East is meeting the West.

Soybean seeds from China and Japan -- the first improved germplasm to be imported in modern history -- are growing in fields at the Wye Research and Education Center in Queenstown.

The plants will be part of the research tour during the annual University of Maryland field day at the Wye Research Center, Thursday, August 22. The event is free and open to the public.

The Asian plants, part of a research study funded by the soybean checkoff, are under the care of Dr. William Kenworthy, University of Maryland plant breeder. Soybean checkoff funds are collected each time farmers sell soybeans and used toward marketing, education and research like Kenworthy's.

"The United Soybean Board, which is the national counterpart of the Maryland Soybean Board, has funded this historic study," Kenworthy said. "Maryland is one of six states that has received these elite Asian seeds to conduct research and breeding programs."

Kenworthy plans to evaluate the plants for possible use as "parents" in his breeding program, pulling any desirable characteristics of the Asian beans into existing U.S. plants bred to be suited to Maryland's climate.

Access to the new germplasm opens the door for breakthroughs in local breeding programs like Kenworthy's. "We're hoping for a big breakthrough as far as yields go," Kenworthy says. "The plant breeding that's been done in the United States has been from a 'closed pool' of genes, if you will. The Asian varieties represent completely new, unrelated germplasm which will be thoroughly evaluated to determine its potential to improve U.S. varieties."

The two "nationalities" aren't necessarily strangers, however. Ancestors of today's American beans originally migrated from China.

Chinese farmers have grown soybeans for some 5,000 years but it wasn't until 1804 that a Yankee clipper brought soybeans into the United States. By 1829 and into the late 1800s, U.S. farmers began growing the "new" crop in earnest as a high-protein animal feed.

Today, more soybeans are grown in the United States than anywhere else in the world. Farmers across the United States grow up to two billion bushels of soybeans annually. About half of the crop is used at home; the other half is exported to major markets, including the European Community, Japan, Taiwan, Mexico and South Korea.

Continuous breeding and improvement programs have developed varieties specifically suited to regions of the country, where growing conditions may vary considerably and length of growing seasons can vary as much as three months.

Additional research plots of the Asian seeds are planted at Poplar Hill research farm in Quantico.

Crop Harvesting Makes Progress

For the week ending August 11, scattered rains again fell but drier conditions for most of the state allowed for more harvest activities. The percent of field corn silking or in dough made good gains from the previous week. The crop condition was rated one percent very poor, four percent poor, 11 percent fair, 51 percent good, and 33 percent excellent.

The percent of soybeans in bloom made significant gains over last week, as did the percent setting pods. However, both stages lagged behind the normal pace. The crop was eight percent poor, 16 percent fair, 48 percent good, and 28 percent excellent.

Heading sorghum made substantial gains but remained considerably behind the previous year and average. The condition was four percent very poor, five percent poor, 22 percent fair, 34 percent good, and 35 percent excellent.

The percent of tobacco in bloom continued ahead of average, as did percent topped and harvested. Tobacco condition was rated four percent poor, 11 percent fair, 71 percent good, and 14 percent excellent.

Cutting of alfalfa and other hay made good progress as haying conditions improved from the previous week.

Pastures were one percent very poor, three percent poor, 13 percent fair, 62 percent good, and 21 percent excellent.

Hay supplies were mostly adequate. Apple harvest got underway with the crop rated one percent very poor, one percent poor, 16 percent fair, 62 percent good, and 20 percent excellent. Peaches were one percent very poor, one percent poor, 13 percent fair, 63 percent good, and 22 percent excellent. Peach harvest made substantial gains from the previous week and surpassed both last year and average.

Topsoil moisture was two percent very short, six percent short, 74 percent adequate, and 18 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was two percent very short, four percent short, 86 percent adequate and eight percent surplus. Conditions allowed for an average of 5.7 days suitable for fieldwork.

Caterpillars In the Trees

No, the caterpillars that you are seeing in the trees are not the gypsy moths. They are the fall webworms that love to build their webs in wild cherry and plum trees. If the nests are few, simply prune them out. Sometimes this insect can cause significant defoliation if the nests are numerous. There are a number of insecticides, such as Sevin, Malathion and Dipel, that will control the webworm. However, fall webworm impact on tree health is questionable since severe defoliation does not usually occur until trees are "shutting down" at the end of the season and losing leaves anyway.

SHS Students Complete French Exchange Trip

A group of Southern High School students and two local adults recently returned home after spending three weeks in France. The trip was the second half of an exchange program which brought a dozen French teenagers to Garrett County last winter.

Lowell Leitzel, French teacher at Southern, and Cheryl Henderson, a former Dennett Road Elementary School teacher who currently serves on the staff at James Madison University, Harrisonburg, Va., accompanied the 12 Southern High students on their two and one-half week "home-stay" in Cannes, Brittany, and their three-day visit to Paris. Student participants were graduating seniors Julie Elswert and Rachel Robinette; juniors Adam Chorpenning, Meghan Dabney, Jenny Finkel, Kerry Graybill, Rita Powell, Kimberly Rosenthal, Elizabeth Sines, and Josh Teets; and sophomores Rachel Lane and Matt Walthall.

Gwenaelle Poras-Denecé, English teacher at the Lycée Lesage in Vannes, helped the French host students and their families organize several activities and excursions for their American guests.

Following a basketball game (which the French won), the Americans attended a welcome reception at a French high school. During the reception, the school's principal made remarks and the Garrett students donated books to the school library.

The French host families also organized a covered-dish dinner at a local middle school, as well as a Fourth of July barbecue picnic. The Southern High students also visited local elementary and nursery schools.

The first group excursion took the students to visit the village and abbey of Mont Saint Michel, located on the northern coast of Brittany. Later that same day, the group visited the city of Saint Malo, from where the explorer Jacques Cartier set sail on a voyage which led to the European discovery of Canada.

A second excursion included three points of interest: the wildlife and historical reserve of La Grande Brière, with its miles of canals and its restored village of thatched-roof houses; the salt marshes near Batz-sur-Mer, where salt is derived from sea water by a process of evaporation; and the resort city of La Baule, with its six-kilometer long beach, the largest in Western Europe.

The third group trip included a visit to the Museum of the Breton Resistance, Saint Marcel, which recounts the history of the resistance movement in Brittany during the German occupation of France in World War II. Later that day the group visited the Yves Rocher cosmetics and bath products manufacturing plant at La Gacilly, as well as the local artisan district in the town of La Gacilly.

In addition, the group took a boat tour of the Gulf of Morbihan, on which the city of Vannes is located. This gulf, situated on Brittany's southern coast, flows into the Atlantic Ocean and contains hundreds of small islands. Vannes, a city of about 55,000 inhabitants, is the capital of the Department of Morbihan.

"It was all a very positive experience," commented SHS student Matt Walthall. "In Vannes, with our host families, we each had to struggle with the communication in French on our own. The stay in Paris stands out the most, because we as a group of school friends were able to enjoy all of it and share that whole experience together. Being separated from my family for three weeks and going to a different country allowed me to mature much more than ever before. This trip was the best experience in my life so far."

The visit to France concluded with a three-day stay in Paris, where the group went on guided tours of the Louvre Museum and the royal palace at Versailles. Other highlights of the Paris stay included a bus tour of the city, with a stop at Notre Dame Cathedral; walks along the Champs-Elysées and through the Tuileries Gardens and the Latin Quarter; a visit to the Sacred Heart Basilica and the artists' square in Montmartre; a view of the city from the top of the Eiffel Tower; and dinner at the Hard Rock Café.

"I was greatly impressed by Mont Saint Michel," commented SHS student Adam Chorpenning. "Paris was great, too - it was nothing like I expected it to be. The people were not as rude as I had heard. I really enjoyed walking down the Champs-Elysées. I recommend the trip to anybody."

This was the fifth Southern High School exchange trip with the Lycée Lesage since 1988, and it marked Leitzel's tenth trip to France.

"I was really nervous about being away from home for that long and about speaking French, but after a few days I felt more comfortable and the French came more naturally to me," remarked SHS student Elizabeth Sines. "I had a great time!"

"There were no specific highlights to the trip," SHS student Jenny Finkel added. "It was one big highlight - a very positive experience."

Master's Program For Nurses Being Offered At FSU

Nurses are in a position to have a significant impact on health care costs and outcomes, according to Dr. Mary Etta Mills of University of Maryland School of Nursing. With this in mind, the School of Nursing is joining forces with Frostburg State University this fall to offer a cooperative dual masters degree program in nursing and business administration.

It is not secret that attempts to provide cost effective health care have frightened providers and consumers alike, according to a recent Baltimore Sun editorial. However, this country has no choice but to reduce those costs. The challenge lies in cutting costs while increasing both the quality of care and consumer satisfaction.

Until recently, most programs which educate health professionals have emphasized clinical care, but have neglected the business side of the profession. As a result, direct service providers often misunderstand the business practices which increasingly control them. Many schools now recognize the importance of business training for health professionals, and a few, like the School of Nursing are providing this interdisciplinary education.

Beginning this fall, graduate nursing students in Western Maryland will have access for the first time to participate in such a program. Gail Mazzocco, Ed.D., RN, coordinator of Nursing Outreach Programs in Western Maryland said, "This new breed of nurse will have the unique opportunity to apply business know-how directly to the care of patients. The impact will not be limited to the traditional hospital setting. In out-patient and extended care facilities, or even at home, we'll all need the balance between quality and cost that these nurses can provide."

The joint MS/MBA program is itself an example of enhancing quality while keeping costs in line, Mazzocco said. FSU has an existing master's in business administration program in place at its Frostburg, Hagerstown, and Frederick centers. The School of Nursing has an off-campus masters degree program well established in Western Maryland. By using courses from both programs, it is possible to offer this dual degree without any additional resources while reducing the participants courseload from 25 to 21 required classes.

Late enrollment is possible for classes beginning this September.

The Western Maryland Area Health Education Center, based in Cumberland, provides support services in Western Maryland for the School of Nursing. For further information about the program, persons may call the School of Nursing toll free at 1-800-328-8346; or the MBA program at FSU at 301-687-4375.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, (301) 687-4102, TDD (301) 687-7955.

Beckman Composition To Be Published

Best Way Music, an ASCAP affiliated music publishing company in Nashville, has signed a contract with Lynn Beckman, Swanton, for the publication and recording of one of his gospel compositions. Other of Beckman's compositions are also being considered for possible publication.

The song, titled For Me, caught the ear of national recording and Grand Ole Opry artist Billy Walker, who is also the president of Best Way and two other publishing companies in Nashville. Walker has taken a personal interest in the song and plans to record it himself in an album project which is tentatively set for studio production later this fan and release sometime after the first of the year.

The publishing contract was signed on Friday, July 26, in Nashville after a breakfast meeting with Walker. Walker also made special arrangements for the Beckman family to be his personal guests backstage at the Grand Ole Opry radio and television shows on July 27 as part of their weekend in the music city.

Walker has recorded several hits over his career on the Columbia and Monument labels. Some of his most notable recordings include Funny How Time Slips Away, Cross the Brazos at Waco, Matamoros, Charlie's Shoes, and A Million and One. He is a featured performer on many Nashville Network television programs and has recently appeared on Yesteryear, The Statler Brothers' Show, Opry Live, and Prime Time Country. He is a devout Christian and often appears to give his witness and sing gospel music.

U.S. Army Reserve Pvt. John H. Durst has entered basic military training at Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C.

During the eight weeks of training, the soldiers will study the Army mission and will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, Army history and traditions, and special training in human relations.

Durst is the son of Danny J. and Robin A. Durst, Grantsville. He is a senior at Northern Garrett High School.

U.S. Navy Petty Officer 2nd Class John H. Milligan, a 1990 graduate of Southern Garrett High School, has returned to his homeport in Norfolk, Va., after completing a six-month deployment aboard the aircraft carrier USS George Washington.

Milligan is one of 5,500 sailors and marines who completed the more than 44,200-mile voyage aboard the carrier.

Serving as the flagship of the 14-ship USS George Washington Battle Group, Milligan's ship first traveled to the Mediterranean and Adriatic seas, where the 1,040-foot-long ship and its aircraft squadrons supported the U.N. peace efforts in Bosnia. When the USS Nimitz Battle Group was diverted to Taiwan, the George Washington Battle Group replaced it in the Persian Gulf, and enforced the no-fly zone over southern Iraq. During the deployment, aircraft from Milligan's ship launched more than 8,000 mishap free missions, setting a shipboard safety record.

Although USS George Washington spent 140 days of their 180-day deployment at sea, Milligan was still able to visit Italy, Greece, Spain, France and the United Arab Emirates. During the port visits, sailors from Milligan's ship participated in several community projects. In Marseilles, France, they provided toys, personal care items, and clothing to underprivileged children and adults.

GRIC, GCC To Host Executive Showcase, Aug. 27

The Garrett Rural Information Cooperative (GRIC) and Garrett Community College (GCC) will be hosting an Executive Premiere Showcase on August 27 to unveil GCNET, Garrett County's new state-of-the-art telecommunications network. The system is the product of a partnership among corporate leaders including Hewlett-Packard, General Electric, VTEL, Ascend, and Community Information Services, the system integrator. The companies worked together to develop a system designed to meet the total information needs of rural America, according to a GRIC spokesperson. Garrett County is the first community in the nation to receive such a system, and the county is the designated alpha test site for the United States.

"GRIC and GCC started GCNET two years ago as a small home grown system," the spokesperson said. "Now the system will be upgraded to a high speed, high capacity broad band telecommunications system with a local GCNET Bulletin Board as a hub. The system provides local information, allows for local communications, permits information searches and communications world wide at low cost, and gives Garrett County the means to advertise itself to the nation and the world. GCNET has built in security controls and a high degree of redundancy." The new system includes juke boxes for CD-ROM shareware, state-of-

Healthy Community Quilt Celebrates Community-Based Health Programs

In a project coordinated by the Garrett County Health Department, a total of 66 local quilters volunteered 410 hours over the course of the last two months to create a "Healthy Community Quilt." The completed quilt, which depicts community-based, public health programs, was displayed at the recent Garrett County Fair.

"I came up with the concept and design for the quilt late one night, focusing on the idea that the entire community is responsible for the health of its residents," explained Ann Sherrard, director of community health education and outreach at the health department.

The Healthy Community Quilt shows various buildings, including a courthouse, farm, churches, schools, and homes, surrounded by a border of trees. Each corner of the quilt represents a season using flowers or, in the case of a Garrett County winter, a snowflake. The design is contained within the shape of Garrett County and a monogram asks the question, "How Do You Fit in?"

"The quilt not only celebrates the accomplishments in the local community in the areas of public health, but speaks to everyone's future by asking residents how they fit in to the creation of a healthy community," stated Sherrard. "Successes such as a safe kids day-care, a work-site wellness program, low fat restaurant specials, and drug-free schools are visualized in this quilt, but there are always more goals to reach."

One square depicts a home with a sign on the outside stating, "Volunters live here."

"This was an essential piece to Sherrard, since volunteers were the reason for many of the successes shown on the quilt, as well as the quilt project itself," a health department spokesperson said.

"Members of our community outreach team started with an initial list of volunteers and each of these people seemed to know others who would like to help," stated Sherrard. "Although we didn't plan it, all of the volunteers ended up being women, which

School Buses On The Road Again Aug. 26

With the opening of school on Monday, August 26, the familiar yellow buses will be returning to the roads of Garrett County. Buses will be returning students to their homes earlier than usual on that first day since this day is a 1 p.m. dismissal.

Given the facts that Garrett County is the second largest county in the State of Maryland, that Garrett County has some of the most difficult terrain in the state to traverse, and that over 95 percent of the school students in the county are bused to/from school, the significance of the pupil transportation program is substantial, said Garrett County Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage. As a result, it is extremely important at the outset of the school year that motorists be alert to the presence of school buses.

In particular, Ryscavage said, motorists should note that the yellow color of a school bus has a special significance since that color is a universal indication of caution. As a result, a stopped school bus, with or without its red lights on, should be approached with extreme caution. This precaution is even more significant at this time of the year as fog is often prevalent in the early morning. All motorists are urged to be especially wary as the school year begins.

Commissioners Bring Good News Home From MACo

After taking part in a conference of the Maryland Association of Counties (MACo) last week, Garrett County Commissioners John Braskey and Roger Glotfelty returned home with hopeful economic news for Garrett County, including word of Governor Parris Glendening's intention not to cut aid to counties in next year's state budget.

During the four-day conference in Ocean City, the governor said that, in preparing the budget for fiscal year 1997-1998, he will try not to cut aid to counties below current levels, Braskey reported at this week's commissioner meeting.

Braskey noted that approximately 85-90% of aid to counties is spent on education.

Glotfelty also announced this week that the governor has expressed interest in visiting Garrett County around the time of the Autumn Glory Festival.

In a telephone interview yesterday, a staff member at the governor's office confirmed that Glendening has expressed a desire to visit the festival. However, the governor's schedule for October will not be finalized until mid-September.

Last year, Glendening served as grand marshall of the festival's Grand Feature Parade.

The commissioners also returned home from the Eastern Shore with praise for the Garrett County Office of Solid Waste and Recycling. Braskey said that Garrett County maintains the lowest tipping fees in the state.

"We're head and shoulders above everybody in the state," added Glotfelty, in reference to the local solid waste office's maintenance and recycling efforts.

On the subject of highway dollars, Braskey stated that an increase in State Highway Administration user funds may result in a $270,000 to $300,000 boost to the county roads program next year.

The governor also outlined three of his main goals: supporting education at kindergarten, elementary, secondary, and community college levels; making Maryland a good home for businesses; and fighting crime, Braskey said. The governor also said that fast

TAKING GREAT PAINS, or washing great panes, in preparation for next Friday's Oakland street fair are Mikal McCartney, president of the Greater Oakland Business Association, left, and Ken Perrin, chairman of the Downtown Revitalization Committee, who washed windows this week at the former site of Flinns' Family Store, Second Street. The street fair, slated for Aug. 30 from noon to 8 p.m., will feature exhibits by local artists in the vacant store and street-side entertainment in the form of live music, street mimes, and food vendors, as well as upper body messages provided by students from Garrett Community College. Full Symphony At Deep Creek To Perform This Week At GCC

by Kristina Carr Smith

This Friday and Saturday mark the second week of the classical music presented by Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, which will feature the Symphony at Deep Creek in its 10th anniversary season. Highlighted this weekend will be a world premiere festival commission by Neal Corwell, Denali, for euphonium and tuba; Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, Opus 35, by Tchaikovsky performed by world-renowned violin soloist Erick Friedman; soloist Velvet Brown performing the second movement of Romance from the Concerto for Bass Tuba by Vaughn Williams, and the family favorite Peter and the Wolf by Prokofiev, narrated by Southern High School's own Jane Avery.

Avery has been busy rehearsing with the Symphony at Deep Creek. This high school English teacher and theatrical director will narrate Peter and the Wolf under the direction of conductor Erick Friedman on Saturday night.

"It is an honor to have been invited to perform with the symphony," she said. Avery has directed over 60 theatrical productions throughout her career, but this will be the first combined with music.

"I can't read music, but have always been fascinated with how it all fits together," she said. Avery received her master's degree in directing from the University of Pittsburgh.

"I've done some oral interpretation before, but I don't really consider myself an actress," she said, noting that her strengths have always been in the directing end of the theatrical arts. "This is the first time I've worked with music and I'm looking forward to the experience. I've really enjoyed meeting all of the musicians."

Retired Fourth Circuit Judge Fred Thayer is also looking forward this weekend's performances. He just returned from Scotland, a trip that took him back to his Scottish heritage. He visited Stromness and Kirkwall in the Orkney islands, and performed in Orkney. A bagpipe player, Thayer teaches at Garrett Community College and leads an

Musical Acts Announced For GOBA Art Fair

Four musical acts will perform at the Greater Oakland Business Association (GOBA) fine art street fair slated for Aug. 30 from noon to 8 p.m. on Second Street.

Elinor Benedict will play the fiddle, Neil Krebs and Greg Larry will sing and play guitar, jazz vocalist Diane Hubka will sing, and the Marsh Mountain Consortium will also perform.

The performances will take place in a blocked-off area of Second Street between Alder and Green streets, and admission is free.

During the street fair, art works by local artists will be exhibited at the former site of Flinns' Family Store.

In addition to art and music, the street fair will feature food vendors and street mimes, and students from the Garrett Community College massage therapy program will provide seated, upper body massages for a nominal fee.

WKHJ radio disc jockey Cathy Clocker will conduct live broadcasts from the fair.

The fair is being co-sponsored by GOBA; Windrush Gallery, Friendsville; and WKHJ Radio, Loch Lynn.

"The street fair is the first in an attempt by GOBA and other groups working together to bring some exciting, local events similar to downtown block parties and festivities for everyone to enjoy," an event spokesperson said.

Friendsville Man Sentenced In U.S. Dist. Court

A Friendsville man, who previously pleaded guilty to one count of filing a false federal income tax return for the year 1990, was sentenced in U.S. District Court, Baltimore, by Judge Marvin Garbis.

Thomas, a self-employed drywall contractor in Friendsville, was ordered to serve one month under home detention, followed by 40 hours of community service and two years of supervised probation. He was also ordered to pay $18,000 in restitution to the Internal Revenue Service.

Thomas reportedly admitted that he failed to report all of the income he earned from the drywall business when he filed his individual income tax return for 1990.

The case was investigated by special agents from the IRS Criminal Investigation Division.

THE CRUCIFIXION SCENE is one of the most poignant moments in the smash musical Godspell, which will be presented this Friday and Saturday nights at Frostburg State University by members of the Garrett County Ecumenical Youth Ministry. Ticket sales for the two performances, to be staged in FSU's new state-of-the-art, 460-seat Pealer Hall theatre, have been brisk, according to Lynn Broderick, EYM director and director of the play. It will be the third run of the musical by the EYM members, who presented it three times locally in March, all to sellout audiences, and once in Fairmont, W.Va., in front of an audience of over 600. The cast includes nearly 30 young people from the congregations of St. Peter's Catholic, St. Paul's United Methodist, St. Matthew's/St. John's Episcopal, and St. Mark's Lutheran churches. While the leads are played by Matthew Sincell as Jesus and David Peterson as John the Baptist and Judas, at least a dozen cast members have vocal solos in the play. Tickets are $3 per person and performance time for both Friday and Saturday is 8 p.m.

GLAF To Finish 1996 Season With "Country Current"

A free concert at Deep Creek Lake State Park will be the finale of this year's Garrett Lakes Arts Festival's summer season. Country Current, the United States Navy's premier country-bluegrass group, will perform on Saturday, Aug. 31, at 6 p.m.

Guests are encouraged to bring picnic suppers and enjoy the final fling of the GLAF season, said Fred Stemple, GLAF executive director. Stemple said GLAF is pleased to offer a free event to express gratitude to the community for supporting the arts in Garrett County. The concert is being sponsored by the Garrett County Chamber of Commerce.

Spruce Forest Outdoor Concert Slated Sept. 7

Spruce Forest Artisan Village, located next to Penn Alps Restaurant in Grantsville, will hold its first Outdoor Concert in the Park on Saturday, September 7, at 7 p.m.

The concert will be held rain or shine; in the event of inclement weather, it will be held inside the Village Church. Musicians featured at the concert will be The Whistlepigs, who specialize in "old-time, hand clappin'" country music; Aran, who will perform numerous Irish instrumental tunes and ballads; and Greg Latta, who plays a wide variety of instruments including hammered dulcimer.

This concert is a wonderful way for the entire family to enjoy a variety of music together, all while relaxing in the 75-year-old spruce forest and pioneer village," said Village Administrator Trish Morgan. No alcoholic beverages are allowed and the village holds fast to a "no smoking" policy. All proceeds from this concert will benefit the nonprofit organization and will be used to assist with the restoration of the Village Church and other historic buildings at Spruce Forest.

"These local musicians are some of the favorites of the region – bringing creativity, harmonious treasures and a sense of Appalachian folklife to their music, added Ms. Morgan, "and everyone attending this concert will travel back home refreshed and energized with an intimate connection to our culture here in Western Maryland."

Cost for adults is $10; for students, $4; and children 12 and under are admitted free. Visitors are encouraged to bring their own blankets or chairs and refreshments will be available.

For reservation and ticket information, persons may call Ms. Morgan at (301) 895-3332.

Be Involved, Parents...

The county roadways were somewhat busier this morning, as local school teachers were among those enroute to work to begin another school year. Our students will catch up with them on Monday for their first of another 180 days in the 1996-97 school year.

While the responsibility for our children's education lies heavily with the teachers who are expected to teach and the students who are expected to learn, there is much that parents, grandparents, and others can and should do to support this effort. It's so easy for parents to blame teachers and the school system for our students' educational failures when much of that blame should be laid at the feet of those parents. Whether our young people fail or succeed in school depends greatly upon the role the parents take in their children's educational life.

The following is a list of suggestions for parents that we "stole" from a monthly magazine (just the list, not the accompanying comments), but are certainly worth sharing in more than one media.

Feed them breakfast - The energy provided by breakfast food is crucial to a student's performance in the classroom during the morning hours.

Get them to bed at a decent hour - Once again, the body needs enough rest in order to function efficiently at school.

Clue the teacher in to problems at home - Teachers appreciate being informed about such problems to facilitate a positive relationship with their students.

Get acquainted with their teachers - The advantages of this are numerous and obvious.

Don't criticize the teacher or the school in front of your children - Doing so does nothing but reinforce what may already be a negative attitude in one's child.

Don't try to block school discipline - A school must have rules and children should be responsible for their own behavior while in school (or anywhere else). Bailing them out only reinforces their inappropriate behavior.

Talk to them about their schoolwork - Parents should show their children they are interested in what they are learning.

Talk about what's bothering them - Young people often carry around with them fears, worries, and concerns that they keep hidden from their parents, but can have a significant negative impact on them. Communicate!

Insist that they do their homework - No further explanation necessary.

Limit TV viewing - None here, either.

Point them toward extra school activities - School is, or should be, more than just classroom work. There are numerous extra-curricular opportunities that teach valuable lessons, foster pride in the school and oneself, and generate good relationships with other students and teachers.

Hug them when they feel defeated - Setbacks and failure are a part of life, and weathering them produces endurance and success. Belittling and chastising them for failing a test or not getting the lead in the school play can have long-lasting, devastating effects.

So, we wish good luck to our educators, to our students, and to their parents as the 1996-97 school year gets underway. Have a great year.

To the Editor:

I have written different letters and you have published them in your paper; some getting my views across as I see what is going on, some letters of praise for the way you handle and publish The Republican newspaper. The paper tells it like I see it.

This story I write about is one on myself and our riding lawn mower. My neighbor Don Welch and I work together on things and split the cost between us. He mostly rides the mower and I do all the trimming.

Well, when Don and his wife Joan were on vacation, I had to take care of the lawn. I have worn a hairpiece for years; some people know that, some don't. So as I was riding on the mower, I felt a little tug on my hairpiece when I was riding under the branches of some pine trees, but I didn't think much about it.

I made another pass around the lawn and all at once the mower kind of jerked and a bunch of hair flew! I thought I had run over one of the rabbits we have running around, so I was feeling real bad, until I put my hand on my head. I know my eyes popped, as I realized I had run over my hairpiece, or wig, as some call it.

So if you see me and I look different, I no longer wear a hairpiece. Four hundred dollars (the cost of the wig) is a lot to have your grass cut.

Always,
Charles C. McIntyre

P.S. Everyone tells me I look younger without the rug. So, I don't mind at all not wearing one. What a blessing!

To the Editor:

"Clinton's an unusually good liar. Unusually good. Do you realize that?" Senator Bob Kerry (D.- Neb), as quoted in an Esquire magazine interview several months ago. Senator Kerry is a Medal of Honor winner and co-chairman of the Democrat Senate Reelection Committee. And how about this one: "I dislike the word 'lies,' but Clinton exploits such forbearance (widespread in the press) to spread untruths." - Robert J. Samuelson, Washington Post staff writer.

The point that Mr. Samuelson, and most of his brethren in the grand media, seems to have lost sight of is that although they cannot stop him from uttering an untruth, it is the duty of the media to expose his chronic duplicity. When the media fails to do so and, instead, facilitates his 'misrepresentations' of the facts - as they know them to be - the media becomes a part of the lie. Because of the media's obvious bias in this regard, it is paying a higher price for the president's insidious deceptions than he is. Their readership and viewer ratings are plummeting. Their apparent counter-argument that "everybody does it and he's just better at it" - gives far too little credit to Clinton for the quantum leaps he has made in transforming political discourse for the worse in our country.

Sixty years ago last month the beginning of the Spanish Civil War, opened the door for the spread of a new moral imperative among intellectuals on the left (outside of Russia, itself, where it had been put in place in 1917, and turned into an art form). Lying became an obligation, justified whenever the intent of the lie was to further an "acceptable" moral cause. Acceptable to whom? During the Spanish-Communist fandango, Moscow's Comintern; and its "Popular Front" fellow-travelers around the world, but especially in the United States. Today, it's a structural implant in all Democrat Party operations and the motive force of their current hidden agenda. Democrats have updated "Plato's Noble Lie," totally discredited by the likes of Lenin and Stalin, and with the aid of an ultra-biased, liberal media and a demagogic charlatan as their leader, they are trying to save themselves, Liberalism, and its totally failed policies with lies, lies and more lies.

"Fool me once, shame on you. Fool me twice, shame on me!"

Respectfully yours,
Ronald R. Rowan

To the Editor:

Before another week goes by, I want to thank the Garrett County Board of Education for extending the tobacco ban on all school grounds and at school-based events to 24 hours a day. At a time when tobacco use is at an all time high by youth, this action sends a message to them and to the public in general that our school system will do all it can to stop youth from possessing and/or using tobacco, at least on school property. Now it is up to the rest of us to do what we can to support this effort.

For instance, at each game no matter where held it will be announced that the use of tobacco in any form is banned. This means no smoking, chewing, spitting, etc., inside or outside on school property, including parking lots and even vehicles. It will be up to each of us to see that this rule is obeyed. (And think how much nicer it will be not to be seated downwind of others' tobacco smoke.)

The health and well-being of our youth are at stake. Let's all band together and turn around their current trend of tobacco use by showing them we care.

Members of the Garrett County Tobacco-Free Coalition care. Our next meeting is on Monday, August 26, at 4:30 p.m. in the 2nd-floor conference room of the health department in Oakland. Come join us and support our efforts, or just find out more about the coalition.

Our kids have so many things going for them today, but tobacco isn't one of them.

Sincerely,
Donna Aspinall
Coalition member since 1991

To the Editor:

On page C-3 of for The Republican 8/15/96 there was a "Glimpse of the Past" photograph which showed a group at Swallow Falls State Park. The campfire setting of the photograph brought back a host of childhood memories to me. I wonder if any of the older residents of the area can remember some of these things too.

This area of Swallow Falls was a popular picnic spot during the 1920's, and our family used to drive down there on summer evenings for a picnic.

The automobile in the photograph is parked at the edge of the old wooden bridge over Tolliver Run. The rest of the road into the forest was in very bad condition. However, there were logs to sit on and places for a camp fire on both sides of the road at the entrance to the park.

Where the entrance road turned off the county road there was a wooden building that served as a refreshment stand. Usually, it was only open on Sundays, but among other things, they sold large sugar cookies out of big glass jars. There was also an old fashioned gas pump out in front of the refreshment stand.

Ford, Firestone, and Edison are identified as being in the center of the photograph on page C-3. For a number of years after the famous men camped at Swallow Falls, there remained wooden tent platforms in the clearing at Muddy Creek Falls where the present historical marker now stands.

The old Skipinish lumber railroad crossed over the county road at the entrance to the park, just below the refreshment stand. Although the rails were gone, the cross ties were still in place, and a person could follow the route of the old railroad upstream from the picnic area.

This old railroad right-of-way now forms a major part of the cross country ski trail from Herrington Manor to Swallow Falls.

One thing still exists in that area which use to delight my brothers and myself. This was the enormous sawdust pile which was beside the county road in the direction of the bridge over the Youghiogheny River. It was great fun to climb to the top of the pile and jump or roll all the way to the bottom.

My memories of picnics at Swallow Falls also include people.

It seemed to me that Mr. A. Lincoln "Link" Sines would often stop by sometime during the picnic supper. He and my father would share a cup of coffee and talk about hunting, or fishing, or any number of forest items. Also, it seems to me that Mr. "Newt" Reams and his wife might have been the one who operated the refreshment stand.

Sincerely,
John A. Grant

To the Editor:

This letter is to thank Garrett Lakes Arts Festival, Sincell Publishing, and all the wonderful musicians for bringing the classical music portion of the summer program to us. It is mind boggling that we can hear this caliber of music in our own backyard.

For six years I was asked to go to these performances. I always had something to do. When I finally went four years ago, I could not believe what I heard. I have gone every year since then. My whole family looks forward to going every year.

The gift that the musicians give to us cannot be expressed in words. To say how wonderfully they perform this music does not seem like enough. You have the opportunity to talk to these incredible musicians after the performances. The opportunity to hear them, let alone talk to them, is almost unreal.

During the chamber music portion of this program, I wondered how can two or five people make this music? They mesmerize you; they let you imagine what it was like when the music was written.

My sadness is that there are so many people who do not go. In order for GLAF to be able to continue this caliber of performances, we need to attend them.

I am not affiliated with GLAF, other than my family attends and enjoys their programs. I would hate to see the music, the plays, and other programs be cut out because of lack of funds. Attendance from the public would help ensure that the interest and funding is there. Garrett County can continue to have quality performances with our help.

Go and see the classical music performance this Friday or Saturday at GCC. Call and reserve your ticket. Give yourself and your family the luxury of hearing this music at least once.

To all the musicians, I say BRAVO, and thank you so much. For all that you give to my family and me, these words are heartfelt. My attendance is all I can give you in return. You will have that as long as you perform here.

Sincerely,
Amy L. Britton

To the Editor:

A recent editorial, while not condoning the dispensing of smut, agreed with a panel of federal judges that ruled against banning smut on the Internet. "Our freedom is this nation's greatest asset, "and we must be on guard not to do damage to that asset. "The Right Decision." The Republican, 6-20-96.

The decision on June 11, 1996, by three judges of the U. S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit (Chief Judge Delores K. Sloviter, Judge Ronald L. Buckwalter, and Judge Stewart Dalzell), held that the Communications Decency Act of 1996 signed into law by the President on February 8, 1996 was an unconstitutional infringement upon rights protected by the First Amendment and the Due Process Clause of the Fifth Amendment of the Constitution. The CDA provided for criminal fines or imprisonment for a person: (1) to knowingly transmit by means of a telecommunications device a communication which is obscene or indecent knowing that the recipient of the communication is under 18 years of age; or (2), to use an interactive computer service to send to a person under age 18, a communication which depicts or describes any patently offensive material as measured by contemporary community standards. The legislation was opposed by more than 70 businesses, libraries, non-commercial and not-for-profit organizations, and educational societies and consortia. American Civil Liberties Union et al. v. Janet Reno, Attorney General of the United States.

The principal decision by Chief Judge Sloviter (all three judges wrote separate opinions) is based in large measure on 123 Findings of Fact which describe in detail the nature of cyberspace, the creation of the Internet, the World Wide Web, how the system operates and the use of search engines, how information is put into the system and how one listens and may participate. In 1981 fewer than 300 computers were linked to the Internet, by 1989, 90,000; today, over 9,400,000 host computers participate worldwide of which approximately 60% are located in the United States. Noted is the launching of the Platform for Internet Content Selection by the World Wide Web Consortium to develop technical standards that would support parents' ability to filter and screen material their children see on the Web. Examples are also discussed of stand alone software which various companies have developed and marketed that is intended to enable parents and other adults to limit Internet access of children (for example, Cyber Patrol, CyberNOT, and SurfWatch) as well as the possible use of credit card verification and verification by password.

Judge Sloviter concludes, "We have also found that there is no effective way for many Internet content providers to limit the effective reach of the CDA to adults because there is no realistic way for many providers to ascertain the age of those accessing their materials. As a consequence we have found that many speakers who display arguably indecent content on the Internet must choose between silence and the risk of prosecution. Such a choice strikes at the heart of speech of adults as well as minors."

I'm A Little Bit Country; He's A Little Bit Beltway
by Mary Sincell McEwen and Benjamin Robb

Yes, it's been a while since Ben and I have written, we know. I've just been busy being a mom and he's been busy being annoying. Actually, he's been genuinely preoccupied with a little event that happened this past weekend - Ben Robb is now a husband. He and his bride promised to love, cherish, and respect one another (I think she may have also said "tolerate") forever and ever, Amen. The weekend was, I confess, a total blast. My husband John was in the wedding and we were able to have a whole two days sans children - a needed break. The ceremony took place in the bride's hometown of Columbus, Ohio - a nice city, yes, but here we go on the point of divergence between Ben and me. Which is better - city or rural town living? I vote whole-heartedly for good ole' Garrett County where the air is clear, the water's pure, and the number of stoplights between home and daycare come to a grand total of two. Meanwhile, you could get married and divorced at one light in Columbus.

It has been a long time since we have slung ink. In fact, I do believe that the last time Mary and I teamed-up for a column, she had only two preschool children shrieking in the background.

But on to this week's subject, whether it's better to live in the city or vegetate in the woods. Now, in undertaking this issue, I understand each person seems to view his or her own home-town as some kind of heaven on earth, whether it is a bustling inner city or a desolate desert wasteland. However, we must try to be objective. First, let's look at things from Mary's point of view. Living in a society is complicated, often challenging, and, in reality, is too much for some people to bear. Perhaps Thoreau's regression to a sylvan existence is an example of this phenomenon.

Mary even lived in a modern, industrialized community for a time -- Chapel Hill, N.C. Although, I suppose the southern latitude of that city has allowed it to maintain some of its rustic flavor. Yet, she apparently panicked and fled from civilization. Now, she only makes brief excursions to the city -- just long enough to buy pine nuts and tahini -- and then she dashes back to her woodland home, safe from the world.

You got that right. Challenging? Complicated? Nah, just aggravating. I don't relish the old days in North Carolina when I sat in bumper-to-bumper traffic every single evening of the week, changing from lane to lane and being cut off by dolts in trucks with tires the size of my whole car. I don't love the feeling I get, say, in New York City, where at all times there are people above me (in apartments), below me (in the subway), and certainly all around me in restaurants, on the street, and in trains. I don't savor the idea of spending about 38 minutes sliding 14 deadbolts open on my door to let my kid in who is trying to escape some guy who wants to tattoo his forehead with his fist. And, John made the point to me that every time Ben and company had to go somewhere for some wedding supply this weekend, they had to drive around in the congested metropolis for an hour or more anyway, so why not just stay here in picturesque Western Maryland and drive an hour through pretty cow scenery to get to the mall or to the airport (okay, two hours for that).

So traffic, over-population, and crime are the only things keeping you out in the pasture? As for traffic, you've obviously never gotten stuck behind a coal or log truck on Route 7 in Preston County. At least in the city there are passing lanes. And crowds? Hey, the more the merrier! Especially when one gets to dive into the urban pot of races and cultures. I get bored when everyone looks like me.

And as for fear of crime, you must admit that people in the boondocks have their own fears to endure. Local folks were jittery enough when all they had to worry about was getting "bear ate." Now they have the added fear (driven by rumors, mind you) that government officials are secretly dropping squirming rattlesnakes into the county from helicopters. When one adds trepidation over turtle bites, worry about wasp stings, and sleepless nights by mobile home residents in tornado season, the relative anxieties of urbanites and briar-hoppers might be practically equal.

Of course, I have lived in mountaineer country for a quarter-century, and in the "big city" for only one year, so perhaps in my preference for the latter I am falling into to the old cliché, "The grass is always greener on the other side of the old car up on blocks."

But I'm young, childless, and craving a fresh poppy-seed bagel, so give me the city.

Woman Arrested After Dispute With Boyfriend

A Mountain Lake Park woman was taken into custody by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office early Monday morning after an alleged altercation. Emily M. Knotts, 21, was charged with one count of battery. Other arrests logged by the sheriff's office this week also involved domestic violence as well as an apparent case of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

According to the police report, Ms. Knotts and her boyfriend, Curtis D. Keller, were both drinking alcohol when they began to argue. Keller went into a house the couple shares and locked Knotts outside, at which time she reportedly punched through a window and unlocked the door. She then punched Keller in the mouth, according to the police report.

A neighbor had apparently heard the 12:15 a.m. altercation and then contacted the sheriff's office. Knotts was arrested and taken into custody, and was then transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital for treatment of a severe laceration on her arm, according to the report.

A 25-year-old Oakland man was arrested for alleged domestic violence. Joseph A. Refosco has been charged with one count of battery and one count of malicious destruction of property. The complainant in the case is the defendant's wife, Amy L. Refosco. The incident leading to the charges apparently took place on Aug. 18 at the couple's home.

Officers responded to the home of Mary E. Hall, 47, on Saturday night and found Ms. Hall lying on the ground in front of the house, according to the report. She had allegedly been assaulted by her ex-husband, Michael E. Hall, 46, Oakland. According to her statement, which was also the statement of two witnesses, the defendant had come into Ms. Hall's yard and asked her to come talk to him. When she came near him, he allegedly pulled her to the ground, squeezed her with his legs, and pulled her hair. One witness told the officer that he heard the defendant threaten to kill the victim.

Mr. Hall was charged with assauh and battery as a result of the 10 p.m. incident.

Two local men were arrested by the sheriff's office this week following a dispute at a Mountain Lake Park home. Wayne E. Burkey, 24, Oakland, and Rocky C. Tichnel Sr., 38, Mtn. Lake Park, reportedly came onto the property of David and Barbara Smith on Aug. 19. Smith reportedly told them to leave, but they continued into the yard and house. Burkey is alleged to have battered Smith, and Tichnel reportedly pushed Mrs. Smith during the altercation.

Burkey was charged with burglary, battery, and trespassing, and Smith incurred charges of trespassing, burglary, and two counts of battery.

A Grantsville man was arrested on Aug. 15 after he allegedly took two juveniles to a house where narcotics were being used. Ronald E. House, 20, was charged in the incident. The complainants were Nina M. Wolf and Barbara L. Jenkins.

Five bench warrants were issued for the arrest of Linda Holler, 23, Oakland. She is accused of five counts of failure to appear in court, according to the report.

A bench warrant was issued for the arrest of Richard A. Wright, 38, Grantsville, for violation of probation.

ROLLING INTO THE HOLIDAY INN at Grantsville on Tuesday at approximately 12:30 p.m. were volunteer fire fighters from Grantsville, Salisbury, and Eastern Garrett fire departments after fire broke out in a fourth floor room. Inn manager Steven Walterhoefer was successful in extinguishing the flames before major damage was done to the room, although there was some smoke damage on the floor as well. According to Grantsville second assistant chief Herman Yoder and Deputy State Fire Marshal Steve Wendling, the cause of the fire was electrical in nature, as a bed mattress caught fire from an electrical cord at an outlet. Also responding to the scene was the Northern Rescue Squad, and the Frostburg VFD was alerted, but cancelled before arrival. There were no injuries.

Woman Injured When Car Wedges Beneath Trailer

A Petersburg, W.Va., woman was taken to Memorial Hospital in Cumberland following a one-vehicle accident last Thursday morning at the Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop.

According to a report filed with the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, Mary P. Henderson, 47, was injured when the 1994 Chevrolet Lumina she was operating east on Rt. 40 ran off the right side of the road, went through the truck stop's parking lot, struck a large trailer, and became wedged under the frame.

Henderson was transported to the hospital by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad, where she was initially listed in "stable" condition. She has since been released.

Volunteers from the Grantsville fire department also responded to the 11:45 a.m. mishap.

PICKUP TRUCK, MOTORCYCLE COLLIDE

A second motor vehicle accident was reported at the Keyser's Ridge Truck Stop during the past week. State police said a Pennsylvania woman was injured Saturday afternoon when the motorcycle she was a passenger on collided with a pickup truck in the parking lot.

Beverly G. Porter, 39, Saltsburg, was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 4:15 p.m. accident, where she apparently refused treatment. According to the state police report, the 1992 Kawasaki motorcycle, operated by Lyle E. Watt, 40, also of Saltsburg, was entering the parking lot just as a 1994 Chevrolet Silverado pickup truck, operated by Richard D. Beeman Jr., 24, Grantsville, was attempting to back his truck out of a parking space.

Both Beeman and Watt apparently each thought the other was going to wait, and each accelerated at the same time, causing the collision. No citations were issued in the mishap.

CAR OVERTURNS

An Oakland woman was injured Monday evening when the vehicle she was operating on U.S. Rt. 219, near the intersection with the Glendale Road, struck another vehicle and overturned.

Transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital was Bobbi J. Briggs, 29, Oakland, who was operating her vehicle south on Rt. 219, and attempted to pass a vehicle operated by John T. Peachy, 47, Swanton, who was attempting to make a right turn into a parking lot. Briggs reportedly tried to pass Peachy's vehicle on the right, causing the vehicles to collide. Her car then struck a curb and overturned, coming to rest on its top.

Southern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Briggs to the hospital following the 10:15 p.m. accident. She was treated and released. Neither Peachy nor his passengers, Fannie E. Peachy, 48, and John W. Peachy, 14, required transport to the hospital, according to the police report. Briggs was cited for unsafe passing to the right.

DRIVER CITED

A Friendsville woman was charged with failure to reduce the speed of her vehicle to avoid an accident following a two-vehicle mishap last Friday afternoon on the Blue Goose Road, near the intersection with the Green Gable Road.

State police said Bonnie R. Thomas, 31, was operating her 1994 Plymouth van west on the Green Gable Road, near Friendsville, and had just turned onto the Blue Goose Road, when she saw a 1992 Ford pickup truck, operated by Jason L. Thomas, 25, also of Friendsville, traveling on the Blue Goose Road toward the intersection. Thomas told police that she applied her brakes, but the vehicle skidded across the road and struck the pickup.

Briggs was reportedly treated for her injuries at Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 4:15 p.m. accident.

MINOR INJURIES

Only minor injuries were reported in a two-vehicle accident last Friday evening on U.S. Rt. 219.

State police said William M.B. Mullett Jr., 48, Gaithersburg, was traveling south on Rt. 219, just south of the Bumble Bee Road, and had slowed for traffic when his 1993 Ford Explorer was struck in the rear by a vehicle operated by Todd M. Werdebaugh, 20, Lock Haven, Pa.

One of Mullett's passengers, Nicole Mullett, 16, and Werdebaugh's passenger, Amanda McCormick, 20, also of Lock Haven, reportedly received minor injuries, and were treated at the scene. The drivers and the other passengers in the Mullett vehicle, Sheila Mullett, 46, and Shannon McConaghy, 15, were apparently uninjured in the 10:05 p.m. accident.

SOS Announces Initial Fund-Raising Event

The SOS (Save Oakland Station) team of volunteers has announced its first fund-raiser. An "Evening on the Plaza" is being arranged and will be held on the Garrett County Courthouse Plaza on September 12, 5:30-7:30 p.m. The monies will be used toward SOS's goal to acquire the Oakland Railroad Station and restore it as a visitors' center with available retail space.

Local restaurants will provide a variety of cuisine during the event. Those include McClive's, Silver Tree, Will O' the Wisp, the French Cafe, Cornish Manor, the Wyndam Tee, and The Boardroom. Non-alcoholic beverages will be provided by Lohr Distributors and Eberly Woods.

Entertainment for the evening will include music, featuring the locally popular train scene presented by cast members from The Music Man. Other focal points of the evening will be a display of railroad art presented by The Art Garret and an exhibition of railroad memorabilia from the Garrett County Museum.

Tickets for the fund-raiser are $10 and are available at Rudy's, The Art Garret, and Proudfoot's Pharmacy. They will also be available at the Plaza. The rain location will be the Mountain Fresh Produce Pavilion. For more information, persons may call Dave or Lee Saba at 334-9150.

Chamber Orchestra Slated To Perform At Penn Alps

The Chamber Orchestra from the Western Maryland Symphony, under the direction of John Baumann, will present the finale to the concert season of Music at Penn Alps on Saturday, Aug. 24. The concert will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Hall of Penn Alps, Grantsville.

Beginning the program will be a presentation of Simple Symphony by Benjamin Britton. The work is entirely based on material from works the English composer wrote between the ages of 9 and 12.

Puccini's Christanthenum will be next. Known as the most important Italian opera composer of the late 19th century, Puccini also composed purely instrumental music. Following intermission will be Mozart's Symphony No. 33 in B flat Major.

"This is a concert that perfectly ends the Music at Penn Alps season, and a concert that should not be missed," Baumann said.

Tickets ($8 for adults and $4 for students) are available at the door or may be reserved by calling 895-3332.

Bandfest '96 To Benefit Make-A-Wish

Bandfest '96, an afternoon music festival to benefit the Make-A-Wish Foundation, has been slated for Sunday, Sept. 1, at the Garrett County fairgrounds. Gates will open at 11 a.m., and music will begin at noon, rain or shine.

The event, sponsored by Hot County 92 radio and the Garrett County Sheriff's Office, will feature live music by South Branch Bluegrass, Perry Kamp, Boomerang, the Short Brothers, and Boathouse.

Tickets are available for $5 per person at Marvin's Men's Wear, Oakland; Long Branch Saloon, Mtn. Lake Park; Arrowhead Market, Deep Creek Lake; Deep Creek Pharmacy, Mcllenry; Naylor's True Value Hardware, Frostburg, LaVale, and Cumberland; and Plaza Drug Mart, Kingwood, W.Va. Children age 10 and under will be admitted free.

Food and beverages will be available, and attendees are asked to bring lawn chairs or blankets.

The Make-A-Wish Foundation of the Mid-Atlantic, Inc., is a non-profit, volunteer organization with one mission: to fulfill the "wishes" of children between the ages of 2 and one-half and 18 who are suffering from life-threatening or terminal illnesses.

The Mid-Atlantic chapter, which serves Maryland, Delaware, the District of Columbia, and Northern Virginia, is a branch of the Make-A-Wish Foundation of America, Inc., the nation's largest wish-granting charity with chapters across the U.S. and abroad.

In other Make-A-Wish news, Mark and Lisa Marucci, Oakland, recently joined the organization as volunteers, and will work out of the group's Western Maryland field office, which serves Garrett and Allegany counties. A total of 15 volunteers are currently affiliated with this field office; however, the Maruccis are the first volunteers from Garrett County.

Quilt Celebrates

follows the tradition that women tend to be the caretakers of the family, and take on the responsibility of keeping the family healthy."

The youngest volunteer was Sherrard's daughter Abby, 6, who helped her mother hand out the fabric to the volunteers piecing the quilt together. Cora Fazenbaker, the oldest volunteer at 82, began quilting when she was 10 and has continued with her hobby during the winter months throughout her life.

Many of the Healthy Community Quilt volunteers have been quilters for years, including Elda Beitzel, who remembers tracing pictures from coloring books to use as quilt patterns when she was younger, and Winnie Sisler, who, during a break from quilting, pulled a picture of her Garrett County Fair best-of-show quilt from her purse to show other volunteers.

Several quilt pieces brought groups and families together to sew, including outreach team members Linda Severe, Donna Knox, and Nancy Broad, who, along with their families, completed quilt squares showing a farm, a produce stand, and the Garrett County Fair.

"Although we asked for one to two hours of time from each of the quilters, many of them donated more than four hours to help create the quilt," noted Sherrard. "We have received a heart-warming response from each of the volunteers, which is very special for us now as we face rapid changes in public health and an uncertain future at the local level."

"In addition to expressing how communities are responsible for the county's health, the Healthy Community Quilt visualizes the importance of one person passing information along to others," the spokesperson explained. "This idea is depicted through the stenciled grapevine, which grows from the words 'Garrett County Health Department,' and flows throughout the design on the quilt."

"The health department's outreach team works hard to get information out into the communities, but they rely on others, including neighbors and relatives, to keep the passage of information constant after their initial work is complete," commented Sherrard. "Their motto is to live, learn, and pass it on."

Sherrard and other health department representatives, including Deputy Health Officer David Dube and members of the outreach team, recently met with the volunteer quilters at the Garrett County fairgrounds. At this event, the volunteers were able to meet each other and have photos taken in front of the finished quilt, which was on display at the health department booth during the Garrett County Fair.

"It's a tradition to see quilts designed by local women on display during the Garrett County Fair, since quilting is a popular pastime in this area that has been passed on through the generations," stated Sherrard.

Garrett County's Healthy Community Quilt will be taken along to state and national meetings that health department personnel attend in future months and may be on display locally at the heahh department or court house.

Quilt volunteers included Beverly Beard, Deep Creek Lake; Lillie Beckman, Hutton; Earleen Beckman, Swanton; Lola Beiler, Accident; Elda Beitzel, Grantsville; Olive Bender, Accident; Minnie Bittinger, Grantsville; Ruth Bittinger, Grantsville; Louise Bond, McHenry; Shelly Booska, Deep Creek Lake; Elsie Brady, Kitzmiller; Nancy Brady, Kitzmiller; Carol Clark, Red House; Helen Carroll, Gorman; Teresa Durst, Kitzmiller; Joan Dixon, Friendsville; Thelma Emory, Bittinger; Issabella Elliott, Kitzmiller; Opal Fazenbaker, Green Glade; Mary Evans, Table Rock; Teresa Feather, Pleasant Valley; Cora Fazenbaker, Frostburg; Ruth Gaither, Thomas; Becky Friend, Loch Lynn; Nancy Getz, Gorman; Pauline Georg, Accident; Helen Harman, Cove; Louise Hardesty, Kitzmiller; Phyllis Knepp, Red House; Freda Iden, Deep Creek Lake; Kay Knox, Accident; Donna Knox, Accident; Diane Lee, Mtn. In Loving Memory of
BARRY E. BEACHY

It is just a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears.
Wishing God could have spared you
For many, many more years.

We often sit and think of you,
And think of how you died.
To think you could not say goodbye,
Before you closed your eyes.

Sometimes its hard to understand
Why some things have to be.
But in His wisdom God has planned
Beyond our power to see.

So looking back in tenderness
Along the path we trod.
We cherish the years we had with you
And leave the rest to God.

No one knows how much we miss you.
No one knows the bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you
Life has never been the same.

A million times we've needed you
A million times we've cried.
If love alone could have saved you,
You never would have died.

In life we loved you dearly.
In death we love you still.
In our hearts you hold a place
No one can ever fill.

Sadly Missed By,
Mom & Dad, Sharon, Tammy,
Tommy, Michael

In Rememberance of LONA HUMBERSON
August 1897 - Sept. 1967

I thought of you with love today,
But that is nothing new.
I thought about you yesterday and days before that too.
I think of you in silence
I often speak your name.
All I have are memories and your picture in a frame.
Your memory is my keepsake with which I'll never part.
God has you in His keeping but I have you in my heart.

I surely miss you.
Faye Guard & Granddaughter, Susan

Garrett County Outdoors

by Robert Yonke

The end of summer is bittersweet to the outdoors enthusiast. The sadness brought by the thought that long anticipated summer activities are now memories is tempered by the anticipation of a spectrum of traditional fall activities. Fishing, slowed by warm lakes and streams, will be rejuvenated by cooler temperatures. And, a fresh hunting season is just around the corner.

GARRETT COUNTY ADVENTURE

Here is an idea for a fall adventure. Fishing the tailrace waters of the Jennings Randolph dam can be an exciting day of trout fishing. If you haven't done it and would enjoy a day of first class trout fishing, you ought to try it. The area has a feel of wildness, great scenics, and a variety of trout. In fact, this water is one of only four in the United States that harbors brook, brown, rainbow, and cutthroat trout along with hybrids.

This North Branch of the Potomac is a classic tailwater fishery. That is: constant flow through all seasons and relatively constant temperature, which means the water is right most of the time.

The river here has a two-mile section of fly fishing only, catch and release, project water just below a section of conventional regulation. Your Maryland license with a trout stamp is the only license needed even though access is through Barnum on the West Virginia side of the river. Barnum is located near Elk Garden just off West Virginia Route 46.

A good way to learn how to fish this water is by using a local guide service offered by Spring Creek Outfitters in Mountain Lake Park. The partner owners of the shop, Harold Harsh and Allen Noland, are very knowledgeable about this river and guide both wading trips and float trips for a reasonable fee. Information about these trips is available at 387-6409.

If you go on a guided trip, advice on the proper flies and equipment will be provided. If you go on your own, you might try a 14 to 18 blue wing olive or a variety of midges and terrestrials. The boys at Spring Creek Outfitters tie a nifty parachute that is a delight to cast, easy to see on the water, and effective at evoking strikes. Take your chest waders with felt soles and wading staff.

CURRENT RIVER REPORT

This writer tried to fish the Savage River project water below the reservoir last Sunday, but was frustrated by roaring waters. There were a few hardy fly fishermen in the long run above the upper suspension bridge, but even this normally flat run was running very hard and was quite discolored. I didn't see anything caught.

The reservoir above the dam was quite full and this probably means that the lower Savage is going to continue to be high for a while since the level will need to be lowered before winter. Fly fisherman might look to the North Branch or the Yough.

LAKE FISHING CONDITIONS

Johnny Marple reports that Deep Creek Lake has had a good year producing a steady crop of large bluegills and perch, lots of chain pickerel, and lots of pound to pound and a half smallmouth bass. John says that action should be picking up as it usually does in mid-September and continuing hot until at least mid-October.

For eating, it's hard to beat fresh caught lake bluegills and perch. An easy recipe is to dip fillets into a batter of Bisquick and beer and then deep fry them in butter or Crisco.

The question everyone is asking is, where are the walleyes and northerns. Their numbers have been down considerably this year.

Sailboat Racing

On Deep Creek Lake

LIGHT AIR A TEST OF PATIENCE AND CONCENTRATION

by Dan Muss

Well, it was a wonderful weekend for vacationers, golfers, water skiers, and sunbathers, but there were no smiles for the sailboat racers... there was very little wind. But they still got in two races on Saturday and one on Sunday; they were all very short races. When the winds are light the savvy racers try to sail close to shore because the temperature difference between the land and the water can generate small, short zephyrs that they can ride for a few seconds.

The only time I ever won a Flying Scot A Fleet race was in such light air. On the first windward leg half the fleet went to the left hand shoreline, the other half went right. I had had a bad start and there was no future to following either group, so I went up the middle. A miraculous shaft of air came right down the middle and wafted us around the mark minutes ahead of the next boat. We popped our spinnaker and were able to hold first to the finish; but that was a long time ago.

In spite of (or maybe because of) the light air there was a protest hearing to consider an altercation that occurred in the flying Scot B Fleet in the Sunday race. According to the reports filed by the litigants, Betz was close-hauled on the starboard tack (with right-of-way), Thagard crossing on port. According to Betz, Thagard started to tack, but was unable to complete his tack and contact occurred. According to Thagard, the Thagard boat had completed his tack and Betz, as the overtaking windward boat had to keep clear. The protest committee heard the protest and ruled that Thagard had tacked too close and was disqualified. I had not witnessed the altercation, but it must have taken place in agonizing slow motion.

Among the cyclists in the 300-mile event is Tom Ruckert, a staff member at Garrett County's Salem home near Grantsville, pictured above, will be riding this year in memory of his father, Jack Ruckert, who died recently of injuries received in a cycling accident. Grantsville To Host Volleyball Event Aug. 24-25

The Grantsville Planning Committee, a grant-funded organization which promotes drug-, alcohol-, and tobacco-free activities for the community, is planning its culminating volleyball tournament for Saturday, August 24, and Sunday, August 25, at the volleyball courts in the Grantsville Community Park. The schedule includes two-on-two co-ed pairs for Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m., and two-on-two men's pairs beginning at 8 a.m. on Sunday. Six person teams will begin playing at 1 p.m. on Sunday. Spectators are invited and refreshments will be available.

The Grantsville Planning Committee is finishing its second year of sponsoring community volleyball. This year there were 13 teams which competed on Monday and Wednesday nights. The committee strives to provide drug- and alcohol-free, family activities, and this summer the volleyball league has also pledged to be tobacco-free during the games. Proceeds from the volleyball tournament will go toward a fund to purchase lights for the volleyball courts. Prizes will be awarded.

The Grantsville Planning Committee has recently received its third grant through the Garrett County Health Department. Some of its proposed activities include: family dances, summer craft activities, holiday crafts, and collaborative activities with other Grantsville organizations. The committee is currently working on starting a karate class for families in the Grantsville area, and is exploring offering a first-aid/CPR class for interested families.

The committee meets the second Tuesday of each month at the Grantsville fire hall. The public is welcome and invited to participate. Meetings begin at 7 p.m.

Over 450 Youth Registered For Youth Soccer

The sport of soccer is experiencing rapid growth throughout the United States, especially with the advent of the national professional league this season, and Garrett County is following suit, as a record 466 youngsters have registered to play in the Mountaintop Soccer Association's youth division this fall.

Ron Petrella, MSA president, said that practices for the 42 teams in the league have begun, or will soon begin, practice for the 1996 season. The number of players in the league has set records in each of the seven seasons since the league formed in 1990, when approximately 100 area youth participated.

Petrella said that the eight-game regular season will begin Saturday, Sept. 7, and end with championship games on Saturday, Nov. 2, with a number of contests being played on week days as well as Saturdays for the older divisions. There will be no games on October 12, the Saturday of the Autumn Glory Festival.

Eighteen of the teams in the league, including the Under 14 and Under 12 division teams, are sponsored by local businesses, and Petrella said the MSA welcomes additional sponsors to help with the expenses of operating the league. He may be reached at 334-1174 for more information about sponsorship, the MSA, and/or the 1996 season.

"We really appreciate the support of local businesses, the coaches, parents, and the MSA board members for all of their hard work," Petrella said. "The Association has been successful as a result of the hard work of many people.

"I also thank Carole Ann Lovett (past president), who has done a wonderful job for MSA for the past six years, and I hope that I can continue the positive influence that she has demonstrated during that time," he added.

He noted that Mrs. Lovett also coordinated the North American soccer camp this year, which was held three weeks ago and involved 121 youth.

the-art computers, a high end compressed video studio to complement GCC's full motion studio, and state-of-the-art equipment for making multi-medi presentations and Web pages. All Garrett County businesses will have local dial access to the system.

The Garrett Rural Information Cooperative administers the system as a public service in order to make the benefits of telecommunications affordable to all Garrett Countians now and in the future. All GRIC directors are uncompensated volunteers. GRIC is modeled after a farm cooperative. Garrett Countians share their telecommunications resources, and then they share in the benefits deriving from them. Every dollar earned in subscriber fees in reinvested back into the system to keep it state-of-the-art. User fees stay in Garrett County and work for the benefit of all local businesses and residents. Costly duplication of expenditure for equipment and services is entirely eliminated, the spokesperson added.

The system is comprehensive, meeting the total information needs of a rural community, including businesses, professionals, government, education, health, agriculture, libraries, social service agencies, clubs and organizations, and individuals. Already the system is playing a role in attracting new businesses to Garrett County since information based enterprises can conduct their business transactions without geography or distance being an impediment.

Garrett Community College will be the home for the GCNET. The college's technical center has been completely renovated to accommodate the installations. Visitors to the executive showcase will have hands-on demonstrations to show the new capabilities now available to Garrett Countians. Federal and state government representatives and spokespersons from leading hardware and software manufacturers are expected to attend the showcase.

The next big event following the Executive Premiere Showcase will be a grand opening for the whole community, scheduled for September 10.

year's increase in the state budget for circuit courts will continue in next year's budget, Braskey added.

During the MACo conference, the governor also discussed his concept of "smart growth," in which incentives would be used to channel economic growth into areas with existing infrastructure. Glendening said that this program is not intended to take authority away from county planning offices, Braskey remarked.

"I think that will help us locally as far as our industrial parks," Braskey said, adding that the program could also benefit downtown businesses in Garrett municipalities.

Also during the conference, Braskey met with Louis Goldstein, comptroller of the Maryland Treasury and member of the state Board of Public Works, to discuss the commissioners' interest in purchasing a 42-acre parcel, located at the intersection of U.S. Routes 219 and 40 on Meadow Mountain, to serve as a new home for the county roads department's Grantsville garage as well as a potential site for commercial development. A solid waste/recycling collection station is currently located on the 42-acre site.

The commissioners also voiced their support for the Youghiogheny River Management Plan with representatives of the Maryland Department of Natural Resources (DNR), Braskey said.

The commissioners approved the plan by a unanimous vote earlier this month.

"I think the majority of people in that [Yough River] area support the plan," Braskey remarked.

Glotfelty also stated that he spoke with Jim Brady, director of economic development for the state. However, Glotfelty said that Brady did not have any new information about the future of the Oakland Bausch & Lomb facility, which is slated to close this year.

ensemble that performs 60 times yearly. He has considered music "a part-time vocation" in his life, having been a brass player throughout his college career. He travels regularly to Pittsburgh to see both symphony and opera events with his wife. Judge Thayer has always been an avid supporter of the arts, and in fact was one of the original founding members of Garrett Lakes Arts Festival.

"We met at GCC President Steve Herman's home, initially," said Thayer, "to set up an arts program in the Deep Creek area which would attract people aside from the surface uses of the Garrett County area -- skiing and boating. We developed a program designed to expand and support the visual as well as audio arts, with the classical music program at the center. The Deep Creek Chamber Players and the Symphony at Deep Creek provided an ideal medium to build around, and the arts have taken off in Garrett.

"The arts need a whole lot of stroking and support. We will do what we can to see that this tradition continues," concluded Thayer.

Erick Friedman will grace the stage again Friday night to perform Tchaikovsky's Concerto for Violin and Orchestra, Opus 35. He has been busy conducting six hours of rehearsals with symphony members daily and then doing his own work on violin in preparation for his solo work. It takes a minimum of two hours of practice every day for a professional to remain at the same performing level, more than that to continue growth and development as a musician. Friedman stamina is incredible.

Neal Corwell was commissioned to write a festival premiere which makes its debut Friday evening. Corwell is a euphonium player, and this piece was written for euphonium, tuba, strings, and piano. Corwell earned degrees from Frostburg State University and George Mason University and is currently a doctoral candidate at the University of Maryland completing work for a doctor of musical arts in brass performance and pedagogy. Corwell was a featured euphonium soloist with the elite performing organization "Pershing's Own," the U. S. Army Band in Washington, D.C., and has also performed as a soloist as well as commissioned by several other international lower brass conferences to write music. Corwell is also a contributing editor of the T.U.B.A. Journal, an international publication for lower brass performers worldwide (Tubist Universal Brotherhood Association).

Soloist Velvet Brown, tuba, will perform Friday evening with Corwell the world premier of Denali. Brown, a specialist in tuba and euphonium performance and instruction, is on the faculty of Bowling Green State University, Ohio. Brown has performed with the Fort Wayne Philharmonic, and is principal tubist with the New Hampshire Music Festival Orchestra, Muncie Symphony Orchestra, and Marion Philharmonic. She also performs as tubist with the Velvet Brass, Monarch Brass, and is a founding member of the Boston Tuba Quartet. Brown was a featured solo artist at the first International Women's Brass Conference in St. Louis in 1992 and at the first International Brassfest hosted by Summit Brass at Indiana University in 1995. She is also the recipient of numerous international prizes for performance.

Saturday night, Brown will perform the second movement of Romance from the Concerto for Bass Tuba by Vaughn Williams. Brown completed her undergraduate work at WVU and holds a master's degree from Boston University. She is working toward a doctoral degree at Indiana and is vice president of the International Women's Brass Conference.

This weekend's two programs, each different, will include Beethoven's Sixth Symphony (Pastoral), Handel's Water Music Suite in G, Bach's Air on the G String, and Bizet's suite from Carmen. For more information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 387-3082. Performances start at 8 p.m. in the Garrett Community College auditorium. Tickets are $10 for adults and $5 for youth 18 and under. They are available at the following pharmacies: Gregg's, Englander's, Deep Creek, and Beachy's. They are also available at the box office.

CORRECTION regarding last week's feature: Erick Friedman's status as an "orchestra performer" was incorrectly reported in last week's feature story. Mr. Friedman has performed with orchestras strictly as a soloist throughout his career as one of the world's premiere violinists and recording artists. I apologize for my error.

New Eye Medicine Lowers Pressure
Glaucoma is a condition of increased pressure in and around the eye ball. This condition may result from an increase in the production of fluid that bathes the eye or from a reduction in the drainage of fluid from the eye. With some glaucoma types, pain is not present. If left untreated, glaucoma can result in blurred vision and blindness.
Medicines for glaucoma work by decreasing the production of eye fluid or increasing drainage of eye fluid already produced.
A new glaucoma eye medicine has been approved and is scheduled to be available later this year. The new medicine is latanoprost. This is the first synthetic prostagladin approved for glaucoma. Prostagladins are naturally occurring chemicals in the body that produce many different effects. The medicine increase drainage of eye fluid. Lanlanoprost is approved only for persons who do not respond to or cannot tolerate other glaucoma medicines. When it is used with pilocarpine or timdol, additional reductione in eye pressure have been noted.

Home Honors Crosten, Johnson

Gary Crosten

Kim Johnson

Outstanding employee awards for dependability were recently announced by Burlington United Methodist Family Services President/CFO Gary K. Wilson. Award recipients nominated by their peers and selected by the management team to receive awards were Gary Crosten and Kim Johnson.

Gary Crosten, accounting supervisor in Burlington's administrative offices, was praised by his coworkers for leadership in the successful implementation of a new accounting system and a network for Burlington's management information system.

"Gary is cordial and pleasant to work with and no matter what you ask him to do for you, no matter how difficult the task, it will get done," his coworkers stated.

Crosten has been employed at Burlington since September, 1994. He is a graduate of Frostburg State University and holds a B.S. degree in business administration.

He had previously been employed by a plastics manufacturer in quality control and a Virginia recreational facility as an operations and finance manager. One of his favorite jobs occurred early in his career when he worked for Washington Redskins owner Jack Kent Cook.

"The employee award was a welcome but unexpected surprise," Crosten said. He also thanked his accounting department staff for their contributions and credited them for much of the department's day-to-day operations.

Crosten and his wife of 26 years, Linda, are the parents of three sons and reside in Frostburg.

Also receiving a dependability award was Kim Johnson, child care worker III and parent trainer in the Craig House Girls' Group Home. She was cited by her peers for "her love of her clients . . . not just as her employment but from her heart. She has worked when needed without hesitation, even when called late at night . . . or in the midst of a crisis."

Johnson, a native of Garrett County, graduated from Southern Garrett High School in 1986 and joined Burlington in April, 1993. Since that time, she has undergone a variety of training.

"The training has helped me develop the ability to reunite children with their families," she commented.

Johnson credits her mother, father, and brothe with encouraging her to have confidence in he abilities and for teachin her to work hard in every thing she does.

"I'd really like to th my family, God, and r coworkers at Craig House for making me what I am today," she said.

Q. How can I tell if my Currier and Ives print is an original? It pictures a farmhouse in winter. The print is 8½ by 11 inches.

A. Your print is the size of standard piece of office paper. Original prints were made in many sizes, from large folio (14 by 20 inches or larger) to very small (less than 7 by 9 inches).

Carefully examine your print. The margin around the picture should be about one inch. The designation Currier and Ives or Nathaniel Currier and a street address in New York City should be at the bottom of the picture. It should not include any other name. Many prints appeared on calendars that were given away by insurance companies.

Original prints are made of a series of short lines. If you look at the print with a magnifying glass and see dots, you probably own a copy. Original prints were hand-colored. Copies are printed in color.

Feel the paper used for your print. You may be able to tell if it is old or new. Your library will have a book that lists the Currier and Ives prints and the exact size of the original.

Q. I heard that the best Barbie doll has the Roman numeral MCMLVIII on her backside. Is this true?

A. The first Barbie was sold in 1959. The doll's body was marked "Barbie TM/Pats. Pend./MCMLVIII/by/Mattel/Inc." The Roman numeral was for 1958 because Barbie was designed and manufactured a few months before the doll was actually offered in the stores. The doll had metal cylinders in the legs, and holes in the bottom of the feet. The doll was kept on a stand with two prongs.

If you think you know what goes on in a hospital emergency room because you watch "ER" on TV, you don't know the half of it. You can fill the gaps in your knowledge with a fascinating book called "Emergency! The Stories from the Nation's ER's" by Mark Brown, M.D. It's a collection of true stories sent to Dr. Brown by emergency room physicians around the country.

"The television show reflects the procedures followed in an ER," Dr. Brown says. "But as well written as the show is, nothing can match the experiences of real people in real situations." Dr. Brown, a Harvard Law School graduate, worked in the Los Angeles District Attorney's office before going into private practice and eventually, teaching law. He shifted professional gears in 1979 when he enrolled in Dartmouth Medical School. In 1982 he entered emergency medicine and stayed with it because, he says, "I find it to be the most fascinating medical specialty."

Specialty? Indeed. Many people don't realize it, but when they're seen by a doctor in an ER, that person is practicing a specialty. "Until 1968," Brown says, "ERs were staffed with doctors on a rotating basis: one day a gynecologist, another day a cardiologist, etc. So if you came in with a heart attack and the ophthalmologist was on duty, you could be in trouble. In Vietnam they learned if you transported people quickly to specialty trauma units, it would really make a difference. That led to a shift of thinking about how to treat emergencies in an emergency department. A specialty evolved and now we have doctors specially trained and Board certified in emergency medicine."

While most people will accept that care in the ERs has improved thanks to the presence of emergency medicine doctors, there is still the sense that ER patients have few rights.

Says Dr. Brown, "In 1985 an omnibus law was passed covering these rights. One of them requires that a patient who comes into an ER must be seen before he or she can be discharged from the emergency department, and must be seen before they are asked about their financial status."

Household Help

Q. We are the third owners of a high ranch that is 28 years old. I intend to either repair or replace whatever needs fixing, but in a reasonable way financially. On the main floor, I would like to replace my existing front door and the side kitchen door. There hasn't been an aluminum storm door on either one and they are very weather-beaten.

I would like to purchase two pre-hung factory doors and also the storm doors. The door jambs can accommodate both the storm and pre-hung doors. Can you tell me if any additional framework needs to be done after removing the old doors and jambs?

A. Provided you use caution and carefully remove your old doors, you shouldn't have to do any framework. However, if after the doors, jambs and even the old door sills are extracted, you discover rotted wood, then that's another story. Hopefully, the damage you'll find is not too extensive and only a minor repair is needed.

Begin your search by looking for a large home center that stocks many different types and styles of doors. This kind of store will not only give you the flexibility of comparison shopping, but is also reasonable in price. And many of these stores willingly offer help for the average do-it-yourselfer.

Next, accurately measure the width of your existing door and also the thickness. Measure the width of your rough opening, whether between the masonry posts or the finished frame. Doors come in width sizes of 32", 34" and 36" and are generally 6 feet 8 inches high. A word of caution to follow when purchasing a new pre-hung door is to make sure the old door sill can be removed with the entire unit. If your older home has a permanent concrete door sill, you will have to have it jack-hammered away to fit the pre-hung door.

Installing a storm door can be a little tricky, but with a little patience, you will persevere. Sometimes, small shims are needed to accurately account for a smooth-opening storm door. Again, most home centers will assist you.

Note: Be sure you know whether your door is a right-handed or left-handed opening door before purchasing.

Crime Prevention Academy Graduates Several Seniors

Garrett County Sheriff Randy Sines and S.A.L.T. (Seniors and Lawmen Together) have announced the graduation of several senior citizens from the recent Crime Prevention Academy.

Classes were held in July and were reportedly well-attended. Several topics were covered, and several persons gave presentations. Guest speakers included Daryl Walters from the State's Attorney's Office, Francis Callis and Brenda Arnold from the Domestic Violence/Sexual Assault Resource Center, Ranger Walker from Deep Creek State Park, Lt. Larry Gnegy, Deputy Mike Bittinger, and the police dog "Deek," all from the sheriff's office; Helen Heath, health department spokesperson; Don Quinn, Department of Social Services; and Detective Pat Kelly, also of the sheriff's office.

"Law enforcement is continually changing and it is important that our seniors are aware of these changes so the sheriff's office can best serve them," Sines said. "I feel the academy has been an excellent way to help accomplish this goal."

Evaluation forms completed by the graduates reportedly ranked the learning experience as "excellent" and felt it was helpful to them.

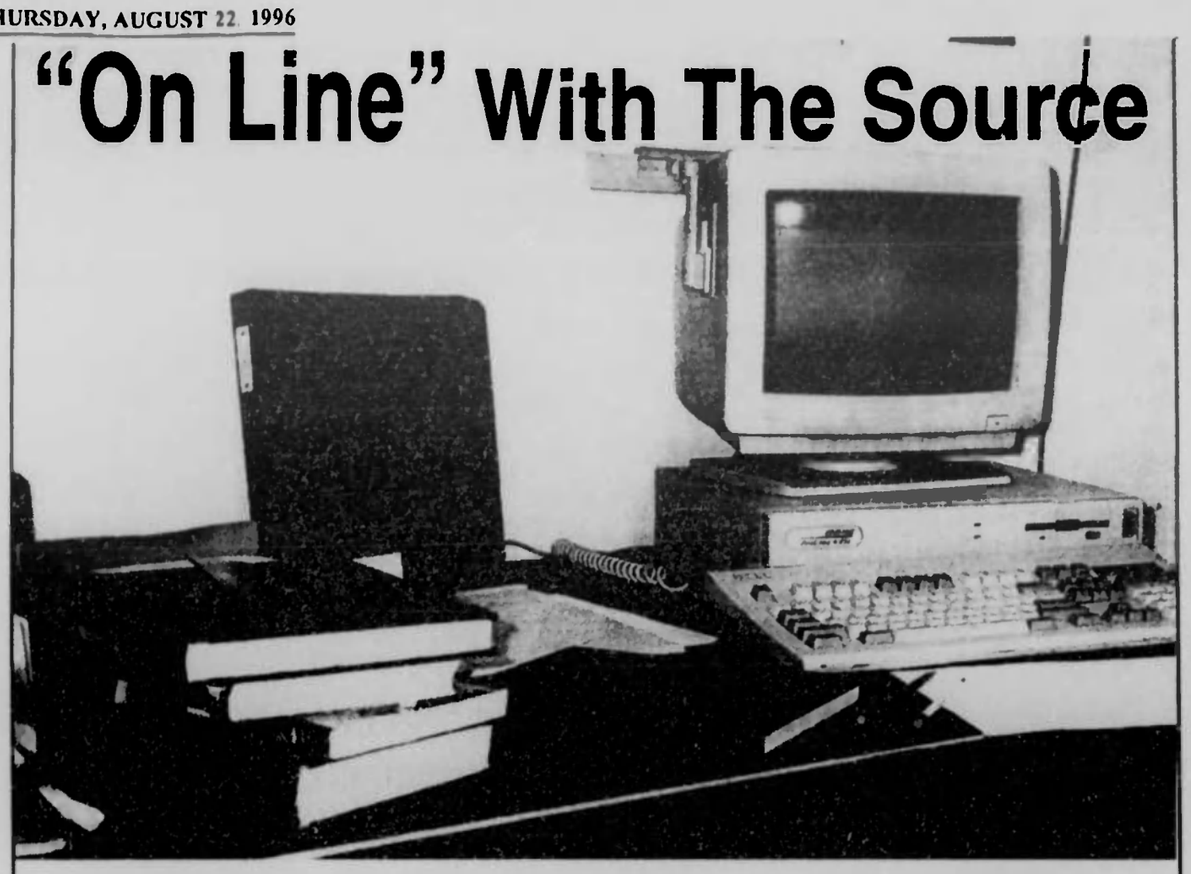
"On Line" With The Source



As each school year begins, the inevitable "supply list" changes a bit. Is there a personal computer on your list? The "PC" is rapidly becoming a source that is integral to today's educational needs. In only one decade, the "new math" has become old hat and "on line" is the new lingo. Bridging the generation gap is even more of a challenge in this age of new technology and "languages". What's a family to do?

Now it is more important than ever for families to take the time for regular worship. The study and family discussion of the universal language of God's Word in a constantly changing society is increasingly integral to today's spiritual needs and the survival of the family. Hebrews 13:08 reminds us that God never changes, but is the same "yesterday, today, and forever." Get "on line" with our spiritual Source at your local church or synagogue. Put God at the top of your list.

HAVE A PLEASANT TRIP

Many a vacation has been ruined by an ailment that is most common to tourists -- diarrhea. In a great many cases, diarrhea can be brought on by excitement, diet or fatigue of the vacation and usually it will disappear after a day or two.

One way to possibly avoid this unpleasantness is to follow some common sense rules -- don't wait until the last minute to get ready, don't drive too far each day, stop and stretch your legs and don't over-eat while traveling. It might also be a good idea to stop by and let us recommend something to take along in case the problem comes up despite your efforts to avoid it.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

ON SAVING THE WORLD

Background Scripture:
Psalms 96
Devotional Reading:
Psalms 98:1-9

As a minister I'm afraid that all too often in my pastorates I urged people to come to our worship services out of loyalty to God and the Church. I probably gave some people the impression that the purpose of worship is to satisfy some requirement that God places upon us. If we are not regular in worship, we assume that God and the pastor are displeased, although maybe not in that order.

In other words, worship is all too often regarded as an obligation. We do it from time to time to keep God happy or to keep God from getting too angry or disappointed with us. It is easy to see why some people regard attending worship on the same level as visiting their dentist-- they know it is good for them, but at best it is uncomfortable.

Read the 96th Psalm and you will see that the psalmist didn't regard praising God as an obligation, but as a blessed opportunity. It is not self-discipline that motivates him but the joy of celebrating the glory of God's kingship. "O sing to the Lord a new song...Sing to the Lord, bless his name; tell of his salvation from day to day" (96:1, 2).

WHO NEEDS IT?

So, we worship God, not because he requires it of us, or because he is flattered by it. In fact, we do it because we need it. Worship does something for us. When the psalmist shouted, "Declare his glory among the nations, his marvelous works among all people!" he was being lifted up above his normal state of consciousness to an experience that transformed him.

By focussing upon the Lord, the worshipper is transformed. Maybe that's why many of us still don't enjoy worship and praising God is so difficult for us. We are so self-centered that we think of God only in terms of using him for our own ends. In worship, just for one brief hour we have the opportunity to forget ourselves and become immersed in Him whose glory has the power to make us better, truer, more loving people. President Calvin Coolidge once said, "It is only when men begin to worship that they begin to grow." Worship opens us up to spiritual growth.

It is obvious that what the psalmist is experiencing, worship, is something rather different than simply attending worship. It is a time when our eyes can be lifted up beyond the four walls of the church sanctuary, a moment when we can grow beyond our own narrow range of concerns, and catch a vision of what life was created to be.

MORE THAN CHURCH GOING

The psalmist is caught up in a vision of the whole of creation praising God and celebrating his glory. He calls, not just to his own people, but everyone everywhere: "Ascribe to the Lord, O families of the peoples, ascribe to the Lord glory and strength... Say among the nations, 'The Lord reigns!' " (vs. 7.10a). The psalmist sees all nature joining in this celebration: "Let the heavens be glad, and let the earth rejoice; let the sea roar, and all that fills it; let the field exult, and everything in it! Then shall all the trees of the wood sing for joy before the Lord..." (vs. 11, 12).

Going to church will not transform the world, but worship will. Many years ago Archbishop William Temple said this in a broadcast in the USA: "I am disposed to begin by making what many people will feel to be a quite outrageous statement. This world can be saved from political chaos and collapse by one thing only, and that is worship. For to worship is to quicken the conscience by the holiness of God, to feed the mind with the truth of God, to purge the imagination with the beauty of God, to open up the heart to the love of God, to devote the will to the purpose of God."

COVER STORY

NBC's Class Reunion follows class of '86

By Barry Garron
TVData Features

The 10th reunion of Parkrose High School's class of 1986 was different from most. It was filmed for prime time television.

Class Reunion, airing Saturday, Aug. 31 on NBC, is a two-hour compression of four days spent with 15 carefully ... Parkrose graduates.

The actual reunion party gets only a few minutes at the end of the movie. Most of the film is about the anxieties, memories, grudges and perspectives of high-school alumni who look back at 10 years that were sometimes more bitter than sweet.

Producers Jonathan Murray and Mary Ellis Bunim chose the Portland, Ore., school after they and a team of researchers spent five months considering nearly 500 high schools.

"Part of the reason we settled on Parkrose was that there were a group of people who represented different cliques within the high school who had clearly definable stories, a reason to go back to their reunion," Murray says.

"They had unfinished business from high school or they had changed in such a way that they wanted to go back and show their classmates how they had changed in their life."

Of these, the most obvious was Marne Lucas, who had hip operations her freshman and sophomore years and walked with crutches and a cane. Short and overweight, she received practically no attention from the boys in school.

After she left Parkrose, though, she grew 6 inches, lost 20 pounds, moved to Europe and embarked on a career as a print and runway model. In Class Reunion, she practically exudes self-confidence and sex appeal.

The film also reunites Julie Conaway and Kent Kowalski. Once inseparable sweethearts, they went their separate ways after high school.

Marne Lucas

Then there's Chris Kenny, a wise guy who earned the undying hostility of two former friends after he tried to sabotage their courtship. All three are reunited in the film.

In addition to the unresolved conflicts, there were some new ones. One man who refused to go to a dance club frequented by homosexuals became the target of several barbs and the victim of a prank during the reunion party.

Class Reunion requires cast members to give up virtually all privacy and allow cameras to record practically everything they say and do.

There's just something about watching real people and real emotions that appeals to viewers, Murray says.

"You're getting an inside look into someone's own experience that you may or may not have gone through.

"It's very real. It hits you in a way that a scripted drama doesn't hit you because you know it's real."

Also, he says, Class Reunion contains a message that is particularly important for those in high school today.

"You're going to come away from it with a realization that the popular kids had insecurities, too," he explains. "And the popular kids are going to come away with a realization that they do have insecurities and, maybe, they can reach across to other people."

Boyd Matson, the accomplished host of the weekly series National Geographic Explorer, celebrates the show's greatest moments from the past 10 years.

The anniversary show airs Sunday, Aug. 25, on TBS.

In the past decade Explorer has traveled all over the world including underwater to get a look at the Titanic.

This special episode marks the start of a new season of incredible journeys, intense explorations and tender moments.

Comings and goings and weddings for stars

By Candace Havens

Kelly Ripa

Some people really can keep a secret. Imagine the surprise of cast members, fans and friends who discovered two of their favorite All My Children actors had been married for more than three months.

Kelly Ripa (Hayley) and Mark Consuelos (Mateo) were married May 1 at the Chapel of Bells in Las Vegas.

The couple decided to delay telling friends and fans until they could tell their parents in person. Consuelos' mom has been out of the country ...

Ripa and Consuelos honeymooned in Italy before returning to the AMC ...

In other news ... departure ... of Alice Barrett, who plays Frankie on Another World. The actress is leaving the show in a cloud of mystery.

Barrett was let go for story line reasons, which was not what she wanted. "I felt like Frankie still had some great stories to tell," said Barrett. "But that is the way it goes sometimes."

Coming back to daytime are James Doohan and Jane Elliot.

Doohan returns to his role as Damon, James' father on The Bold and the Beautiful. Damon will be quite taken with Sheila (Kimberlin Brown).

Considering Damon's violent past, he and Sheila may make a great couple.

For years fans have begged producers to bring back the character Tracy Quartermaine ...

Dear Candace: I have a bet with a friend and I'm hoping you can help me out.

I say the actress who plays the stripper in Independence Day used to play Malcolm's (Shemar Moore) girlfriend on The Young and the Restless. My friend says I'm crazy.

Can you settle this for us? Friends in Auburn, Inda.

Dear Reader: I hope you had money on this one. You are not crazy.

That is Vivica A. Fox (ex-Stephanie, Y&R) playing Jasmine.

7th Heaven a highlight of WB's solid schedule

©TVData Features Syndicate

The WB Network rolls out its best lineup of new shows ever this week.

Premiering on Sunday, Aug. 25, are The Steve Harvey Show and Life With Roger. The first casts the former Me and the Boys star as Steve Hightower, a former musician now working as a music teacher at an inner-city high school. It's one of several new "schoolroom" sitcoms this season, but it's also one of the funniest. The show will later move to Mondays.

Life With Roger plays like Perfect Strangers without the odd accents. Maurice Godin and Mike O'Malley star as an ill-matched pair of guys who become friends almost in spite of themselves. O'Malley, who has the title role, is especially warm and likable.

Monday, Aug. 26, brings 7th Heaven, a first-rate family drama starring Stephen Collins and Catherine Hicks as a contemporary couple with five children. The novelty is that he's a minister. The pilot episode boasts perceptive writing and fine performances. Sadly, the show's regular time slot is Sundays, up against Touched by an Angel.

Premiering on Wednesday, Aug. 28, are Nick Freno: Licensed Teacher and The Jamie Foxx Show. Freno stars stand-up comic Mitch Mullany as an aspiring actor who works as a substitute teacher.

Another aspiring actor is the central character of The Jamie Foxx Show, in which the talented In Living Color alumnus lives and works at a hotel while awaiting his big break. Unfortunately, the very first episode resorts to the tired "let's put on a show" premise, which is not a good sign.

Stephen Collins and Catherine Hicks star as a minister and his wife raising five children in 7th Heaven, a family drama premiering Monday on The WB Network.

TV PIPELINE

Q: During what years of *M*A*S*H* did Harry Morgan appear as Col. Sherman Potter? –Brent Turner, Washburn, Maine.

A. Morgan's predecessor, McLean Stevenson as Lt. Col. Henry Blake, was written out of the show at the end of the 1974-75 season. He was replaced by Morgan, who stayed with the show until its demise in 1983, then re-created the character in an ill-fated sequel, AfterMASH.

Q: Flipping through my channels this morning, I came across reruns of Twin Peaks. Was that David Duchovny (The X-Files) playing the transvestite Denise? –J. Rowland via Internet.

A. Yes.

Q: On Christy, who played preacher David Grantland? –Gwendolyn Clark, Burlington, Wash.

A. David was played by actor Randall Batinkoff, who may otherwise be best known for co-starring with Molly Ringwald in For Keeps.

Q: Please settle an argument. My friend says that when a film is shot, if the director is happy with the scene, that's it. I say that after a film is shot, it goes to a sound room where the dialogue is added to match the film. Who is right? –Robert W., no address.

A. The process you refer to, called looping, is used when the director isn't satisfied with the quality of sound as it originally is laid down during filming.

Looping can be an extensive process but, at least in this ... dubbing a film's entire dialogue track.

Harry Morgan

Q: Why are Harry Smith and Paula Zahn no longer hosting CBS This Morning? –Sharon in Macomb, Ill.

A. CBS hasn't had any luck making inroads in the weekday morning news race and, after years of seeing This Morning stay a consistent, distant third to NBC and ABC, network brass decided some changes were necessary.

Former co-anchors Smith and Zahn, who anchored the show for nine and six years respectively, are moving to other assignments within CBS News, says CBS News President Andrew Heyward.

Q: Please settle a bet. I remember a cop movie starring Joe Don Baker, John Saxon and Linda Evans. My wife says I'm crazy. –Peter O. Osciallia, Erie, Pa.

A. Mitchell (1975) is available on video both in its original form and as a particularly funny episode of Mystery Science Theater 3000, wherein its more outlandish aspects are gleefully ridiculed.

Dodge To Lead Alaska Ecotour In Summer Of '97

"Alaska is more than just a place. . . it is a state of mind." So reads the brochure from Towson State University announcing the Alaska Ecotour for Summer '97. For the past two summers Garrett Community College's Kevin Dodge, associate professor of wildlife and biology and director of the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program, has been one of the tour leaders and instructors.

Dodge, who plans to do the tour again next summer with Dr. John M. Morgan III, of Towson, has traveled extensively throughout the interior and south central portions of Alaska. Of his trips he says, "Alaska is phenomenally beautiful. The combination of mountains and water in the coastal areas is gorgeous. You have these mountains rising out of the ocean, lushly green at the base and snow-capped at the peaks. Wildflowers abound everywhere, whether you're on the tundra or driving down the road. And the wildlife is spectacular. It's the last vestige of the Pleistocene North American fauna. You have moose, caribou, Dall's sheep, mountain goats, red foxes, gray wolves, black and grizzly bears, bald and golden eagles, and so much more on land. Then you take a boat trip and see humpback whales, orcas, sea otters, Steller's sea lions, and a host of seabirds, including two kinds of puffins. It's unbelievable - a paradise for someone who's into wildlife and natural history.

KEVIN DODGE (above), associate professor of wildlife and biology and director of the Natural Resources and Wildlife Technology program at Garrett Community College, will be one of the tour leaders and instructors for the Alaska Ecotour for Summer '97, sponsored by Towson State University. (See story)

"This is definitely not like one of those 'Love Boat' cruises. We have a lot more flexibility, so we see many more things than a visitor on a cruise package typically sees. And there is a much greater educational component than on most tours. You come away really knowing something about the place. I think we experience much more of Alaska than most visitors do, and in much greater depth. It's a great trip. It sounds like a cliche, but it really is the trip of a lifetime," Dodge said.

Next summer's Ecotour is scheduled to leave from Baltimore Washington International Airport on Thursday, June 19, and return to Baltimore on Sunday, July 6. After several days in Anchorage where they will visit places such as Earthquake Point, Chugach State Park, the Portage Glacier, the Alyeska Ski Resort, Potter Point State Game Refuge, and the Matanuska Glacier, the group will take a day trip to Seward with stops at the Exit Glacier and a six- hour cruise on Resurrection Bay that provides opportunities to photograph the bay's abundant marine life and scenic vistas.

From Anchorage the group will drive to Denali National Park and Preserve with stops enroute to visit the Iditarod Trail Committee Headquarters and to photograph Mt. McKinley. A bus tour through Denali National Park will provide opportunities for photographing grizzly bears, caribou, Dall sheep and wolves. The group will then travel to Fairbanks from where they will take a day trip to the Arctic Circle then drive to Valdez with stops enroute at the "North Pole," Big Delta Historical Park, and Delta Junction terminus of the ALCAN. In Valdez they will tour the Alyeska Pipeline Terminal and go whitewater rafting on the Lowe River. At Whittier a two-hour cruise on Prince William Sound will include stops to photograph the Columbia Glacier, one of Alaska's largest.

A cruise from Homer to Peterson Bay on the Kachemak Bay will afford opportunities to explore tidal pools, the Pacific coastal rain forest and a prehistoric archeological site. Options of flightseeing, sea kayaking, and horseback riding will be available at Homer.

According to Dr. Morgan, the tour may be taken for three to six credits of undergraduate or graduate credits in geography.

The '97 Ecotour is limited to 25 participants on a first-come basis, with a $1,000 deposit required to make the reservation. Total cost of the tour is $3,695, with a $300 discount available to anyone who pays the entire cost by September 30, 1996. Interested persons should contact Dr. Morgan at (410) 830-2964 or Dodge at (301) 387-3067.

Program Slated For Area Health Professionals

A two-day program for nurses and other health professionals on the prevention and treatment of pressure ulcers will be held on Friday and Saturday, September 6 and 7, from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. at the Cumberland Holiday Inn.

Pressure ulcers are a significant clinical problem in a variety of health care settings, according to program organizers. This program includes a review of the anatomy and physiology of the skin and pressure ulcers, methods of assessing patients at risk, and the factors that influence wound healing. Presenters represent a variety of disciplines; included among the speakers is Robert J. Carpenter, M.D., a local plastic and reconstructive surgeon.

In addition to the speakers, exhibitors from medical supply companies specializing in the care and treatment of the skin will display their products.

The program is approved for continuing education credits for nurses, physicians, occupational therapists, physical therapists, dietitians, nursing home administrators, and social workers. Participants may elect to attend one or both days.

This program is sponsored by the Western Maryland Health System. For more information about the program, persons may telephone the WMHS Education Department at (301) 777-4399 or (301) 759-5236.

The day will begin at 8:30 a.m. with a breakfast brunch at Ponderosa Steakhouse, Winchester Road, LaVale. A meeting featuring guest speakers Janet Smith and Edna Vlachos, two founders of the local chapter, will follow at 10 a.m.

The Cumberland Aglow chapter counts among its members several residents of Garrett County.

For more information, persons may contact Deborah Rabern at 722-6419.

Local Dancers Take Honors In Recent Event

Three Garrett County dancers from Dance Creations by Dale Cheree, based in Keyser, W.Va., recently traveled to Myrtle Beach, S.C., to participate in the "Stars of Tomorrow" dance competition.

Lindsey Perry, daughter of Rick and Denise Perry, Oakland; Megan Lilley, daughter of Frank and Pamela Lilley, Swanton; and Andrea Savage, daughter of Kevin and Renee Savage, Swanton, danced to routines choreographed and taught by the studio's owner/instructor, Dale Cheree Miller, and brought back second- and third-place honors from what was described as the girls' largest competition to date.

Five numbers were entered in the competition, including a jazz routine, "Gangsta Paradise," performed by Perry, which took second place honors; a third place hip-hop routine titled "This Is How We Do It," performed by Perry and Savage in the senior jazz duo category; a lyrical ballet, "The Change" and two jazz routines, "Mortal Kombat" and "100% Pure Love," performed by Perry, Savage, and Lilley, which each took third place honors in the senior division.

The dancers also participated in a Hoctor Dance Caravan workshop at the Myrtle Beach Convention Center. Classes were taught in ballet, tap, jazz, technique, musical theater, and hip-hop. Professional dancers and choreographers from Broadway to Los Angeles conducted the classes.

Dance Creations by Dale Cheree has recently been expanded by the purchase of the Garrett Gymnastic Club in Oakland. The studio name has been revised to Creations by Dale Cheree School of Dance and Gymnastics to accommodate the addition of a competing gymnastic team, according to Cheree. For more information, persons may call the Oakland studio at 334-2110; (304) 788-3273, or (304) 788-3870.

Although the opening bells have not yet rung for Garrett County public schools, the Garrett County Board of Education has issued a schedule for the issuance of report cards for the upcoming school year.

At all public elementary schools, report cards will be issued on Nov. 4 (or at parent conferences), on Jan. 27 (or at parent conferences), and on April 4, and final report cards will be mailed to students' homes after the last day of school.

At Northern and Southern high schools, report cards will be distributed on Nov. 4, Jan. 27, and April 4, with final report cards being mailed to students' homes after the last day of school.

"We urge parents to note the four days for report cards," a school board spokesperson said. "Please be aware that the second, third, and fourth reporting periods for schools could be changed if a significant number of school days are missed because of the weather."

Brazilians Visit County; Meet With Health Dept. Staff

A team of health professionals from the Federal University of Juiz De Fora, Brazil, took time during a recent trip to the U.S. to travele to Garrett County and discuss public health issues with representatives of the Garrett County Health Department (GCHD).

The Brazilians' excursion to the U.S. was conducted with the support of a program at George Washington University in Washington, DC.

Dr. Rex Archer, health officer for the county, welcomed the group with the help of their interpreters, Stahis S. Panagides, Ph.D., who serves as vice-president of the Esquel Group Foundation, and Joy Panagides, PA-C, MPH, who is a clinical associate professor in the department of health care sciences at George Washington University Medical Center.

The Brazilian visitors spent the morning discussing rural public health practices with Archer and his staff before taking a trip throughout the county to see these programs in action. Following stops in the Kitzmiller and Accident communities, the group arrived at the Garrett County fairgrounds to see the health department's "Healthy Community Quilt" project.

FSU Cultural Events Series Schedule Noted

The Cultural Event Series at Frostburg State University is back this fall in full force, with a wide variety of critically acclaimed performances for the 1996-97 season. From Shakespeare to dance to opera, the series offers a variety of programs for all audiences.

This year's series is launched with the Cambridge University Amateur Dramatic Club's presentation of William Shakespeare's As You Like It on Saturday, September 14, at 2 and 8 p.m. The play focuses on four couples in their hilarious and often confusing courtship in one of Shakespeare's most enduring and charming comedies, according to an FSU spokesman. The performances will be held in the Performing Arts Center's Drama Theatre.

In cooperation with FSU's International Theme Focus Year, the Massenkoff Russian Folk Festival featuring Nikolai Massenkoff will perform on the Saturday of FSU's Parent's Weekend, September 28, at 8:30 p.m. in the Physical Education Center's Main Arena. Massenkoff created and founded the festival as an expression of a lifelong love for his heritage and its tradition of soul-stirring music and dance, the spokesman said. The festival will be an evening of traditional Russian song, spirited dance, and romantic music featuring Balalaika Ensemble and Russian Folk Ballet.

The month of October will feature guitarist David Burgess, an international music competition winner and recording artist. His program will include works by some of the finest Spanish composers of all time. The Greenwich Times heralds Burgess's music as "hauntingly beautiful, tastefully phrased with exquisite nuance...." Burgess will perform on Friday, October 11, at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Center's Recital Hall.

The Modern Mandolin Quartet will present the final CES performance for the fall on Friday, November 22, at 8 p.m. in the PAC Recital Hall. The Quartet returns to western Maryland with the holiday performance of Nutcracker Suite, selections from Handel's Messiah, and music of the season. "The Modern Mandolin Quartet is the only ensemble of its kind: a string quartet of mandolin family instruments, dedicated to brining eclectic classical repertoire to new audiences," the spokesman said.

In the spring semester, CES will present Dance Alloy on Friday and Saturday, February 14 and 15, at 8 p.m. in the PAC Drama Theatre. Dance Alloy works in the tradition of American modern dance and a choral group rooted in African music idioms -- spirituals, children's songs, and rap. This program is supported with a grant from the Vira I. Heinz Endowment. The endowment's mission is to support progress and community development, the arts, education, health, human services, and the environment.

The year's series ends with two performances of Gilbert and Sullivan's comic masterpiece H.M.S. Pinafore by Opera Northeast on Saturday, April 19, at 3 and 8 p.m. in the PAC Recital Hall. This new production, under the artistic direction of Donald Westwood, offers a stylish romp through the world of Gilbert and Sullivan, featuring Captain Corcoran, Sir Joseph Porter, Little Buttercup, Dick Deadeye, and the rest of the crew of the Pinafore. Westwood's productions have been called "very special, first rate, excellent and glorious" by critics.

Tickets for all events are available at FSU's Lane Center Information Desk, Monday through Friday, from 8 a.m. through 4 p.m. or at Main Street Books in Frostburg, 689-5605. Group discounts are available to groups of 10 or more. Seating is reserved for the 1996-97 CES season.

For more information on the CES, persons may contact the Lane Center Information Desk at (301) 687-4411. All events are funded in part by the Maryland State Arts Council.

FSU is committed to making all of its programs, services, and activities accessible to persons with disabilities. Persons may request accommodations through the ADA Compliance Office, FSU Library Room 228, (301) 687-4102, TDD (301) 687-7955.

Cosner Named To Who's Who

Eric Cosner, son of Rick and Becky Cosner, Deep Creek Lake, has been named to Who's Who Among American High School Students for the 1995-96 academic year. This is the third consecutive year Cosner has been included among the Who's Who students.

Approximately 15,000 high school faculty members, youth and education organizations nominate students for this honor. Only 5 percent of all high school students receive this annual award, and only one-half of one percent are honored for two or more years, according to a spokesperson for the organization.

Cosner will be a senior this fall at Southern High School. He is employed part-time at Pizzeria Uno restaurant and plans to continue his education at Frostburg State University, where he will pursue a career in computer science.

Kitzmiller Observes 8th Homecoming

The 8th annual Kitzmiller Homecoming celebration, held recently in the south-eastern Garrett County community, featured a range of events, including live music, police demonstrations, and a magic show. (See photos.)

Another attraction was a display in the Kitzmiller branch of the Ruth Enlow Library which featured Sonia Pratt's Kitzmiller community quilt. The quilt project was initiated at last year's homecoming event, as descendants of immigrant women of Kitzmiller discussed their memories. Then, over the course of the year, pieces of fabric with sentimental value were woven into a quilt by the descendants themselves as family stories were discussed.

In the horseshoe pitching tournament, Russ Taylor and J.R. Goodwin claimed first place again this year, with Ron Howdyshell and John Hawk ranking a close second. the winner of the annual 50/50 drawing was Dixie Phillips, York, Pa. Winning a 26-inch bicycle raffled off by the Kitzmiller P.T.A. was Heidi Welch, Kitzmiller.

Other attractions included a dunking booth, dime pitch, and various other games and booths. The Kitzmiller Lions Club conducted a chicken barbecue and the Kitzmiller-Elk Garden Little League also maintained a food concession at the celebration.

Following the homecoming day, a representative of the Kitzmiller Civic Association expressed her gratitude to all the persons who attended and helped make the celebration a success.

EXCITING DEMONSTRATIONS OF POLICE WORK were among the attractions in Kitzmiller on homecoming day, as Garrett County Sheriff's Office Deputy Mike Bittinger, pictured above, conducted a demonstration with K-9 Deek in which the dog searched for illegal drugs. During another part of the demonstration, Sheriff's Deputy Pat Kelly posed as a suspect for Deek to catch. Kelly was then hand-cuffed by Tfc. Jesse Broadwater of the Md. State Police to complete the show. Detective Kelly also provided finger-printing for children and distributed D.A.R.E. literature.

OUTDOOR MUSIC at the Kitzmiller Homecoming was provided by Neil Krebs and Greg Larry, who played oldies and contemporary music throughout the day.

Plans Progressing For GCC's 25th Anniversary Event

With Garrett Community College's 25th anniversary celebration now just two weeks away, members of the planning committee are doubling their efforts to contact former students and faculty members to attend the two-day event. The effort has been hampered by lack of current mailing addresses, and a number of invitations have been returned, according to a college spokesperson.

The weekend celebration will kickolf on Friday, September 6, at 6 p.m., with a buffet dinner in the McHenry House. A highlight of the dinner program will be a humorous review of great moments in GCC's history narrated by Dave Martin and Gary Yoder. Following the dinner, the big band of Tim Bassett will play for dancing. The public is invited to the dinner, and reservations may be made by calling the president's office at 301-387-3056.

On Saturday, September 7, activities will begin at noon with the dedication of a plaque inscribed with the names of the first faculty, the burying of a time capsule, and a free picnic lunch. In the afternoon an alumni-varsity baseball game is scheduled, followed by tours of the college, starting in the Bausch and Lomb Art Gallery, where photos and other memorabilia from the past 25 years will be displayed.

The festivities will be capped by a program in the auditorium Saturday evening at 7:30 p.m. presented by the Garrett County Arts Council in celebration of its 20th anniversary. "A Garrett Galaxy" will feature local artists in a program that includes music, drama and dance. There will be a nominal admission charge.

Northern GOP Women To Meet

The Northern Garrett County Republican Women's Club will meet Tuesday, Aug. 27, at 7 p.m. at Hill Top Inn, Grantsville. Congressman Roscoe Bartlett has been invited to be the guest speaker. The congressman's aide, Myra Kidd, may also be present.

Cleda Baker, Stella Edwards, Louise McKenzie, and Laura Turner will provide the fruit basket for the fund-raising. All interested persons are invited to attend, and members of the club are encouraged by the officers to be present.

Farmers Score Some Wins In Congress; More Work Ahead

Bernice Kepple, Farm Editor

Farming In Maryland.....

Congress made headway on numerous issues important to Farm Bureau during the 104th session, including passage of a market-oriented farm bill and long-awaited reform of the Delaney clause. And, although lawmakers will return to Washington to tie up some loose ends before they formally adjourn in early October, Farm Bureau is already looking forward to the start of the 105th Congress for solutions to many of the problems faced by America's farmers and ranchers.

"We have had many, many successes in the 104th Congress on issues that are very critical to agriculture," said Dick Newpher, executive director of the American Farm Bureau Federation's Washington, D.C., office. "But now we have to get ready and geared up for the 105th Congress."

Newpher outlined several issues likely to come up next year, including those in the environmental area, balancing the federal budget, regulatory reform, and re-work of Medicare, Medicaid and Social Security.

He said without attention paid to the high cost of entitlements in the next Congress, any serious talk about a balanced federal budget is meaningless. Newpher said attitudes in Congress need to reflect the urgency of dealing with entitlements, just as attitudes toward working in the direction of a balanced budget have changed.

"If you look at Social Security, Medicare and Medicaid by themselves, they have the opportunity to derail any balanced budget in the future unless we deal with them now through a serious and honest approach," Newpher said. "We cannot expect to ever have a truly balanced budget until we deal with those issues."

He said Farm Bureau members will need to continue to work with and urge their members of Congress to vote for changes in the areas of private property rights and reform of the Endangered Species Act and Clean Water Act. Newpher also highlighted the need for common sense reform of federal regulations.

Regulatory actions and the burdens and costs they add, Newpher said, are some of the most expensive aspects of America's farmers' and ranchers' business.

"We have to change the way government looks at regulation in order to be successful," Newpher said. "We have a government that has regulated and regulated this economy into an expense we can't sustain. We must now begin to prioritize government regulations and reduce unnecessary rules."

Newpher said Farm Bureau members have reason to be proud of the legislative successes over the last nearly two years. But, he said the same excitement about the Farm Bureau goals for the 104th Congress needs to carry over into the 105th.

"Those successes in the 104th Congress are due to the hard work Farm Bureau members did in contacting their members of Congress and making sure they voted with us on issues that are of tremendous importance," Newpher said. "Those issues will now come off our priority hst, but we have others that will replace them. In order to be effective, we must make every effort to contact those members who will return for the 105th Congress to get them in tune with our issues and get them to vote with us."

Sheep Producers Referendum Set For October 1

On October 1, 1996, the Department of Agriculture will conduct a second referendum on the sheep and wool promotion, research, education and information order. This referendum is being carried ont under the authority of the sheep promotion, research, and information act of 1994. The order will go into effect if it is approved in this referendum by sheep producers and feeders, and importers of sheep and sheep products. If the order is approved, it will become final, and a nationwide program will go into effect to collect assessments from the sheep and wool industry to carry out research and promotion activities to benefit the industry. A referendum on this same issue was conducted February 6, 1996, but the secretary determined that the results were invalid because the procedures were applied incorrectly and inconsistently.

In-person voting will take place in the county CES offices on October 1. Voters who wish to vote absentee may request an absentee ballot from the county CES office that serves the voter's residence or, if the voter is a business entity, the office that serves the entiey's main office or headquarters. Requests for absentee ballots may be made from August 26 through September 17. CES offices will only fill requests from August 26 through Septemher 17. Completed absentee ballots must be received in the county CES office by close of business on September 27. Ballots will be counted on October 16.

To be eligible to vote in this referendum, the voter must have been a "person" engaged in the production, feeding, or importation of sheep or sheep products during calendar year 1994. In this referendum, the term "person" means an individual or a legal entity (for example, a corporation, partnership, estate, etc.), or a group of individuals with a joint ownership interest in sheep (for example, a family, a cooperative, an association, etc.).

In this referendum, each eligible "person" has one vote. Spouses who jointly own sheep are considered to be a "family" (i.e., a "group of individuals"), and are not entitled to two votes even in community property states. No one is authorized to register or to vote on behalf of an individual voter. Raw wool is exempt from assessment, and importers who imported only raw wool are not eligible to vote.

Questions about voter eligibility (who can and cannot vote), verifying volume of production, challenges (the process by which a voter's eligibility is officially questioned), the challenge resolution process, appeals of eligibility determinations, ballot counting, reporting, and related topics should be made to county FSA offices. Questions about voting procedures (e.g., absentee voting, how to obtain ballot materials, where and when to vote) should be made to the county CES office. Any other questions about the referendum should be referred to Kenneth R. Payne, at the Agricultural Marketing Service, Washington, D.C., at 1-888-265-8110, beginning on August 12.

If approved, the program would be funded by a mandatory assessment on domestic producers, feeders, and exporters of live sheep and greasy wool of 1-cent-per-pound on live sheep sold and 2-cents-per-pound on greasy wool sold. Importers would be assessed 1-cent-per-pound on live sheep, the equivalent of 1-cent-per-pound of live sheep for sheep products as well as 2-cents-per-pound of degreased wool or the equivalent of degreased wool for wool and wool products.

Farm Safety Day Camp Makes Informed Children Safer Children

by Dana Winters

The Agricultural Care & Education (ACE) program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Garrett County Health Department and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems once again joined with Progressive Farmer magazine in July to sponsor the second annual Progressive Farmer Farm Safety Day Camp at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry.

"The purpose of the camp is to teach children about the safety hazards inherent to farming," explained Mikal McCartney, ACE program director for Garrett Memorial. "If we are going to ask our children to take part in the serious responsibility of farming, then we have to ensure their safety with age appropriate work and training."

Although the exact toll is not known, farming accidents kill about 300 children each year in the United States and at least 5,000 more are seriously injured. Many more are disabled for life. To help reduce the risk for disability and death to farm children, instructors volunteered their time at the Farm Safety Day Camp to provide instruction and interactive activities on fire, water, tractor, animal and lawn and garden safety as well as 911 and first aid and First on the Scene. Age appropriate farm tasks, farm hazard checks and teen tractor safety were also featured.

Alice Hevner of the University of Maryland Extension Office and Diane Lee, ACE program director for the Garrett County Health Department, were also instrumental in designing camp activities that addressed farm safety hazard issues.

"Keeping our farm children safe is no accident, but is a result of taking important steps to make them informed and aware of farming's lurking dangers through educational training programs like the Farm Safety Day Camp," said McCartney.

(The project described was supported by grant number CSD000190 from the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, and its contents are solely the responsibility of the authors and do not necessarily represent the official views of the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.)

Bulls are actually color-blind. When a bullfighter waves a red cape, the bull reacts angrily to the motion, not the color.

CHILDREN AND TEENS, numbering 168, from ages sight through 18 and 28 adults attended the second annual Farm Safety Day Camp sponsored by the Agricultural Care & Education (ACE) program of Garrett County Memorial Hospital, the Garrett County Health Department and the Maryland Institute for Emergency Medical Services Systems and Progressive Farmer magazine. In addition, the event received national sponsorship from Shell Lubricants, Farm Plan, Pioneer, Gold Kist, Mossberg and Smith & Wesson. The Farm Safety Day Camp has grown in popularity, with 84 camps being held throughout the United States this summer. Instructors and topics featured at the Garrett County camp held at the McHenry fairgrounds included: Pat Bowser, Allegany/Garrett Firemen's Association - Fire Safety; Larry Campbell, Tucker County Extension agent - Tractor Safety; Dusty Huxford, American Red Cross - Water Safety; Brad Smith, Grant County Extension agent - Animal Safety; Randall Harman, Garrett Community College - Lawn & Garden Safety; Brad Frantz and Phil Rook, Garrett County Emergency Management Agency - 911; Chuck Woods - First on the Scene; Dr. Lee Grant, University of Maryland Agricultural Engineering Department and Dr. Terry Wilkinson, West Virginia University Safety & Health Extension - Age Appropriate Task, Farm Hazard Check and Teen Tractor Safety; David Moon, Sam Moon and Ralph Lichty, Southern Rescue Squad - First Aid; Willie Lantz, Garrett Community College - Closing Session; and Richard McCrobie, Leah Broadwater, Melissa Roy and Mike McClintock - students.

The Noninsured Assistance Program (N.A.P.) is for crops not covered by crop insurance. NAP helps reduce production risks faced by producers when the crop is affected by a natural disaster. To be eligible for NAP: The county or area must be approved for NAP assistance. Farmers must have reported all crops accurately and on time; notified the FSA office of the loss (greater than 35%); have past crop production history; and certify to conservation compliance.

For additional information on these or other programs, those interested should contact the Garrett County FSA Office at 334-1901.

Ag Economist Credits Grain Checkoff For Boon In Exports

Does the Maryland grain checkoff program pay dividends to the state's grain producers? "You bet it does," said Jerry Gulke, himself a Midwestern grain farmer as well as a commodity marketing analyst and an ag economist for Top Producer magazine.

Gulke, addressing nearly 300, most of them farmers, at the recent annual meeting of the Maryland Grain Producers Association, credited the Maryland checkoff, coupled with corn and grain checkoff programs in 20 states across the country, with major contributions to skyrocketing grain exports.

In 1986, Gulke noted, U.S. exports of ag products to all countries totaled $26 billion. In just 10 years, that figure has risen to $63 billion.

In the 10-crop-year span, 1986-'95, wheat exports to all countries jumped from a value of $3 billion to $5 billion; course grains from $3 billion to $8 billion; and soybeans from $4.3 billion to $5.4 billion.

Checkoff-supported market development programs overseas also have had an impact on consumer-oriented exports such as snack foods, breakfast cereals, and red meats. As a group, that category of exports jumped in value from $26 billion in 1986 to $55 billion in 1995.

Checkoff dollars, Gulke said, have resulted in the United States being able to take "great strides" in the development of new markets for value-added ag products while, at the same time, offering American farmers the challenge of responding to "immensely increased demands" for our corn and small grains in the world markets.

Gulke, who credits the financial success of his 2,000-acre corn, soybean and wheat farm in northern Illinois to his "philosophical approach" to marketing, is extremely bullish on the commodity market.

He predicts that in September, "we'll be the only storehouse in the world with soybeans; "that, in the corn markets, China has the potential to eat us out of house and home;" and that, in the end, "we may be talking the kind of money we've never made before."

Garrett Co. Farm Service Agency Reports The News

The 1995 12-month national weighted market price for barley is $2.68 and oats is $1.68. These prices are associated with the 1995 Acreage Reduction Program.

Production Flexibility Contract signup ended on August 1. The enrollment for the county is as follows: The percent of farms with acreage bases who enrolled is 80% and the percent of base enrolled is 90%.

Anyone who has not called in with their new address is asked to do so as soon as possible since the Post Office will not deliver the mail without the new address after September 30.

All farmers who have crop insurance are reminded to keep records of crop production (i.e., the number of tons or bushels) for 1996 and turn them in to the FSA office as soon as possible. Also, if farms have any damage to their crops they must notify the office within three (3) days.

Can SoyDiesel Win A Place In Future U.S. Energy Policy?

SoyDiesel's role, as an alternative fuel, in future U.S. energy and environmental policy is evolving, even now, in discussions and deliberations surrounding the implementation of EPACT--the Energy Policy Act of 1992.

To assure the fuel a place in energy and clean air programs--at the very least to win SoyDiesel a fair hearing in that regard--the Maryland Soybean Board was one of several agencies supporting a recent conference in Baltimore entitled "EPACT Options '96."

The conference was attended by an estimated 60 fleet managers, fuel providers and state energy policy officials from across the Northeast who were given a briefing on EPACT, a complex piece of legislation to be implemented over a 10-year period beginning September 1 of this year.

The conference focused on how SoyDiesel can be used as a component of a strategy by the transportation industry to meet the demands and criteria of the Energy Policy and Clean Air Acts.

EPACT gave the U.S. Department of Energy the means to expand research and development of alternative fuels and to create programs for accelerating the introduction of alternative fueled vehicles (AFVs). A section of DOE's Alternative Fuel Transportation Program will require alternative fuel providers and state government fleets--and ultimately local and private fleets--to gradually acquire AFVs in certain increasing percentages of their overall fleet numbers.

Will SoyDiesel win a place in the program? It is not a done deal. Many alternative fuels are available--electricity for one--and according to one speaker at the EPACT conference in Baltimore, "powerful forces exist bent on displacing the diesel engine."

At present only 100 percent--"neat"--SoyDiesel has been approved as an alternative fuel by the Department of Energy. However, the department has pledged to study, "conclusively," the inclusion of a blended SoyDiesel in the program.

SoyDiesel, an ester-based, oxygenated fuel derived from soybeans, has a lot going for it, however. It operates in conventional engines, it has a good record in the bus transit business in many cities across the country, and, perhaps most importantly in the end, it boasts environmental and health benefits.

For example, Steve Howell, president of a biodiesel consulting firm and director of research for the National Biodiesel Board, told the Baltimore conference that in addition to the fact that SoyDiesel lowers emissions of smoke and particulate matter, is biodegradable and non-toxic, new studies indicate a decrease in the carcinogenicity in the exhaust from biodiesel engines, "The health benefits may be one of the driving forces for SoyDiesel in the future," he said.

The conference was hosted by the National Biodiesel Board with the support of several state soybean checkoff boards, including those in Maryland, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Under the national checkoff program, farmers contribute 50 cents of every $100 sale of their crop of soybean research, market development and education.

AN IMPORTANT LESSON TAUGHT AT THE FARM SAFETY DAY CAMP was how and when to access 911. Many more lives could be saved if 911 were a universal emergency services number. According to Baltimore's Systems Communication, six states--California, Connecticut, Delaware, Maryland, Oregon and Rhode Island--currently have statewide access to emergency medical services through a 911 phone number.

BECAUSE OF THE ISOLATED LOCATION OF MANY FARMS, it is often difficult for emergency medical services personnel to arrive at the scene quickly. Further injury or death may be prevented by beginning first aid procedures immediately. Pictured, David Moon, an EMT with the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, demonstrates on a camp participant the proper technique for dressing a head wound.

State Receives Excess Rain

For the week ending August 18, excess rainfall permitted only limited harvest activity.

Field corn development progressed but was behind the five-year average. Corn condition was rated four percent poor, 12 percent fair, 51 percent good, and 33 percent excellent.

Soybeans in bloom and setting pods made good progress from the previous week. However, both stages lagged behind the normal pace. Soybean condition was rated 12 percent poor, 23 percent fair, 47 percent good, and 18 percent excellent.

Heading sorghum made substantial gains but remained behind the previous year and average. The condition was three percent very poor, three percent poor, 32 percent fair, 52 percent good, and 10 percent excellent.

Tobacco crop development was ahead of the five-year average but was behind last year. Tobacco condition was rated two percent poor, 10 percent fair, 70 percent good, and 18 percent excellent.

Alfalfa and other hay harvest made only modest progress from the previous week. Pastures were one percent very poor, two percent poor, 12 percent fair, 63 percent good, and 22 percent excellent. Hay supplies were mostly adequate.

Apple harvest progressed only slightly from last week. The crop was rated one percent very poor, one percent poor, 16 percent fair, 62 percent good, and 20 percent excellent. Peach harvest made good progress and was ahead of the five-year average. Peaches were rated one percent very poor, three percent poor, 17 percent fair, 59 percent good, and 20 percent excellent.

Topsoil moisture was one percent short, 75 percent adequate, and 24 percent surplus. Subsoil moisture was 86 percent adequate.

MARYLAND FORESTS

by Patrice Jastrzembski

Maryland, like most of the states along the East Coast, is rapidly developing. The days when only fishing villages dotted the waterways of the Eastern Shore; family farms thrived in Southern and Central Maryland; and vast tracks of forestland hugged the mountain slopes of Western Maryland, are being challenged.

As the population of the state has increased, so has the amount of developed land. This trend has not gone unnoticed, nor unexpected. The Maryland Office of Planning has long been collecting data on land development, analyzing the trends, and predicting future growth.

Even sixty years ago there was much concern about land development in Maryland.

"...what the many square miles of new suburbs are to be like, and what their relations will be to major motorways, railways, and utilities, and to public parks and other forms of open space, are the most important problems to be solved through common sense planning."
Maryland State Planning Commission
November, 1937

The need for "common sense planning" was as apparent in 1937 as it is today. Haphazard development is ugly, does not serve the public well, and is devastating to the environment.

The negative implications of bad development are far reaching. Perhaps one of the most detrimental effects of unchecked development is unnecessary loss of productive forest land.

Residential development is the main reason for decreasing forests. Maryland had a total loss of 71,200 acres of forest land between the years of 1985 and 1990. Statistics indicate that by the year 2020, an additional 274,000 acres of Maryland's forests will be gone forever. Development, not harvesting trees for wood products, is the real reason our state's forests are being lost at an alarming rate.

The projected development of forest land across our state is probably inevitable. The "need" for this development, although argued by many, exists and increases each year. Therefore, it is imperative that we design future development to have as little impact on our remaining forests as possible.

Scattered, unplanned development often results in small islands of forests which are surrounded by urban and suburban sprawl. While these fragments of forests do beautify and provide habitat for some wildlife, they are very difficult to manage. Plant and animal diversity decreases over time and utilization of the forest's resources is virtually impossible.

Traditionally, the forests of Maryland have provided us with a host of products ranging from lumber and paper products to maple syrup. The citizens of Maryland need to recognize that our forests are the source of many such essential items. No amount of development will replace the forest once it is gone.

We all need to be concerned about the rising tide of development around us. We need to get involved. With careful planning it can be possible to have the modern conveniences we desire without total devastation of our productive forests.

In 1921 the first farm market news radio report was broadcast over KDKA, Pittsburgh, Pa.

THE WHEEL OF MISFORTUNE was one of the featured displays at this year's Farm Safety Day Camp. The wheel is so named because it teaches children that when it comes to farming accidents, nobody is a winner according to Diana Doman, an AmeriCorp worker with the Garrett County Health Department who constructed the display. Pictured, Doman talks with children about the dangers of farm machinery. A study conducted by Purdue University notes that 82% of fatal accidents involving youth under 16 result from agricultural equipment.

THE FARM TRACTOR is the most common machine used by farmers and is the greatest hazard according to the Official Journal of the American Association of Occupational Health Nurses. The single most common event associated with tractors is rollovers, followed by tractor runovers. Alarmingly, 65% of farm boys are operating a tractor by themselves at 10 to 12 years old. And almost 30% are tractor drivers at 7 to 9 years old--long before they are mentally or physically capable to handle the responsibility. Pictured, Dr. Lee Grant of the University of Marylnd guides this teen through a driving course designed especially for the Farm Safety Day Camp's Teen Tractor Safety class.

Fall Seeding Alfalfa

Now is the time to plant alfalfa. In my opinion, fall seeding can produce a much better stand than spring seeding. First of all, you do not have the weed pressure this time of the season. A well established stand of alfalfa can produce more protein per acre than any other crop.

Be aware of the nutrient demand that is required be well-managed alfalfa. Extra inputs of lime, P, and K should be incorporated before establishing alfalfa to ensure a fast growing, thick, uniform stand. An optimum soil test would be soil pH of 6.5 to 7.5, available P at 40 to 60 lb/acre, exchangeable K at 300 to 400 lb/acre, boron at 3 lb/acre, sulfur at 30 to 40 lb/acre, and magnesium at 100 lb/acre.

Phosphorus is the key element in alfalfa establishment. It is involved in photosynthesis, carbohydrate and protein synthesis, cell division, root development, and other processes. Banding phosphorus starter fertilizer one to two inches directly below the seed at planting time is beneficial to alfalfa seedlings.

Potassium is very important. Each ton of dry hay contains 50 to 60 lbs. of K20. High K content in the leaves assures high protein, less disease, less winter kill and longer duration stands.

Some Work in the Bramble Patch

The wet weather has enhanced diseases on raspberry and blackberry plants. It is important to remember that once these diseases gain entry, fungicides will help stop their spread, but pruning out the infected canes is the only way to get rid of the diseases. The best thing is to prune now and continue to use the fungicides. If time does not permit you to prune now, make sure the infected canes are removed next spring before new growth begins.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Garrett County Board of Education is required by its own policy and by Federal and State Law to annually notify eligible students and parents who have children attending public school of the policy regulating the handling of student records and the information contained within them. Board of Education Policy #474.20 and Procedures 474 21, the "Confidentiality of Student Records Policy", establishes the guidelines that the Garrett County Public Schools employ.

The provisions of this policy are intended to preserve the right of students and parents to have full access to all official records about the students which are maintained by the Garrett County Public Schools; to have removed from these records any information about the student which is determined to be inaccurate or misleading; to enjoy confidentiality and privacy in regard to the disclosure of information contained in those records to outside agencies; and to provide for efficient student records management.

Individual pupil records maintained by teachers or other school personnel under the provisions of this policy are to be confidential in nature, and access to such records may be granted to professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling or consulting situation. Individual student records, with the exception of such records as are designated as permanent, and with such other exceptions are provided by the law, should be destroyed when they are no longer able to serve professionals who are directly involved with the educational process of the individual student in a teaching, guidance/counseling, or consulting situation.

Institutions of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County shall not permit access to, or release of education records of students, or personally identifiable information contained therein (other than directory information), without the written consent of the parents of the eligible student. Education institutions of Garrett County; however, shall make the cumulative records of a student available to officials of other elementary or secondary schools or another school system in which the student seeks or intends to enroll. The institution of elementary and secondary education of the Board of Education of Garrett County will forward without consent cumulative records on request to a school in which a student seeks or intends to enroll.

Directory information means the student's name, date and place of birth, major field of study, participation in officially recognized activities and sports, weight and height of members of athletic teams, date of attendance, and other similar information. Directory information may be made public without the consent of parents or eligible students. Student records limited to Directory Information and student addresses may be made available at the discretion of the principal for legitimate educational purposes, such as, post-secondary schools and Armed Services Recruiters, for the purpose of informing eligible students of post high school educational opportunities, to businesses officially recognized by the schools as requiring legitimate contact for purposes of graduation activities, yearbook production, and alumni associations of schools in the organization of class reunions.

The policy goes on to spell out the types of data in a pupil record, the types of student records, and how the records are transferred between schools, individuals, institutions, and agencies.

If access to a student's records is desired by an eligible student or parent, he/she should contact the appropriate school principal. In most cases, there is a charge for copies of student records.

West Virginia Man Found Guilty On Theft Charge

A Moatsville, W.Va., man found guilty of one count of petty theft was sentenced in recent Garrett County District Court proceedings by Judge Ralph M. Burnett.

Francis L. Dumire, 34, was handed a six-month suspended jail term, fined $105, and placed on one year of supervised probation. He was also ordered to stay out of Naylor's True Value Hardware Store, and complete 20 hours of community service by Nov. 1.

Dumire was initially charged with felony theft following the Nov. 24, 1995, theft of a mini-bike from the Naylor's store in Oakland. The charge was later amended to the lesser offense. An investigation by the Oakland City Police, with assistance from the Barbour County (W.Va.) Sheriff's Office, resulted in Dumire's arrest in January.

According to district court records, a Naylor's employee saw Dumire put a mini-bike in his car, but at the time didn't know the defendant hadn't paid for it. The bike had been on display on the covered walkway in front of the store. Dumire and his wife apparently discussed getting it for their children, and when she went inside the store, he put the bike in the car. Mrs. Dumire reportedly told the investigating officers that she thought her husband had charged the bike to their account.

Caroline A. Dumire, 34, the co-defendant in the case, also of Moatsville, had one count of felony theft placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that she, too, must complete 20 hours of community service by Nov. 1.

In other district court news, Christina Hinchman, 35, Oakland, was found guilty of violating her probation on numerous bad check charges. Judge Burnett reimposed a six-month jail term, and gave her six months' credit for time already served. He also ordered her to make $504.37 in restitution to the victims, and placed her on one year of supervised probation. Hinchman had 10 bad check charges against her, according to court records, that had accumulated over a several-year period of time.

Lawrence W. Gregory Jr., 33, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count each of battery, reckless endangerment, and assault. The charges were filed on Nov. 18, 1995, by Harold Gregory, after the two were involved in an altercation.

In a related case, Harold Gregory, 49, Oakland, was not prosecuted on one count each of trespassing and assault. The cross-complaint was filed by Lawrence Gregory Jr., after the same altercation. The defendant was also not prosecuted on an additional charge of trespassing, filed by Bessie A. Murray, stemming from the same incident.

James L. King, 73, Friendsville, was not prosecuted on a trespassing charge. He was charged with the offense on March 5, by Eleanor E. Cole, also of Friendsville, after the two disputed over the location of King's mailbox.

During sentence revision hearings for Supid Ghosh, 32, Morgantown, W.Va., and Uijal K. Chatterjee, 32, Troy, Mich., the judge granted each probation before judgment on earlier guilty verdicts for possession of controlled dangerous substances (CDS). Both Ghosh and Chatterjee were passengers in a vehicle stopped on Sept. 2, 1995, during a drug check point at Swallow Falls State Park.

Two counts of battery, filed against Kathy S. Crosco, 38, Oakland, were placed on the stet docket. Conditions of the judge's decision state that Crosco must complete 20 hours of community service by Nov. 1. She was charged with the offenses on May 26, after a reported assault on Randy DeWitt.

In a related case, two counts of battery, filed against Randy L. DeWitt, 32, Mtn. Lake Park, were also placed on the stet docket. Crosco filed a cross-complaint against the defendant after the same incident.

During a sentence revision for James P. Dobbins, 34, Baltimore, he was granted probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for battery. The charge stemmed from a Nov. 25, 1995, altercation with Darvin P. Friend, Oakland.

Eric K. Warner, 26, Westminster, and Jay M. Schwarzmann, 25, Catonsville, each pleaded guilty in recent district court proceedings to one count of CDS possession. Each was ordered to pay $155 in fines and court costs. Additional charges of possession of CDS paraphernalia filed against the pair were not prosecuted by the state's attorney.

The charges against Warner and Schwarzmann were filed on March 1 by a Garrett County sheriff's deputy who observed their vehicle cross the center line as it traveled along Rt. 219. When the deputy initiated a traffic stop, he noticed the odor of marijuana coming from the vehicle. Following the arrest, a search of the vehicle revealed a small quantity of marijuana in the vehicle, an additional amount hidden in Warner's underwear, and a pipe with marijuana residue in Schwarzmann's clothing.

CDS charges against Dean M. Gilberto, 25, Baltimore, Joseph M. Bolesta, 21, Gaithersburg, and Penny L. Sharpless, 40, Swanton, all stemming from the same March 1 traffic stop, were not prosecuted by the state's attorney because the lab technician failed to appear to testify in the case.

During a sentence revision hearing for Stephen R. Huff, 20, Morgantown, W.Va., Judge Burnett granted him probation before judgment on an earlier guilty verdict for CDS possession. Huff was placed on one year of probation. He was charged with the offense on Jan. 30, after he was observed smoking marijuana in the parking lot at the Wisp Resort.

Probation before judgment was granted to several young Garrett County people who pleaded guilty to underage drinking. Each of the following was fined $50, and placed on one day of unsupervised probation: Roxanne Marie Niner, 19, Grantsville; Jessica Ann Fauth, 19, Friendsville; Paul Allen Friend, 18, Oakland; James Nathan Ashby, 19, Oakland; Scott Dale Collins, 18, Deer Park; Heather Melissa Savage, 19, Oakland; Amy Elizabeth DeWitt, 19, Oakland; and Nicole Kathleen Dilley, 19, Oakland. They were cited for the offense on June 29.

TO PROMOTE CHILDHOOD IMMUNIZATIONS, McDonald's restaurant character Grimace recently visited the Garrett County Health Department's main office, Oakland, as part of the "Immunize for Healthy Lives" campaign being promoted throughout the month of August. Grimace met school-aged children after they received their immunizations and handed out coupons for free McDonald's Ice cream. Among the children meeting Grimace was Kalendra Friend, 4, pictured above. Grimace was accompanied to the health department by Julie Cooper, assistant manager of the Oakland McDonald's restaurant. Additional clinics to update the immunizations of school-aged children have been scheduled for Monday, August 26, at the health department, Oakland, and for Wednesday, August 28, at the agency's satellite office in the Grantsville Foodland plaza. Clinics will be held from 1-4 p.m., and all children must be accompanied by a parent. The cost is $7 and no appointments are necessary.

Beacon Child Care Program Concludes Year

An operational child care program, coordinated on the local level by the Garrett County Community Action Committee (CAC) and AmeriCorps members Jeannie Frazee and Tina Sumpter, recently concluded with a ceremony and special project.

Three local persons -- Jackie Resh, Rachel Bender, and Brandy Rush -- took part in the training, projects, and meetings required to complete the program. For their efforts, they each received a certificate at Garrett Community College.

The program began last fall with service learning students attending two days of child care classes and a one-day first aid/CPR class. Then, each month that followed, program participants either attended a re-training meeting or took part in a project with Head Start children.

The almost year-long operational child care course was conducted through the Beacon program of the Governor's Commission on Service Learning. It was managed at the Garrett County CAC by Linda Green, director of the CAC's office of community and emergency services.

The operational child care program was designed to educate service learning students about child care with hands on experience with children. The program also stressed volunteerism, as the three participants performed unpaid work under the supervision of certified child care providers at Garrett County CAC Head Start.

To conclude the program, Resh, Bender, and Rush spent the day with 13 Head Start children between the ages of 3 and 5. The trio led the children in activities and games, read to them, and fixed them snacks.

"The members have worked really hard, and their efforts are to be commended," Frazee commented following the conclusion of the program.

Green remarked, "I personally would let these members baby-sit my children. They have received and applied skills to give responsible child care."

Local Bank, Clothing Manufacturer Utilize Same Recruitment Source

What do a bank and a clothing manufacturing company in Garrett County have in common? Both companies use the same source to find qualified personnel to fill their job openings -- The Maryland Job Service.

American Trust Bank, a subsidiary of Keystone Financial, and Handy Girl, the producers of clothing for girls, were in search of employees for their locations in Garrett County. Each company needed employees who were skilled or were trained in their specific industries.

"I was responsible for hiring the individuals to open this facility in August 1995. So I contracted the Maryland Job Service office here. Not only did they publicize our job opportunities, they produced a wide variety of eligible candidates and provided office space for us to interview applicants," stated Steve Boldman, manager of the Handy Girl plant in Deer Park.

"We needed people with finance and customer service experience for the jobs we had available," said Sherry Alt, human resources administrative assistant for American Trust. "The individuals who were applying as a result of our initial recruitment efforts were not as desirable as the candidates who were referred by the Maryland Job Service."

American Trust Bank wanted to choose from a wider variety of job applicants than they were receiving initially -- so they began posting their job opportunities with the Maryland Job Service. "We are very pleased with the quality of skills that the referred job seekers possess. The staff at the Oakland Job Service has been a tremendous help to us," Ms. Alt added.

Handy Girl produces more than 30,000 garments weekly that are sold by Wal-Mart. Initially, Boldman hired 22 workers to open the plant. He has since hired another 30 people to help meet the growing demand by Wal-Mart for more garments -- all through the help of the Maryland Job Service.

"The terrific workers we've obtained have enabled us to meet the growing demand for clothing to Wal-Mart stores. This continued growth has required more employees -- and the job service has been right on the spot, providing the people we need," Boldman said.

A program of the Maryland Department of Labor, Licensing and Regulation, the Maryland Job Service is located in more than 30 facilities across the state. Individuals looking for jobs and employers needing qualified candidates have been utilizing this service for more than 60 years.

Several Maryland companies also use the Maryland Job Service to fill their job openings as an alternative to newspaper ads. "To save time and money, employers use this vehicle to eliminate processing tons of resumes and applications from unqualified candidates; not to mention avoiding endless telephone inquiries," stated a spokesman for the agency. Employers interested in recruiting job candidates place their job orders with their local Job Service Office. The job opportunity is listed in statewide jobs list and included in America's Job Bank (a national network listing of job openings). Job seekers registered with the Maryland Job Service who are qualified for specific job openings are referred to the employer by the Job Service Office.

Boldman said he believes that his company will continue to grow and hopes to launch other locations across the state; and Ms. Alt shares how the bank uses job service assistance in its recruitment strategy.

Organizers Recall Symphony At Deep Creek's Origins; Expound On Orchestra's Brilliance

by Kristina Carr Smith

Over 10 years ago, it was just a dream. Garrett Lakes Arts Festival wasn't yet in existence. Kathryn Sincell was at Southern Methodist University studying music, and met Erick Friedman, a world renowned violinist, and told him how she wanted to share classical music with the people of the place where she grew up - to bring music - that which has brought such great joy to her life and heart - home. Those initial conversations led her back to Garrett with Friedman to meet with board members of Garrett County Arts Council, and the rest has been history. Since then, music has filled the mountains every summer for the last 10 years and has become a part of the lives of everyone year 'round within the community.

"When the whole thing began, there was no Garrett Lakes group. The established organization was the Garrett County Arts Council," said Sincell. "Erick and I met with some of the board members and the president of Garrett Community College, Dr. Stephen J. Herman, a real go-getter. We explained how we'd like to do some classical music here. It excited him, and he said if we could have classical music here, why couldn't we have a week of drama, of dance? And that's how Garrett Lakes Arts Festival got started.

Sincell doesn't consider herself a founder of GLAF, but in some ways, Friedman and she were the ones to get the impetus going. Sincell had wanted to create a forum for classical music in the area as long as she's been involved in the art form - to bring it back to Garrett County.

"You don't hear that much of it here. I thought if people could have the opportunity to hear a little bit more of it that they'd really enjoy it," she said.

Friedman's first reaction was that it would cost thousands and thousands of dollars to do this. Sincell really wanted to see it become a reality, and decided to work with whatever funding she could get. Friedman agreed to help her with the project.

"Erick is just as responsible for this program getting started as I am," said Sincell. "I would not have been capable of doing it without him."

Together, they had planned the first year. Friedman was then a victim of a car accident that left him unable to play his violin, thus impeding his performing career. "Even though this world renowned violinist couldn't play, he conducted. We had different soloists come throughout the years. When Erick was finally able to play again, it was a huge event. Violin is his first love, and he was finally able to participate fully," Sincell said.

A lot of work has gone into keeping this annual music event going. Sincell stated and restated her gratitude to all of the people that have made this event happen from its early beginnings to present. "My family and friends have helped us far beyond the call of duty. This never could have happened without those people."

The musicians have stayed with local families during the summer season, and Kathryn's mother, Hannah Sincell, has helped organize housing. The first year, after Sincell had already begun contacting musicians, many people had offered places for the musicians to stay. But when follow-up phone calls were made, some people who had offered to help were not available. Everything did fall into place, though, as they forged onward with their plans.

"It's been a challenge," said Sincell. "Erick has been a guiding light in all of this. He's had so much experience over the years. There has always been something that's popped up even though I've tried to anticipate everything that could happen or go wrong. Things have happened that you'd never expect, from housing troubles to problems with the actual chairs that the musicians sit on. Everything always has worked out, but not always without a lot of sweat.

"The musicians that I've had, some of them for almost all of the 10 years, have been so patient and helpful. They have offered constructive ideas about how do things even better. I do credit Erick with making this all happen. His former students - the musicians - respect him so much. It is amazing what this man just instinctively knows. He is extremely bright. I think the musical experience of working with him is one that the musicians have not had before. It's very rewarding. They want to come back and do it again." she said.

The musicians come in from all over. For the most part, the string players come in from New York City, and the winds and brass from Washington, Baltimore, and some from Pittsburgh.

"These are musicians who do this for a living. If they got paid what they are used to in the city, we could never do it. They are paid half to a third of what they are accustomed to in the city, and that's hard for people to comprehend. But when you see what they are living on in the areas where they come from, it isn't much at all. There have been many people in our community who have been very generous helping us fund this event."

While in Garrett County, the musicians are out when they are not in rehearsals, enjoying Swallow Falls and other sites in the area - it's a working vacation for them.

"The vacationers coming in from out of town are amazed by what they hear when they come to the concerts," Kathryn said. "They don't get performances like this for the ticket prices we charge. As a matter of fact, they don't find performances like this even for the prices that they pay in the city, and they know it."

She recounted a story about one of the musicians who was hiking and met some tourists in the woods at an area state park.

"They approached him and said, 'You're the bassist from last night. We saw you, and we couldn't believe what we heard.' That's a common experience during festival season," said Sincell.

"There have been a few rough years, but the overall feeling is that this is really a special time. A lot of people have worked hard to make this happen, and when it does happen, boy, it's just magic. Every year for a while we worried about funding, about interest . . . would we survive for another ten years? Well, we have . . . it has. We've brought classical music into an area where there hasn't been a lot - we've brought something to the people of Garrett County. And we've survived," Sincell said.

"I've looked at each year sometimes as our last, in some ways, because it's been so wonderful that I wonder if we'll be able to do it again next year," Kathryn said. "One problem is that we don't have a big stage, but one is being built in Deep Creek State Park. The weather can be a deterrent here, though. We'd love to have an orchestra that's even bigger, but without the space, that's not possible right now."

Fred Stemple's love for music and the arts have enabled him to make significant contributions over the last four years as he has served as executive director of the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival. His enthusiasm has contributed greatly as the symphony has grown. There are many people behind the scenes, and he, along with Mark Stutzman, are determined not to keep what's happening in Garrett County a secret.

"The quality and caliber of what is done here is awesome for the area," said Stemple, a former 30+-year Navy musician. "We've worried that the ticket prices have been too low at times. The vacationers are stunned, knocked out when they've heard. They can't find this in New York or Annapolis, and compared to the city prices, some people have thought that this couldn't be all that great until they've experienced it. Then they come back year after year.

"The growth has been tremendous since 1987. It's enabled us to do more. Not

THE 10TH ANNIVERSARY of the Symphony at Deep Creek is being observed this season, as the group has swelled to nearly 40 of the nation's finest musicians this year. Conducted by Grammy winner and world renowned violinist, Erick Friedman, the symphony opened the 1996 season at Garrett Community College with chamber music last Friday and Saturday evenings. This weekend's full symphony offerings include major works from Beethoven, Tchaikovsky, Handel, and Bach. Friedman, who was the only violinist ever to record with the legendary Jasha Heifetz and whose career has always been as a guest soloist with the world's major orchestra, will be the soloist for Tchaikovsky's Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in Friday evening's concert. Other soloists will be Neal Corwall, euphonium, and Velvat Brown, tuba. Jane Avary, Oakland, will be the narrator for Saturday night's piece, Peter and the Wolf, by Prokofieff. See story for interviews with Kathryn Sincall, executive director of the symphony, and other key persons involved with the annual program.

Is your new house going to be able to keep the "Outside Out" and the "Inside In"?

If building a Home, Workshop, etc. is in your future plans, why not "Plan for the future"?

Did you ever wonder why the structural integrity of your new house may seem fairly sound but deep down you have this thing haunting you of having paid $100,000 for this lovely dwelling but you feel all this cold air coming in wherever you have electrical outlets and window edgings? And what's even worse, is the air penetration through the wall itself.

Did you ever wonder why your goal is to insulate well and use house wrap to get a good seal, then turn around with the concept of "This house needs to breathe in order to prevent condensation problems?"

Wouldn't you like to come closer than ever before to isolating the interior of your next Home, Workshop, etc. to the outside elements: sound, cold, heat and moisture?

At Panelcraft, the answer is Expanded Polystyrene (EPS). EPS is safe and can contain a lifetime of energy efficiency. Refrigeration engineers adapted the EPS method years ago when they started using it to line refrigerator and freezer walls.

At Panelcraft we offer the EPS alone for remodeling and conventional construction, but we've also gone a step further in combining EPS with various types of plywood, taking it through a laminating process, thus creating Structural Insulated Panels (SIP) of various specifications, which are then used for floors, roofs, ceilings and walls, virtually every aspect of your project.

Why not become one of the satisfied customers who "Just wouldn't build any other way!"

Moms In Touch Plan Luncheon, Hope To Start Additional Groups

Moms in Touch International, an organization that provides prayer support for children, will host a pot luck luncheon at the Cherry Glade Mennonite Church, near Accident, next Tuesday, August 27, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m.

According to Christine J. Brenneman, leader and contact persons for Moms in Touch in Garrett County, the luncheon is for current members of the group as well as those desiring more information.

The group's literature states their purpose as, "To intercede for our children through prayer, and to pray that our schools may be guided by biblical values and high moral standards."

Moms in Touch consists of groups of two or more people who meet for one hour each week to pray for their children, the schools they attend, its teachers and its administrators. Groups can include mothers, grandmothers or anyone willing to pray for a specific child and school.

One scripture that the group is based on is from Lamentations 2:19. "Pour out your heart like water before the face of the Lord... Lift up your hands toward Him for the lives of your children."

In addition to prayer, the group sends notes of encouragement to teachers without using scripture or biblical references. According to Brenneman, "We want to bring parents and teachers together and show our appreciation."

Moms in Touch was founded in 1984 in British Columbia by Fern Nichols when she had two sons entering junior high school. She says, "...my heart was heavy and burdened with concern for the new world they would be entering. They would be facing their greatest test in resisting immoral values, vulgar language and peer pressure."

She phoned another mom with the same concerns and began praying with her. When Nichols moved to California, new groups started in the United States and began to spread. They currently exist in 50 countries.

Moms in Touch came to Garrett County in 1989, with three moms praying for Grantsville Elementary School. There are currently three groups, all in the northern end of the county. A pot luck lunchcon is also being planned for the southern end of the county, with hopes to begin groups there as well. Their goal is to have a group for every school in the county.

Moms in Touch stresses that they are "not a lobbying group, regardless of how worthy the cause. Participation in outside political or social issues must be done solely on an individual basis."

"It's my hope that God will raise up moms to intercede for every school across our nation and around the world. What a thrilling thought to consider two or more moms, gathered together every week in prayer for their children and their schools," Nichols said.

Brenneman added, "I came to Moms in Touch with the attitude that I would change the school through prayer, but being involved has changed me instead. I've learned that the school isn't as bad as I thought it was."

The radio program, "Focus on the Family" will air a broadcast about Moms in Touch on September 9, 10, and 11. The program can be found locally on He's Alive Radio.

Anyone who is interested in the group but cannot attend the luncheon is asked to call Brenneman at 895-5191. "It only takes two moms to be a Moms in Touch group," she said.

Brenneman is the leader for the Grantsville Elementary School group. Other groups and leaders are: Accident Elementary School, Julia Bender, 746-8819 and Tree of Life Home Schoolers, Mary Stanton, 245-4180.

Former Resident Showing Art At Oakland Library

A collection of original artworks by Karen Fauber-Armacost, a Friendsville native who now resides in Dayton, Ohio, will be on display at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland, until the end of the month.

The exhibit features traditional Ukrainian eggs, copper enameling, watercolor paintings, and photographs by Fauber-Armacost, who drove the Ruth Enlow bookmobile over 15 years ago. She has worked as a professional painter for eight years and has been creating Ukrainian eggs for five.

Ukrainian eggs, or psyanky, are treated with wax and then colored in a method similar to batik. She has created Ukrainian eggs in a range of sizes -- from pullet eggs to ostrich eggs.

Copper enameling involves the heating together of copper and glass in a kiln. Fauber-Armacost has created copper-enamel items in various sizes, including display pieces for framing and small pieces intended to be worn as pins. Some of the pieces include silver wire cloisonné.

An original watercolor painting by the artist, titled "Stargazer Lilly," will be raffled off during the exhibit, with all proceeds to benefit a group which performs ministerial work with abused children in Kentucky.

Fauber-Armacost is also available to conduct workshops on creating Ukrainian eggs, copper enameling, and mixed media artworks.

The artist noted that she has conducted workshops for persons from age 2 to 82, including one weekend workshop which included 800 persons.

"STARGAZER LILLY," an original watercolor painting by former Garrett County resident Karen Fauber-Armacoat, will be raffled off during a month-long exhibit of the artist's work now underway at the Ruth Enlow Library, Oakland. Proceeds from the raffle will benefit an organization which performs ministerial work with abused children in Kentucky. In addition to the painting, pictured above, the exhibit will include Ukrainian eggs, copper enameling, photographs, and other paintings. See story.

New Horizons Now Accepting New Participants

The New Horizons Program of Garrett Community College is now accepting new program participants for FY97. New Horizons is the center for single parents, displaced homemakers, and single pregnant women and is designed to help program participants to access training so that participants will have the necessary job skills to make them self sufficient.

The following are eligible for the program:

•Single parents who are unmarried or legally separated from a spouse and have sole or joint custody of a minor child or children, or are currently pregnant.

•Displaced homemakers who are adults with diminished job skills, who have lost their primary source of income through divorce, death, or disability of a spouse, and who are unemployed or underemployed.

•Homemakers who lack marketable job skills because they have been caring for their family and home without salary.

New Horizons can offer program participants the following services: counseling and support which includes career exploration, goal setting and action plan; Career Planning Class, a five-week, 10-session course of self evaluation and career exploration: tuition assistance for credit and non-credit vocational classes at GCC; child care and/or transportation assistance while attending college; and referrals to community agencies for additional services.

New Horizons can help program participants to: obtain a Graduation Equivalency Diploma (GED); explore and develop vocational interests and expand job options; identify work needs, motivation, and marketable skills; investigate and evaluate occupations, training programs, and sources of financial aid to attend college; and review employment options.

For information about the program or to determine eligibility, persons may call 387-3071 or 387-3102 weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. The New Horizons Program is jointly funded by the Maryland State Department of Education and Garrett Community College. Grant funds in the amount of $45,000 are made available to the program through Career Technology and Adult Learning, which is 90% of the total budget for New Horizons, with Garrett Community College contributing an additional $5,200, which is 10% of the total budget for New Horizons.

FIVE GENERATIONS of the Wilburn family posed for the above photo during the annual Wilburn reunion held recently at The Greens, Sang Run. coordinate schedules with the Garrett County Arts Council. We feel we are on the right track.

"Music is close to my heart," he continued. "I hope that what the arts does to my spirit and my soul can be felt by others, equally if not more. It has been a joy for me."

Mark Stutzman, GLAF publicity committee chairman, has been very active in making what the symphony is doing a lot more visible.

"That's what my job has been," said Stutzman. "I can't take credit for everything. My wife and I have been hosts for the musicians for five years, and it has been a wonderful experience. How often do you get to mix and mingle with these stars of classical music? They are all first-rate performers.

"None of us are musicians. My wife and I both played in band in high school, and my daughter is playing. We really get a kick out of the event. Our children almost take it for granted - the musicians are their friends, which is kind of neat. I don't think they fully understand how special this is because it's just become a regular part of their lives," Stutzman said.

The first time Stutzman and his family went to hear the symphony, they weren't expecting what they heard or saw when they got there.

"We thought being in a small area like this that they would just bring in an orchestra and we'd heard orchestras before. But we'd never heard music played to the caliber that this orchestra performed. The musicians are each first-rate, and then you put them all together and it's just phenomenal. Erick Friedman is so highly respected that the musicians are all stimulated by his work. They enjoy the festival as much as the audience.

"This is a rare opportunity for this area that a lot of people have yet to take advantage of. If they'd go once, they'd be blown away. I'm not an everyday classical type listener of music. I like contemporary music - all kinds. But when you hear music played like this and it's live, the auditorium is small, you are so close - it is a very intimate experience. It makes you a lover of classical music even if you never have been in the past," he said.

For concert/ticket information, persons may contact the GLAF office at 387-3082. The season opened last weekend and continues this Friday and Saturday (see related story). The concerts begin at 8 p.m. both nights.

FSU Residence Halls Filled For Fall Semester

Frostburg State University officials are reporting that its 11 residence halls are filled to capacity for the fall 1996 semester with all rooms assigned.

According to Nanci Bross-Fregonara, director of media relations, "not only are all our rooms spoken for, but there is a waiting list for students seeking possible vacancies."

The 100% occupancy rate compares to last year's 86% occupancy, Bross-Fregonara said.

"We can attribute the increase to both a slightly larger freshman class and to our decision to increase the number of single rooms, which responded to student preference," Bross-Fregonara added. "Also, in the past year we have done several things to make on-campus living more attractive to students including the addition of computer labs in residence halls, group clusters, and extensive activity programming."

Housing costs per year at Frostburg State range from $2,314 for a double to $2,746 for a single. Nearly 95% of new students live on campus, Bross-Fregonara added.

everyone wants a steady diet of chamber music, but when you work with a small group of musicians, you are limited in that way," said Stemple. "The quality of the music is incredible. The community is really fortunate to have them. We're able to give the musicians an opportunity to work with the likes of Erick Friedman and Dale Stuckenbruck (concertmaster). It is an enlightening educational experience for them, and they are given the opportunity to relax here.

"We have grander dreams for the music on the mountain top area - of camps and master classes, a mecca for classical music. We just need to start soon and get established. After the performances this year, we will be talking about the future, where do we want to go. The Deep Creek State Park amphitheater is going to be constructed as a place for outdoor concerts - quite a site with the natural scenery and ambience. People will be sitting under hemlocks and around the rocks, watching the sun go down over Deep Creek Lake.

"As we do what we do with the arts, we are strengthening the economic development of the community at large," said Stemple. Frostburg State Accreditation Is Reaffirmed

The Commission on Higher Education of the Middle States Association recently reaffirmed the accreditation of Frostburg State University without conditions.

The reaffirmation is the culmination of more than a year and a half of self-study and a visit by a team of peer evaluators this past spring. The University's self-study teams included over 70 faculty, students, and staff who examined all aspects of the university.

According to university officials, the reaccreditation is important not only to the University, but also to western Maryland. In addition, for students accreditation is a seal of approval.

FSU President Catherine Gira said she was pleased to make the announcement of reaccreditation, which, she noted, was without conditions.

"It is commonplace for the Commission to require follow-up reports on aspects of the institution's quality and operation about which there may be some concern. No such reports have been called for, and no concerns noted," she said.

The accreditation evaluators reviewed the quality of FSU's faculty, staff, operations, student life, and external relations. An aspect of the process included a review of the standards, titled Characteristics of Excellence, which the Commission on Higher Education expects to find in all institutions of quality.

"Among the University's greatest strengths noted by the team were the quality of the faculty; the strong and effective focus on student learning; planning and resource management; and the positive relationship the institution has with the broader community,' said Dr. Gira.

The last reaccreditation was completed in 1986 when the institution was still Frostburg State College.

Among the Garrett County residents participating on the FSU self-study teams were faculty member Marci McClive, McHenry, and Don Sincell, a member of the FSU Board of Visitors.

HAZARDOUS TREES REMOVED IN GRANTSVILLE - In what Granteville Mayor Fred Holliday applauded as a "truly cooperative effort," three giant rotted cottonwood treee were taken down recently. Each tree had a diameter of about five feet end were nearly 80 feet tall, making their removal no easy task. Local foreater Pete Miller was contacted, who in turn got in touch with area loggers to work together to bring the treea down quickly and aafely. "The man-power and equipment waa donated by these local businesses," Holliday said. "They came in on their own time to complete this project. Nature did not cooperate, either. We had a big storm move through juat aa the firat tree came down. These guys sat out the storm end then took out the second tree. But the storm aurged again so they had to come back the following morning to take down the third tree and do the clean-up work." Those donating efforts included McKenzie Brothers Logging, Ron Kelater, Donald Lipscomb of Herold's TV Service, end Dale Frantz of Red Rock Enterprises, LLC. The Granteville Lions Club has plens to plant aeplinga to replece the approximately 85-yeer-old glents. These treee, Holliday said, have a life-span of only 75-100 yeers. "They were ehowing elgns of decay end could have caused a lot of damage if they had been left up any longer," he aeid. Pictured at left is one of the diseaaed treee with the volunteere diacuaaing the beat way to fell it, and shown above is the cottonwood that apparently had the moat live branches of the three, but obviously was aeverely rotted inaide.

HIS ARTISTRY WILL BE MISSED - Staff photographer Craig Phillips will be leaving The Republican this week, as he moves to Washington, D.C., to continue his career by teaching and by free-lancing. His photographs have enhanced the front page of this paper for over 15 years, and a small sampling of these moments in time are arranged on page A-7. With his change of scenery, perhaps his already immense portfolio will take a more metropolitan angle. However, scenes such as the one pictured here will certainly take an honored place in his collection.

Judge To Rule On Venue Change In Fousek Case

A hearing was held yesterday morning at the Garrett County Courthouse concerning the case of former county clerk Robert Fousek, who is currently facing charges of filing false tax returns, misconduct, felony theft, and failure to file a tax return. The charges stemmed from an investigation headed by Maryland State Prosecutor Stephen Montanarelli that delved into various activities that occurred while Fousek was employed by Garrett County.

Michael May, Fousek's attorney, has made a motion to have the charges dismissed, and another to have the trial moved to another county, preferably out of Western Maryland. May cited "massive publicity" in The Republican, The Cumberland Times-News, and on the local radio station as grounds for the venue change.

Montanarelli concurred with May on the point that some publicized information could be considered prejudicial, but did not concede to the venue change motion.

Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the hearing, which lasted approximately 90 minutes. Thayer did not render a decision to either motion, but indicated to the attorneys that his ruling would be made soon.

Trucker Fined For Operating Overweight Rig

An out-of-state trucker, hauling what was described as a "super load," was cited with fines totaling $13,443 after his 11-axle truck-tractor-trailer combination was intercepted on U.S. Rt. 219 by the Maryland State Police Commercial Vehicle Enforcement Division (CFED) Wednesday afternoon.

The driver and owner of the rig, Larry Vann Calvert, 51, McCalla, Ala., was stopped on southbound U.S. 219 at Rt. 40, Grantsville, after officials learned the rig, hauling heavy equipment, was traveling from New Jersey to West Virginia without proper permits. A surveillance was set up in the Grantsville area, and at 12:05 p.m. the tractor-trailer was stopped and moved to the Lower New Germany Road where it was weighed by CFED personnel, who were assisted by personnel from state police at Barrack W, McHenry and the State Highways Administration.

The total weight of the truck was 191,900 pounds, which exceeded the legal gross weight of 80,000 pounds by 111,000 pounds, police said.

The unit was placed out of service until proper oversize permits could be obtained. Because of the excessive weight, police said, it can take up to two weeks to ensure that the proposed route can withstand the load.

The rig, owned by Calvert, had been leased to Landstar Ligion, Inc., Paris, Ill.

The Republican newspaper offices will be closed Monday, September 2, in observance of Labor Day. Regular office hours will resume Tuesday, September 3.

Jury Convicts Grantsville Man Of Manslaughter

A young Grantsville man was found guilty last week by a jury of his peers on two counts of vehicular manslaughter. Patrick L. Hetz, 20, had made a motion for a judgment of acquittal before the jury reached the guilty verdict during Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings last Friday. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the case and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Bail was set at 10 percent of $1,000, according to the court document.

The charges against the defendant were filed following the investigation of a traffic accident on September 27, 1994 that claimed the lives of two high school students. Annette M. Jenkins, 16, and Timothy C.

Federal Grant Is Awarded To Tri-County Co.

The Tri-Connty Council of Western Maryland received word this week from Congressman Roscoe Bartlett that it will receive a $75,000 grant from the Economic Development Administration. According to a news release from Bartlett's office, the funds will be used to help meet the extra demand for economic assistance in the region as a result of flooding this year and the pending closure of the local Bausch & Lomb plant.

A matching grant of $25,000 has been committed by the Garrett County Board of Commissioners.

Specifically, the grant monies will be used to prepare an economic adjustment strategy and marketing study, and to coordinate assistance in Western Maryland in the wake of the flooding and the B&L closing.

"The Tri-County Council for Western Maryland provides a wide range of services," Congressman Bartlett said. "This grant will help them meet the extra demands generated by the floods and our efforts to secure a new employer for the Bausch & Lomb facility."

Garrett County economic development director James Hinebaugh called the grant "a big shot in the arm," particularly for the marketing efforts to attract new industry into the county.

After Lengthy Discussion, BOE Agrees To Pursue School-To-Careers Grant

The September 3 deadline for a grant application for a venture grant to support the local "School-To-Careers" program will be met by the Garrett County Public School System, in cooperation with both Allegany and Washington counties. The grant application came under intense scrutiny by the majority of the Garrett County Board of Education last Friday in a special session. The meeting was called for the purpose of deciding whether or not to endorse the grant application, which had been brought before the board on August 13 at the regular monthly meeting.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage spoke at the opening of the special session Friday, which took place at Garrett Community College. He explained that the local system has taken several "significant steps" in the past several years in the "schools-to-careers" program, which is part of the state's major reform effort in the public school system. The basic purpose of the program is to afford every student in the system the opportunity to experience first-hand some aspect of a career he or she may be interested in pursuing. Jo Ann Vent, the leader of the system's career program, explained that these experiences can range from actual, hands-on practice in a specific field to simple interviews with prolessional persons. It can also include activities such as student teaching or simulated work experiences. The goal of the program is to help all students prepare for a career or continued education after graduating from high school.

"The School-to-Careers program is one of three important components of the reform effort," Ryscavage said. "It is one of the basic building blocks in our career development program."

Construction Of Yough Glades Is Approved By IAC

A release from the Garrett County Board of Education announced this week that the construction contract for the Yough Glades Elementary School was approved by the Maryland Inter-Agency for School Construction. The contract, amounting to $4,246,700, was awarded to Cleveland Construction, Inc., of Mentor, Ohio.

The state of Maryland will provide $2,887,000 toward the contract while the local education system will provide the balance of the costs as a function of bond funds which were made available earlier this year by the Garrett County Commissioners.

Construction is to begin as soon as possible, according to the press release, at the site located adjacent to the newly constructed State Highway facility off of Rt. 219, south of the Oakland intersection of 219 and Rt. 135.

The new school will accommodate a maximum of 350 students in grades pre-kindergarten through fifth Students currently attending school at the Loch Lynn and Red House elementary schools will be housed in the new facility upon its anticipated completion in December 1997.

Miss Fike W.Va. Dairy Princess

Kimberly Fike, 16-year-old daughter of B.J. and Deborah Fike, Aurora, W.Va., was crowned the 1996-97 West Virginia Dairy Princess at a pageant held August 13 in conjunction with the W.Va. Dairy Cattle Show at Jackson's Mill in Weston. The competition included personal interviews with each of the three judges and a pageant.

The pageant consisted of two phases. The first phase was the streetwear competition and each contestant had to be prepared to market the newest dairy product called "Moo Kooler." The second phase was the evening gown competition. Each contestant was asked a question relating to the dairy industry for an impromptu answer.

As the West Virginia Dairy Princess, Kimberly will serve as the honorary ambassador for the W.Va. Dairy Industry. She will devote much time speaking to school groups, civic organizations, and serving samples of dairy products to consumers. Her reign offi-

CLOSURE IMMINENT - Only a few days remain before the Glendale bridge will be closed for an estimated eight months for a total re-building, albeit on the existing piers. Float boat owners are hopeful that they will be able to maneuver their crafts under the new bridge without having to "lower the roof," as the operator in the photo above is doing. The new bridge will be a paved, two-lane structure much like the relatively new Rt. 219 lake bridge, and construction will force re-routing of Glendale Road traffic for those eight months, making a drive to Oakland for some residents in that area an estimated 15 to 20 minutes longer. The $3.13 million project is expected to be completed in time for a ribbon-cutting ceremony next Memorial Day.

The unit was placed out of service until proper oversize permits could be obtained. Because of the excessive weight, police said, it can take up to two weeks to ensure that the proposed route can withstand the load.

The rig, owned by Calvert, had been leased to Landstar Ligion, Inc., Paris, Ill.

The Republican newspaper offices will be closed Monday, September 2, in observance of Labor Day. Regular office hours will resume Tuesday, September 3.

Jury Convicts Grantsville Man Of Manslaughter

A young Grantsville man was found guilty last week by a jury of his peers on two counts of vehicular manslaughter. Patrick L. Hetz, 20, had made a motion for a judgment of acquittal before the jury reached the guilty verdict during Garrett County Circuit Court proceedings last Friday. Judge Fred A. Thayer presided at the case and ordered a pre-sentence investigation. Bail was set at 10 percent of $1,000, according to the court document.

The charges against the defendant were filed following the investigation of a traffic accident on September 27, 1994, that claimed the lives of two high school students. Annette M. Jenkins, 16, and Timothy C.

CLOSURE IMMINENT - Only a few days remain before the Glendale bridge will be closed for an estimated eight months for a total re-building, albeit on the existing piers. Float boat owners are hopeful that they will be able to maneuver their crafts under the new bridge without having to "lower the roof," as the operator in the photo above is doing. The new bridge will be a paved, two-lane structure much like the relatively new Rt. 219 lake bridge, and construction will force re-routing of Glendale Road traffic for those eight months, making a drive to Oakland for some residents in that area an estimated 15 to 20 minutes longer. The $3.13 million project is expected to be completed in time for a ribbon-cutting ceremony next Memorial Day.

Braskey Gives Update On Demo Convention

Garrett County Commissioner John Braskey is spending this week in Chicago as he represents the area as a delegate to the Democrat Convention. Braskey contacted the news office of The Republican on Tuesday to give an update on his activities at the national event.

"It's a very unique experience," he said, noting that speeches by Sarah and Jim Brady on gun control were powerful. "I think that's an issue that can be very important to a lot of people in Garrett County," he said. "I'm not a big advocate of gun control, but something she said made a lot of sense - 'Not very many hunters have a need for an A.K.47.' And I agree with that. I think a line has to be drawn somewhere."

Braskey said the issue of education has been addressed several times from the podium as well as in the daily morning briefings with Maryland Governor Paris Glendenning. Christopher Reeve, the popular "Superman" actor who is now a paraplegic as a result of a horse-riding accident, spoke about expanding research on spinal cord injuries.

"His speech was tremendous," Braskey said. "And the next morning, Glendenning noted that good research is a product of good education. He is a real advocate of public education."

Another big topic of the convention, Braskey said, was Maryland Comptroller Louis Goldstein's presence. This marks Goldstein's 14th Democrat Convention, with his first being in 1940 with Roosevelt.

"He's been on the Today show and CNN," Braskey said. "The reporters are all over him. It's a big story around here."

Braskey was also the focal point of a story - with the BBC.

"We're in the same hotel as the BBC, and I was interviewed Monday by one of their reporters," he said. "He just wanted to know what kind of impression the convention was having on me. A lot of people say we ought to get rid of the conventions, since we nearly always know who is going to be nominated, but I really think this is a good way to energize the party and get the campaign going."

Braskey will continue to attend numerous convention activities throughout the week. This is the commissioner's first experience with the convention. He is the only representative from Garrett County, and is accompanied by the alternate delegate from Allegany County.

MAKE-A-WISH BANDFEST SUNDAY has been proclaimed for September 1 by the Board of Garrett County Commissioners, as two local volunteers have organized Bandfest '96, a fund-raising event to be held at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry. Mark and Lisa Marucci, Oakland, have scheduled six area bands to perform throughout the day at the fairgrounds, where persons will be admitted for $5 each. The proclamation by the commissioners states in part that the Make-A-Wish Foundation "provides an admirable service for youngsters with life-threatening illnesses" and has benefitted a number of Garrett County children. Co-sponsoring the event are Hot Country 92 Radio and Garrett County Sheriff Randy Sines. Pictured from left above at the proclamation signing were: Paul Mullan, of 92 Radio; Sheriff Sines; Mark and Lisa Marucci; and Garrett County Commissioners Roger Glotfelty and Wayne Wilt. See photos elsewhere in this issue of the bands that will be performing in the Bandfest.

Pa. Man Arrested After Reported Assault On Wife

A Pittsburgh man was arrested by the Maryland State Police early Sunday morning following an apparent domestic assault on his wife at a McHenry area motel.

According to a report filed by the Maryland State Police, Barrack W, McHenry, James T. Davies, 44, and his wife, Deborah A. Davies, 38, were involved in an argument that evolved into a physical confrontation. Mrs. Davies told the police that she was attempting to leave in her vehicle to return to Pittsburgh when her husband pulled her from the vehicle and struck her with his fist over her left eye three times. She said she fell and was then dragged by her spouse. The altercation resulted in injuries to Mrs. Davies' face and elbows.

Davies was transported to the McHenry barrack following the 5 a.m. assault, and was taken from there to the Garrett County Jail. He was later released after posting $500 bond.

CDS ARREST

A Friendsville man was jailed last Thursday evening after drug enforcement officials found numerous suspected marijuana plants on his property.

Richard Lloyd Hoover, 38, was charged with manufacturing marijuana, possession of marijuana, and possession of drug paraphernalia when local drug officials and officers from the Maryland Air National Guard RAID Team conducted a marijuana eradication operation in the area and found 24 marijuana plants, ranging in height from two to seven feet, in an open field and a small outbuilding on Hoover's property.

The suspect was transported to the Garrett County Jail following his arrest, and was later released after posting 10 percent of a $5,000 bond.

DWI Accidents Send Several To Area Hospitals

Alcohol was reportedly a factor in a several vehicle accidents during the past week, including one that occurred Sunday morning on Rt. 219 that seriously injured a Hyattsville woman.

According to reports filed with the Maryland State Police at Barrack W, McHenry, Marian A. Knieriem, 76, was injured when her 1990 Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme was struck by a 1992 Ford pickup truck operated by Bruce David Messenger, 39, Pittsburgh, who was traveling south on Rt. 219, near the Gravelly Run Road, and was attempting to pass a truck towing a boat. His vehicle subsequently struck Knieriem's southbound vehicle head-on.

Messenger then reportedly attempted to flee the scene of the accident on foot and was apprehended a short time later on Deep Creek Drive by Tfc. A.S. MacLane.

Knieriem was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital by volunteers from the Northern Garrett Rescue Squad following the 9:52 a.m. accident. She was later flown by HealthNet helicopter to Ruby Memorial Hospital in Morgantown, W.Va., where she was initially listed in serious condition. She has since been upgraded to "good," according to a hospital spokesman.

Messenger was charged by the state police with driving while intoxicated (DWI), failure to remain at the scene of an accident involving injuries, failure to render reasonable assistance to an injured person. Additional charges are pending. Following his arrest, Messenger was transported to the Garrett County Jail where he remains incarcerated on $200,000 bond.

TWO INJURED IN DWI MISHAP

A second DWI accident occurred on Garrett County roads on Saturday, resulting in injury to the driver, her passenger, and property belonging to several county residents in the Gorman area.

State police said 26-year-old Sherry Elaine Butts, Oakland, lost control of her 1986 Chevrolet pickup truck as she traveled along U.S. Rt. 50, near the Althouse Hill Road, causing the vehicle to travel off the road where it struck a mailbox, then a small tree. The pickup then re-entered the road and traveled back across Rt. 50 where it struck a house belonging to Shirley A. Rinker. Damages to the house were extensive, according to the police report. The destroyed mailbox belonged to Daley Uphold, and the tree sapling was the property of Jesse Gnegy Jr.

Butts and her passenger, Larry H. Meech, 47, Mt. Storm, W.Va., were transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 1:25 a.m. accident. Meech was reportedly treated and released, and Butts was admitted for her injuries. She has since been released.

Butts was subsequently charged by the state police with DWI, negligent driving, and failure to keep right of center. Also responding to the scene were members of Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, and the Gorman Volunteer Fire Department.

DWI MISHAP INJURES ONE

A third alcohol-related accident was investigated by the state police during the past week, when a Grantsville man fell asleep at the wheel as he traveled along the Chestnut Ridge Road, and ran his car into a utility pole.

Michael Scott Milier, 37, was injured in the early Sunday morning mishap when his 1989 Plymouth van traveled off the shoulder of the road and struck the pole.

Miller was transported by Northern Garrett Rescue Squad to Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, following the 4:28 a.m. accident, and was later charged with DWI. He was treated for his injuries and later released from the hospital.

DWI ARREST

One additional DWI arrest was logged at the local state police barrack during the past week.

OFFICIALS EXAMINE ROOFS FIRST-HAND - Garrett County Superintendent of Schools Dr. Jerome Ryscavage recently led a tour of various school facilities with the Garrett County Board of Commissioners. The elected officials examined construction projects in progress and heard reports about planned construction and needed work. Ryscavage commended the local fiscal authority for its continued support of the county's education system. See story. The tour participants pictured left to right are Richard Brigham, Built-Up Roofing Systems; Tom Welch, Inter-Agency Committee on School Construction (IAC); Tim Boone, roofing consultant; Richard DeWitt, head custodian; Joe Hevey Sr., Department of General Services; Commissioner Roger Glotfelty; Thomas Meehan, IAC; Tom Fowler, principal of Broad Ford Elementary; Commissioner Wayne Wilt; Harold Swauger, assistant in maintenance and operations; Commissioner John Braskey; and Ryscavage.

Charles A. Iliff, 27, no address given, was arrested and charged with DWI on Sunday, Aug. 25, by Tfc. Byrnes.

THREE INJURED

Three people were injured last Thursday afternoon when the vehicles they were traveling in collided at the intersection with Rt. 135 and Broadford Road.

The injured, Harry R. Riggleman, 86, Kitzmiller; and Shawn L. Smith, 18, and Franklin L. Cogley, 21, both of Oakland, were all transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital following the 1:05 p.m. accident. Riggleman was treated and released, and Smith and Cogley were admitted. They have since been discharged.

The state police said Riggleman reportedly stopped his vehicle at the intersection on Broadford Road, and then proceeded onto Rt. 135 into the path of Smith's westbound vehicle.

Also responding to the scene were volunteers from Southern Garrett Rescue Squad, Elk Garden Ambulance, and the Deer Park fire department. Riggleman was charged with failure to yield the right-of-way.

CAR STRIKES CHILD

A Mt. Zion area youth was treated at Garrett County Memorial Hospital Tuesday afternoon for injuries he received when he rode his bike into the path of a vehicle as it traveled along the Mt. Zion Road, near the Sharpless Mine Road.

State police said Wayne Moyer II, whose age was presumed to be approximately 10, pulled from a private drive on his 10-speed bicycle and directly into the path of a 1995 Jeep Cherokee operated by Nellie K. Harvey, Swanton.

Members of the Southern Garrett Rescue Squad transported Moyers to the hospital where he was treated and released. No charges were filed against Harvey following the 5:40 p.m. mishap.

LOSES CONTROL

A Frostburg woman was injured late Friday evening when she lost control of her vehicle on Rt. 495, near Bittinger.

State police said Brenda L. McKenzie, 44, was operating her 1995 Chevrolet Lumina north on Rt. 495, when she failed to negotiate a left curve in the road and lost control. The vehicle reportedly struck a culvert and then traveled into a corn field.

Volunteers from Northern Garrett Rescue squad transported McKenzie to Cumberland Memorial Hospital following the 10:12 p.m. mishap, where she was treated and later released. Also responding to the scene were members of the Bittinger Volunteer Fire Department.

Ferren Notes 13-Day Closing Of Accident Library

The Ruth Enlow Library in Accident is to be closed to the public for 13 days as renovations to that facility continue. The closure will be Sept. 3-16, according to Emily Ferren, library director. The branch is to reopen on Tuesday, Sept. 17, at 11 a.m.

Ferren explained that the closure is for safety purposes, as the main support beams of the building are to be adjusted, among other structural work. The director encouraged library patrons of the Accident branch to visit the other Ruth Enlow locations in the interim.

We'd Rather Watch Andy...

Among the good news to report this week is that the Democratic Convention in Chicago will be over in just a few days.

What, really, is the point of these events, anyway? The basic purpose of the conventions is simply for a political party to nominate a candidate to run for the office of president; but there was never any doubt as to the outcome of both the Republican and Democrat conventions, at least not this year. So why even have them? We don't even want to know how much money was spent to hold them.

We are pleased that the major television networks have provided only one hour of prime-time coverage of the conventions each evening. If they could cut that by about 60 minutes more per evening, we would be ecstatic. As ABC's Ted Koppel accurately stated two days into the Republican convention, "There is no news here," and promptly packed up and went home. He hasn't bothered to cover the Demo convention at all.

The great majority of the American public has a disdain for that rather nebulous thing we call "politics." We have grown so weary of listening to campaign promises that never come to fruition, regardless of political party affiliation, and we are so tired of the mud slinging that always occurs between the candidates. Yet, every four years the convention delegates converge and, with no less fervor, cheer their candidate on as if he is finally the one, the superhuman leader unlike all before him, who will make everything right with government, the nation, and the world. It's a joke.

However, it's all we have; and despite our many societal problems and unfulfilled promises by elected officials, our system in general seems to work pretty well. While the outcome of the conventions is so predictable, they evidently do have some value in "rallying the troops," getting the key people in the respective campaigns energized and organized.

It is important for voters to listen to the candidates when they talk about the real issues, such as in a debate format held closer to election day, and to learn all they can about the candidates before casting their ballots; however, we believe one would gain more value during convention weeks by watching a rerun of the Andy Griffith Show.

Letters to the Editor

To the Editor:

I think it is a disgrace the way Garrett County roads have gone to pot. We are property owners at Deep Creek Lake for 32 years and this is the worst. South Shore Drive is nothing but potholes. The county can't fix the road, but they sure know how to raise the taxes every year and give nothing in return. We don't get anything for our tax dollar.

The lake property owners are what makes Oakland what it is today. If it weren't for Deep Creek Lake, it wouldn't even be on the map.

Sincerely,
Audrey Rauscher

To the Editor:

The news reports the County Commissioners have given the OK to proceed with the Glendale Bridge construction using the old piers and present alignment.

They have yet to reveal the cost breakdown for the alternate plan for new piers and new alignment allowing traffic to flow during construction. Why the secrecy?

To get from one side to the other during replacement the detour distance is about 8-15 miles.

Will the patient in the ambulance, the fire department or just the average pedestrian or motorist understand the cost may be negligible?

Come on, Commissioners. Print both estimates breakdown in the paper for the people to see -- and analyze.

To the Editor:

The manufacture and sale of cigarettes is enormously profitable. Last year the industry sold 5.5 trillion cigarettes worldwide; Phillip Morris, the world's biggest cigarette firm, made net profits of $5.45 billion on sales of $66.1 billion. However, in his historic report of March 10, 1964, Surgeon General Luther L. Terry stated, "Cigarette smoking is a health hazard of sufficient importance in the United States to warrant appropriate remedial action." In 1966 the Federal Cigarette Labeling and Advertising Act set the pattern for nearly thirty years. Then Federal Trade Commissioner Phillip Elman commented that is was "one of the dirtiest pieces of legislation ever," because the labels were not only vague, but gave the industry a new defense against liability lawsuits by claiming smokers had been sufficiently warned about the hazards of cigarettes and had taken up the habit at their own risk.

The acres of lawyers retained by the industry to protect it from lawsuits has served its clients well. Of some 1,020 cases filed against them since March 10, 1964, only in two have juries returned damages against the tobacco companies. In 1983, a United States District Court in New Jersey awarded damages to Rose Cipollone's husband after she died of lung cancer, which was later set aside when funds to pay lawyers were exhausted. On August 9, 1996, a Florida jury awarded $750,000 to Grady M. Carter of Jacksonville, a smoker for 44 years before stricken with lung cancer. In the Cipollone Case more than a half million documents were made public bearing on what the companies knew about the effect of smoking on health, when they came to know it and what they did with their knowledge. In the Carter Case, Graham Kelder, managing attorney of the Tobacco Products Liability Project at Northeastern University School of Law in Boston, a nonprofit antismoking group, commented that the true Innovation which led attorney Norwood S. Wilner to victory was in getting a "case management order" from the court which placed time limits on the nuts and bolts of the tobacco companies' pretrial discovery efforts and "prevented the industry from tying him up forever." In addition, industry documents on the addictiveness of nicotine were presented for the first time in a trial.

On August 23, 1996, President Clinton presented new regulations designed to cut teenage smoking in half over the next seven years. "Every day some 3,000 young people start smoking and nearly 1,000 of them will die prematurely because of cancer, emphysema, heart disease, and other ailments caused by tobacco products," he said.

To the Editor:

The Garrett County Commission for Women is actively encouraging women to use their vote as their voice in the upcoming local and national elections. In 1992, 54% of all registered voters were women. Voting age women outnumbered men by 10 million. By voting, women have the ability to focus attention on critical issues such as health care, civil rights, poverty, violence against women and children, gender equity, pay equity, child care, and economic empowerment.

Access to basic health care is a major issue impacting the lives of all women, regardless of age, race, material or socio-economic status. Over 16 million children and nine million women under age 65 depend on Medicaid for essential health services. By the year 2000, the World Health Organization estimates that women will comprise more than half of all newly infected victims of AIDS (American Association of University Women).

Violence against women appears to be on the rise. According to the Department of Justice, women are victims of more than 4.5 million violent crimes each year, including 500,000 rapes or sexual assaults, with friends or acquaintances committing more than half those assaults. In the United States a woman is more likely to be assaulted, injured, raped or killed by a partner than by any other assailant. An estimated 40-50% of women in homeless shelters are fleeing domestic violence.

Women represent more than 54% of the nation's population and more than 46% of the nation's labor force. According to the National Committee on Pay Equity, over half of all women work in low-paying clerical, retail sale, or service jobs. 67 percent of the 62 million working women in the United States earn less than $20,000 annually, and 38% earn less than $10,000. In 1994, women still earned, on average, only 72 cents for every dollar earned by men (National Women's Law Center). The Glass Ceiling Commission report indicates that white males constitute 43% of the work force yet hold 95% of senior management jobs. This phenomenon holds true even in the traditionally "female" fields such as elementary education, social work, and nursing. Collectively, women lose up to $130 billion in wages due to pay inequity.

Let us work together to strengthen our positions on the issues affecting women and children. We can better Maryland's 29th position for women voters turnout; only 58.9% of women registered actually assert their right to vote. in addition, we can monitor registration drives and the status of the local implementation of the National Registration Act of 1993.

Respectfully,
Susan Athey-Oxford

To the Editor:

Please allow me to share the following bit of family lore which took place at and before the Garrett Lakes Arts Festival concert Saturday night. (And this is pretty close to word for word).

Bobbie (six year old daughter): Daddy, I don't want to go to a concert.

Me: Well, we're going. You'll like it.

Bobbie (big frown): No. We want to go bowling (trying to enlist the other kids).

Me: Give it a chance. They're doing Peter and the Wolf. You like Peter and the Wolf don't you?

Bobbie: (feigning a tear) No. I've already heard it and I don't like it. Classical Music stinks! I hate it.

We went to the concert at Garrett Community College auditorium. We got there early and sat in the front row. Bobbie sat on my lap. ("Why do we have to do THIS?") The first half of the program ended with a rousing performance of a suite from Bizet's Carmen, conducted by world renown violinist and conductor Eric Friedman.

Pretty soon, Bobbie was rocking back and forth and waving her hands as if conducting the music herself! So were our other two kids. When it was over:

Bobbie (her face full of excitement): Daddy! I really liked that! I like the loud part! The drum went Brrr--oom! (laughing) Can we do it again?

Me: (With considerable pride and trying hard not to sound like "I told you so-nanna-nanna-na-na") Wait 'til you hear Peter and the Wolf!

I still have trouble figuring out how GLAF did it; how they got an international concert star such as Eric Friedman and 35 wonderful musicians to come to Garrett County for two weekends of incredible performances, for the comparatively paltry sum paid, but my Dad told me "never look a gift horse in the mouth."

My sincere thanks and admiration to all those dedicated people, Kathryn Sincell, Nancy Learey, Fred Stemple, Ben Sincell, Sandy Flannagan and so many others, who have worked these ten years to make it happen. I cost me only $39 to take the whole family. I took them to the Baltimore Symphony last year and we spent several hundred, not including the transportation, and we enjoyed the intimate atmosphere of the small GCC auditorium even more.

If you missed this year's events so far, as I have in previous years, there are still some to come and of course there is always next year. It's wonderful, exciting entertainment for the whole family, something we need more of here in Garrett County.

Bobbie recommends it!

Sincerely,
Robert E. Watson

THE COMPUTER CORNER

By Tom Hudson

BUYING A COMPUTER

The second most-frequently-asked question that I get is, "what kind of computer should I buy?" While answering this particular question is a major part of my consulting business, I can give some basic rules of thumb here that should stand anyone in good stead.

The first thing to realize is this: a computer is a commodity. That is, it is like a toaster or a car. You should figure out in advance what you want, and then find the lowest reasonable price for it.

Just as you would be ill-advised to walk into a car dealership and say, "I want to buy a car" without having any idea what you need or can afford, so you should not do that when buying a computer. There are computer dealers who will take a sincere interest in your needs and plans, and who will help you select exactly the right model for your situation. However, there are also fast-talking computer dealers who will try to sell you the model on which they make the biggest commission, loaded with software and devices that you may not ever need. Just as in so many other cases, "let the buyer beware."

Your best defense is to know in advance what you want and roughly how much it should cost. So, let's go through my handy-dandy checklist of questions to ask yourself.

1. What makes you think you need a computer? That's not a facetious question. Why do you want one? What do you plan to do with it?

If you have some idea, such as doing your family budget and income taxes or sending letters to a mailing list for your church or charitable organization, then you are off to a good start. Don't be embarrassed if what you really want to do is play computer games or surf the Internet. Those are also valid uses for a home computer.

Some of my friends buy computers for the home that are exactly like the ones that they use at work. There is an advantage to this: you can easily take work home (who are you kidding?). The real advantage is that you only have to learn how to do things one way, rather than a different way at home and at the office.

2. How big a machine do you need? Just as you can buy a car with lots of horsepower and every accessory available, so you can load up a computer with a lot of features. I won't try to teach you much about RAM and ROM and disk drives here, but I can generalize a bit.

After you decide what you want to do, get some estimates as to how much computer that requires. This is free information. Just go to a software store and pick up the box containing the programs you want. Printed on the outside is a minimum configuration that would be needed to run that software.

For example, Windows 95 requires at least as 386DX processor, 8 MB of memory and 35-40 MB of hard disk space. Let's look at those three values. The processor is the "brains" of your computer. The 386DX is a particular model, and it has been around for several years, so it shouldn't cost very much. Memory is the space that is taken up by your programs when they are running. If you don't have enough memory, some programs will run very s-l-o-w-l-y, and some won't run at all. Eight megabytes (MB) is an average-sized amount of memory and is al not very expensive. Finally, hard disk space is where your programs are stored when they are not running, along with all the letters you write and budgets you create. Again, 35-40 megabytes is a rather small amount, and should be pretty inexpensive.

Just find each program you want to run, including Windows or some other operating system, add up the total system requirements, and you will have a pretty good ballpark figure for what you need.

We'll look further into this question next time.

Labor Day: "Which Side Are You On?"

To talk about the economy without labor unions is like studying theology without going to church. It is an interesting intellectual exercise without any real purpose. By "working people" I mean the employed, the underemployed, and the unemployed; in other words, all the people who would work for a living wage if they could.

I make no bones about it: I am a labor man. To condemn unions because they are sometimes corrupt and even sometimes stupid is like condemning marriage because married people are sometimes adulterous. Aberration does not negate the value of the institution.

Having made such forceful protestations, I must also make an admission. I have not always found it easy or even possible to support the cause of organized labor, not because I was not willing, rather becausc I was not allowed.

As one example, I spent five years as a Republican elected official. I watched with astonishment as prominent labor leaders remained doggedly loyal to other elected officials merely because they were Democrats. They also turned a suspicious eye upon me merely because I was a Republican.

I was relieved and a little less lonely when I discovered the book by labor lawyer, Thomas Geoghegan, titled Which Side Are You On? Trying to Be for Labor When It's Flat on Its Back. The author has staked not only his bread and butter, but heart and soul too on the hope that he could be for labor, for the organizations established to protect and promote the interests of working people.

The book, which reads like a diary, is not for the prissy or the fainthearted. It is graphic, violent, and vulgar, but then he is writing about warfare, the class warfare in America that most people want to deny exists. There is, of course, the obvious physical, paramilitary warfare such as the killing of a labor leader by a rival or the enlistment of state police against strikers.

More often, however, it is about the warfare waged against working people, no less violent than killing because it is waged toward a terrible and malevolent end, that of depriving them of the means to provide for themselves and their families. This warfare has been waged by unenlightened business, unenlightened government and, even occasionally and most tragically, by unenlightened labor organizations.

He also quotes, and somewhat disagrees with, Mother Teresa when she said Chicago was worse than anything she had seen in India. He spent some time with the nuns whom Mother Teresa sent to Chicago to feed the poor, and he thought he saw what she had been getting at. India is a third world nation trying to eliminate its underclass (the starving and homeless). America is a first world nation that has created an underclass.

Oh yes, we have always had poor people, but only lately an underclass. Only over the past generation have we manufactured third world conditions within the gates of the first nation of the first world.

Of all the things Mr. Geoghegan suggests for the recovery of labor, one has merits above the rest. It "...may be the only way that any union, or any group of workers, can win these days, given the legal obstacles: to bring in the whole town, to gather people around and make then look,... and make them bear witness...."

It is the remedy of community, the remedy of realizing we are all in this together. Or as a rabble rouser -- though not a labor leader -- of the late 18th century put it, "We must all hang together, or assuredly we shall all hang separately."

Three Cited For DWI In Separate Varied Incidents

Three persons were cited by the Garrett County Sheriff's Office this week for driving while intoxicated (DWI). The cases included a range of incidents, such as an ATV accident involving a deer, a man allegedly passed out on the steering wheel of a vehicle, and another man who was also charged with attempting to elude a police officer.

Rick H. Minnick, 30, Deer Park, was operating a 1984 Honda three-wheeler westbound on Bethlehem Road when a deer apparently ran out in front of the vehicle and was hit. Minnick was thrown from the three-wheeler and sustained minor injuries, according to the report. He was transported to Garrett County Memorial Hospital, where he was treated and released.

Officers charged Minnick with DWI and operating an unregistered and uninsured vehicle. Also responding to the accident were the Southern Rescue Squad and the Deer Park Volunteer Fire Department.

An Oakland man was charged with DWI after a resident contacted the sheriff's office to report a man slumped over a steering wheel of a parked car. Robert E. McRobie, 39, had parked his vehicle in a driveway in Oakland, where officers found him "passed out." He was charged on Saturday at about 6 p.m., according to the report.

David W. Tasker, 26, Elk Garden, W.Va., was arrested by the sheriff's office on Monday at about 10:30 p.m., according to the report. Officers had received a telephone call pertaining to a possibly intoxicated driver in the Kitzmiller area and responded to the location. They found a vehicle being operated "in a suspicious manner" and a traffic stop was initiated.

Upon making contact with Tasker, who was the driver, the police officer attempted to administer field sobriety tests. Tasker allegedly refused the tests and fled the area. After being ordered to stop, the defendant continued to flee and was then stopped by K-9 "Deek." Tasker was charged with DWI, attempting to flee a police officer, and disobeying the lawful order of a police officer, according to the report.

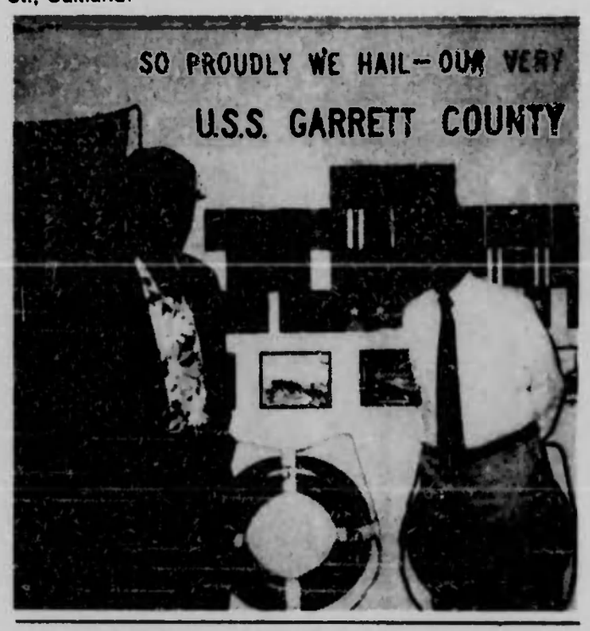
In another case this week, a Mtn. Lake Park teenager was arrested early Wednesday morning on charges of disorderly conduct and property destruction. Sheriff's deputies responded to a residence on N Street for a disorderly complaint and found John M. Friend, 19, behaving in a violent manner and yelling and cursing. Officers noted that Friend had just been cited by the Oakland City Police for underage drinking, according to the press release.

Friend allegedly ripped out the front door screen of the home and apparently would not obey the orders of the deputies, after which he was taken into custody at approximately 12:30 a.m.

Two bench warrants were issued for this week's arrest of Amanda Guy, 21, Oakland. She is accused of two counts of failing to appear in court.

John M. Finch, 29, Oakland, was arrested on the strength of a body attachment, charging him with failure to appear in court.

SENATOR BLOUNT VISITS MUSEUM - Among the guests at the Garrett County Historical Society Museum in Oakland this past week were Maryland State Senator and Mrs. Clarence Blount. In the photo above, Rev. John Grant of the Historical Society conducts a tour for the senator and his entourage. Rev. Grant and the senator are also pictured below. It was not the first visit to the museum by the senator, who encouraged the local Society to continue its efforts to preserve history and artifacts of the county. Many old county records, some dating back to the time of the county's founding, are housed in the museum. The party was particularly interested in the fact that Francis Scott Key once owned a house in Oakland. The museum is out-growing its quarters, however, and the Society has appointed a fund-raising committee to secure money for matching grants that will finance a larger facility. A benefit dinner will be held at the Pleasant Valley Community Center on Sept. 19. Tickets for the 6:30 p.m. event are $10 each and reservations should be made by Sept. 10 by contacting Dorothy Cathell, 550 Liberty St., Oakland.



Jury Convicts

Durst, 17, both 11th-graders at Northern High School, died as a result of a wreck on Interstate 68 at about 3:30 in the afternoon.

According to the Maryland State Police investigation report, Hetz was operating a pickup truck eastbound on I-68, and had allegedly been "horsing around" on the roadway with another driver, a 17-year-old male who was operating an Oldsmobile. Jesse I. Jenkins, who at the time was also 17 years old, was driving a Silverado pickup truck, also eastbound, in the same vicinity as the other two drivers. The two victims were passengers in the Silverado. All drivers were apparently operating their vehicles at high rates of speed, the report indicates.

In an alleged game of "drag racing," Hetz apparently cut into the fast lane in front of Jenkins, causing him to brake. The sudden braking caused the truck to go into a sideways skid. It forcefully struck a guardrail and overturned, ejecting all three occupants. Miss Jenkins was killed instantly, and Durst died approximately 24 hours later.

None of the three was wearing a seat belt, according to the police report, which goes on to state that the use of safety belts would have very likely prevented the deaths of the two teenagers.

Hetz could be sentenced up to 20 years in prison for the conviction. A sentencing date was not yet noted in the court document.

In other circuit court news, a Perryville man who had pleaded guilty to possession of marijuana with intent to distribute was sentenced by Thayer. Russell J. McMullen III, 28, was ordered to one year in the Garrett County Jail, with all but four days suspended. He was also placed on two years of supervised probation.

McMullen was arrested last October after a traffic stop on I-68. The Garrett County Narcotics Task Force had received a tip that McMullen would be transporting marijuana through Garrett County on Oct. 26, 1995. The officers spotted his vehicle, stopped him, and searched the truck, finding a small amount of marijuana and rolling papers, according to the report.

In proceedings on Aug. 15 led by Judge Gary Leasure, a Friendsville woman was found guilty by a jury of one count of disturbing the peace in a public place. Terri A. Hutzel, 29, also faced a charge of trespassing at a public agency during regular business hours, but the jury found her to be innocent of that count.

Leasure sentenced Hutzel to 30 days in the local jail, suspended. He levied a fine of $150 plus court costs and ordered the defendant to be on one year of supervised probation.

Charges against Hutzel were filed by Clark A. Sharpless Sr. in May of last year after the defendant came to his office at the Garrett County Board of Education to discuss a problem with a bus driver. Sharpless was the director of transportation at that time, but has since retired from that position.

According to the report, Hutzel became unruly when Sharpless did not answer questions to her satisfaction. The defendant was accused of yelling and refusing to leave the complainant's office, although she did apparently leave with Superintendent Jerome Ryscavage when he asked her to step into his office. Sharpless had by that time called the Garrett County Sheriff's Office and the charges were filed, according to the report.

Rev. Mark Klawonn Is Installed In Aug. 10 Ceremony

A service of Ordination and Installation was held at Emmanuel Lutheran Church on August 10 for the Rev. Mark G. Klawonn. Pastor Klawonn received a call from Tom Bittinger Lutheran Parish, St. John's Lutheran Church, Emmanuel Lutheran Church, and Zion Lutheran Church, effective August 1.

The pastor is a recent graduate of Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary. He received an honorable discharge from the U.S. Army eight years ago. Then Sgt. Klawonn was assigned to Martinsburg, W.Va. In 1989, he left military life for the ministry, which began with undergraduate work. The pastor and his family, Leslie and Travis, moved to Fremont, Neb., to attend Midland Lutheran College. It took only three years for Pastor Klawonn to graduate from Midland with a B.A. in philosophy/religion and a minor in English. During those three years, Nicole was born into the family.

Upon graduating from Midland Lutheran College in May 1992, the pastor and his family moved to Gettysburg, Pa., to begin his graduate level work at the Gettysburg Lutheran Theological Seminary. It was there that he pursued a concentration in Town and Country Church institute (T.C.C.I), through which he served in the Rural Appalachia Ministry Program, which gives Seminarians exposure to Appalachian life and ministry.

"This is a very important program in the sense that students are exposed to life in rural areas," the pastor said. "Often times rural ministry is over-looked and forgotten. It seems like it is very difficult to get a pastor to these areas, willingly. Instead they would prefer to go to suburban churches, where things are a little more convenient and life is a little easier. But the people of rural areas, like Garrett County, have a story to tell. They share their faith with each other and with visitors. It is these people that I have fallen in love with, and it is these people that God has called me to serve."

Pastor Mark will continue to be involved with the Rural Appalachia Ministry Program as a supervisor for other interested seminarian students.

Concerning his new home, Klawonn said, "I love both the people and the area. I feel that I have been blessed by God to be called to the Bittinger Lutheran Parish. I look forward to our life and ministry together."

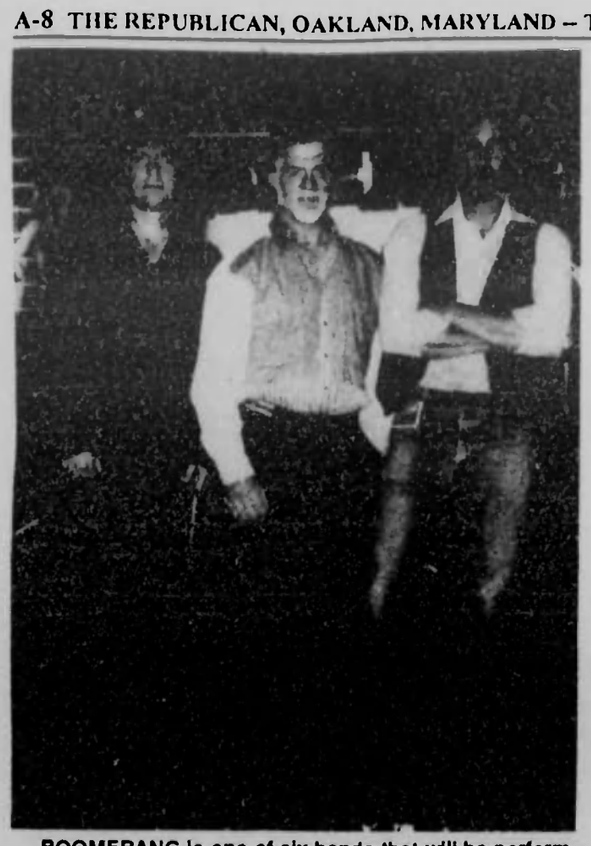
Farewell, Craig Phillips . . .

CRAIG PHILLIPS WILL BE LEAVING The Republican this week, as he is planning to make a new home near Washington, D.C., where he will teach the art of photography as well as freelance for city publications. (Assuming the responsibilities of photographer will be John McEwen - persons who wish to schedule a picture should contact him or the newsroom at the paper.) Phillips's artistry with the camera lens has been much appreciated here at the paper as well as throughout the county for the past decade and a half. Craig's eye for natural beauty and moments of poignant humanity have made his work as staff photographer far exceed simple pictures on paper. Good luck, Craig - you'll be missed.



BOOMERANG is one of six bands that will be performing this Sunday, Sept. 1, at the Garrett County Fairgrounds in McHenry as part of the first Bandfest '96, an event that will benefit the Make-A-Wish Foundation. The band members, who are from the Elkins/Parsons, W.Va., area, play classic rock as well as original music. The group includes Glen and Pat Schoonover, originally from Mtn. Lake Park, and Doug Capps, a native of Georgia. The fairgrounds will open Sunday at 11 a.m. and music will begin shortly thereafter. The bands performing and in order of performance are: South Branch Bluegrass, Perry Kamp, Traffic Jam, Boomerang, the Short Brothers, and Boathouse. Admission is $5 per person.

The local educators have been developing such a program for several years, and in fact have been leaders in the state on program development and implementation. While the program is growing, the need for funds has also become an issue. An attempt to obtain grant monies last year was unsuccessful, even though the local program was evolved to a point at or beyond other counties. The second round of grant awards will occur this fall, with applications for this money due on Sept. 3. A new stipulation of the state for this round of funding was that Garrett had to join with the two other counties Western Maryland and present a combined grant proposal. This request was made this summer, allowing the local board as well as school officials from the other two counties, the Hagerstown Junior College, the community colleges of Allegany and Garrett, and leaders at Frostburg State University just two months to compile a joint application that would meet the needs of all involved parties.
